PREFACE. What is here presented unto thee (Christian Reader) being a True and Faithful Relation, and c. (as the Title beareth, and will be further cleared by this Preface) though by the carriage of it, in some respects, and by the Nature of it too, it might be deemed and termed, A Work of Darknesse: Yet it is no other then what with great tendernesse and circumspection, was tendered to men of highest Dignity in Europe, Kings and Princes, and by all (England excepted) listned unto for a while with good respect. By some gladly embraced and entertained for a long time; the Fame whereof being carryed unto Rome, it made the Pope to bestir himself, not knowing what the event of it might be, and how much it might concern him. And indeed, filled all men, Learned and Unlearned in most places with great wonder and astonishment: all which things will be shewed and made good (to the utmost of what we have said) in the Contents of this book, by unquestionable Records and evidences. And therefore I make no question but there will be men enough found in the world whose curiosity will lead them to Read what I think is not to be parallell'd in that Kind by any book that bath been set out in any Age to read: I say, though it be to no other end then to satisfie their curiosity. But whatsoever other men, according to their several inclinations, may propose to themselves in the reading of it, yet I may and must here professe in the first place, in Truth and Sincerity, that the end that I propose to my self (so far as I have contributed to the Publishing of the Work) is not to satisfie curiosity, but to do good, and promote Religion. When we were first acquainted with the Book, and were offered the reading of it, having but lately been conversant in a Subject of much Affinity; to wit, of Mistaken Inspiration and Possesion, through ignorance of Natural causes (which labour of ours, as it was our aime at the first in publishing of it, to do good, so we have had good reason since to believe, that we did not altogether misse of what we aimed at) we could not but gladly accept of it. And as we gladly accepted, so we read unto the end with equal eagernesse and Alacrity: Which when we had done, truly it was our Opinion, That the Publishing of it could not but be very Seasonable and Useful, as against Atheists at all times, so in these Times especially, when the Spirit of Error and Illusion, not in profest Anabaptists only, even of the worst kind that former Ages have known and abhorred, doth so much prevail, but in many also, who though they disclaim and detest openly (and heartily too, I hope, most of them) the fruits and effects that such causes have produced in others, yet ground themselves neverthesse upon the same principles of Supposed Inspiration and imaginary Revelations; and upon that account deem themselves, if not the Only, yet much better Christians then others. And I was much Confirmed in this Judgment when I was told (as indeed I was, at the first, by them that knew very well) that the Most Reverend, Pious and Learned Archbishop of Armagh, lately

deceased, upon reading of the said book, before his death, had declared himself to the same purpose, and wished it Printed. But because it is very possible, that every Reader will not at the first be so well able of himself to make that, good use by good and Rational Inferences and Observations of this sad Story as is aimed at, my chieftest aim in this Preface is to help such. And because it is not lesse probable that this Licentious Age will afford very many, who with the Saduces of old (that is, Jewish Epicures) believe no Spirit, or Angel, or Resurrection; who therefore being prepossessed with prejudice when they hear of so many Spirits as are here mentioned, and so many strange Apparitions, in several Kinds, will not only fling back themselves, but will be ready to laugh at any other that give any credit to such things. Although I will not take upon me to convert any by Reason that are engaged into such an opinion by a wicked life, that is, Unjust practises, Luxurious lewd courses, open profaneness, under the name of Wit and Galantry, and the like, because, I think, it is very just with God to leave such to the error and blindness of their Judgments; so that without a Miracle there can be little hopes of such. Yet I shall hope that such as are Rational men, sober in their Lives and Conversations, such as I have known my self; yea, men of excellent parts in other things, men that are both willing to hear and able to consider: that such, I say, may receive some satisfaction by what I shall say and propose to their Ingenuous consideration in this matter. Were we to argue the case by Scripture, the business would soon be at an end; there being no one Controverted point among men, that I know of, that can receive a more Ample, Full, Clear and speedy determination, then this business of Spirits, and Witches, and Apparitions may, if the Word of God might be Judge. But I will suppose that I have to do with such, who though they do not altogether deny the Word of God, yet will not easily, however, admit of any thing that they think contrary to Reason, or at least not to be maintained by Reason. I shall therefore forbear all Scripture Proofs and Testimonies in this particular, and desire the Christian Reader (who otherwise might justly take offence) to take notice upon what ground it is that I forbear. But though I will not use any Scripture for proof, yet by way of Application I hope I may be allowed to use some Scripture words, which may direct us perchance to a good Method in the examination of this business. The Apostle saith in a place, [Greek omitted]: (professing themselves to be wise, they became fools) I shall not enquire of whom, and upon what occasion it was spoken: I draw no argument from it; only because there is a shew of great Wisdom in this Opinion; and yet, as I conceive, as much of Error and falsehood (that is, Folly, as the word is often used) as in any other false opinion that is lesse popular. I will frame my discourse to this issue, first, to enquire what it is that makes it so popular and plausible, among them especially that pretend to more then ordinary Wisdom; and then secondly, lay it open (as I am able) to the view in its right colours, that the Folly or falsehood of it may be discernable even to ordinary judgments. First then, (as for them that deny Spirits, and c.) we say, The world is full of imposture; to know this, to observe it in all Trades, in all Professions, in all ranks and degrees of men, is to know the world, and that is to be wise. Though we call them Juglers, yet they deserve to be thought the plainest dealing men of the world that shew their tricks openly in the streets for money; for they professe what they are. They are the truest Juglers that do their feats (and they for mony too, most of them) under the Veil and Reputation of Holinesse, Sanctity, (or, Saintship) Religion, Virtue, Justice, Friendship; fine words to catch men that are of easie Belief, and thinks that every thing that glisters must needs be gold. Hence it is, that men that have had the Reputation of Wise men in the world, have commended this unto us as greatest Wisdom, NOT EASILY TO BELIEVE: [Greek omitted] Epicharmus got more credit for this one saying (and hath done more good too, perchance) then many that have been the Authors of vast Volumes. Now if those things that are exposed to sense, the proper Objects of our Eyes and Eares, be lyable to so much Imposture and Deceit, that the wisest can scarce know what to believe: How much more caution do we need in those things that are so much above Sense, and in some respects contrary to Sense (and that is Spirits) that we be not deceived? If we consider the Nature of man, his Bodily frame, the Affections of his soul, the Faculties of his mind, we shall have no occasion at all to wonder if most men are apt to believe and to be cheated. But as no cause to wonder, so as little cause to imitate: Felix qui rerum potuit cognoscere causas! [Greek omitted], a desire of, or to strange things that may cause amazement, is the proper affection of the vulgar, that is, of most men, which they bring into the world with them, (it is the observation of the wisest of men that have written concerning the affairs and actions of men) and cannot be rid of but by wisdom, which is the happinesse of few: Errandi, non necessitas tantum, sed amor. Seneca somewhere speaking of the Nature of Man; There was a time when the world was much governed by Oracles; private men went unto them as unto God, Kings and Princes sent unto them to be advised about greatest matters: and so much faith was ascribed unto them, generally, that the very word became a Proverb applicable unto those things, whereof no question can be made. Yet those very ancient Heathens, that tell us of these Oracles, tell us of their vanity; and though they say not, That all were false and counterfeit, yet whilst they acknowledge it of some, they give us just occasion to suspect that it might have been found as true of the rest also, had like care been taken to examine the truth of them also. Again, there was a time (and that time not many hundred years yet past) when Miracles were the only discourse and delight of men: Ghosts and Spirits were in every house; and so prone were men to receive what was delivered unto them in that kind; that Miracle-makers were much put to it, not to make their stories probable, (for that was not stood upon) but to make them wonderful enough; insomuch that some have been forced G1 to complain publickly of the credulity of the people, who yet themselves tell us much more, I dare say, then was ever true. As of Miracles, so of Exorcismes: How many Devils and Spirits have been driven out of men and women, supposed to be possessed, by solemn Exorcismes, to the great wonder of the beholders, which afterwards upon further search and examination, have been convicted to have been nothing but the artifices and subtil contrivances of men? Sentences and Judgments have passed upon such cheats when they have been discovered in most places of Europe, which have been published. But they have done strange things though (some that were though: possessed) and things impossible, to ordinary sense, to be done by Nature. It is very true, some have: But they that know what strange things may be done to the amazement -notes- G1 See the Life of Albertus M.

of all not acquainted with such mysteries, by long Use and Custome, they will not easily wonder (so as to make a supernatural thing of it) though they see things, which, to their sight and of most, cannot but seem very wonderful, and almost impossible. As for the bodily temper of man and of his Brain, it hath been sufficiently by some late books of that subject (Enthusiasme) both by reasons from Nature, and by sundry examples proved, that a very little distemper of the brain, scarce discernable unto any, but those that are well versed in the study of Natural causes, is enough to represent Spirits, Angels and Devils, Sights and Stories of Heaven and Hell to the Fancy: by which sober kind of Madnesse and deliriation, so little understood vulgarly, many have been, and are daily deceived; and from these things, through the ignorance of men, strange things sometimes have ensued, and the peace of Common-weales hath suffered not a little. Aristotle, in his Meteors, tells of one that alwayes saw (so he thought, at least) another man's shape before his eyes, and how they happened unto him naturally, he gives a reason. Hyppocrates, [Greek omitted], (a very short Discourse, but full of excellent matter) sheweth how some, both men and women, through Natural causes, come to fancy to themselves that they see [Greek omitted], Devils and Spirits, and to be tormented in their Souls, even to the making away of themselves by their own hands. The Author of the book, De Morbo Sacro, (very ancient too, but not right Hyppocrates, as many are of opinion) hath excellent matter too, to the same purpose; but I have not the book at this time by me. Hyppocrates, (where before) sheweth how many in that case were gulled by the Priests of those times, making them believe, That this happened to them through the anger of some god. "They that are verst in the Opticks know, That there is a way, through the help of glasses that shall not be seen, to make moving shadows that shall appear like Ghosts, to the great terror of the ignorant beholder: and it is said, That pretended Astrologers and Fortune-tellers cheat many by those sights." It is the opinion of some Jewish Rabbins, That what Ghosts or Souls are raised by Necromancy, they alwayes appear inverso corpore, that is, their head dowards and feet upwards. Though nothing is to be wondered at in Rabbins, who (commonly) are as full of ridiculous conceits as ever came into the head of any Bedlam: Yet my opinion is, "That the first ground of this wild conceit was, some appearance by the Species of an object, gathered through a little glasse into a dark room. For so indeed the objects must appear inverso corpore if it be done in a high room, and the objects from whence the Spieces are gathered be lower then the glasse through which they passe." And the reason of it is very Demonstrable to the sight of any reasonable man. Certainly, by this secret (which yet is no great secret, being commonly seen and practised among them that are any thing curious) strange things may be done by a Cunning man, to their great amazement that know not the cause. There would be no end if I should attempt to gather from several Authors what hath been invented by men, and what may be done by Art to cheat men in matters of this nature. Let any man, that is yet a stranger to it, but read the life of Alexander the false Prophet, or Prognosticator, written by Lucian, and he shall see notable examples of successeful Cheats and Impostures, scarce credible indeed, but that the thing was yet then fresh and famous, and that all circumstances of

History confirm the truth of the relation. And let him that reads it judge what dull and dry fellows the Mountebank-Astrologers, Prognosticators and Fortune-tellers of these dayes are, to this Noble, Renowned Alexander. Only let him know that reads, that Lucian was a profest Atheist, and therefore no wonder if he find Epicurus spoken of with great respect, whom all Atheists, and Atheistically inclined are so much obliged to honour. This excepted, I think, the Story is very worthy to be known, and much more worthy to be read by all men (considering the good use that may be made of it) then many books that are daily translated out of other languages. But lastly, If there were any such thing, really as Devils and Spirits that use to appear unto men; to whom should they (probably) sooner appear, then, to such as daily call upon them, and devote their Souls and Bodies unto them by dreadful Oaths and Imprecations? And again, then to such, who through damnable curiosity have many times used the means (the best they could find in books, by Magical Circles, Characters and Invocations) and yet never, neither the one nor the other saw any thing? I have said as much as I mean to say (though somewhat perchance might be added) to shew the plausibleness of the opinion, in opposition to vulgar apprehensions and capacities, whereby (as I conceive, for I have not wittingly omitted any thing that I thought material) it chiefly intitles it self to wisdom, and more then ordinary prudence, which all men generally are ambitious of. Yet I would not have it thought that all men that hold this conclusion, That there be no Spirits, and c. go so rationally to work, or can give this account or any other more rational and plausible for what they hold. God knows there be many in the world, men of no learning, and mean capacities, who can speak as peremptorily as the best, not because they have considered of it, and understand the grounds of either opinion, but because they know, or have heard it is the opinion of some Learned, and they hope they shall be thought learned too if they hold with them. Besides an ordinary (for some have been learned) Epicurean, who makes it his Motto (to himself and in his heart) [Greek omitted] and seeks his ease in this world [Greek omitted] their own word, which imports Tranquility both of mind and body; a good word but ill applied) as his summum bonum, or chiefest happiness: It is a great ease to him when any strange things doth happen by Witches, Wizards and the like; and other some to satisfy their faith, others their reason and curiosity, are put to it to enquire of men by conference, and to search into books ancient and late, Sacred and Profane, and all little enough. A great ease, I say, for him, then, and upon all such occasions, to possess his Soul in secure ignorance, and to save his credit (yea, and to gain credit with some) by barely saying, Fabula est, I do not believe it. We shall hear some of them by and by acknowledg, in effect, as much as I have said: I impose nothing upon them. I will not take upon me to judge of a book that I never read; I cannot say that I ever saw it. But because I have heard some men magnifie an English book written of this subject to prove that there be no Witches, I will impart unto the Reader that hath not observed it, the judgment of one of the Learnedst men that ever England saw (I wish he had been more gently dealt with when time was) of that book, whereby it may appear (if his judgment be right, as I am very inclinable to believe because of his great Learning, and wanted circumspection in his censures) what great undertakers many men are upon very little ground, and how prone others to extol what doth favour their cause, though to the prejudice of their better judgments, if they would judge impartially. Dr. Rainolds in those elaborate Prælectiones de libris Apocryphis, where he doth censure some opinions of Bodinus as prejudicial to the Christian Faith. Reginaldus Scotus, nostras, (saith he) qui contrariam Bodino insanit insaniam, ait Papistas consiteri, non posse Demonas ne audire quiden nomen Jehovæ. Acceperat ille a Bodino, and attribuit Papistis ingenere, tanquam omnes Papistæ in eo conspirarent. Pergit ispe, and quoniam animadverterat quasdam fæminas maleficas, aliquando istius modi narrationes ementiri omnia esse ficta; ex imperitia Dialecticæ, and aliarum bonarum artium: Ut qui nullo judicio, nulla methodo, nullâ optimarum artium scientiâ, eodem modo aggressus sit hanc rem, quomodo Poeta loquitur, ----- Tenet insatiabile quosdam Scribendi cacoëthes: and eodem prorsus modo ratiocinatur, and c. We have been the more willing to produce this passage out of the writings of that Learned man, because we also in our answers may have occasion to say somewhat to the same purpose; not of that Author or his book, which he judgeth, anything, but of the ground upon which he builded, which we shall find to be the same upon which others also, that deny Spirits have gone upon. But we will go Methodically to work, and take every thing in order, as we have proposed in the objections. First, We said, The world was full of Imposture. It is granted, of Impostors and Impostures. But what then shall the conclusion be, That therefore there is no truth in the world, or at least not to be attained unto by mortal man? Truly, many books of old have been written to that effect. Sextus Empiricus is yet extant, a very learned book it cannot be denied, and of excellent use for the understanding of ancient Authors, Phylosophers especially. I could name some Christians also, by profession, men of great learning that have gone very far that way. But this will not be granted by some I am sure that are or have been thought great oppugners of the common opinion about Witches and Spirits; some Physicians I mean, and Naturalists by their profession. But may not we argue as plausibly against that which they professe, as they have done or can do against Spirits and Apparitions? We would be loath to make so long a digression; we have had occasion elsewhere to say somewhat to this purpose: and they that will be so curious may see what hath been written by Cornel. Agrippa (who is very large upon this subject) about it, not to name any other. It is not yet a full twelve-moneth, that a friend of mine, a Gentleman of quality, brought his Lady to London (some 60 miles and upwards from his ordinary dwelling) to have the advice of Physicians about his wife (a very Virtuous and Religious Lady) troubled with a weak stomach and ill digestion, which caused grievous symptoms. I think he had the advice of no lesse then a dozen first and last: I am sure he named unto me five or six of the chiefest in Credit and practice that the Town affordeth. Not one of them did agree in their opinions, either concerning the Cause, or the means to be used for a Cure. So that the Gentleman went away more unsatisfied then he came. What he did I know not: I know what some men would have inferred upon this. Yet I, for my part, for the benefit that I have received by it, and the effects that I have seen of it, both upon my self, and others in my life-time, upon several occasions (where learned Artists, not Empiricks have been employed) though all the world should be of another opinion, I think my self bound to honour, as the profession, so all Learned, Ingenious Professors of it: and I make no question but the worst of Agrippa's objections, by any man of competent judgment and experience, may easily be answered. I say therefore that as in other things of the world, so in matters of Spirits and Apparitions, though lyable to much error and imposture, yet it doth not follow but there may be reality of truth and certainty discernable unto them that will take the pains to search things unto the bottom, where truth commonly is to be found, and are naturally endowed with competent judgments to discern between specious arguments and solidity of truth. But this proveth nothing. No: but the removing of this common objection may dispose the Reader, I hope, to consider of what we have to say with lesse prejudice. And that shall be our next task, what we have to say for Spirits, and c. before we come to particular Objections. Wherein neverthelesse I will be no longer then I must at this time, because I shall have a more proper place in two several Tractates, the one whereof hath been a long time in loose notes and papers, not yet digested, to wit, my Second Part of Enthusiasme: the other, in my head yet wholly, but in better readinesse to be brought to light, because of later conception; to wit, A Discourse of Credulity and Incredulity, in things Natural, Civil and Divine, or Theological. We shall meet there with many cases not so necessary here to be spoken of, which will help very much to clear this business. But here I say, first of all, It is a Maxim of Aristotle's the great Oracle of Nature, which many have taken notice of, and applyed to their several purposes: [Greek omitted], That which is generally believed, is most likely to be true. Who also in another place of the same book doth approve the saying of Heliod, [Greek omitted]. Now if any opinion whereof question is made can justly pretend to a general assent and consent of all people, places, ages of the world, I think, nay, I know, and it will be proved that this of Witches, Spirits, and Apparitions may. I do not know scarce any ancient book extant of Philosopher or Historian (the Writings of professed Epicureans excepted, of Aristotle we shall give an account by and by) but doth afford some pregnant relation, testimony or passage to the confirmation of this truth. I dare say, should a man collect the relations and testimonies out of several Authors and books (that are come to our knowledge) within the compasse of two thousand years, of Authors well accounted of, generally, and whose testimonies (Historians especially) we receive in other things, a man might make a book of the biggest size and form that ordinary books (which we call Folioes) are. It is true, many Authors may write one thing which may prove false, as the famous history of the Phenix, perchance, or some such; but upon examination it will appear that those many take all from one or two at the most, who first delivered it. They add nothing in confirmation of their own knowledg or experience. But here it is quite otherwise; those many Authors that I speak of (Historians especially of several ages) they tell us different things that hapned in their own times, in divers places of the world: and of many of them we may say they were such as knew little of former books, or stories of other Nations but their own. Within these 200 years the world, we know, by the benefit of Navigation hath been more open and known then before; yea, a great part of the world discovered that was not known before. I have read many books, the best I could meet with, in several Languages, of divers Voyages into all parts of the world: I have conversed with many Travellers, whom I judged sober and discreet. I never read any book of that argument, nor yet met with man, that I have had the opportunity to confer with, but was able of his own knowledg to say somewhat whereby my belief of these things might be confirmed. Now for the Epicureans (of all Philosophers the most inconsiderable in matters of knowledg, as former ages have described them) no man need to wonder if they denied those things which by the solemn engagement of their Sect they were bound and resolved, notwithstanding any fight or sense, experience or evidence to the contrary, not to believe, at least not to acknowledg. This doth clearly appear by one that may be believed (though I have met with it in more) in such things. Lucian (himself a profest Epicurean Atheist) who doth commend Democritus, Epicurus and Metrodorus (the most famous of that Sect) for their [Greek omitted], as he calls it, their fixed, irrevokable, unconquerable resolution, when they saw any strange thing that by others was admired as miraculous, if they could find the cause or give a probable guesse, well and good, if not, yet not to depart from their first resolution, and still to believe and to maintain that it was false and impossible: It is a notable passage, and which excellent use may be made of. I will therefore set down his own words for their sake that understand the Language: -----[Greek omitted] (speaking of some of Alexander the false Prophet his devices) G1 [Greek omitted]. Who doubts that this is the resolution of many also in these dayes, not of them only who are Epicureans, whose manner of living (as we have said before) doth engage them to this opinion, but of others also, who think it not for their credit (the vanity of which belief nevertheless might easily appear, there being nothing so mean and ordinary in the world wherein the Wisdom of the wisest, in the consideration of the causes, by the confession of best Naturalists, may not be posed) to believe any thing that they cannot give a probable reason of. Not to be wondred then if we see many, notwithstanding daily experience to the contrary, to stick so close to those tenets which they have wedded themselves unto with so firm a resolution from the beginning, never to leave them, be they right or wrong. As for Aristotle, I confesse his authority is very great with me; not because I am superstitiously addicted to any of his opinions, which I shall ever be ready to forsake when better shall be shewed unto me; but because - notes- G1 Lu isn in Alex. Ald. ed. p. 179.

(besides the judgment of all accounted wise and learned in former ages) I am convicted in my judgment, that so much solid reason in all Arts and Sciences never issued from mortal man (known unto us by his writings) without supernatural illumination. Well: Aristotle doth not acknowledg Spirits, he mentions them not in any place. Let it be granted: And why should it be a wonder to any man that knows the drift and purpose of Aristotle's Phylosophy? He lived when Plato lived; he had been his fellow Scholer under Socrates, and for some time his Scholer; but afterwards he became his æmulus, and pleased himself very much to oppose his Doctrine, insomuch as he is censured by some Ancients for his ingratitude. The truth is, Plato's writings are full of Prodigies, Apparitions of Souls, pains of Hell and Purgatory, Revelations of the gods, and the like. Wherein he is so bold that he is fain to excuse himself sometimes, and doth not desire that any man should believe him, according to the letter of his relations, but in grosse only, that somewhat was true to that effect. Indeed he hath many divine passages, yea, whole Treatises, that can never be sufficiently admired in their kind; but too full of tales, for a Phylosopher, it cannot be denyed. Aristotle therefore resolved upon a quite contrary way: He would meddle with nothing but what had some apparent ground in Nature. Not that he precisely denyed all other things, but because he did not think that it was the part of a Phylosopher to meddle with those things that no probable reason could be given of. This doth clearly appear by a Divine passage of his, De part. anim. l. 1.c.5. where he divides Substances in [Greek omitted], Eternal and Incorruptible, that is, in effect, Spiritual (for even Spirits that were created might be termed [Greek omitted], that is, properly, That have not their beginning by Generation; but we will easily grant, that the creation of Angels, good or bad, was not known to Aristotle: (we may understand Gods and Intelligences) and those, that [Greek omitted], that is, are mortals. He goes on, As for Divine Substances, which we honour, we can say but little of them, though we desire it, because so little of them is exposed to sense [and Reason.] Mortal things that we are familiarly acquainted and daily converse with, we may know if we take pains. But much more should we rejoyce in the knowledg (yea though we know but a very little part) of things Divine for their excellency, then in the knowledg of these worldly things though never so perfect and general. But the comfort that we have of them (which doth make some amends) is the certainty, and that they come within the compasse of Sciences. What could be said more Divinely by a man that had nothing by revelation? Truly, there appeareth unto me (if I may speak without offence and misconstruction) more Divinely in those words, then in some books that pretend to nothing else. Add to this another place of his in his Metaphysicks, where he saith, That though things supernatural be of themselves clear and certain, yet to us they are not so, who see them only with Owles eyes. Can we say then that Aristotle denyed those things that he forbore to write of, because they were (their natures and their qualities) above the knowledg of man? Neither is it absolutely true that Aristotle never wrote of Spirits and Apparitions. Cicero in his first book De Divinatione, hath a long story out of him of a shape or Spirit that appeared in a dream to one Eudemus (his familiar friend and acquaintance) and foretold him strange things that came to passe. (Iemens Alexandrinus hath a strange story out of him, of a Magical Ring, one or two, which Excestus, King of the Phocenses did use, and foresaw things future by them. It is to be found and seen among the fragments of Aristotles works. And that he did not deny Witches, may appear by that mention he makes of them in more then one place. How much he ascribed to common report and experience, though no reason could be given, doth appear by his Preface to his Treatise De Divinatione per insomnia: where he proposeth the case, how hard it is for a rational man to believe any thing upon report which he can see no reason for; nay, which seemeth contrary to reason: as, for a man to foretel by dream what shall happen in another Kingdome far off without any apparent cause. But on the other side, saith he, not less hard to deny that which all men, or most men, do believe, to wit, that there be such predictions. For to say (his own words) that such dreams come from God, besides what else might be objected (which might easily be understood by them that understand his Doctrine) it is most unreasonable to believe that God would send them to men either vitious in their lives, or idiots and fools, of all men the most vile and contemptible, who have been observed to have such dreams oftener then better and wiser men. So leaving the businesse undetermined, he doth proceed to the consideration of those Prophetick dreams, for which some probable reason may be given. Yet in the second Chapter he saith directly, That though dreams be not [Greek omitted] yet they may be perchance G1 [Greek omitted] for such he acknowledges Nature to be, not [Greek omitted] but [Greek omitted] only. I will not enquire further into the meaning of these words; it is not to be done in few words. It plainly appears that nothing troubled him so much (for he repeats the objection twice or thrice) as that God should be thought to favour either wicked men or fools. I wish no worse Doctrine had ever been Printed or Preached concerning God. But still let it be remembred that he knew of no Divine Word or Revelation. Yet Jul. Scahger in his Commentaries upon Hypocrates De Insomniis, doth wonder that Aristotle should stick so much at this, and seems himself to give a reason grounded in Nature. Indeed he saith somewhat as to the case of fools and idiots, but nothing (that I remember) that reacheth to wicked men also. Let these things be considered, and let the Reader judge of how different temper Aristotle was from that of ancient or later Epicures. This mention of Aristotle and Plato puts me in mind of Socrates their Master, his Familiar Spirit; no Shape but a Voice only, by which his life and actions were much directed. The thing is attested by so many, so grave Authors whereof some lived at the very time, others not long after, or in times not very remote, that I know not how it can be questioned by any man. Neither indeed is it, that I remember, by any Heathens or Christians of ancient times, and there have been books written of it, divers, in Greek and Latine, whereof some are yet extant. But whether it were a good Spirit or an evil, some men have doubted, and it is free for any man to think what he pleaseth of it. For my part I ever had a Reverend opinion of Socrates, -notes- G1 The Latine Interpreter translates it Domonia; and I know not how it can be better expressed, though lyable to ambiguity.

and do believe (if there be no impiety in it, as I hope not) that he was, as among Heathens in some respect, a fore-runner of Christ, to dispose them the better when the time should come to imbrace (and it did it effectually) the Gospel. Many other Phylosophers, that have been of greatest fame, were certainly great Magicians, as Orpheus, Pythagoras, Empedocles, and the like, as by those things that have been written of them by several ancient authors may be collected. But above all I give the pre-eminence to Apollonius Thianeus, a man of later times, and of whom we may speak with more confidence and certainty. This was the man whom ancient Heathens very tenacious of their former worship and superstitions, did pitch upon to oppose unto Christ. His Life hath been written by divers, four of them were joyned together and opposed to the four Gospels: and Hierocles, a famous Phylosopher of those times, made a Collation of his Miracles with those of Christs, who was answered by Eusebius, yet extant. Sure it is, they prevailed so much, that he was for a long time worshipped by many, and in sundry places as a very God; yea, by some Roman Emperors, as we find in History. Philostratus hath written his Life in very Elegant stile (as Photius judged) in 8 books, which are extant. And though they contain many fabulous things, as any man may expect by the undertaking, yet have they so much truth and variety of ancient learning, that I think they deserve to be better known then commonly they are; but cannot be understood, I am sure, as they should be, by any translation either Latine or French that ever I saw: For the Paris Edition, though it boast of great things (as the manner is) yet how little was performed may easily appear unto any that will take the pains to compare it with the former edition of Aldus: Which I speak not to find fault, but because I wish that some able man would undertake the work; there is not any book, by the Translations yet extant, that more needeth it. What use Scaliger made of him, may appear by his frequent quotations in his Notes upon Eusebius, in the History of those times. As for Appollonius his Miracles or wonderful Acts (which is our businesse here) though many things have been added, some, probably, done by Imposture, yet I do not see how it can be doubted but he did many strange things by the help of Spirits, which things may be judged by due observation of circumstances; as for example, That being convented before Domitian the Emperor in the presence of many, he presently vanished and was seen a great way off (at Puteoli I think) about the same time. That at the very time when Domitian was killed at Rome, he spake of it publickly and of the manner of it at Ephesus: and so of many others, which seem to me (as unto most) almost unquestionable. The greatest wonder to me is, that such was his port and outward appearance of Sanctity and Simplicity, that even Christians have thought reverently of him, and believed that he did his wonders by the power of God, or by secret Philosophy and knowledg of Nature not revealed unto other men. So Justine Martyr, one of the ancient Fathers of the Church judged of him, as is well known. Most later Phylosophers that lived about Julians time, and before that, as also the Emperors themselves, many of them, were great Magicians and Necromancers, as may easily appear, partly by their own writings, and partly by the History of those times. I do very much wonder whether any man, being a Scholer, and not strongly prepossessed, that doth not believe Spirits, and c. can say that he ever read the books of Tryals and Confessions of Witches and Wizards, such I mean, as have been written by learned and judicious men. Such as, for example, I account Nichol. Remigius, his Demonolatria: ex judiciis capitalibus 900 plus minus hominum, and c. grounded especially upon the Confessions and Condemnations of no lesse then 900 men and women in Lorraine within the compasse of few years. That he was a learned man, I think no body will deny that hath read him; and that he was no very credulous and superstitious man (though a Papist) that also is most certain: and I have wondred at his liberty many times. I know not how it is now in those places; "but by what I have read and heard of the doings of Witches and Sorcerers in Geneva and Savoy in former times (I could say somewhat of my self, how my life was preserved there very strangely, but my witnesses are not, and I will not bring their credit in question for such a businesse.)" I am of opinion, That he that should have maintained there that there was no such thing as Witches, or Spirits, and c. would have been thought by most either mad and brain-sick (so frequent and visible were the effects to sober eyes) or a Witch himself. For indeed it is ordinary enough, that those that are so really, are very willing (which deceiveth many) to be thought Impostors, and there is good reason for it: I should sooner suspect him an Impostor that doth professe himself (except it be by way of confession, as many have done) and is ambitious to be counted a Witch or Sorcerer. I remember I saw a book some years ago, intituled, De l'inconstance des mauvais Anges and Demons, printed at Paris 1612, in quarto, and another of the same Author, and size, intituled, L'incredulite and mescreauce du sortilege, Paris 1642. Strange stories are told there of a Province of France, about that time (or little before) marvellously infested with Witches and Sorcerers, insomuch that people did not know one another (in some one place) in the streets, by reason of evil Spirits appearing publickly in the shape of men; and that the proceedings of justice (which doth not happen often) were sometimes disturbed by them. I think the Author himself was one that was sent to the place by the King with some authority, and to make report. But as I do not altogether trust my memory, having had but a sight of the books (it was at the Bell in St. Pauls Church-yard:) So I beseech the Reader not to rest upon this account that I give him upon my best remembrance, but to peruse the books himself. I am confident he may receive good satisfaction, being things that were not done in a corner, but very publickly and well attested as I remember. However the reader must give me leave (though it be not to this purpose, lest my silence G1 be drawn to the prejudice of the truth) to tell him, that I met with one great falshood there concerning my own father (of Bl. M.) which I have abundantly refuted, and all others of that nature, when I was yet very young. But that (as I conceive) which in all these stories would most puzzle a rational man, is the signes which are set -notes- G1 Tom II. p 608. Mer. Cas. Pictas.

down by many how witches may be known, as Teats, swimming upon the water, dry eyes, and the like: which things indeed have some ground of truth, being limited to particular times and places, but are not of G1 general application. Mr. Vossius had therefore reason to find fault with Springerus and Bodinus for making that a certain token of a Witch that she cannot weep. Who also in the same place doth well except against the tryal of [Greek omitted] as he calls it (commonly, purgatio per aquam frigidam) condemned by many. But he had done well to have limited his exception, and to have shewed how, and when, and how far such observations may be used. For certainly they are not altogether to be neglected. But the reasons of such observations or marks that are given by some, are so ridiculous, that they would make a sober man (that hath not patience enough to ponder all things diligently) to suspect all the rest. So one tells us, That when the Cock croweth the solemn meetings of Witches (which opinion perchance may prove ancient enough, as we shall shew elsewhere) are dissolved: and he thinks a reason may be because of the crowing of the Cock in the Gospel, when St. Peter denyed Christ. Another tells us, That Witches being well beaten trunco vitis (with a Vine stick or club) Malesicia illata solvere sævillina coguntur, have no more force to do hurt, or, that the party bewitched recovereth. And the reason (he thinks, and yet he no ordinary man G2 neither) ex mysterio vini and vineæ dilectæ Deo, ex cujus mysterio quotidie Sacramentum Sacrosancti Sanguinis Domini consicitur, and c. But I shall have a more proper place for the full examination of these things in one of the two Treatises before mentioned. It cannot be denyed but this whole businesse of Witches, what through ignorance, what through malice, is very lyable to many mistakes and divers impostures. And it were to be wished that in all such Trials some prudent Divines, and learned experienced Physicians might be joyned. But hence to conclude with Wierius (who neverthesse doth acknowledg Spirits, and the Illusions and Apparitions of Divels, and their mischievous opperations as much as any, and tells as strange things of them) and some others, that therefore there are no Witches and Sorcerers, is as if a man should deny the power of herbs because a thousand things have been written of them of old, and are yet daily falsely and superstitiously. And indeed it so fell out once in Rome, as by Plinie is recorded at large, Where when some ascribed such power unto Herbs, as though Sun and Moon had been subject unto them, the dead might be raised, armies vanquished, and what not! which was not very well relished by many: at last came Asclepiades, who perswaded men that were very well disposed to be perswaded, that all Physical use of Herbs and Simples was a meer cheat, and that men were better want them, there being other means easier and lesse troublesome to restore health and overcome diseases, which he professed to teach: and prevailed so far for a while, that they were laid aside, and a new course of Physick introduced. Which for a while, as I said, (so prone are men commonly to entertain new divices) gave good content generally. It is well observed by Aristotle (and I think a great part of humane wisdom -notes- G1 Voss. de Idolo. III. 180, 181. G2 So in my Copy, it may be it should be, vitis and vin.

dependeth on it) that in all things of the world that are commendable, as there is somewhat which is true and real, so somewhat also which is counterfeit and false. There is beauty Natural, saith he, and there is Artificial beauty by painting and trimming. A true, sound, healthy complexion, and that which makes a good shew, but is not sound. True, real gold and silver, but divers things also that may be taken for gold and silver at a distance, or by them that judge at the outward appearance. So, true, sound Ratiocination, and that which seems so to the unlearned, or to corrupt judgments, though it be very false. They that consider well of this, may the sooner come to the knowledg of truth in all things. Well: we go on. There was in Aix (Aquæ Sextiæ anciently, now Aquensis Civitas) in Provence (a County of France so called) in the year of the Lord 1611. a Romish Priest tryed, convicted, and by Sentence of the Court or Parliament condemned to be burned alive for abominable practises, and horrid things by him upon divers (some persons of quality) committed with and by the Devil. He had long desired it and sought it; at last the devil appeared to him in the habit of a Gentleman. The story is in divers books, French and Latine, and translated (at that time I believe) in divers languages. I would goe forty miles with all my heart to meet with that man that could tell me any thing whereby I might but probably be induced to believe, or at least to suspect, that there might be some mistake in the particulars of his Sentence. For my reason, I must confesse, was never more posed in any thing that ever I read of that nature. Gassendus indeed in Pereskius his life, hath somewhat (as I remember) of Pereskius his Opinion, as if he thought some of those things he confessed might be ascribed unto imagination; but I see no reason given: neither are the things of that nature, that can admit any such suspicion. Besides, Tristan, of the Lives of the Emperors and their Coynes, will tell you somewhat which may make a doubt, whether Gassendus ought to be believed in all things that he reporteth concerning that famous man. I am not very much satisfied of what Religion (though truly a very learned man) Gassendus was. And by the way (which is somewhat to the case of Witches in general) if I be not mistaken (for I have it not at this time) there is a relation in that very book of somewhat that hapned to Pereskius by Witches when he was a child. That wicked Sorcerer which was burned at Aix, foretold before his death that some misfortune would be done at the time and place of his execution, which hapned accordingly, and very strangely too. Somewhat again, I must confesse, I have seen printed (Mimica Diaboli, and c.) to take away the scandal of some part of his confession, or the Devils saying of Masse, and c. some part of which things might perchance with some colour be ascribed to imagination: but that is not it that troubles me. But enough of him. What man is he, that pretends to learning, that hath not heard, and doth not honour the memory of Joachimus Camerartus, that great light of Germany? so wise (and for his wisdom, and other excellent parts, sought unto by many Princes) so moderate a man (an excellent temper for the

attaining of Truth) and so versed in all kind of learning, that we shall scarce among all the learned of these later Times find another so generally accomplished. The strangest relations that ever I read, or at least as strange as any I have read of Witches, and Sorcerers, and Spirits, I have read in him: such as either upon his own knowledge he doth relate, or such as he believed true upon the testimonie of others known unto him. The last work that he ever went about for the publick was, De generibus Divinationum, but he did not live (the more the pity) to make an end of it. But so much as he had done was set out by one of his learned sons, Lipsiæ, an. Dom. 1576. There p. 33- he hath these words, De Spirituum vero, quæ sunt Græcis [Greek omitted] admirabili non solum efficitate, sed manifesta Specie, quæ [Greek omitted] perhibentur, præentiâ ; incredibiles extant passim veterum narrationes, and nostris temporibus super antia sidem copmperta sunt, extraetiam [Greek omitted] de quibus postea dicetur. So p. 89. and p. 151. again and more fully. But his strangest relations are in his Proæmium to Plutarchs two Treatises, De Defectu Oraculorum, and De Figura E1 Consecratâ Delphis, set out by him with Notes. Here I could come in with a whole cloud of witnesses, name hundreds of men of all Nations and professions that have lived within this last hundred years, and not any among them but such as have had, and have yet generally the reputation of Honest, Sober, Learned and Judicious, who all have been of this opinion that we maintain. But because we have to do with them especially who by their Profession pretend to the Knowledge of Nature above other men, I will confine my self for further testimony to them that have been of that Profession. I have been somewhat curious for one of my Calling, that had no other end but to attain to some Knowledge of Nature, without which a man may quickly be lead into manifold delusions and Impostures. I have read some; looked into many: I do not remember I have met with any professed Physician or Naturalist (some one or two excepted, which have been or shall be named) who made any question of these things. Sure I am, I have met with divers strange relations in sundry of them, of things that themselves were present at, and saw with their own eyes, where they could have no end, that any man can probably suspect, but to acknowledge the truth, though with some disparagement to themselves (according to the judgment of many) in the free confession of their own ignorance and disability to give reasons, and to penetrate into causes. Well: what then shall we say to such as Jul. Cæsar, Scaliger, Fernelius, Sennertus, the wonders and Oracles of their times? As Physicians so Phylosophers, men of that profound wisdom and experience (much improved in some of them by long life) as their writings shew them to have been to this day. What shall we make of them? or what do they make of themselves, that will censure such men as either cheaters or ignorant idiots? Henericus Saxonia, a Learned Professor and Practiser of Physick in Padua, in that Book he hath written of that horrible Polonian Disease, which he calls Plicam, which turneth mens hairs (in sight) to Snakes and Serpents; in that book he doth ascribe so much to the power of Witches and Sorcerers in causing Diseases, not private only but even publick, as Pestilences and the like, as himself confesseth he could never have believed, until he was convicted by manifest experience; and indeed is wonderful, and may well be thought incredible unto most, yet is maintained and asserted by Sennertus De Febribus; and in his sixth book (as I remember) De Morbis à fascino, incantatione, and veneficiis inductis. I will forbear the names of many men of fame and credit, Physicians too, because most of them are named (and commonly enough known) by Sennertus upon this occasion. There is one, whom I think inferiour to none, though perchance not so commonly known or read, and that is, Georgius Raqusaius a Venetian, who by his first education and profession was an Astrologer, cast many Nativities, and took upon him to Prognosticate; but afterwards conscious to himself of the vanity of the Art (that is, when the Devil doth not intermeddle, as alwayes must be understood: for some Astrologers have been Magicians withall, and have done strange things) gave it over, and hath written against it very Learnedly and Solidly. Read him, if you please, in his Chapters De Magis, De Oraculis; yea, through his whole Book De Divinatione, and you may be satisfied what he thought of these things: he also was a Physician. But I must not omit the Learned Author that set out Mus um Veronense, a great Naturalist and a Physician too; he handles it at the end of that work somewhat roundly and to the quick, I must confesse, but very Rationally and Solidly, in my judgment, against those pretended Peripateticians, that would be thought to defend the opinion of Aristotle herein. I could say somewhat of ancients Physicianstoo, and give some account of those many Spells and Charmes that are in Trallienus, in all his books; an ancient Physician, in high esteeme with some eminent Physicians of these late times, as they themselves have told me; though not for his Charms, but for his other learning and excellent experience, which they had found good use of But this I reserve for another place and work. And this mention of that eminent Physician who commended Trallienus unto me, puts me in mind of what he imparted himself, not long before his death, of his own knowledge and experience; and particularly of the account he gave me of the examination of a Conjurer in Salisbury, at which, he said, none were present but King James, (of most Blessed Memory) the Duke of Buckingham, and himself: It is likely some others may have heard the same, and I had rather any body should tell it then I, who was then a patient under him, and durst not, were I put to it, trust to my memory for every circumstance Hitherto I have gone by Authorities rather then Arguments, partly because I thought that the shortest and the clearest way for every bodies capacity, and partly, because such Arguments (if any besides these we have here) as have been used against this opinion, may be found fully answered in those I have cited. The truth is, it is a Subject of that nature as doth not admit of many Arguments, such especially as may pretend to subtilty of Reason, Sight, Sense, and Experience (upon which most Humane Knowledge is grounded) generally approved and certain, is our best Argument. But before I give over, I will use one Argument which perchance may prove of some force and validity, and that is, A consideration of the strange shifts and evasions and notorious absurdities that these men are put to, who not being able to deny the [Greek omitted] or matter of Fact, would seem to say somewhat rather then to acknowledg Spirits, and Devils, and Witchcraft. Pomponatius, who hath not heard of? I once had the book, I know not now what is become of it. But I remember well, I never was more weary of reading then when I read him; nothing that ever I read or heard of Legends and old womans tales did seem to me more groundlesse and incredible. But because those men bear themselves very much upon the power of imagination (which indeed is very great, and doth produce strange effects) I shall commend to the sober Reader that hath not yet met with him, Tho. Fienus his Learned Tractat, De Viribus Imaginationis, a very Rational and Philosophical discourse. Of their miserable shifts and evasions in general, the Author or Observator rather of Musæum Veronense, before quoted, will give you a good account. I have at this present in my hands the writings of a Physician, Augerius Ferrerius by name. What he was for a Physician I know not; all (I doubt) of that profession will not allow very well of his Preface to his Castigationes Practicæ Medicinæ, whatever they think of the Castigationes themselves. But in general, his Stile, and various reading, and knowledge of good Authors, speak him a Learned man sufficiently. Thuanus in his History gives him a most ample Elogium, and makes him to have been Jul. C. Scaliger his intimate acquaintance and much respected by him. But I doubt whether Thuanus had ever seen this book of his: it doth not appear by that Elogium that he had. Well, this Learned man in his Chapter De Homericis Medicatione, where he treats of cures done by Charms and Spells, by Words and Characters, which others impute commonly to Witchcraft: first, for the [Greek omitted], he doth not deny it: (Nam iis quæ sensibus exposita sunt contravenire, sani hominis non est.) He thinks them little better than mad men that will deny that which is approved by so visible experience. Yet it seems he was one of them that did not believe, or would not believe (though he doth not say so positively) Spirits and Witches, and Supernatural Operations. What then? he plainly maintaineth and argueth it (though he quote no Gospel for it) that such is the nature of the Soul of man (if he know how to use it) that by a strong faith and confidence it may work any miracle without a miracle: Verum confidentia illa, ac firma persuasio (that you may have some of his words if you have not the book) comparatur indoctis animis per opinionem quam de Characteribus et sacris verbis coeperunt. Doctis et rerum intelligentiam habentibus, nihil opus est externi, sed cognitâ vi animi, per eam miracula edere possunt and c.. And again little after, Doctus vero et sibi constans solo verbo sanabit. I do not hence conclude that this Ferrerius, though he speak as though he were, and names nobody else, that he was the first or only that hath been of this opinion. Avicenne the Arab was the first, as I take it, that set it on foot: some others have followed him in it. But since these men acknowledg the strange effects that others deny, let the sober Reader judge whether of the two more likely to grant Spirits and Devils, or to make the Soul of man (of every man, naturally) either a God or a Devil. But let men take heed how they attempt to do Miracles by their strong faith and confidence, for that is the ready way to bring the Devil unto them, and that is it which hath made many Witches and Sorcerers. As for that Faith whereby men did work Miracles in the Primitive times, spoken of in the Gospel, commonly called, The Faith of Miracles, that is quite another thing, which I shall not need to speak of in this place. Of a strong confidence in God, even in them that are not otherwise very godly, whether it may not, according to Gods first order and appointment, produce sometimes some strange effects; we have had a consideration elsewhere, where we treat of Precatorie Enthusiasm. But this also is quite another thing, as may appear by what we have written of it. But to conclude this part; upon due consideration of the premises, and what else I have in readinesse upon the same Subject (if God give me life and health) I cannot satisfie my self how any Learned man, sober and rational, can entertain such an opinion (simply and seriously) That there be no Devils nor Spirits, and c. But upon this account which I give my self (leaving all men to their own judgments herein) that if there be any such truly and really, it must needs be because being at first prepossessed upon some plausible ground, and being afterwards taken up with other thoughts and employments, they are more willing to stick to their former opinion without further trouble, then to take the pains to seek further. [Greek omitted] as Thucydides doth very well observe. And when we say, A Learned man, there is much ambiguity in that word. For a man may be (not to speak of the ignorance of the common people, in those climates especially, who think all Learning concluded in Preaching; and now in these times too, them best Preachers that in very deed have least Learning, but preach by Instinct and Inspiration, as they call it) but a man, I say, may be a Learned Man, a very Learned man in some one kind or profession, even to Excellency and Admiration, who neverthelesse is and may be found ignorant enough in other kinds: but a general Learned man is a thing of a vast extent, and not often seen. It is a businesse of an infinite labour, besides that it requireth Natural parts answerable; without which (judgment specially) the more pains sometimes the more ignorance. I aim not by this at any particular man or men (Deum testor) I would much rather submit to the censure of others my self, then take upon me to censure any; but the observation is of very good use, I know it, and may give much satisfaction in many cases, and have given an instance of it in Tertallian, and some others elsewhere. I have done for this time; I come now to the Objections, wherein I shall not need to be very long, because they run much upon one thing, Imposture, which hath already been spoken of and answered. But yet somewhat more particularly shall be answered. First, Of Miracles. It cannot be denyed but the world is full of horrible Impostures in that particular: Yet I believe, that some supernatural things, as cures, and c. do happen in every age, for which no reason can be given, which also for the strangenesse may be called Miracles. But if we limit (with most) the word to those things that proceed immediately from God or divine power: I shall not be very ready to yield that many such Miracles are seen in these Dayes. But I will not further argue the Case in this place. Well, let us take Miracles in the ordinary Sense: I verily believe that many such things do happen in many places; but that through negligence partly, and partly through incredulity, they are not regarded oftentimes, or soon forgotten. And wiser men, sometimes, though they know or believe such things, yet are not they very forward to tell them, lest they bring themselves into contempt with those supposed wise men, who will sooner laugh at any thing they do not understand, then take the pains to rectifie their ignorance or inform their judgments. I hope I shall do no wrong to the Memory of that Venerable, Incomparable Prelate, BISHOP ANDREWES, for Sound Learning and True Piety whilest he lived, one of the greatest Lights of this Land; if I set down two Stories, which we may call Miracles, both which he did believe to be true, but for one of them, it seemes, he did undertake upon his own knowledge: The one, concerning a noted, or at least by many suspected Witch or Sorceress, which the Devil, in a strange shape, did wait upon (or for rather) at her death. The other, concerning a man, who after his death was restored to life to make Confession of a horrible Murder committed upon his own Wife, for which he had never been suspected; both these, as he related them to my F. (in familiar conversation) and my F. did enter them for a remembrance into some of his Adversaria. In the substance I believe there could be no mistake, but if there be any mistake in any Circumstances, as of Names, or other wise, that must be imputed to my F. who was a stranger, not to the tongue only, but to all businesses (more then what might be known by printed books, and such publick wayes) of England. Quo anno, si unquam alias, pestis graffata est per hanc Urbem Londinum. Narravit igitur hic Parrochus et passim aliis, et ipsi quoque Dom. Episcopo sibi hoc accidisse. Erat illi amicus in suâ Paræciâ insignis; vir, ut omnes existimabant, probus et pius. Hic peste correptus advocavit Presbyterum illum suum amicum, quii et ægrotanti assuit, et vidit morientem nec desernet nisi mortuum; ita Demum repetiit domum suam. Post horas satis multas a morte hujus, cum ipse pro mortuo esset relictus in cubiculo; uxor illius idem cubiculum est ingressa, ut ex arcâ promeret Lodidem, sine linteamen ad ipsum [Greek omitted] ut est moris. Ingressa audit hanc vocem, operi intenta. Quis huc est? terreri illa, et velle egredi, sed auditur iterum vox illa: Quis hic est? Ac tandem comperto esse mariti vocem, accedit ad illum: Quid, ait, marite; tu igitur mortuus non es? et nos te pro mortuo compositum deserveramus. Ego vero, respondit ille, vere mortuus sui: sed uia Deo visum, ut anima mea rediret ad corpus. Sed tu uxor, ait, Si quid habes cibi parati, da mihi esurio enim. Dixit illa veruecinam habere se, pullum gallinaceum, et nescio quid aliud: sed omnia incocta, quæ brevi esset paratura. Ego, ait ille, Moram non sero; panem habes, ait, et caseum? quum annuisset, atque petiisset afferri, comedeit spectante uxore; deinde advocato Presbytero, et jussis exire e cubiculo omnibus qui aderant; narrat illi hoc: Ego, ait, vere mortuus sui. Sed jussa est anima redire ad suum corpus, ut scelus apperiram ore meo, manibus meis admissum, de quo nulla unquam cuiquam nota est suip cio. Priorem namque uxorem meam ispe occidi manibus meis, tantâ vafritie, ut omnes res lateret: deinde modum perpetrati scileis exposuit; nec ita multo post expiravit, ac veretum mortuus est. There is no necessity that any body should make of either of these relations an Article of his Faith; yet I though them very probable, because believed by such a man, and therefore have given them a place here. So much of Miracles. Of Exorcismes we must say as of Miracles. One notable example of a counterfeit Possession, and of great stirs likely to have insued upon it in France, we have out of Ihauanus, in our late Treatise of Enthusiasme. The History of the Boy of Bilson is extant, who by the Wisdom and Sagacity of the R R F. in God Thomas, Lord Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, was discovered to be an Impostor on purpose set up and suborned to promote the Romish cause, An. Dom. 1620. Such examples and stories most Countries have afforded good store, which are extant in divers Languages. Neither must it be concealed (by them that seek truth without partiality) that some, once called Disciplinarians, now more known by another name, have attempted to deal in those things hoping thereby to gain great advantage to their cause. It was a famous Story in Q. Elizabeth's Reign, though now perchance out of the knowledge of many, and beyond the remembrance of any living, how one Mr. D. a very zealous man of that Sect, did take upon him by long prayers to cast out Devils, so maintained and asserted with great vehemency by him and some others that favoured that cause, though upon legal examination they proved otherwise, which occasioned many books on both sides in those dayes, but two, melioris notæ, as we say written by Dr. H. concerning Exorcismes; the one against Papists, the other against P. I have them both somewhere yet, I hope, but can not come at them at this time, which is the cause that I cannot particularize that businesse with circumstances of times, and names or persons as I would. But there were many other books written (some very big, which I have seen) about it, as I said before; so that the whole businesse, with very little inquisition, if any have a mind, may quickly be found out. One Bookseller in Little Britain did help me to the sight of six or seven at once; yet one of the books then written, and as I was told, upon this occasion much commended unto me by some very Learned, to wit, Dr. Jordan, of the Suffocation of the Matrix, I long sought before I could meet with it. And such was the ignorance of some Booksellers, that I could not perswade them there was any such book extant: but now at last I have got it. All the use I shall make of it at this time is, that whereas the whole drift of the book tends unto this, to shew the error of many in ascribing natural diseases to supernatural causes, which might be thought by some to favour their opinion that believe not Witches, and c. The Author doth very prudently and piously make this profession in the Preface, I do not deny but that God doth in these dayes work extraordinarily for the deliverance of his children, and for other ends best known to himself; and that among other there may be both possessions by the Devil, and obsessions, and Witch-craft, and c. and dispossession also through the Prayers and Supplications of his servants, which is the only means left unto us for our relief in that case, but such examples being very rare now adays, and c. Yet for all this I do not conclude that Mr. D. was guilty of any Imposture: he might do it through ignorance being cozened by others. I have heard he was an honest man, and dyed piously, and disclaimed to the very last that he did any thing in that businesse otherwise then Bonâ Fide. I would judge charitably, even of those men that are not guilty of much charity towards others, whose judgments and consciences will not suffer them (though men of approved worth and piety otherwise) to say as they say, and to do as they do in all things. Be it granted therefore, that this businesse of Exorcismes is lyable to much Imposture: however, no man that hath read the relations of men and women possest, in several places, with due observation of circumstances, some of which relations, besides other persons of credit, have been attested; yea, some penned and published by learned Physicians and Naturalists, who have been employed about the Cure, observed their carriage, heard some of them speak strange Languages: silly women possest, discourse of highest points of Phylosophy, or the Mathematicks and the like. No man, I say, that is not a stranger to these things (besides what some Travellers, no way interested in the cause, can aver upon their own knowledge) will make any question either of the real possession of divers, according to relations that have been made, or of the Devils speaking in them and by them when they have been Exorcised; and sometimes upon bare conference. And though some Protestants are of opinion, That it is not lawful or warrantable for any man to take upon him to Exorcise upon such occasions, that is, (as I conceive) by way of absolute power and authority, and by superstitious wayes and means, as is ordinarily done Yet where a man hath a Calling, as if he be lawfully Called to the Ministry, and set over such a Parish where any happen to be possessed (as indeed

G1 my self have a Parish, that is, right to a Parish as good as the Laws of the Land can give me, which hath been grievously haunted, though not altogether in the same kind, this many years, to the undoing of many there; but I must not come near it, nor have the benefit of the Law to recover my right, though never told why) and he find himself zealously moved, yet without presumption, I would not despair, but his prayers, with other performances of devotion, and the assistance of some others of the same calling, might prove available before God: but still presupposed, as most expedient and necessary, that the opinion and resolution of some Learned and conscionable Physician, one or more, be had in the case; and their presence also in all actions, if it may be had, obtained. Some, it may be, will thank me, and I hope it will offend none, if I impart unto them what I have found in my F. his Ephemeris (or, Daily account of his life) tending to this purpose. Anno Dom. 603. In English (for their sakes that understand no Latine, and that it be not required alwayes, for it would be very tedious) this is the effect, At such a time, in such a place, he had the opportunity to meet with a grave (whether Lady or Gentlewoman) Matron, one he had a very good opinion of; her name M. de St. Pons, and having often heard by common report of a certain Protestant Minister that was said to cast out Devils, he did accurately inform himself by her (she living, it seems, very near, if not in the same parish) of all particulars concerning that businesse; who did averre it to be most true, and that ten, or thereabouts, Demomoniacks, or possessed men (all making profession of the Roman Catholick Religion) had been brought to the Church (at several times, as I take it) and that publickly, and by the generall confession of all then present, and by some notable signes (sometimes) at the going out of the Devils; they were, upon his Praying after Sermon, all delivered. But that he took it very hainously if any said, that he had cast out Devils; For, not I, said he, but the earnest Prayers of the Church, have prevailed with Almighty God to work this wonderful thing. As for Oracles: It is true, Heathens themselves acknowledg, that some were the jugglings of men. Sometimes Princes; sometimes private men: (as now of Religion, of Preaching, and Praying, and Fasting; of Masses and Processions: most Princes and States in all places) made good use of them to their owne ends; and made them speak what themselves had prompted. But a man might as probably argue; because some have been so freely acknowledged to have been by compact and subornation, it is the more likely, that those of which never any suspicion was, should be true. We read of many in Herodotus: of one, which was contrived by fraud; but there we read also, that when it came to be known (though care had been taken that it might not:) the chief Contriver, a great man, was banished, or prevented worse, by a voluntary Exile; and the Sacred Virgin or Prophetesse, deposed. But not to insist upon particulars, which would be long, it is most certain, and it will cleerly appear unto them that are well read in ancient Authors and Histories, That all Heathens, generally the wisest and learnedest of them, those especially, that lived when Oracles were most frequent, did really believe them to be, which they pretended unto: and that they were so indeed, for the most part (taking it for granted that their Gods were Devils or Evil Spirits) by many circumstances of Stories, and by other good proofs, may be made as evident: neither was it ever doubted or denyed (alwayes granted and presupposed, that, as in all worldly things, much imposture did intervene and intermingle) by ancient Christians acknowledge, I am sure, by most, if not all. But I have spoken of them elsewhere already, and therefore will be the shorter here. Our last Objection was: If there be Devils and Spirits, Why do they not appear unto them, who do what they can, as by continual curses, so by profane curiosity to invite them? First, We say, [Greek omitted] When we have good ground for the, to stick at the, because we do not understand the reason, is as much as to say, that we think we should be as wise as God. Aristotle did not meddle with things that he could give no reason of; yet he did not deny them (as we have shewed) and it is one thing to require a reason of things meerly natural; and another of those that happen by a meer secret Providence. But this will give them no great satisfaction who perchance believe a God (some) as much as they believe a Devil. Secondly, Therefore we say, There may be some natural reason too, upon Aristotles grounds Aristotle (as hath been shewed elsewhere) compares the effects of Melancboly, from whence he deriveth all kind of Enthusiasm, to the known effects of Wine. What is the reason, that some men with little wine will quickly be drunk, and become other Creatures, being deprived for the time of the use of reason? Others though they drink never so much, will sooner burst then reel, or speak idly. as some in their excess grow merry, others sad: some calm and better natured; others furious: some talkative, others stupid. The Devil knowes what tempers are best for his turn; and by some in whom he was deceived, he hath got no credit, and wished he had never meddled with them. Some men come into the world with Cabalistical Brains; their heads are full of mysteries; they see nothing, they read nothing, but their brain is on work to pick somewhat out of it that is not ordinary; and out of the very A B C that children are taught, rather than fail, they will fetch all the Secrets of Gods Wisdom, tell you how the world was created, how governed, and what will be the end of all things. Reason and Sense that other men go by, they think the acorns that the old world fed upon; fools and children may be content with them but they see into things by another Light. They commonly give good respect unto the Scriptures (till they come to profest Anabaptists) because they believe them the Word of God and not of men; but they reserve unto themselves the Interpretation, and so under the title of Divine Scripture, worship what their own phansie prompts, or the devil puts into their heads. But of all Scriptures the Revelation and the obscure Propheties are their delight; for there they rove securely; and there is not any thing so prodigious or chimerical, but they can fetch it out of some Prophetie, as they will interpret it. These men, if they be upright in their lives and dealings, and fear God truly, it is to be hoped that God will preserve them from further evil; but they are of a dangerous temper; Charitable men will pity them, and sober men will avoid them. On the other side, some there are whose brains are of a stiff and restive mould; it will not easily receive new impressions. They will hardly believe any thing but what they see; and yet rather not believe their eyes, then to believe any thing that is not according to the course of nature, and what they have been used unto. The devil may tempt such by sensual baits, and catch them; but he will not easily attempt to delude them by magical Shews and Apparitions. And what sober man, that believeth as a God, so a devil, doth doubt, but they that make it their daily practice to damn themselves, by such horrid oaths and curses, are as really possest, yea far more in the possession of the devil, then many that foam at the mouth, and speak strange languages? But 3dly Some have tried and used the means, but could never see any thing but what if others that never desired it really, but in some wanton curiosity, unadvisedly, that they might be the better able to confute the simplicity of some others as they thought rather than that their faith wanted any such confirmation, have tried some things, or have been present at some experiments and have seen (with no small astonishment) more then they expected or desired? Some persons of credit and quality, I am sure, have made it their confession unto me, that it hath so hapned unto them; who have been so affected with it, that they would not for a world be so surprized again. But 4ly and lastly, The Confessions of some Magicians are extant in print, who tell very particularly what means they used, what books they read, and c. and they saw and found (if we believe them; and what should tempt them to lye, no melancholy men, I know not) till they were weary, and Gods grace wrought upon their hearts to bring them to repentance. There be such confessions extant, but the Reader shall pardon me, if I give him no further account. It would much better becom them therefore, that have made such essays without successe, to repent, and to be thankful unto God, then to make that an argument, that theres no devil, and perchance no God. There is a terrible saying (if well understood) in the Scripture; [Greek omitted], He that is filthy let him be filthy still Let them take heed (I advise them as a friend) if they persist in their hardness of heart and infidelity, lest God in just judgment, though they seek still, and provoke as much as they can, will not suffer that they shall see anything, lest they should fear and be converted.

I Come now to Dr. DEE, and to This Book of his, which hath been the occasion of all the Discourse hitherto. As for his Person or Parentage, Education and the like, I have but little to say more then what he saith himself in his first Letter to the Emperor (RODOLPHE) of Germany, that being yet very young he was sought unto (ambiverunt me) by two Emperors, CHARLS the 5th and FERDINANDO his Brother and Successor in the Empire. Mr. Cambden indeed in the year 1572 makes honourable mention of him, and calls him, Nobilis Mathematicus. He dedicated his Monas Hieroglyphica to MAXIMILIAN Successor to FERDINANDO, first printed at Antwerp, An. Dom. 1564. and afterwards at Francford, 1591. and what other places I know not. In the year 1595. he did write (and was printed 1599 I am sure, but whether before that or no; I cannot certainly tell) A discourse Apologetical, and c. directed to the then Archbishop of Canterbury, wherein he hath a Catalogue of books written by himself, printed and unprinted, to the number of 48. in all, and doth also mention the books of his Library about 4000 volums in all, whereof 700 ancient Manuscripts, Latin, Greek, and Hebrew. There also doth he produce a Testimony of the University of Cambridg, dated 1548. But this whole Discourse of his being but short, for the better satisfaction of the Reader, I thought good to have it here reprinted the next after this Preface. His Mathematical Preface before Euclid, is that I think which of all his writings published hath been most taken notice of in England, and added much to the worth and commendation of that Edition of Euclid. He was a married man and had divers children, as will appear by this Relation; a great Traveller, and lived to a great age. But as I said before, I do not pretend to give an account of his life in general, unto others, which my self am yet a stranger to. What concerneth this Relation I am to give an account, and I hope there shall be nothing wanting to that. Four things I propose to my self to that end, First, Somewhat to confirm the truth and sincerity of this whole Relation. Secondly, To answer some Objections that may be made against some parts of it. Thirdly, To give some light to some places, and to satisfie the Reader concerning the perfection and imperfection of the book, as also, concerning the Original Copy. Fourthly, and lastly, To shew the many good uses that may be made of all by a sober Christian. I. It seems that Dr. Dee began to have the reputation of a Conjuror betimes. He doth very grievously complain of it in that Preface to Euclid but now spoken of, about the end of it, and yet there doth also term himself, An old forworn Mathematician. For my part whether he could ever truly be so called, I yet make some question: But I am very confident, that himself did not know or think himself so, but a zealous worshipper of God, and a very free and sincere Christian. How this is to be reconciled with the truth of this Relation, shall be afterwards considered of. For the truth and sincerity of the Relation, I hope

no body will so grosly mistake us as though we intended thereby to justisie what is here printed against any suspition of forgery; as if any man taking the advantage of Dr. Dees name and fame of a Conjuror, could be suspected to have devised and invented these things in his own brain to abuse the world. I should be sorry my name should appear in any kind to any book lyable to such a suspition; and the very name and credit of that so much and so deservedly prized Library from whence this is pretended to be taken, is sufficient (with civil understanding men) to prevent the grossnesse of such a mistake. Besides the Original Copy it self, all written with Dr. Dees own hand, there kept and preserved. But by Truth and Sincerity, intending not only Dr. Dee's fidelity in relating what himself believed, but also the reality of those things that he speaks of, according to his relation: his only (but great and dreadful) error being, that he mistook false lying Spirits for Angels of Light, the Devil of Hell (as we commonly term him) for the God of Heaven. For the Truth then, and Sincerity or Reality of the Relation in this sense, I shall first appeal to the Book it self. I know it is the fashion of many (I will not say that (I never did it my self) that are buyers of books, they will turn five or six leaves, if they happen upon somewhat that pleaseth their fancy, the book is a good book, and when they have bought it, it concerneth them to think so, because they have paid for it: but on the other side, if they light upon somewhat that doth not please (which may happen in the best) they are as ready to condemn and cast away. It is very possible that some such buyer lighting upon this, and in it, upon some places here and there, where some odd uncouth things may offer themselves; things ridiculous, incredible to ordinary sense and construction, he may be ready to judge of the whole accordingly. But for all this, I will in the first place appeal to the book it self; but with this respect to the Reader, that he will have patience to read in order one fourth part of the book at least before he judge; and if by that time he be not convicted, he shall have my good will to give it over. Not but that all the rest, even to the end, doth help very well to confirm the truth and reality of the whole Story: but because I think there is so much in any fourth part, if diligently read, and with due consideration, that I despair of his assent, that is not convicted by it. For my part, when the book was first communicated unto G1 me by that Right worthy Gentleman who is very studious to purchase and procure such Records and Monuments as may advantage the truth of God (all truth is of God) and the honour of this Land, following therein the example of his noble Progenitor, by his very name, Sir Robert Cotton, known to all the Learned as far as Europe extendeth. I read it cursorily because I was quickly convinced in my self that it could be no counterfeit immaginarie busnesse, and was very desirous to see the end, so far as the book did go. Afterward, when I understood that the said worthy Gentleman (especially, as I suppose, relying upon my Lord of Armagh's judgment and testimonie, which we have before spoken of) was willing it should be published, and that he had committed -notes- G1 Sir Thomas Cotton Knight Baronet.

the whole business unto me; I read it over very exactly, and took notes of the most remarkable passages (as they appeared unto me) truly I was so much confirmed in this first opinion by my second reading, that I shall not be afraid to profess that I never gave more credit to any Humane History of former times. All things seemed unto me so simply, and yet so accurately, and with so much confirmation of all manner of circumstances written and delivered, that I cannot yet satisfie my self, but all judicious

Readers will be of my opinion. But nevertheless, to help them that trust not much to their own judgments, let us see what can be said. First, I would have them, that would be further satisfied, to read Dr. Dee in that forecited Preface, where he doth plead his own cause, to acquit himself of that grievous crime and imputation of a Conjurer. But that was written, I must confess, long before his Communication with Spirits: yet it is somewhat to know what opinion he had then of them that deal with Devils and evil Spirits. But after he was made acquainted, and in great dealings with them, and had in readiness divers of these his books, or others of the same Argument, containing their several conferences and communications, to shew, and the manner of their appearing exactly set down; observe, I pray, with what confidence he did address himself to the greatest and wisest in Europe. To Queen Elizabeth often, and to her Council, as by many places of this Relation doth appear; but more particularly by his Letter to Sir Francis Walsingham, Secretary, and c. That he did the like to King James and his Council, may easily be gathered by the Records (in this Relation) of 1607. but much defective. But then to the Emperor Rodolphe, to Stephen King of Poland, and divers other Princes and their Deputies; the wisest and learnedst, their several Courts did afford for the time: the particulars of all which addresses and transactions are very exactly set down in the book. Nay, such was his confidence, that had it not been for the Nuncius Apostolicus his appearing against him at the Emperors Court by order from the Pope, he was, as by some places may be collected, resolved for Rome also, not doubting but he should approve himself and his doings to the Pope himself and his Cardinals. In all these his addresses and applications being still very ready to impart all things unto them that would entertain them with that respect he thought they deserved; yea, readily, which is very observable, even to receive them into this Mystical Society, whom he thought worthy, and in some capacity to promote the design; as de facto he did divers in several places: Albertus Alasco, Prince Palatine of Polonia, Puccius a learned man, and Prince Rosemberg in Germany, who were long of the Society, besides some admitted to some Actions for a while, as Stephen King of Poland, and some others. We will easily grant (as elsewhere hath been treated and handled at large) that a distempered brain may see, yea, and hear strange things, and entertain them with all possible confidence, as real things, and yet all but fancy, without any real sound or Apparition. But these sights and Apparitions that Dr. Dee gives here an account, are quite of another nature; yea, though possibly the Devil might represent divers of these things to the fancy inwardly which appeared outwardly: Yet of another nature, I say, and no without the intervention and operation of Spirits, as will easily appear to any man by the particulars. Besides the long Speeches, Discourses, Interlocutions upon all occasions and occurrences in the presence of more then one alwayes; and externally audible to different persons, for the most part or very frequently. That these things could not be the operation of a distempered Fancy, will be a sufficient evidence to any rational man. Again, let his usual preparations and Prayers against an Apparition or Action (as he called them) his extraordinary prayers upon some extraordinary occasions, as upon Edward Kelley his temporary repentance, and another for him when he was about to forsake him (in Latine a long one) Stephen King of Foland being then present. And again, when his Son Arthur was to be initiated to these Mystical Operations and Apparitions, in the place of Edward Kelley, and the like. And again, his Humility, Piety, Patience, (O what pity that such a man should fall into such a delusion! but we shall consider of the causes in its right place afterwards) upon all occasions, temptations, distresses, most eminent throughout the whole Book. Let these things be well considered, and above the rest, his large and punctual relation of that sad abominable story of their Promiscuous carnal Copulation, under the pretence of obedience to God.-- Let these things, I say, be well considered, and I think no man will make any question but the poor man did deal with all possible simplicity and sincerity, to the utmost of his understanding at that time. And truly, this one thing (as we said before) excepted, his mistaking of evil Spirits for good, it doth not appear by any thing but that he had his understanding, and the perfect use of his Reason to the very last, as well as he had any time of his life. Again, let it be considered, that he carryed with him where ever he went A STONE, which he called his Angelicall Stone, as brought unto him by an Angel, but by a Spirit sure enough, which he shewed unto many; to the Emperor among others, or the Emperors Deputy, Dr. Curts, as I remember: But more of this Stone afterwards. We may therefore conclude surely enough, That Dr. Dee in all this Relation did deal with all simplicity and sincerity. I shall only add, That whereas I used the word Reality before, concerning those things that appeared, according to this Relation: I would not be mistaken, as though I intended that whatsoever the Devil did seem to do or represent; it was Really and Substantially as it seemed and appeared, that would be a great and gross mistake. The very word Apparition doth rather import the contrary. All I understand by Reality, is, that what things appeared, they did so appear by the power and operation of Spirits, actually present and working, and were not the effects of a depraved fancy and imagination by meer natural causes. By which, strange things, I confess, may be presented and apprehended too, sometimes by the parties with all confidence, as we said before, though all be but fancy and imagination. But all circumstances well considered, make this Case here to be of another nature; and it may be it was the policy of these Spirits to joyn two of purpose in this business, to make the truth and reality of it the more unquestionable; hoping (if God had given way) they should have passed, in time for good Spirits abroad generally, and then we should have leen what they would have made of it. From lesse beginnings, I am sure, greatest confusions have proceeded and prevailed in the world, as we shall shew elsewhere. And since that in all this business, as we said but now, Dr. Dee did not deal alone, but had a constant Partner or Assistant, whom sometimes himself calleth his Seer, or Skryer, one by name Edward Kelly: it will be requisite before we proceed further, that we give some account of him also. According to Dr. Dee's own relation here, An.Dom. 1587. April 7. Trebonæ: in the particulars of his Son Arthur's Consecration (after his manner, which he calls, His offering and presenting of him to the service of God:) Uriel (one of his chiefest Spirits) was the author of their Conjunction: but when and how it hapned (being but abiter mentioned there) we do not find any where; and more then what I find here I have nothing to say: For certain it is by this whole story, from the beginning to the end of it, that Kelley was a great Conjurer, one that daily conversed by such art as is used by ordinary Magicians, with evil Spirits, and knew them to be so. Yet I would suppose that he was one of the best sort of Magicians, that dealt with Spirits by a kind of Command (as is well known some do) and not by any Compact or agreement: this may probably be gathered from sundry places. But that he was a Conjurer, appearereth first by that, where he proffered to raise some evil Spirit before the Polish Prince Palatine, Albert Lasky (of whom more by and by) for a proof of his Art. But Dr. Dee would not suffer him to do it in his house. Wicked spirits are cast out of him to the number of 15.p.32. But I make no great matter of that in point of proof, because all there upon his bare report only. But see p.63. and c. where it is laid to his charge, and he answereth for himself and his Spirits. See also where at last he yielded to bury not to burn his Magical books. But read his own confession (where you shall find him speak like one that knew very well what did belong to the Art) and the record made by Dr. Dee concerning a shrewd contest that hapned between Dr. Dee and him, (it was about some Magical things) wherein Edward Kelly carried himself so fiercely, that Dr. Dee being afraid of his life, was forced to call for help. Peruse well this place and I presume you will require no further light as to this particular concerning Kelly. As for the several Epistles (in Latin most) that will be found here, as also Narratives of several meetings and conferences, they carry so much light with them, being set out with so many remarkable circumstances of time, place, persons, and c. that no man of judgment that hath any knowledge of the world, will or can make any scruple of the sincerity and fidelity of either reports or Deeds and monuments (such I account the Letters to be) herein contained. A man might with little labour (that had all kind of books at command) have found somewhat concerning most (outlandish) persons in them mentioned. I could not intend it, and I think it would have been a needless labour. If any make any question let them make search, I dare warrant it unto them they shall find all things to agree punctually. But because Albert Lasky (next to Edward Kelley) is the man most interested in this story, I will give you some account of him out of Mr. Cambden his Annals. Anno Dom.1583. E Polonia, Russiæ vicinâ hac æstate venit in Angliam ut Reginam inviseret, Albertus Alasco, Palantinus Siradiensis vir eruditus, corporis lineamentis barbâ promisissimâ, vestitu decoro, and pervenusto; qui perbenigne ab ipsa nobilibusque magnoque honore and lautitiis, et ab Accademia Oxonuensi eruditis oblectationibus, atque variis spectaculis exceptus, post 4. menses æres alieno oppressus, olam recessit. But of all Letters here exhibited, I am most taken, I must confess, with the Bishops Letter that was Nuncius Apostolicus: he seemes to me to speak to the case very pertinently (take Puccius his account along in his long letter to Dr. Dee, of his conference with the said Bishop concerning the same business) and to have carryed himself towards Dr. Dee very moderately and friendly. II. Now to Objections: The first shall be this: Although 'tis very probable that Dr. Dee himself dealt simply and sincerely; yet since he himself saw nothing (for so himself acknowledgeth in some places) but by Kelley's eyes, and heard nothing but with his ears. Is it not possible that Kelley being a cunning man, and well practised in these things might impose upon the credulity of Dr. Dee (a good innocent man) and the rather, because by this office under the Doctor he got 50l. by the year, as appeareth. Truly this is plausible as it is proposed; and like enough that it might go a great way with them that are soon taken, and therefore seldom see any thing in the truth or true nature of it, but in the outward appearance of it only. But read and observe it diligently and you will find it far otherwise: It is true indeed, that ordinarily, Dr. Dee saw not himself; his business was to write what was seen (but in his presence though) and heard by Kelley. Yet that himself heard often immediately appeareth by many places; I shall not need any quotations for that himself feeleth as well as Kelley. In the relation of the Holy Stone, how taken away by one that came in at a window in the shape of a man, and how restored; both saw certainly. In the story of the Holy Books, how burned and how restored again (part of them at least) which Dr Dee made a great Miracle of, as appeareth by some of those places; there also both saw certainly. And Albert Lasky, the Polonian Palatine saw as well as Kelley. Besides, it doth clearly appear throughout all the book that Kelley (though sometimes with much adoe perswaded for a while to think better of them) had generally no other opinion of these Apparitions but that they were meer illusions of the Devil and evil Spirits, such as himself could command by his art when he listed, and was acquainted with, insomuch that we find him for this very cause forsaking, or desirous to forsake Dr. Dee, who was much troubled about it; and is forced in a place to Pawn his Soul unto him (to use his own words) that it was not so, and that they were good Spirits sent from God in great favour unto them. But for all this Kelley would not be satisfied, but would have his Declaration or Protestation of his suspition to the contrary entred into the book; which you shall find, and it will be worth your reading. I could further alledge, that if a man considers the things delivered here upon several occasions, being of a different nature, some Moral, some Physical, some Metaphysical, and Theological of highest points (though sometimes wild enough, and not warrantable; yet for the most part very remote from vulgar capacities) he will not easily believe that Kelley, who scarce understood Latine) not to speak of some things delivered in Greek in some places) and betook himself to the study of Logick long after he had entred himself into this course, could utter such things: no, nor any man living perchance, that had not made it his study all his lifetime. But that which must needs end this quarrel (if any man will be pertinacious) and put all things out of doubt, is, that not Kelley only served in this place of Seer or Skryer, but others also, as his son Arthur, and in his latter dayes, when Kelley was either gone or sick, one Bartholomew, as will be found in all the Actions and Apparitions of the year 1607. which (as I suspect) was the last year of the Doctors life, or beyond which I think he did not live long. Secondly, It may be objected, or stuck at least, How Dr. Dee, so good, so innocent, yea, so pious a man, and so sincere a Christian as by these papers (his delusion and the effects of it still excepted) he doth seem to have been, God would permit such a one to be so deluded and abused, so rack in his soul, so hurried in his body for so long a time, notwithstanding his frequent, earnest, zealous prayers and addresses unto God, by evil Spirits (even to his dying day, for ought we know) as he is here by his own relation set out unto us? Truly, if a man shall consider the whole carriage of this businesse, from the beginning to the end, according to this true and faithful (for I think I may so speak with confidence) account of it here presented unto us, this poor man, how from time to time shamefully, grosly delayed, deluded, quarrelled without cause, still toled on with some shews and appearances, and yet still frustrated and put off: his many pangs and agonies about it, his sad condition after so many years toil, travel, drudgery and earnest expectation, at the very last (as appeareth by the Actions and apparitions of the year 1607.) I cannot tell whether I should make him an object of more horror or compassion; but of both certainly in a great measure to any man that hath any sense of Humanity, and in the examples of others of humane frailty: and again, any regard of parts and worth, such as were in this man in a high degree. True it is, that he had joyes withal and comforts, imaginary, delusory, it is true; yet such as he enjoyed and kept up his heart, and made him outwardly chearful often times, I make no question; such as the Saints (as they call themselves) and Schismaticks of these and former times have ever been very prone to boast of, perswading themselves that they are the effects of Gods blessed Spirit. But even in these his joys and comforts, the fruits and fancies of his deluded soul (as in many others of a distempered brain) is not he an object of great compaspassion to any, both sober and charitable? If this then were his case indeed, what shall we say? if nothing else, I know not but it ought to satisfie a rational, sober, humble man: If we say, That it is not in man to give an account of all Gods judgments, neither is there any ground for us to murmure because we do not understand them, or that they often seem contrary to the judgment of humane reason, because it is against all Reason as well as Religion, to believe that a creature so much inferior to God, by nature as man is, should see every thing as he seeth, and think as he thinks; and consequently judge and determine in and of all things as God judgeth and determineth.

The Apostle therefore not without cause, would have all private judgments (for of publick for the maintenance of peace and order among men, it is another case) deferr'd to that time, when the hearts of all men shall be laid open, all hidden things and secret counsels revealed. But we have enough to say in this case without it. For if Pride and Curiosity were enough to undoe our first Parent, and in him all mankind, when otherwise innocent, and in possession of Paradise. Should we wonder if it had the same event in Dr. Dee, though otherwise, as he doth appear to us, innocent, and well qualified? That this was his case and error, I will appeal to his own confession (though he makes it his boast) in more then one of his Letters or addresses, where he professeth, That for divers years he had been an earnest suter unto God in prayer for Wisdom; that is, as he interprets himself, That he might understand the secrets of Nature that had not been revealed unto men hitherto; to the (end, as he professeth, and his own deceitful heart it may be suggested unto him, That he might glorifie God; but certainly, that himself might become a glorious man in the world, and be admired, yea, adored every where almost, as he might be sure it would be, had he compassed his desire. And what do we think should put him upon such a desire, with hopes to obtain it, but an opinion he had of himself as an extraordinary man, both for parts, and for favour with God? But however, had he been to the utmost of what he could think of himself, besides his Spiritual pride of thinking so of himself (as great a sin as any in the eyes of God) his praying for such a thing with so much importunity, was a great tempting of God, and deserving greatest judgments. Had he indeed been a suter unto God for such Wisdom as the Prophet Jeremie describeth (11.v.24,25.) Let not the Wise man glorie in his wisdom, and c. but let him that glorieth, and c. And for such knowledg as our Saviour commandeth, Joh.17.3. And this is life eternal, that they may know thee, and c. And his blessed Apostle (1 Cor.11.2.) For 1 determined not to know any thing, and c. he had had good warrant for his prayers, and it is very likely that God would have granted him his request, so far as might have concerned his own salvation and eternal happiness. Besides, it is lawful (nay fit) for a man to pray for Gods blessing upon his labours, for competency of wit and capacity that he may do well in his vocation and glorifie God. But for a man to aspire to such eminency above other men, and by means that are not ordinary (as that conceited Phylosophers Stone, and the like) and to interest God by earnest solicitations in his ambitions extravagant desires; that God, who hath said of himself, That he resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the humble, must needs be so great and so high a provocation (if well considered) as that I begin to doubt whether it be charity to pity him that suffered so justly and deservedly. I do not know but it is as lawfull for any man obscurely born to pray for a Kingdom, for a Common Souldier that he may have strength to encounter thousands, or for an ordinarie Maid, that she may become the fairest of women. In all these it is possible to glorifie God, we grant, were it fit for us to prescribe unto God, neglecting those that he hath appointed, by what means he should be glorified; and could we secure our selves that in pretending to Gods glory we do not seek our own. I wish that our great undertakers and reformers (such is their wisdom they think) of Arts and Sciences would seriously think of this; they especially who take upon themselves to make all men wise and of one mind, and to reconcile all doubts and difficulties in Religion, and otherwise; in a word, to make Truth to be imbraced by all men. Should these men tell us that if they had had the creating of the world, and the ordering of all things (and there be, I think, in the world that have said little less) from the beginning, they would have made an other guess of things then God had done: We would have considered of it perchance what might be the ground in any mortal man of such wonderful confidence. But such being the condition of the world, as it is, and such of men, naturally; or to speak as a Christian, since the fall of Adam, and the consequences of it, the curse of God, and c. to make all men wise, of one mind, good, religious, without an infinite omnipotent power, such as of nothing was able to create a world: can any man (sover and wise) hear it; hear it with patience, that thinks it impossible, yea strange, that Castles should be built in the air, or the heavens battered with great guns? And yet such books are read, yea and much set by, by some men. My judgment is That they are to be pittied (if distemper be the cause, as I believe it is in some) that boast of such things; but if wise and politick, to get credit and money (as some I believe) it is a great argument of their confidence, that there be many in the word that are not very wise. But to return to Dr. Dee: It might be further added and proved by examples, that some men of transcendent holiness and mortification (in the sight of men) so sequestred from the world (some of them) and the vanities of it, that for many years they had conversed with God alone in a manner; yet through pride and conceit of their own parts and favour with God, fell into delusions and temptations, it not altogether the same, yet not less strange and dreadful. Such examples Ecclesiastical Story will afford, and other books of that nature, but I have them not at this time, and I conceive I have said enough to this particular. But of his Praying too, somewhat would be observed. His Spirits tell him somewhere, that he had the Gist of Praying. Truly I believe he had, as it is ordinarily called: that is, that he could express himself very fluently and earnestly in Prayer, and that he did it often to his own great contentment. Let no man wonder at this; I have shewed elsewhere that some that have been very wicked, yea, some that dyed for blasphemy, and with blasphemy in their mouth to the last gasp, have had it in a great measure, and done much mischief by it. It is no disparagement to Prayer, no more then it is to the best things of the world (and what better and more heavenly then prayer well used?) if they be abused. And it is commonly observed, that the corruption of best things is most dangerous. What bred those pernicious hereticks that so long troubled the world, and could not be suppressed but by absolute destruction, but long affected prayers (therefore called Euchites or Messaliani, that is to say, the Prayers) and Enthusiasms? And as to that point of inward joy and complacency, which some Schismaticks and wicked men find in themselves at their prayers, which ignorant deluded people think to be an argument of the Spirit: It is certain, and is a mystery of nature that hath (may I speak it without bragging) been brought to light (of late years at least) by my self and fully discovered, "That not only the inward heat of mental conception (where there is any vigor) but also the musick of outward words, is able to occasion it." Indeed it is a point that doth deserve to be well considered of in these times especially. For when young boyes and illiterate men (and the number is likely to increase now that Catechizing is so much neglected) are turned loose to exercise themselves in this gift (as they call it) and when by long practice they have attained to some readiness and volubility, which doth occasion some inward lightsomeness and excitations, or perchance somewhat that may have some resemblance to spiritual sorrow and compunction, they presently think themselves inspired, and so they become Saints before they know what it is to be Christians. And if they can Pray by inspiration, why not Preach also? So comes in Anabaptism by degrees, which will be the ruine of all Religion and civil Government where ever it prevails. And I believe that this fond foolish conceit of Inspiration, as it hath been the occasion of much other mischief, so of that horrid sacrilege, shall I call it, or profanation (I hope I may do either without offence, for it is not done by any publick Authority that I know of) the casting and banishing of THE LORDS PRAYER out of many private houses and Churches; then which, I think, Christ never received a greater affront from any that called themselves Christians. I am not so uncharitable as to believe that it is done in direct opposition to Christ by any real Christians, but in a furious zeale by many, I believe, against set prayers. But this is not a place to dispute it: Certainly, as the Lords Prayer is a Prayer of most incredible comfort to them that use it devoutly and upon good grounds (a good foundation of Religion and sound Faith, I mean) so I believe that set Prayers in general are of more concernment to the setting of Peace in the Commonwealth then many men are aware of. But let this pass for my opinion; there be worse I am sure that pass currently. Again, A man may wonder (I cannot tell whether an objection may be made of it) that Dr. Dee, though he were at the first deluded (to which his own pride and presumption did expose him) as many have been; yet afterwards in process of time when he found himself so deluded and shuffled with; when Edward Kelley did use such pregnant arguments to him (as he did more then once) to perswade him that they were evil Spirits that appeared unto them; nay, when he had found by certain experience, that his Spirits had told him many lies, foretold many things concerning Princes and Kingdoms, very particularly limited with circumstances of time, which when the time was expired did not at all come to pass; yet for all this he durst pawn his Soul for them that they were good Spirits, and continued in his confidence (so farre as our Relation goes) to the last. I answer, Such is the power of this kind of Spiritual delusion, it doth so possess them whom it hath once taken hold of, that they seldom, any of them, recover themselves. In the dayes of Martin Luther (a great and zealous reformer of Religion, but one that would have detested them as the worst of Infidels that had used the Lords Prayer, as some have done in our dayes, as appears by what he saith of it in more then one place) there lived one Michael Stiselius, who applying to himself some place of the Apocalypse, took upon him to Prophecy. He had foretold that in the year of the Lord 1533. before the 29 of September the end of the world, and Christs coming to Judgment would be. He did shew so much confidence; that some write, Luther himself was somewhat startled at the first. But that day past, he came a second time to Luther with new Calculations, and had digested the whole business into 22. Articles, the effect of which was to demonstrate that the end of the world would be in October following. But now Luther thought he had had tryal enough, and gave so little credit to him, that he (though he loved the man) silenced him for a time; which our Apocalyptical Propher took very ill at his hands, and wondred much at his incredulity. Well, that moneth and some after that over, our Prophet (who had made no little stir in the Country by his Prophecyng) was cast into prison for his obstinacy. After a while Luther visited him, thinking by that time to find him of another mind. But so far was he from acknowledging his error, that he down right railed at Luther for giving him good counsel. And some write that to his dying day (having lived to the age of 80. years) he never recanted. And was not this the case of learned Postellus, who fallen into some grievous wild fancies in his latter dayes, though sound enough still in other things, could never be reclaimed though means were used from time to time the best and gentlest (in respect to his worth and person) that could be thought of? But what talk we of particular men? Consider the Anadaptists in general. Above an hundred years ago they troubled Germany very much: it cost many thousands their lives. They roved up and down. No sooner destroyed in one place but they sprung (whilst that season lasted) in another. Their pretences every where were the same; Revelations and the Spirit: the wickedness of Princes and Magistrates, and Christ Jesus to be set up in his Throne. Well, at last they were destroyed in most places. Stories of them have been written in all Languages, read every where, and their lamentable end. Can all this hinder but that upon every opportunity of a confused and confounded Government, they start up again in the same shape and form as before; the same pretences, the same Scriptures, for all the world, miserably detorted and abused, to raise tumults and seditions in all places. Such is the wretchedness of man that is once out of the right way of Reason and Sobriety. But withall we must say in this particular case of Dr. Dee's, though his obstinacy was great and marvellous, yet it must be acknowledged, that great was the diligence and subtilty of his Spirits to keep their hold: and some things sometimes happened (as his danger and preservation about Gravesend, when he first, here related, went out of the Realm) very strangely, and such was the unhappiness of his misapplied zeal, that he made a Providence of whatsoever hapned unto him as he desired. So much for Dr. Dee himself. But of his Spirits a greater question perchance may be moved: If evil, wicked, lying Spirits (as we have reason to believe, and no man I think will question) how came they to be such perswaders to Piety and godliness, yea, such preachers of Christ, his Incarnation, his Passion, and other Mysteries of the Christian Faith, not only by them here acknowledged, but in some places very Scholastically set out and declared? It seemeth somewhat contrary to reason and as contrary to the words of our Saviour, Every Kingdom divided against it self, and c. But first, to the matter of fact: The Devils we know even in the Gospel did acknowledg, nay, in some manner proclaim Christ to be the Son of God: which is the main Article he did contest with Christ by Scripture Authority; and by S. Pauls testimony, can transform himself, when he list into an Angel of light. And in some relations well attested, of Possessions and publick Exorcisms that have been used; we find the Devil often speaking by the mouth of women, rather like a Monk out of the Pulpit, perswading to temperance, rebuking vices, expounding of my stories, and the like, then as one that were an enemy to truth and godliness. Insomuch that some have been ready to make a great mystery and triumph of it, thereby to convict Hereticks and Atheists, in time, more effectually, then they have been by any other means that have been used hitherto: and ascribing the whole business not to the Devil himself, but the great power and Providence of God, as forcing him against his will to be an instrument of his Truth. For my part, I see cause enough to believe that such things, there contained at large, might come from the Devil; that is, might truly and really be spoken by persons possessed and inspired by the Devil. But that they are imployed by God to that end, I shall not easily grant. I rather suspect that whatsoever comes from them in that kind, though it be good in it self, yet they may have a mischievous end in it; and that I believe will soon appear if they can once gaine so much credit among men as to be believed to be sent by God to bear testimony to the truth. A man may see somewhat already by those very Relations, and that account that is given us there. And therefore I do not wonder if even among the more sober Papists this project (as the relater and publisher complaineth) hath found opposition. The Devil is very cunning; a notable Polititian. S. Paul knew him so, and therefore he uses many words to set out his frauds. He can lay the foundation of a plot, if need be, a hundred years before the effects shall appear. But then he hath his end. It is not good trusting of him, or dealing with him upon any pretence, Can any man speak better then he doth by the mouth of Anabaptists and Schismaticks? And this he will do for many years together if need be, that they that at first stood off may be won by time. But let them be once absolute masters, and then he will appear in his own shape. There is one thing which I wonder much more at in those Relations I have mentioned, and that is, that the Devil himself should turn such a fierce accuser of them that have served him so long, Witches and Magicians. I know he doth here so too in some kind, in more then one place. He doth much inveigh against Devils and all that have to do with them, Magicians, and c. But that is in general only, or in Kelley's particular case, upon whom he had another hold, which he made more reckoning of, to wit, as he appeared to them as an Angel of light. Any thing to maintain his interest there, and their good opinion of him; for he had great hopes from that plot. But that he should pursue so ridgedly particular men and women whom he had used so long, to death, and do the part of an informer against them, may seem more like unto a Kingdom divided against it self, but it is not our case here; neither am I very well satisfied, that whatsoever the Devil saith or layes to the charge of them by whose mouth he speaketh, ought to be received for good testimony. Here it may be Wierius had some reason; for I doubt some have been too credulous. But this by the way shall suffice. That the Devil should lie often, or be mistaken himself, in his Prophecies, as by many particulars of this Relation will appear, I will not look upon that, as if any objection could be made of it. But it may be wondred, perchance, Dr. Dee being often in so great want of monies, that he did not know which way to turn, what shirt to make; at which time he did alwayes with much humility address himself to his Spirits, making his wants known unto them; and the Devil on the other side, both by his own boasting, and by the testimonies of those who could not lie, having the goods of this world (though still under God) much at his disposing, and alwayes, as he seemed, very desirous to give Dr. Dee all possible satisfaction: that in this case, once or twice perchance excepted, when the Dr. was well furnished (for which the Spirits had his thanks) at all other times he was still, to his very great grief and perplexity, left to himself to shift as he could, and some pretence, why not otherwise supplied, cunningly devised by them that were so able, and to whom he was so dear. But I must remember my self: I said so able; but in some places his Spirits tell him plainly, It was not in their power, because no part of their Commission, or because it did not belong unto them (such as dealt with him) to meddle with the Treasures of the earth: and sometimes that they were things beneath their cognizance or intermedling. Of the different nature of Spirits, we shall say somewhat by and by, that may have some relation to this also, perchance. But granting that the Devil generally hath power enough both to find mony and to gratifie with it where he seeth cause. Yet in this case of Witches and Magicians, direct or indirect, it is certain and observed by many as an argument of Gods great Providence over men, that generally he hath not: It is in very deed a great Argument of a superiour over-ruling power and Providence. For it men of all professions will hazard (their Souls) so far as we see daily to get money and estates by indirect unconscionable wayes, though they are not alwayes sure, and that it be long oftentimes before it comes, and oftentimes prove their ruine, even in this world, through many casualties; as alterations of times, and the like: what would it be if it were in the power of the D. to help every one that came unto him, yielding but to such and such conditions, according as they could agree? Hitherto I have considered what I thought might be objected by others. I have one objection more, which to me was more considerable (as an objection, I mean, not so readily answered) then all the rest: Devils, we think

generally, both by their nature as Spirits, and by the advantage of long experience (a very great advantage indeed in point of knowledg) cannot but have perfect knowledg of all natural things, and all secrets of Nature, which do not require an infinite understanding; which by that measure of knowledge that even men have attained unto in a little time, is not likely to be so necessary in most things. But lest any man should quarrel at the word Persect, because all perfection belongs unto God properly, it shall suffice to say, That the knowledge Devils have of things Natural and Humane is incomparably greater then man is capable of. If so, how comes it to pass that in many places of this Relation we find him acting his part rather as a Sophister (that I say not a Juggler) then a perfect Philosopher; as a Quack, or an Empirick sometimes, then a True, genuine Naturalist. And for language (not to speak of his Divinity, which he might disguise of purpose to his own ends) rather as one that had learned Latin by reading of barbarous books, of the middle age, for the most part, then of one that had been of Augustus his time, and long before that. But that which is strangest of all is, that as in one place the Spirits were discovered by Ed Kelley to steal out of Agrippa or Trithemius (so he thought at least) so in divers other places, by the phrase, and by the doctrine and opinions a man may trace noted Chymical and Cabalistical Authors of later times; yea, (if I be not much mistaken) and Paracelsus himself, that prodigious creature, for whom and against whom so much hath been written since he lived; these things may seem strange, but I think they may be answered. For first, we say, The Devil is not ambitious to shew himself and his abilities before men, but his way is (so observed by many) to fit himself (for matter and words) to the genius and capacity of those that he dealeth with. Dr. Dee, of himself, long before any Apparition, was a Cabalistical man, up to the ears, as I may say; as may appear to any man by his Monas Hieroglyphica, a book much valued by himself, and by him Dedicated at the first to Maximilian the Emperor, and since presented (as here related by himself) to Rodolphe as a choice piece. It may be thought so by those who esteem such books as Dr. Floid, Dr. Alabaster, and of late Gafarell, and the like. For my part I have read him; it is soon don, it is but a little book: but I must profess that I can extract no sense nor reason (sound and solid) out of it: neither yet doth it seem to me very dark or mystical. Sure we are that those Spirits did act their parts so well with Dr. Dee, that for the most part (in most Actions) they came off with good credit; and we find the Dr. every where almost extolling his Spiritual teachers and instructors, and praying God for them. Little reason therefore have we to except against any thing (in this kind) that gave him content, which was their aim and business. Secondly, I say, If any thing relish here of Trithemius or Paracelsus, or any such, well may we conclude from thence, that the Devil is like himself. This is the truest inference. It is he that inspired Trithemius and Paracelsus, and c. that speaketh here; and wonder ye if he speaks like them? I do not expect that all men will be of my opinion; yet I speak no Paradoxes: I have both reason and authority good and plausible, I think, for what I say; but to argue the case at large would be tedious. Of Trithemius somewhat more afterwards will be said. But we must go far beyond that time. A thousand years and above, before either of them was born, was the BOOK OF ENOCH well known in the world; and then also was Lingua Adami (upon which two most of the Cabala stands) much talked of, as appear; by Greg-Nissen his learned books against Eunomius the Heretick. To speak more particularly (because so much of it in this Relation) the BOOK OF ENOCH was written before Christ; and it is thought by some very learned (though denied by others) that it is the very book that S. Jude intended. A great fragment of it in Greek (it was written in Hebrew first) is to be seen in Scaliger (that incomparable man, the wonder of his Age, if not rather of all Ages) his learned Notes upon Eusebius. It was so famous a book antiently that even Heathens took notice of it, and grounded upon it objections against Christians. It may appear by Origen against Celsus, in his book 5.p.275. [Greek omitted] (saith he) [Greek omitted] But S. Jerome and S. Augustin speak of it more peremptorily as a fabulous book, and not allowed by the Church. How much of it is extant, besides what we have in Scaliger, I know not; nor what part it is so often mentioned in this Relation. By what I have seen it doth appear to me a very superstitious, foolish, fabulous writing; or to conclude all in one word, Cabalistical, such as the Devil might own very well, and in all probability was the author of. As for that conceit of the tongue which was spoken by Adam in Paradise, we have already said that it is no late invention; and I make no question but it proceeded from the same Author. Yea, those very Characters commended unto Dr. Dee by his Spirits for holy and mystical, and the original Characters (as I take it) of the holy tongue, they are no other, for the most part but such as were set out and published long agoe by one Theseus Ambrosus out of Magical books, as himself professeth: you shall have a view of them in some of the Tables at the end of the Preface. Some letters are the same, others have much resemblance in the substance; and in transcribing it is likely they might suffer some alteration. But it may be too the Spirits did not intend they should be taken for the same, because exploded by learned men, and therefore altered the forms and figures of most of them of purpose that they might seem new, and take the better. So that in all this the Devil is but still constant unto himself, and this constancy stands him in good stead, to add the more weight and to gain credit to his Impostures. Not to be wondred therefore if the same things be found elsewhere, where the D. hath an hand. With Cabalistical writings we may joyn Chymical, here also mentioned in many places. I have nothing to say to Chymistrie as it is meerly natural, and keeps it self within the compass of sobriety. It may well go for a part of Physick, for ought I know, though many great Physicians, because of the abuse and danger of it, as I conceive, have done their best (formerly) to cry it down. I my self have seen strange things done by it: and it cannot be denied but the wonders of God and Nature are as eminently visible in the experiments of that Art as any other natural thing. However, it is not improbable that divers secrets of it came to the knowledge of man by the Revelation of Spirits. And the practice and profession of it in most (them especially that profess nothing else) is accompanied with so much Superstition and Imposture, as in would make a sober man, that tendreth the preservation of himself in his right wits, to be afraid of it. Of the Transmutation of Metals, what may be done by Art I will not take upon me to determine: I am apt enough to believe that some strange things (in that kind) may be done, if a man will go to the cost of it, and undergoe the trouble upon so much uncertainty of the event. But that which we call ordinarily, and most understand by it, The Phylosophers Stone, is certainly a meer cheat, the first author and inventor whereof was no other then the Divil. Legi etiam Spirituum supernorum revelatione traditam antiquit and #249;s astem faciendi Auri, and me ætate idem usu evenisse, and c. saith one (Jo.Franc.Picus Mirandula) of the learnedst Authors that I have seen of that subject, in defence of it, I meant. If he mean Supernos Spiritus, such as appear in form of Angels of Light, such as deluded Dr. Dee, and daily doth those that hunt after Revelations, and Prophecies, and unlawful Curiosities, I grant it. But that any good Angels did ever meddle in a practice commonly attended with so much imposture, impiety, cousenage as this commonly is, I shall not easily grant. Though I must add, I make great difference (if we will speak properly) between Ars faciendi auri (a thing I do not deny to be feasible by natural means) and that we call the Phylosophers Stone, as before already intimated. And for that objection of his, why evil Spirits should not be the Authors or revealers of it unto any (though otherwise for some other reasons he thinks it probable) because it is not likely that God would suffer them to give such power unto men like themselves, whom only among men they favour and respect, that is, wicked ungodly men. First, I answer, That is a very weak objection, since we know by constant experience of present and future Ages, that they are not of the best of men commonly that are the greatest and richest. But Secondly, There is no great cause to fear that any thing hitherto revealed (or hereafter to be revealed, I believe) of this secret, should enable men (good or bad) to do much hurt in the world. The greatest hurt is to themselves who are deluded (yea and beggerd many first or last) and to some few not very wise whom they cousen as themselves have been cousened. And for this that they can do no more, we are beholding not to the Devil who certainly would not be wanting to himself or to any opportunity to do mischief by himself or his Agents, but to God who doth not give him the power: So much to Mirandula, out of my respect to his name, and for the better satisfaction to the Reader. I owe the sight and use of the book to my Learned friend Dr. Windett before mentioned--. I am much confirmed in that opinion (of the Devil being the Author) by what I find of it in the book which hath given me this occasion to speak of it. Were there nothing else but the gross and impudent forgeries that have been used to commend it unto men, some entituling the Invention to Adam himself, others to Solomon, and the like; and the many books that have been counterfeited to the same end; and again the most ridiculous and profane applying and expounding of Scriptures, a thing usually done by most that are abettors of it, those things were enough to make a man to abhor it. Sure enough it is, that not only Dr. Dee, but others also who had part of that precious Powder brought unto them by Spirits, and expected great matters of it, were all cheated and gull'd (and I believe it cost some of them a good deal of money; Prince Rosemberg particularly) by those Spiritual Chymists. Let them consider of it that have been dealing in such things as they shall see cause.

So still we see, that in all these things, as we said before, the Devil is not beholding to others, (as might be suspected) but others have been beholding to him: As for his Divinity, in highest points, if he spake the truth, it was for his own ends, as we said before: He can do it, who makes any question? In controverted points, we may observe, that he doth serve the scene and present occasion; and I make no question, but had Dr. Dee gone to Constantinople, and been entertained there with respect, his Spirits there would have shewed themselves as good Mahometans, as elsewhere good Roman Catholicks, or Protestants. We have somewhere a very pretty Tale, (I would say a curious Observation, if I thought it true) concerning the nature of the Serpent or Addar, handsomly expressed, how she traineth her yong ones to set them out abroad into the world, that they may shift for themselves. Twenty days, as I remember, are spent in that work: Now whether it be so really, I cannot say certainly, but I suspect it. It is not in Aristotle, and I looked in Aldrovandus, and I could not finde it: But whether it be so or no, let no body wonder; for this was the maner of Preaching formerly (and may be yet perchance in some places) among Monks and Fryars in great request. They would make a story of Man, or Beasts, as they thought fit themselves, and their Fancies best served; pretty and witty, as much as they could; whether it had any ground of truth, or no, no man required: The moralization was good. If the Devil have done so here, it was not through ignorance (for he is too good a Naturalist; and I believe there is somewhat even in Nature, though we know it not, why both in sacred and prophane History, Spirits and Serpents are so often joyned) of which is true and real; but as hath been said, it served his turn, and that is enough. And although, having considered it as an Objection, how the Devil cometh to speak so much truth, as will be found in this Book; no man, I think, will expect I should give an account of any false Doctrine or Divinity, that it may contain: Yet one point I think fit to take notice of, and protest against it; as false, erronious, and of dangerous consequence, and that is, where it is said, That a man (in some cases) may kill another man (Prince or other) without apparent cause, or lawful Authority, and therefore punishable by the Laws of Man; who nevertheless, may expect a great reward at the bands of God for his act: How this may agree with the Principles of New Lights, and Anabaptistical Divinity, I know not; it is very contrary to the Principles of that Orthodox Divinity, lately professed and established by Law in England. I have now said in this main Objection, (as I apprehended it) what I think was most proper and pertinent, and I hope may satisfie. But I have somewhat else to say, which in this case of Devils and Spirits in general, I think it very considerable, and may satisfie perchance, in some cases, where nothing else can. We talk of Spirits, and read of Spirits often, but I think it is very little that we know (the best of us all) of them, of their nature or differences: And how then can it be expected that we should resolve all doubts? And though I think it is not much that any man ever knew and rightly apprehended, or can, as he is a man, in this business; yet my opinion is, (though I know it is much gainsaid and opposed) that ancient Platonick Phylosophers of the latter times, understood much more then most Christians; I do not write this, as though I thought, or would have any thought by others to be the worse Christians for being ignorant in these things; but rather, in my opinion, any man the better Christian, by much, who doth not regard it or desire it: For my part, although I must acknowledge that some scruples of my minde, did induce me to lock into many Books, until I was satisfied, which otherwise I had never done; yet I profess to believe, that it is so little that can be known by man in this subject, and subject to so much illusion, as that I think no study is more vain and foolish; and that I would not go three steps out of my doors (more then what I did to satisfie my minde in some matters of Faith, if any such scruple did arise) to know as much as the profoundest Platonick, or Phylosopher, yea, or Magician of them all ever knew. Certainly he is but a weak Christian, when so many high Mysteries are proposed unto us in Christ by his Gospel, and of so much consequence, that cannot bestow his time better: They that have any hopes, through Faith in Christ, and a godly life, to be admitted one day into the presence of God, and to see face to face, as God hath promised; will they hazard so glorious a hope, by prying through unseasonable, unprofitable curiosity, into the nature of these vassal Spirits, which God hath forbidden: But because it doth concern Religion in general, that we believe Spirits; and when Objections are made that cannot be answered, many are scandalized, and Atheists ready to take the advantage of it; I say, that it should be no wonder to any, sober and rational, if we cannot resolve all doubts, since it is so little that we know, or can know, beyond the bare [Greek omitted] in this matter: Most Christians are bred in and to this opinion, that all Spirits, (so commonly called) are either Angels of Heaven, or Devils of Hell: I know no Scripture for it, or determination of any general Council, that I remember, at this time at least, and so long I do not think my self bound against apparent reason. For the conceit of all evil Spirits or Devils being in Hell, I think learned Mr. Meade hath taken that to task in some of his Works, and sufficiently confuted it: The very word Spirit, is a term of great Ambiguity; We understand by it, commonly, substances, that are altogether immaterial. Many of the ancient Fathers, it is well known, did not allow of any such at all, besides God: But we think that to have no visible Body, and to be purely immaterial, is all one: God knows how many degrees there may be between these, but we cannot know it, neither doth it concern our salvation, for which we have reason to praise God: But if it were so, that all Spirits are either Devils or Angels, what shall we make of these that are found in mines, of which learned Agricola hath written; of those that have been time out of minde called [Greek omitted] (from whence probably, as we have said elsewhere, Gobelin in English is derived) who live in private Houses, about old Walls, and stalks of Wood, harmless otherwise, but very thievish, so frequent and so known in some Countreys, that a man may as well doubt whether there be any Horses in England, because there are none in some parts of the World; not found in all America, I think, till some were carried thither: Neither can I believe, that those Spirits that please themselves in nothing else but harmless sports and wantonnesse, such as have been known in all Ages; such as did use to shave the hairs of Plinius Secundus his Servants in the Night, as himself relates (a very creditable man, I am sure) in his Epistles, and the like; that such Spirits, I say, have any relation either to Heaven or to Hell: We might insist in more particulars, but we do not desire to dwell upon it at this time; and there is yet somewhat else to be said: And what I have said of some Platonicks, I did not intend thereby to justifie all their absurd or superstitious Opinions in this Argument of Spirits: As they have searched further into it then others (besides damnable experience, having confounded Magick with Phylosophy, yea almost turned all Phylosophy into Magick) so it was consequent, they would fall into more Errors and Absurdities; yet withal, they have found somewhat that doth better agree with daily experience, then what is commonly known or believed. Sinesius was a Bishop, but as he doth appear to us in his Writings, a better Platonick then a Christian: In a place (in his Treatise De insomniis) he sheweth how evil Spirits come to inhabit men, and to possess their Brains: His terms are very coarse, and apparently ridiculous; but there may be some truth in the Opinion: For if there were not a very near and intimate conjunction, it were to be wondered how the Devil comes to know the very thoughts of Witches and Magicians, as is found by experience, avowed by more than one: And in this very Book, if I be not mistaken, somewhat may be observed to that purpose: It is possible there may be more kinds of possession than one, and that some men, that never were suspected, have had a spirit (besides their own) resident in them, all, or most part of their lives. I have done, with what I could think of, upon which objection can be made: The next thing is to make the way clearer to the Reader, by some consideration of the method of the Books, and explanation of some terms and phrases there used, at which perchance some may stick at the first: At the very beginning a man may be to seek, in the Title of it, Liber sexti mysteriorum, and sancti parallelus, novalisque. 1583. both as it relates to that which follows, and as it reflects upon somewhat before, by which it may be inferred that the book begins here abruptly and imperfectly: of this I am now ready to give an account to the Reader, and it is very fit it should be done. First concerning Titles, such as will be found here many more besides this, the whole book, or relation being subdivided into many parts; in general I say, that according to the Doctors genius (we have said before he was very Cabalistical, that is, full of whimsies and crotchets, under the notion of Mysteries, a thing that some very able, otherwise, have been subject unto) and the high opinion he had of these actions and apparitions; they are mostly very concealed, and (to speak the truth) phantastick, which must make them the Obscure: I could give the Reader a view of them all here put together, but it would be superfluous: There be some fourteen or fifteen Divisions in all now remaining, and so many Titles: There is a Table at the beginning, that doth refer to the beginning of every division, where the Title also will be found: But at the end of the viii. Division, I finde these words, Sequitur liber 24. qui hac die etiam inceptus est, and #224; meridie: horam circiter tertiam, per ipsum Lavanael: But I finde nothing following, (but some vacant sheets, till we come to the ix. Division, Mysteriorum pragensium, and c. And the last Division hath onely some Fables, and before them, some five or six pages of unknown mystical words, which we know not what to make of; but of that more afterwards: The main business to be resolved here (as I take it) is what it is that we have, and what we have not, so far as can be gathered by what remaineth; we shall see what we can say to it. In the car of the Lord, One thousand five hundred eighty four, September the third, (being a Monday) Dr. Dee first appeared (being presented by Honorable persons, and expected) before the Emperor Rodolph. Among other things he then told him, That for these two years and a half Gods holy Angels had used to inform him: Our Book, or first Action here, beginneth 28 May, 1583. According to this reckoning, it must be, that above a year and three Moneths before, began the first Apparition: The account then of fifteen Moneths from the first Apparition, we want: How much (in bulk) that might come to, I cannot tell; neither will I warrant all perfect from this 28 of May, 1583 to the fourth of April 1587. though for the most part the coherence is right enough to that time: But from thence to the twentieth of March, 1607. is a vast chasma or hiatus, of no less then twenty years: How this hath happened, I cannot tell certainly; what I guess, is this, some years after Dr. Dees death ( ) Sir Robert Cotton bought his Library (what then remained of it) with his Magical Table, (of which afterwards) and the Original Manuscript, written With his own hand, whereof this is a Copy: The Book had been buried in the Earth, how long, years or moneths, I know not; but so long, though it was carefully kept since, yet it retained so much of the Earth, that it began to moulder and perish some years ago, which when Sir Thomas C. (before mentioned) observed, he was at the charges to have it written out, before it should be too late: Now full fifty years, or not many wanting, being passed since this Original came to Sir Robert, it is very likely, that had any more in all that time been heard of, Sir Robert, or Sir Thomas, his Son and Heir, would have heard of it, and got it as soon as any body else: And because no more hath been heard of all this while, it is more then probable that no more is extant, not in England, nor I think any where else: Happily the rest might perish, some part, (if not all) even whilst the Doctor lived; and we shall finde in this Relation, That a good part of his holy Books were burned, but (which is more strange) a great part of them, by the help of Spirits, recovered and restored: Or it may be, that since his death, the rest (the place where they lay being unknown) might rot in the earth; now if, as probably no more be extant, we may account this that we have here, in that respect perfect, because here is all that can be had. But if any, (as it is the nature of many, if not most, rather to desire that which cannot be had, then to content themselves with that which may) shall much lament the loss of the rest, and be less pleased with this, because so much (though indeed we know not certainly whether much or little) is wanting; I would desire them to consider with themselves, in case there had been twice or thrice as much more as all this comes too, what should have been done with it? For my part, for so much as is here set out (all we had) I thought it would do best, though somewhat long, yet as a thing very extraordinary, and of great consequence to many good purposes and uses; I thought, I say, it would do best to have it all Printed; Yet we had some consideration about it, and it may be some others would have thought that less might have served the turn: But I hope more will be of my minde, and there be but few actions but afford somewhat that is extraordinary, and for some respect or other observable and useful; Howsoever, I am confident, if all had been extant, (supposing that the rest would have made much more) that none or very few would have thought sit to have Printed all; and if it had once come to a contraction or abridgement, it may be much less then this must have served: It is free for all men to think as they please; for my part all things considered, I finde no great want of the rest; and if I were put to it, I cannot tell whether I can say, that I wish more were extant: Yet it gives me great content, (and I hope there is no Blasphemy or Superstition in it, if I adscribe it to providence) that after that long intermission, or biatus, we have yet the last Actions of all, whereby it might appear, after many goodly shews and promises, so much hope and expectation; so many Prayers, so many Thank givings and Humiliations, what the end is of dealing with Devils, and using means that are not lawful, to compass ambitious unwarrantable desires. Besides, be it more or less that is wanting, yet I am confident we have the chiefest parts here preserved; as particularly, an exact account of his addresses and dealings with the Emperor, and other great men and Princes, in the vii. and some following Divisions; and that sad story of their promiseous Copulation, under the perswasion of obedience to God, very particularly related in the twelfth Division; wherein as the cunning and malice of evil Spirits, to lead away from God, when they most pretend to God and godliness; so the danger of affected singularity and eminency, (the first ground of all this mischief) of Spiritual pride and self-conceir, is eminently let out to every mans observation, that is not already far engaged (as in these times too to many) in such Principles. But yet nevertheless I must acknowledge, that there is one part of the story wanting, which I believe by most will be much desired: For whereas at the very beginning, mention is made of a Stone, and that Stone not onely here mentioned, but afterwards in every action almost, and apparition, throughout the whole Book to the very end; still occurring and commemorated as a principal thing; what it was,

and how he came by it, yea and what became of it, would be known, if by any means it might: All that we are able to say of it, is this, It was a stone in which, and out of which, by persons that were qualified for it, and admitted to the sight of it; all Shapes and Figures mentioned in every Action were seen, and voices heard: The form of it was round, as appeareth by some course representations of it in the Margins, as pag. 395 399. b 413 b. and it seems to have been of a pretty bigness: It seems it was most like unto Crystal, as it is called sometimes, as pag. 80 Inspecto Chrystallo, and page 177. b. nihilvisibile apparuit in Chrystallo Sacrato, præter ipsius crystalli visibili formam. Every body knows by common experience, that smooth things are fittest for representations, as Glasses and the like; but ordinarily such things onely are represented, as stand opposites and are visible in their substance. But it is a secret of Magick (which happily may be grounded, in part at least, upon some natural reason, not known unto us) to represent Objects (externally not visible) in smooth things: And Roger Bacon (alias Bacun) in a Manuscript inscribed, De dictis and factis falsorum Mathematicorum and Dæmonum, communicated unto me by my Learned and much esteemed Friend, Dr. Windett Professor of Physick in London hath an Observation to that purpose, in these words, Hiis Mathematicis in malitia suâ completis apparent Dæmones sencibilitur in forma humanâ and aliis formis variis, and dicunt and faciunt multa eis mirabilia secundum

*quod Deus permittit. Aliquando apprent imaginarie ut in unguis pueri virginis carminati; and in pelvibus and ensibus, and in spatbulâ arietis secundum modum eorum consecratis, and in cæteris rebus politii : and Dæmones ostendunt eis omnia quæ petunt, secundum quod Deua permittit. Unde pueri sic inspicientes respolitas vident imaginarie res furtive acceptas and ad quem locum deportatæ sunt, and quæpersonæ asportaverunt ; and sic de aliis, multis, dæmones apparentes omnia hæc illis pejus ostendunt. Joach. Camerarius (that worthy man before spoken of) in his Proemium to Plutarch, De Oraeulis, and c. hath a strange Story upon the credit of a friend of his, whom he much respected (as himself professeth) for his Piety and Wisdom. A Gentleman of Norimberg had a Crystal (how he came by it, is there to be read) which had this vertue: *Si qua de re certior fieri vellet, and c. if he desired to know any thing past or future, that concerned him, yea, or any other (in most things) let a young Boy (Castum, one that was not yet of Age, and c.) look into it, he should first see a man in it, so and so apparelled, and afterwards what he desired: No other but a Boy, so qualified, could see any thing in it. This Crystal became very famous in those parts; yea some learned men came to it to be satisfied in doubtful points, and had their questions resolved: Yet at last, (as well it deserved) it was broken in pieces by Camerarius his Friend. Many such stories are to be found of Magical Stones and Crystals: And though Fernelius, De abditis rerum causis; and after him (as I remember) one, in worth and esteem of all men, not inferior to Fernelius, Dr. Harvey, lately deceased, turns the relation of a strange stone brought to one of the late Kings of France, into an Allegory, or Physical explication of the power and proprieties of the Element of Fire; yet I am not satisfied, but that the relation might be literally true: For so it is, (as I remember here also, for I have none of those Books by me at this time) related by Thuanus, and so by some others, very learned, understood. Now for the maner how he came by it, the particulars of the story cannot be had by this here preserved, but onely this in general, That it was brought unto him by some, whom he thought to be Angels: So we finde him telling the Emperor, That the Angels of God had brought to him a Stone of that value, that no earthly Kingdom is of that worthiness, as to be compared to the vertue or dignity thereof. Page 272. in his conference with Dr. Curts, appointed by the Emperor to treat with him; and also let him see the stone brought me by Angelical Ministry: And we finde this Note recorded, [Prague, Tuesday 25 Septembris, I went to Dinner to the Spanish Ambassador, and carried with me the Stone brought me by an Angel, and the fourth Book, wherein the maner of the bringing of it is expressed.] And for the use of the Stone, besides what hath been said, this is observable: Some Spirits being in sight of E. K. out of the Stone, Dr. Dee would have the Stone brought forth, but E. K. said, He had rather see them thus, out of the Stone; to which the Doctor replies, That in the Stone they had warrant that no wicked Spirits should enter; but without the Stone illuders might deal with them, unless God prevented it, and c. From which passage also we may learn, as from divers others in the Book that although the stone (as we said before) was the place, in which, and out of which, ordinarily, most Apparitions were framed, yet it was not so always: For we shall meet with divers things in that kinde that were seen and heard, without any reference to the Stone: From the same place also we may learn, that the said Stone was the same he also called the Shew-stone; as in many places besides. However, it is certain enough that he had more Stones then one, which he accounted sacred; observe Principal Stone, and this other Stone; and first

Sanctified Stone, usual Shew-stone, and Holy-stone, may be thought opposed and different; but I understand it otherwise: This is the account we can give of this principal Holy-Stone. And to supply the defect of the manner how it was brought to him, the Reader, if he please, may find some satisfaction, if he read the manner how it was taken away, and restored, very particularly set down, as before (upon another occasion) was observed. Besides this Stone or Stones, there are divers other sacred things mentioned, that belonged to this personated Sanctuary, but nothing more frequently mentioned than Curtains; a Curtain or vail, as it is sometimes called. A man would think at first, perchance, that it was somewhat outward, but it will be found otherwise; it was seen in the Stone, and appeared of different forms and colours, as they that read will quickly find. Next unto these the Holy Table is chiefly considerable, ordering of it is referred to Dr. Dee, which he durst not take upon himself, until he had warrant from his Spiritual Teachers: This Table, which may well be called Magical, is preserved and to be seen in Sir Thomas Cottons Library (from whence we had the rest) and by his leave is here represented in a brass Cut; mention is made of it, as I take it, where Dr. Dee proposeth to his Teachers, Whether the Table (for the middle cross of uniting the 4 principal parts) be made perfect or no: You may see more of it, it is also called League Table, Table of Covenant, mens a f deris in some places: The Pedestal of it is mentioned in two or three places, and indeed a very curious Frame belonging unto it, yet to be seen in the said Library. But I know not what to make of that, neither Nalu: nor the Table appeareth; and the round Table or Globe appeared not. I believe it must be understood of somewhat that had appeared before in the stone. The Reader that will be so curious, by careful reading may soon find it out; I was not willing to bestow too much time upon it. But here remaineth a main business whereof we are to give an account to the Reader: There were many Tables or Schemes at the end of the Book, containing Letters, a.b.c. and c. disposed into little squares, with an Inscription over each Table in that unknown Character (before spoken of) expressed in usual Letters how it should be read. There is one for a Specimen here at the end of the Preface; the rest were omitted, because it was judged needless, except it were to increase the price of the Printed book. For first, Dr. Dee himself, though he took a great deal of pains to understand the Mystery of them, and had great hopes given him from time to time to reap the benefit (himself complains of it in more than one place) of his toilsome work and long patience, yet it never came to any thing: and if he made nothing of them (to benefit himself thereby) what hopes had we? Besides, we may judge of these Tables, and all this mystery of Letters, by what we have seen in others of the same kinde. Johannes Tritbemius was a man that was supposed by most to have dealt with Spirits a long time, and to have been instructed by them in some of those secrets that he pretends unto by his Books. I know some have thought him innocent, or at least, have attempted to justifie him: Some affect such things to shew their wit, and think they shall be thought much wiser then other men, if they contradict received Opinions, though their vanity and strong conceit of their own parts, be their chief, if not onely ground. Learned and Judicious Master Vossius, hath shewed himself very willing to think the best of him and his Books; yet he gives it over at last, and rather concludes on the contrary. They that dare defend Apollonius, the greatest upholder of Ethnicism that ever was, and by most Heathens accounted either a God, or a Magician, need not stick at any thing in this kinde: But say he was, what any man will have of him, (Frithemius we speak of, his Polygraphy, he set out in his life time, dedicated to the then Emperor: He tells the World of the greatest wonders to be done by it, that ever were heard of: All Wisdom and Arts, all Languages, Eloquence, and what not, included in it. But I never heard of any man that could make any thing of it, or reaped any benefit in any kinde; which I think is the reason that his Steganography. ment oned and promised in this first work was so long after his death before it was Printed: It was expected it would have given some light to the first; but neither of that, nor of this latter, could ever any thing, that ever I could hear, be made by any man. I have good ground for what I say: For besides what others have acknowledged, I finde learned Vignaire, (who in his old age was grown himself very Cabalistical, or it may be had some disposition that way, though very learned otherwise, from his natural temper) as much grounded in that book, as any man before him: He doth plainly profess he could make nothing of it: And truly if he could not, that had bestowed so much time and pains in those unprofitable studies, I see little hopes that any man else should. It would make a man almost hate Learning, to see what dotage, even the most learned, are subject unto: I could bless them that know but little, so themselves knew it is but little that they know, and were humble: But it commonly falls out otherwise, that they that know but little, think that little to be much, and are very proud of it; whereas much knowledge (or to speak properly, more knowledge) if well used, hath this advantage, that it makes men most sensible of their ignorance. The reading of Vigenaires book of Cyphers (which I once thought a rare piece, as many other things of the same Author, which I had read) hath expressed these words from me in this place; and because it hath so much affinity with our present Theme, I was the bolder; But to return. Upon this consideration, the Reader I hope, will not be sorry the rest of the Tables (being many in number) were omitted. Though I must adde withal, had I known or thought any use could be made of them, having no better opinion of the Author (him or them) I mean, from whom Dr. Dee had them) I should not have been very forward to have had a hand in their coming abroad. I should have told the Reader before, but it may do well enough here, that besides the particulars before specified, there were other things that belonged to this holy Furniture (as Dr. Dee somewhere doth speak) whereof mention is made in some places: as Carpet, Candlestick, Taper, Table Cloth, Cushion, and some others perchance. But I know nothing needs be observed upon any of these. I make no question but the Devil in all these things had a respect to the Ceremonial Law especially; as also in those words, Move not, for the place is holy, often repeated, which are also elsewhere expounded: The Interlocutors in all this relation, are, [delta]. (that is, Dr. Dee) and E. K. that is Edw. Kelley; and the Spirits, to the number of some twenty, or thereabouts, so many named: (Madini, Esemeli, Merifri, Ath, Galuah, Il, Jubenladece, Gabriel, Jam, Moreorgran, Aph, Lasben, Vriel, Naluage, Mapsama, Aue, Ilemese, Gaza, Vaa, Leveanael, Ben;) at least, but whether all Interlocutors, I know not, because I do not remember, neither doth it much concern. There be divers marginal Notes and Observations, which being of Dr. Dee his own, are for the most part not inconsiderable, and some very remarkable, all therefore here exhibited; but whereas in some places he had attempted to represent the apparition, or some part of it, in Figures also; this being done but sometimes, and in case it had been done oftner (except it were to satisfie the childish humor of many Buyers of Books in this Age, when because they buy not to read, must have somewhat to look upon; whence it comes to pass, that much trash doth pass for good ware, for the trimming sake, and on the contrary) of little use, no notice is taken of it; except some Figure be in the Text it self, and of some consequence, for the better understanding of the rest. The Greek, p. 25. b. is exactly set out, as it was found, and yet to be seen in the original, written by Dr. Dee himself: But little or nothing can be made of it, as it is written; and it is a sign that Dr. Dee who writ it, as Edw. Kelley reported it unto him, and afterwards plodded upon it (as doth appear by some Conjectures and Interpretations found in the original, and here also exhibited) as well as he could. was no very perfect Grecian; much less Edw. Kelley, who could not so much as read it, which made Dr. Dee to write some things that he would not have Kelley to read, in Greek Characters, though the words were English: I would not alter any thing that was in the Original: But the words, I believe spoken by the Spirit, (and so the Greek is warrantable enough) were these, [Greek omitted] This I think was intended of Edw. Kelley, who was ever and anon upon projects to break with Dr. Dee, and to be gone, as here presently after, and in divers other places of this relation; nay, did really forsake him sometimes for some time: The sence verbatim is this: This fellow (or Friend) will overthrow this work (of Apparitions you must understand, to which he was requisite, because the Devil had not that power over Dr. Dees Body, to fit it, though he did promise it him, for such sights.) His baggage (or furniture) is in a readineß. And he doth very much endeavor: To withdraw himself from this common friendship. Take heed, that you give him no occasion: For he doth mightily plot by are and cunning: How he may leave you for ever. [Greek omitted] in the first line, may seem unusual, for [Greek omitted] or [Greek omitted] but it is an elegant Metaphore. [Greek omitted] for [Greek omitted] is not usual; and happily it should have been [Greek omitted] and so uttered; but that is nothing. Certainly he that could speak so much Greek, (called here Syrian, to jeer Ed. Kelley) could not want Latine at any time to express himself; which nevertheless, might be thought, where we finde him speaking English, to them that understood it not; so that Dr. Dee was fain to interpret it: But we cannot give an account of all his fetches and projects: He had a consideration, I make no question. I cannot think of any thing else that the Reader need to be told, that is of this nature, and it may be some what might have been spared: However the Reader will consider, that as in all Books, so in this: It is one thing to read from the beginning, and so to go on with heed and observation, without skipping; and another thing to read here and there, which would require a perpetual Comment, which is the wretchedness of most Readers, in these declining days of Learning; and therefore they have Comments (or Rhapsodies rather) accordingly; similes habent labra lactuses, never more true of any thing. It may be some will wonder what made the Spirits to fall upon English Genealogies and Stories; it is at very beginning, therefore I take notice of it for the Readers sake, that is yet (and cannot otherwise) a stranger to the Book: The business is, Dr. Dee was lately grown into great league and confederacy with Albert Lasky, (or àlasco rather) a great man of Polonia. You had before what Cambden saith of him of his coming to England, at this verytime, and his going away, which doth very well agree with our dates here. It seems, though nobly born, and to great dignity, yet his thoughts did aspire much higher; and though no rich man, for a man of his rank and quality, yet expecting such matters from Dr. Dee and his Spirits, as he did, he could finde money enough to supply their wants upon occasion. The Spirits were very glad of the occasion, and did what they could to cherish him according to his humor: Being then at that very time upon deliberations, that much depended of Alb. Laskey and his good opinion; among other things, his Pedegree, which must needs please a vain man very well, was taken into consideration: That every thing there said, doth exactly agree to the truth, as I do not warrant it, so neither am I at leisure at this time to take the pains to examine. We must never look further in those things that are delivered by such, then if it were, or be pertinent (true or false) to their end and present occasion. Besides, it is very possible, (which I desire the Reader to take good notice of) that both here and elsewhere the Transcribers, as they could not read sometimes, and were forced to leave some blancks (though seldome to any considerable prejudice of the sence) so they might mistake also, having to do with an Original that was (and is yet to be seen) so defaced and worm-eaten as this is, written (as we have said) by Dr. Dee himself. Besides the authentickness of the Original Copy, written by Dr. Dee himself; the Reader may know, that the Originals of the Letters that are here exhibited, are all, or most of them yet preserved, and to be seen in Sir Tho. Cottons Library. IV. I am now come to the last of the four things that I promised, to shew the several good uses that may be made of this Book, and which were principally looked upon in the publishing of it. This order indeed I proposed to my self, but great part of this occasion offering it self upon other matter, is already performed in the former Discourse, so that but little is now left to be done. However I will sum them up, and represent them together, that every Reader may have them in readiness and in view for his use the better. The first is against Atheists, and such as do not believe that there be any Devils or Spirits: We have argued it, I confess, pretty largely, at the beginning of this Discourse or Preface, and I hope some may receive competent satisfaction by what we have said: But if no Argument had been used, (setting aside Scripture

Authority, which would be impertinent against Atheists) I do not know what can be more convincing than this sad Story, so exactly to particularly, so faithfully delivered. Truly, they must see further than I do, that can find what to answer (rationally) and to oppose: This is a great point, and a great ground of Religion; but this is not all: For if there be Spirits indeed, so wicked and malicious, so studious and so industrious, to delude men, and to do mischief, which is their end, all which is so fully represented in this Relation; then certainly must it follow, that there is a great over-ruling Power, that takes care of the Earth, and of the Inhabitants of it; of them especially that adore that Power, and worship it with true affection and sincerity: For without this over ruling Power, what a miserable World should we have? What man so sober or innocent that could enjoy himself at any time with any comfort or security? But again, what man can read this sad story, and can be so persuaded of his own Wisdom or innocency, but will in some degree reflect upon himself, and will be moved to praise God, that notwithstanding many provocations in several kinds (as damnable curiosity, open prophaneness, frequent Oathes, Curses, Perjuries, scandalous Life, and the like) God hath been pleased to protect and preserve him from the force and violence of such enemies of mankind? I said before, from less beginnings greatest confusions had ensued, which is very true as in the case of Bacchus particularly many Ages before; and in the case of Mahomet afterwards (two notable lewd Euthusiasts, by whom as Instruments, evil Spirits, by Gods permission, brought great alterations in Governments, and wrought much mischief and villany among Men and Women) we shall elsewhere shew more at large. By due consideration of all Circumstances, as chiefly their confident and reiterated Addresses unto, and Attempts upon so many great men in Power and Authority, and the like; I am much of opinion that these Spirits had as great hopes of Dr. Dee, as ever they had of Bacchus or Mahomet. But God was not pleased at that time to permit that their malice and subtilty should prevail. And I think, if we consider it well, we have reason to praise God for it. England might have been over-run with Anabaptism (when I say Anabaptism, I mean Anabaptism confirmed and in full power, not as it appears in its first pretensions) long before this: God be thanked that it was not then and God keep it from it still, I hope is the Prayer of all truly sober and Religious And in very deed I know no reason, but the Wisdom and prudence of their Majesties Council that then were, in opposing Dr. Dees frequent addresses and Sollicitations, may (under God) challenge and deserve some part of our Thanks and Acknowledgement. Again, The Devil we see can Pray and Preach, (as to outward appearance we mean; for truly and really, God forbid that any thing sacred and holy should be thought to proceed from Devils) and talk of Sanctity and Mortification, as well as the best. And what he can in his own person, or by himself immediately;

there is no question, but he doth by his Ministers and Instruments much more, more ordinarily and frequently I mean: Let any man judge then, whether it be the part of a sober wise man, not onely to hear such men as can give no account of their calling, but also to follow them, to embrace their Doctrine, to be of their number or Congregation; and all this, upon this account, because they can pray and preach very well, (as they think and judge at least) and talk very godlily and zealously? How much more inexcusable they that will cleave unto such, though they see and know them scandalous in their Lives, Proud, Insolent, Ignorant, Seditious, Intolerable, because they can pray, and preach, and talk, as best agreeth with their own humor, and gives them best content? Can any man think they follow God in this, who would have all things done in order, and is not a God of Confusion, (1 Cor. 14. 33, 40.) when all they do, tends to nothing else but disorder and confusion? I confess it is possible, that men lawfully called may prove bad enough, we have divers examples in the Scripture. But if a man, simply and ignorantly be mis-led by such, certainly his judgement will be much lighter then they can expect, who will not use the means that God hath ordained, in so great and weighty a business as the salvation of Souls is. I know not what these men can say for themselves, except it be, that they are resolved to make use of the Liberty of the times to please their humor; they may do it, but if that bring them to Heaven, they have good luck. But the business of praying, is that I would principally insist upon: You see here how Dr. Dee, where he gives an account of himself to the Emperor, and others, bears himself much upon this, that so many years he had been an earnest Suitor unto God by Prayer to obtain Wisdom, such wisdom as he was ambitious of. I believe him, that he had prayed very earnestly, and with much importunity many times: This was the thing that made him so confident of his Spirits, that they must needs be good Spirits and Angels. I know a man, I have no comfort to tell it, but that I would not conceal any thing that may be a warning unto others, and yet I will have a respect unto him too: But I knew one, a very innocent man (in his outward conversation, and as I believe very really) Humble, Religious, very Learned and Orthodox, and one that had suffered for his Conscience, as others have done in these times: This worthy man, being engaged in a controverted Argument, upon which his phancy had wrought very much, or rather which had much wrought upon his phancy; he had written much, filled much Paper, and was desirous to communicate unto me as his friend what he had done: But when I perceived that the drift of his writing was out of the Law and the Prophets, to shew the necessity of some things which I thought of a more indifferent nature; I was not willing to meddle with it; and begun to argue against his main drift, and to shew my disliking. After many words to and fro, he began to press me with this, that he had often prayed with much earnestness, and he was very confident that God had heard his Prayers: Yea, he proceeded so far, that if God were true, he could not be deceived, and used many other words to the same purpose, at which I was much amazed, but could do no good upon him, such was his confidence and violence upon this occasion, though otherwise a very moderate ingenuous man: And thus I found him more then once, or twice. Truly, I think God was very merciful unto him, that took him away in good time. But certainly this business of Prayer and praising, is a business as of great comfort (the greatest that mortal man is capable of upon earth) so of much more danger and delusion, then many do believe. And if caution and circumspection be to be used in any thing that belongs to Religion, I think it ought in Prayer, as much as any thing. And since I have adventured to tell one story upon mine own credit, I will tell one more upon better authority, which I have long desired (for the observableness of it) to communicate unto the world, and to that end, had once inserted it in a Treatise of mine, which I thought would have been Printed, but it was not: I will first give the English of it, that all men may reap the benefit, and then set it down in the words of my Author (mine own Father Isaac Casaubon, of b. m.) as I have it to shew under his hand. At a Consistory in Geneva, upon a Friday, 18 July, 1589. The case of one Mr. Nicholas being there proposed to the Assembly to be considered of, who was wont to insinuate himself into private Houses, under pretence of praying, and made small congregations: The business was disliked by the Pastors; First, because nothing in the Church of God ought to be done without order. Secondly, because to turn such duties of Religion to matter of Traffick to get money onely, (without any other end or calling) was not lawful. Thirdly and lastly, his battalogy, (or vain repetition of words) was not to be suffered: Then upon this occasion it was related by Mr. Beza, that the Saturday before, whilst that sharp conflict was, which we had before our eyes, (to wit, between the Genevians, and the Duke of Savoy's Forces) that a certain Woman addressed her self to him, saying, What Mr. Beza, will you make Prayers here? To which he had answered, No: What, do you think I do behold these things with mine eyes onely, and do not pray to God in my heart? Giving this reason for his answer he had made to the Woman: [It is not so expressed in the Latine, that the following words were Beza's words, but the coherence of matter doth so require it] That Prayer was certainly a holy thing, which it did not become any man to apply himself unto, (or to undertake) without due preparation: And that they were deceived, who thought it so easie a thing to pray rightly: And that care also should be taken left [under a colour of zeal and devotion] a way be made to superstition: The Latine words are these, [Die Veneris, Julii 18. 1589. Cum relatam esset in c tum, de Mag. Nicolao, qui insinuaret se in domos varias [Greek omitted], ita aliquando c tus, esti paruos, coire solitos, pastoribus res improbata est: Primum, quia extra ordinem, nihil in Dei Ecclesia fieri debet : Deinde, quia [Greek omitted] facere [Greek omitted] nefas. Tertio, hominis [Greek omitted] non ferenda Narratum est tum a B se die Sabbathi proxime præcedente, dum acerrimum illud prælium committeretur, quod nobis erat ante oculos, interrogatum a mulieracula, Quid tu D. res sancta [Greek omitted] ad quam non nisi meditatam oporteat accedere, falluntur enim qui rem putant esse facilem, preces bene concipere. Simul cavendum, ne alicui superstitioni viam imprudentes aperiamus.] In the last place, All men may take warning by this example, how they put themselves out of the protection of Almighty God, either by presumptuous unlawful wishes and desires, or by seeking not unto Devils onely, directly (which Dr. Dee certainly never did, but abhorred the thought of it in his heart) but unto them that have next relation unto Devils, as Witches, Wizzards, Conjurers, Astrologers, (that take upon them to foretell humane events) Fortune tellers, and the like, yea and all Books of that subject, which I doubt, were a great occasion of Dr. Dees delusion: That men are commonly cheated by such, is sure enough; and those that are not very fools, would take heed how they deal with them, and avoid them, to avoid the Imputation of Fools; but those that are wise, much more, if they can more then cheat; for the more they can do, the more they know they have of the Divehn them: Wretched people! that will not, dare not trust God, who as he is the onely fountain of goodness, so onely knows what is good for every man. They may rejoyce for a time, and applaud themselves in their conceited successes, but misery, if they repent not, will be their end; and it is a great sign that God is very angry with them, when he doth suffer them to thrive by means which Himself hath cursed.

Postscript

POSTCRIPT. Since this Preface was written, and almost printed, I was shewed a Book, entituled, Theatrum Chemicum Britannicum, and c. by Elias Asbmole Esq; and in some Annotations there, at the end, an account concerning Dr. Dee and Edw. Kelley, (there stiled Sir Edward Kelley) out of a Diary of Dr. Dees, all written with his own hand: As I do not question the Gentlemans fidelity in this business, so I make as little question but Dr. Dee's own hand will be found to agree in all matters of Fact both here and there, if any shall take the pains to compare. And it may be the Reader may receive some further satisfaction in some particulars by his labor, which is the reason that I mention the Book here, being but lately come to my knowledge; His Judgement either concerning Dr. Dee, or Kelley, meddle not with; and it may be, had he seen what is here to be seen, he would have been of another opinion in some things: Here is enough, I am sure, to satisfie any man that is not very much preoccupied, or otherwise engaged by particular ends. As for those Reports concerning Kelley, (some whereof concern Dr. Dee also) he tells us of, as I believe him, that he hath heard so, so I must (and may truly) profess, that I have met with far contrary, and in my judgement, and by this account here given us by Dr. Dee, much more probable. And particularly, that Kelley was put in Prison by the Emperor, for a notable Chymical cheat that he had put upon him; the particulars whereof, though they were fully related unto me, yet I will not adventure upon, lest I mistake in some terms of art, or petty circumstance of fact. And let the Reader judge by that account, Dr. Dee (who best knew) doth give us here throughout the whole Book of this Kelley, whether Wevers Story in his Funeral Monum. pag. 45, 46. of damnable Necromancy, and other Diabolical Conjuraton, practiced by Kelley in Lancashire, be not (besides what is there said and attested) much more probable, then any thing that hath been or can be said by others, to his justification or commendation: Which indeed doth make Doctor Dee's case altogether inexcusable, that believing and knowing the man to be such a one, he would have to do with him, and expected good by his Ministeries; but that the Doctor his Faith, and his intellectualls (through Gods just judgement, as we have said) were so much in the power and government of his Spirits, that they might perswade him to any thing, under colour of doing service unto God, yea had it been to cut his own Fathers throat, as we see in the Relation, that they perswaded him to lie with another mans Wife, and prostitute his own to a vile, and, by himself belived, Diabolical man. Besides, I have been told by many, that Dr. Dee, very poor and every way miserable, dyed at Mortlack, here about London, which doth not seem to agree with the report in those Annotations: But enough of them: Neither indeed have I said any thing at all of purpose to oppose the Author, but to give this further satisfaction to the Reader, or rather to the truth, which I thought I was bound to do. The passage in Wevers Funeral Monuments, pag. 45, 46. concerning Kelley, for their satisfaction that have not the Book, is this; Kelley, (otherwise called Talbot) that famous English Alchymist of our times, who flying out of his own Countrey (after he had lost both his ears at Lancaster) was entertained by Rodolph the second, and last of that Christian name, Emperor of Germany; for whom Elizabeth of famous memory, sent (very secretly) Captain Peter Gwyn, with some others, to perswade him to return back to his own Native home, which he was willing to do; and thinking to escape away in the night, by stealth, as he was clammering over a Wall in his own House in Prague (which bears his name to this day, and sometimes was an old Sanctuary) he sell down from the Battlements, broke his leggs, and bruised his body, of which hurts within a while after, he departed this World. Sedquorsum bec? you will say: then thus, This Diabolical questioning of the dead, for the knowledge of future accidents, was put in practice by the said Kelley, who upon a certain Night, in the Park of Walton in le dale, in the County of Lancaster, with one Paul Waring, (his fellow-companion in such Deeds of darkness) invocated some one of the Infernal Regiment, to know certain passages in the life, as also what might be known by the Devils forefight, of the manner and time of the death of a Noble young Gentleman, as then in Wardship. The Black Ceremonies of that Night being ended, Kelley demanded of one of the Gentlemans servants, what Corse was the last buried in Law Church-yard, a Church thereunto adjoining, who told him of a poor man that was buried there but the same day: He and the said Waring, intreated this foresaid servant to go with them to the Grave of the man so lately interred, which he did; and withal, did help them to dig up the Carcase of the poor Catiff, whom by their Incantations, they made him (or rather some evil Spirit through his Organs) to speak, who delivered strange Predictions concerning the said Gentleman. I was told thus much by the said Serving-man, a Secondary Actor in that dismal abhorred business; and divers Gentlemen and others are now living in Lancashire, to whom he hath related this Story. And the Gentleman himself (whose memory I am bound to honor) told me a little before his death, of this Conjurat[i]on by Kelley, as he had it by relation from his said Servant and Tenant, onely some circumstances excepted, which he thought not fitting to come to his Masters knowledge.

Dr. Dee's Apology

Dr. Dee's Apology, Sent to the Arch-Bishop of CANTERBURY. 1594 over 5. OR, A Letter containing a most brief Discourse Apogetically, with a plain Demonstration, and fervent Protestation for the lawfull, sincere, very faithfull and Christian course of the Philosophicall Studies and Exercises, of a certain studious Gentleman: An ancient Servant to Her most Excellent Majesty Royall. To the most Reverend Father in God, the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, Primate and Metropolitane of all England, one of Her Majesties most Honorable Privie Councell: my singular good Lord. Most humbly and heartily I crave your Graces pardon, if I offend any thing, to send, or present unto your Graces hand, so simple a Discourse as this is: Although, by some sage and discreet nay friends their opinion, it is thought not to be impertinent, to my most needfull suits, presently in hand, (before her most Excellent Majesty Royall, your Lordships good Grace, and other the Right Honourable Lords of her Majesties Privy Councell) to make some part of my former studies, and studious exercises (within and for these 46 years last past, used and continued) to be first known and discovered unto your Grace, and other the right Honourable, my good Lords of her Majesties privy Councell: And secondly, afterwards, the same to be permitted to come to publick view: Not so much, to stop the mouthes, and, at length to stay the impudent attempts, of the rash, and malicious devisers, and contrivers of most untrue, foolish, and wicked reports, and fables, of, and concerning my foresaid studious exercises, passed over, with my great, (yea incredible) paines, travells, cares, and costs, in the search, and learning of true Philosophie; As, therein, So, to certifie, and satisfie the godly and unpartiall Christian hearer, or reader hereof: That, by his own judgement, (upon his due consideration, and examination of this, no little parcell, of the particulars of my foresaid studies, and exercises philosophicall annexed) He will, or may, be sufficiently informed, and perswaded; That I have wonderfully laboured, to find, follow, use, and haunt the true, straight, and most narrow path, leading all true, devout, zealous, faithfull, and constant Christian students, ex valle hac miseræ, and miseria istius vallis : and tenebrarum Regno ; and tenebris istius Regni, ad montem sanctum Syon, and as cælestia tabernacula. All thanks, are most due, therefore, unto the Almighty: Seeing, it so pleased him, (even from my youth, by his divine favour; grace, and help) to insinuate into my heart, an insatiable zeal, and desire, to know his truth: And in him, and by him, incessantly to seek, and listen after the same; by the true Philosophical method and harmony: proceeding and ascending, (as it were) gradatim, from things visible, to consider of things invisible from things bodily, to conceive of things spirituall: from things transitory, and momentary, to mediate of things permanent: by things mortall (visible and invisible) to have some perseverance of immortality. And to conclude, most briefly; by the most mervailous frame of the whole World, philosophically viewed, and circumspectly weighed, numbred, and measured (according to the talent, and gift of GOD, from above allotted, for his divine purposes effecting) most faithfully to love, honor, and glorifie alwaies, the Framer, and Creator thereof. In whose workmanship, his infinite goodness, unsearchable wisdom, and Almighty power, yea, his everlasting power, and divinity, may (by innumerable means) be manifested, and demonstrated. The truth of which my zealous, carefull, and constant, and endeavour specified, may (I hope) easily appear by the whole, full and due survey, and consideration of all the Books, Treatises, and Discourses, whose Titles onely, are, at this time, here annexed, and expressed: As they are set down in the sixth Chapter, of another little Rhapsodical Treatise, intituled, the Compendious Rehearsall, and c. written above two years since: for those her Majesties two honorable Comissioners; which her most excellent Majesty had most graciously sent to my poor Cottage in Mortclacke: to understand the matters, and causes at full; through which, I was so extreemly urged to procure at her Majesties hands such Honorable Surveyors and witnesses to be assigned, for the due proof of the contents, of my most humble and pittifull supplication, exhibited unto her most Excellent Majesty, at Hampton Court, An 1592. Novemb. 9. Thus therefore (as followeth) is the said 6. Chapter there, recorded. My labours and pains bestowed at divers times, to pleasure my native Countrey: by writing of sundry BOOKS, and Treatises: some in Latine, some in English, and some of them, written, at her Majesties commandement. Of which BOOKS, and Treatises, some are printed, and some unprinted. The printed BOOKS: and Treatises are these following: 1. Propædeumata Aphoristica, De præstantioribus quibusdam Naturæ virtutibus. Aphorismi. 120. Anno. 1558. 2. Monas Hierogyphica, Mathematicæ, Anagogiceque explicata; ad Maximitianum (Dei gratia) Komanoꝝ, Bohemiæ, and Hungrariæ, Regem sapientissimum, Anno 1564. 3. Epistola ad eximium Ducis Urbini Mathematicum (Fredericum Comutandinum) præfixa libello Machometi Bagdedini, De supersieierum Divisionibus; edito in tucem, opera mea, and ejusdem Commandini Urbinatus ; Impressa Pisauri Anno 1570.

An advise and discourse about the Reformation of the vulgar Julian yeare, written by her Majesties commandement, and the Lords of the privy Councell, Anno 1582. 47. Certain Considerations, and conferrings together, of these three sentences, (aunciently accounted as Oracles (Nosce te ipsum: Homo Homini Dens: Homo Homini Lupus, An. 1592 48. De hominis Corpore, Spiritu, and Annima : sive Microcosmicum totius Philosphiæ Naturalis Compendium, lib. I. Anno 1591. With many other Books, Pamphlets, Discourses, Inventions, and Conclusions, in divers Arts and matters: whose names, need not in this Abstract to be notified: The most part of all which, here specified, lie here before your Honours upon the Table, on your left hand. But by other books and Writings of anothersore, (if it so please God, and that he will grant me life, health, and due maintenance thereto, for some ten or twelve years next ensuing) I may, hereafter make plaine, and without doubt, this sentence to be true, Plura latent, quam patent. Thus far (my good Lord) have I set down this Catalogus, out of the foresaid sixt Chapter, of the booke, whose title is this: 49. The Compendious rehearsall of John Dee, his dutifull declaration and prooffe of the course and race of his studious life, for the space of halfe an hundred years, now (by Gods favour and help) fully spent, and c. To which compendious rehearsall, doth now belong an Appendix, of these two last years: In which I have had many just occasions, to confesse, that Homo Homini Deus, and Homo Homini Lupus, was and is an Argument, worthy of the decyphering, and large discussing: as may, one day, hereafter (by Gods help) be published, in some manner very strange. And besides all the rehearsed Books and Treatises of my writing, or handling hitherto, I have just cause, lately given me to write and publish a Treatise, with Title (50.) De Horizonte Æternitatis: to make evident, that one Andreas Libavius, in a book of his, printed the last year, hath unduly considered a phrase of my Monas Hyeroglyphica:

to his misliking, by his own unskilfulnesse in such matter: and not understanding my apt application thereof, in one of the very principal places, of the whole Book. And this book of G1 mine, by Gods help and favour (shall be dedicated unto her most Excellent Majesty Royall: And this Treatise doth contain three books; 1. The first Intituled, De Horizonte: liber Mathematicus and Physicus. 2. The second, De Æternitate: liber Theologicus, G2 Metaphysicus and Mathematicus. 3. The third, De Horizonte Æternitatis: liber G3 Theologicus, Mathematicus, and Hierotechnicus. G4 Truly I have great cause to praise and thanke God, for your Graces very charitable using of me: both in sundry points else, and also in your favourable yeelding to, yea and notifying the due means for the performance of her Sacred Majesties most gracious and bountifull disposition, resolution, and very royall beginning, to restore and give unto me (her Ancient faithfull servant) some due maintenance to lead the rest of my old daies, in some quiet and comfort: with habilitie, to retaine some speedy, faire, and Orthographicall writers, about me; and the same skilfull in Latine and Greek (at the least:) aswell for my own books, and Works, fair, and correctly to be written (such I mean, as either her most Excellent majestie, out of the premisses will make choice of, or command to be finished or published: or such of them, as your grace shall think meet or worthy for my farther labor to be bestowed on) as else for the speedy, faire, and true writing out of other ancient Authors their good and rare workes, in greek or Latine: which by GODS Providence, have been preserved from the spoile made of my Librarie, and of all my movable goods here, and c. Anno 1583. G5 In which Librarie, were about 4000. books; whereof, 700. were anciently written by hand; Some in Greeks, some in Latine, some in Hebrew, And some in other languages (as may by the whole Catalogus thereof appeare.) But the great losses and dammages which in sundry sorts I have sustained, do not so much grieve my heart, as the rash, lewde, fond, and most untrue fables, and reports of me, and my Studies Philosophicall, have done, and yet do; which commonly, after their first hatching, and devilish devising, immediately with great speed, are gene, rally all the Realme overspread; and to some, seem true; to other, they are doubtfull; and to onely the wise, modest, discreet, godly, and charitable (and chiefly to such as have some acquaintance with me) they appear, and are known to be fables, untruths, and utterly false reports, and slanders. Well, this shall be my last charitable giving of warning, and fervent protestation to my Countreymen, and all other in this case; -notes- G1 It may now be here also remembred, that almost three years after the writing of this Letter, I did somewhat satisfie the request of an Honourable Friend in Court, by speedily penning some matter concerning her Majesties Sea-Soveraigntie: under this title. G2 51. Thalattocratia Brytannica. G3 Sive, G4 De Brytanico Maris Imperio, Collectanca Extomporanca: 4-dierum Spacio, celeri conscripta calamo. Anno. 1597. Septemb. 20. Mancestriæ G5 Although that my last voyage beyond the Seas, was duly undertaken (by her Majesties good favour and licence) as by the same words may appear in the Letter, written by the right Honourable Lord Treasurer, unto your Grace in my behalf, and her most Excellent Majestie willing his Honor so to do. Anno. 1590. the 20. of January.

A fervent PROTESTATION. B Efore the Almighty our GOD, and your Lordships good Grace, this day on the perill of my souls damnation (if I lie, or take his name in vaine herein) I take the same GOD, to be my witsesse; That with all my heart, with all my soul, with all my strength, power and understanding (according to the measure thereof, which the Almighty bath given me) for the most part of the time, from my youth hitherto, I have used and still use, good, lawfull, honest, christian and divinely prescribed means to attain to the knowledge of those truthes, which are meet, and necessary for me to know; and wherewith to do his divine Majesty such service, as he hath, doth, and will call me unto, during this my life: for his honour and glory advancing, and for the benefit, and commoditie publique of this Kingdome; so much, as by the will and purpose of God, shall lie in my skill, and hability to perform: as a true, faithfull, and most sincerely dutifull servant, to our most gracious and incomparable Queen Elizabeth, and as a very comfortable fellow-member of the body politique, governed under the scepter Royal of our earthly Supream head (Queen Elizabeth) and as a lively sympathicall, and true symetricall fellowmember of that holy and mysticall body, Catholiquely extended and placed (wheresoever) on the earth: in the view, Knowledge, direction, protection, illumination and consolation of the Almighty, most Blessed, most holy, most glorious, comajesticall, coeternall, and coessentiall Trinity: The Head of that Body, being only our Redeemer, Christ Jesus, perfect God, and perfect man: whose return in glory, we faithfully awaite; and daily doe very earnestly cry unto him, to hasten his second comming for his elects fake; iniquity doth so on this earth abound and prevaile, and true faith with Charity and Evangelicall simplicity, have but cold; slender and uncertrin intertainment among the worldly-wise men of this world. Therefore (herein concluding) I beseech the Almighty God, most abundantly to increase and confirm your Graces heavenly wisdom, and endue you with all the rest of his heavenly gifts, for the relieving, refreshing and comforting, both bodily and spiritually, his little slock of the faithfull, yet militant here on earth. Amen. An EPILOGUE. Good my Lord, I beseech Your Grace, to allow of my plaine and comfortable Epilogus, for this matter at this time. 1. Seeing my studious exercises, and conversation civill, may be abundantly testified, to my good credit, in the most parts of all Christendome; and that by all degrees of Nobility, by all degrees of the Learned, and by very many other, of godly and Christian disposition, for the space of 46. years triall: (as appeareth by the Records lately viewed by two honourable witnesses, by Commission from her Majestie;) 2. And seeing, for these 36. years last past, I have been her most Excellent Majesties very true, faithfull and dutifull servant; at whose Royall mouth, I never received any one word of reproach; but all of favour, and grace: In whose Princely Countenance, I never perceived frowne toward me, or discontented regard, or view on me: but at all times favourable, and gracious: to the great joy and comfort of my true, faithfull, and loyall heart. And (thirdly) Seeing, the works of my hands, and words of my mouth (here before notified, in the Schedule of my books, and writings) may beare lively wnesse of the thoughts of my heart, and inclination of my minde, generally, (as all wise men do know, and Christ himself doth a vouch,) It might, in manner seem needlesse, thus carefully (though most briefly and speedily) to have warned or confounded the scornfull, the malicious, the proud, and the rash in their untrue reports, opinions, and fables of my studies, or exercises Philosophicall: but that, it is of more importance, that the godly, the honest, the modest, the discreet, grave, and charitable Christians (English or other,) lovers of Justice, truth, and good learning, may hereby receive certaine comfort in themselves (to perceive, that Veritas tandem prævalebit) and sufficiently be weaponed and armed with sound truth, to defend me against such kind of my adversaries: hereafter they will begin afresh or hold on obstinately in their former errors, vain imaginations, false reports, and most ungodly slanders of me and my studies. Therefore, (to make all this cause, for ever, before God and man, out of all doubt:) Seeing, your Lordships good grace, are, as it were, our high Priest, and chief Ecclesiasticall Minister, (under our most dread and Sovereigne Lady Queen Elizabeth) to whose censure and judgement, I submit all my studies and Exercises; yea all my Books past, present, and hereafter to be written, by me (of my own skill, judgement, or opinion,) I do, at this present time, most humbly, sincerely, and unfainedly, and in the name of Almighty God, (yea for his honour and glory) request, and beseech your Grace, (when, and as conveniently you may, to be well and thoroughly certified of me, what I am, Intus and in cute: Reverendissime in Christo Pater, and Dignissime Archipræsul, cognosce and agnosce vultum tam internum, quam externum pecoris tui: And wherein I have used, do or shall use, pen, speech, or conversation, otherwise then as it appertaineth to a faithfull, carefull, sincere, and humble servant of Christ Jesus, That your Grace would vouch safe to advertise me. So, I trust, Vltima respondebunt primis: in such fort, as this Antbentick Record in Latine annexed (ad perpetuam rei memoriam) doth testifie: having never hitherto had occasion to shew that, in any place of Christendome: to testifie better of me, then they had prooffe of me, themselves, by my conversation among them. (The Almighty, therefore, be highly thanked, praised, honoured, and glorified, for ever and ever, Amen. But now, in respect of the generall intent of this briefe discourse, I most humbly, and reverently, exhibit to your Graces view, and perusing, the originall monument, and authentick Record, before mentioned, fair written in Parchment, with the Seal whole, and perfect, duly appendant: as I have 46. years, and somewhat longer, preserved it. The true Copy whereof, your Grace doth see, to be verbatim, as followeth.

 most Considerable Matters, either of Fact and History; or Doctrine, in each of them. I. Page I. The first apparition of Madimi, in the shape of a Girle. Alb. Lasky, his Pedegree. This Al.

L. (whereof more in the Preface,) being the first designed by the Spirits, as a fit Instrument, under presence of godlinesse and reformation, to turn all things upsidedown in the World: But that plot failing, then the Emperour of Germany: after him Stephen King of Poland: after him, Prince Rosimberg, were thought upon, and application (as will be found here,) made unto them to that end. What alterations, and destructions of men and kingdoms would have ensued (had God given way, as in Mahomets case, and c.) may be collected out of Sundry passages of this Book. II p. 3. Anabaptistical exaggerations of the general wickednesse, and a Promise of a general Reformation by A.L. Of Isabel Lister tempted, and, hidden Treasures. III p. 5. Mistical numbers, and letters, for a Magical Lamin. IV ib. Ed. Kelley, his rage and fury, how reproved, and appeased. The Book, the Scroll, and the Powder. V p. 9. Great threatnings of future judgments in all places. VI p. 10. Divers Apparitions. Of good Angels, never appearing in the Shape of women; Trithemius his assertion reproved. The Book. Divine inspiration. (See also p. 23. As thou shalt find me to move thee, and divers other places,) promised in the writing and ordering of it. and #182; This Book (had things succeeded) should have been instead of a Bible; as the Alcoran, (and much of the same subjects) is among the Mahometans. See p. 18, 20, 61. and c. A very effectual way to draw people, under colour of a New Law, new lights, and doctrines, (which Anabaptists have always pretended unto) from Heaven. VII p. 17. Divers mystical Apparitions, and discourses. Charles Sled, possessed and dispossessed. VIII p. 18. The Contents, and worthinesse of the Book. IX ib. A sudden Sunshine. The Book named. Some lines of it. Ed. Kelley's pangs, and agonies at some Visions, before Dr. Dee. Good Angels. Bow to be known from evil. X p. 20. Promises to A.L. confirmed by an oath. Ed. Kelley desirous and ready to raise a Devil by his Art, before A.L. but not permitted by Dr. Dee. XI p. 22. Apparitions before the Lord Lasky: The Devil prayeth, and (Anabaptistically) bewaileth the wickednesse of the World. Of Angel-Guardians. Sudden death sentenced against the L. Laskies servant, for interrupting, though but casually, the Action. XII p. 23. The Book, and divers instructions about the writing of it. XIII p. 24. Apparitions in the air. Ed. Kelley scandalized and appeased. Prayers for him in Latine and English; composed by the Spirits. XIV p. 25. The Prayer; the use and excellency of it. XV ib. Apparitions and Propheesies, in the preference of the Lord Lasky. XVI. p. 28. The Book to be written (as it is not improbable the Alcoran was:) by Spirits. Some things uttered in Greek; (of which see in the Preface) Ed. Kelley preparing to be gone stayed with the promise of 50 pound yearly. XVII p. 28. Divers informations and cautions given (by Spirits) to Dr. Dee, concerning secret enemies at Court, and c. Strange mysteries concerning Guardian Angels. Al. Lasky's Seal. XVIII p. 30. New pranks of Kellyes. Dr. Dee much perplexed. Dr. Dee himself heareth, and c. More of the L. Laskies Pedegree. The mystery of the Trinity, Faith, Hope, and Charity: Ed. Kelley dispossessed (in shew) of many devils. XIX p. 33. Dr. Dee, and his Company, set out of Mortlack (in England, not far from London,) for Cracovia, in Polonia. Their danger, and deliverance at Queenborough. XX ibid, Divers Apparitions. Sermon-like stuff delivered by the Spirits (in Latine) who tell Dr. Dee that it was they that had preserved him in his late danger. and #182; Very likely indeed that they were the immediate cause, as of the danger, so preservation at that time, to have the more bold upon him for the time to come. For they tell him often of it, afterwards. and #182; A continuation of the journey. XXI p. 35. Apparitions in the presence of the L. Lasky. Most things here in Latine, for his sake. and #182; A continuation of the journey. XXII p. 36. Several Apparitions. Some evil spirits (be acknowledged) appear, and blaspheme. XXIII p. 39. Sermon-like stuff, of mortification, and c. Dockum, (in Germany) to be destroyed, men women, and children; or saved at Dr. Dees pleasure: as his Spirits make him believe. and #182; A continuation of the journey. XXIV p. 41. Stage-like carriage, and speeches, (such as it is seen and heard in Pulpits sometimes,) of Spirits; at which Ed. Kelley is offended; how excused. Prophecies and threatnings of great woes. XXV p. 43. Dr. Dee's several questions of worldly concernments; eluded by Sermon-like stuff of Santification, and c. and some idle Apparitions. and #182; Anabaptistical Predictions of great commotions, and c. and Christs Terrestrial kingdom, p. 46. and #182; Continuation of the journey. XXVI p. 47. Dr. Dee (to his great grief and amazement) rebuked for his abode, and actions, in unfañctified places. and #182; The constant practice of his spirits, when they could not perform what they had promised, to make him believe it was for his or some of his companies offenses, and provocations. XXVII p. 49. Glorious Promises made to Dr. Dee. His present estate in England not very good. He doubteth his present Apparition to be illusions of Devils; and is much troubled. XXVIII p. 51. God's Greatnesse, Justice, and c. set out in a propheticall-like stile. His Spirit twofold. XXIX p. 52. Some spirits tell Dr. Dee, all former apparitions were but illusions of evil spirits, and be made a fool by them. and #182; And all this (while he supposeth these to be the temptations of the Devil,) to make him the more confident at other times, when the Devil appeared unto him in a better shape, and did most abuse him. XXX p. 54. A continuation of the same Project. Examples of dangerous illusions. XXXI p. 55. A continuation here also. Counsel given to Doctor Dee to burn his blasphemous, (which be accounted most holy) Books. and #182; A continuation of the journey. XXXII p. 56. The same Project here also. The conclusion of this (personated) temptation, by the apparition of better (as is supposed) spirits. XXXIII p. 57. Sermon-like stuff of humility, perseverance, and c. Cabalistical doctrine of emanations, and c. Alb. Lasky excepted against, and some promises revoked. XXXIV p. 59. Some places of the Apocalyps, and of Esdras applyed to these Actions. XXXV p. 60. Esdras again. Strange Predictions (but Anabaptistical, and false) of the destruction of Kings and Kingdoms, within few years after. The New Book, to be instead of) the Bible. (See before, the contents of the Sixth Action.) and #182; A continuation of their journey. XXXVI p. 62. Apparitions: good (so esteemed) and evil spirits contest. Ed. Kelley rebuked for his Magick. New Lights of doctrine promised. The holy Language, (not Hebrew,) and the vertue of it. Cabale of nature. Christ's Terestial Kingdom: as before. XXXVII p. 65. Christ to be revealed. Doctor Dee's wife and maid threatned by Apparitions. His affairs in England. Sir Henry Sidney falsly reported dead, by spirits. Alb. Lasky conspired against. Cracovia promised to Doctor Dee a place of rest: (and again p. 70.) XXXVIII p. 69. Doctor Dee's questions, not answered. XXXIX ibid. The questions again. Mystical, and Cabalistical elusions. Some things obscurely answered. XL p. 71. Alb. Lasky in part rejected, as unworthy: yet, to be King of Moldavia. and #182; Their coming to Cracovia. XLI p. 73. These Visions and Actions magnified, as incomparable mercies and favours. The Trinity acknowledged. Cabalistical mysteries. XLII p. 76. Great mysteries promised. 49 Tables. 49 Calls, and c. Their vertue. XLIII p. 77. An illusion. A further progresse in the Cabale of Tables and Calls: with shew (in the spirits) of marvellous reverence. XLIV (p. 78.) The first Table. Mystical numbers and letters, and c. XLV p. 80. Ed. Kelley, a Magician, and for it, reproved. Further proceeding in the promised Cabale. Great opposition of wicked spirits (in shew) whilst this wonderful Cabale is delivered. XLVI p. 82. A Prayer, (in words zealous) used by the spirits, prescribed to Doctor Dee, and c. Proceedings in the Cabale. More opposition (in shew) of wicked spirits. Bodily reverences, and prayers, often used. The first Call ended. The use and vertue of it. XVII p. 83. More opposition (in shew) of wicked spirits. XLVIII p. 89. The Sabbath or Sunday) to be kept.

XLIX ib. More opposition: yet the work proceedeth. L p. 91. Nothing appeareth. Ed. Kelley (upon good grounds) very confident, that they were Devils all, that had appeared hitherto:

And their pretended mysteries, very fopperies, and c. LI ib. Kelley, of that mind still, and resolved to brain Doctor Dee. Doctor Dee's great confidence (but upon little ground: whereof see in the Preface:) of the contrary. LII ib. Kelley reproved. The mysterie of Numbers. The Creation: Fall of Adam. The language he spake, and c. and #182; Ed. Kelley reconciled. LIII p. 93. Somewhat heard by Doctor Dee also, to his wondering. Sermon-like stuff of Predestination, Election, and c. delivered by spirits. The Keyes: Their use and vertue. Move not, and c. (often repeated) explained. The worke goes on. LIV p. 199. The work goes on, but not without (as is conceived) opposition. LV p. 102. Mystical Apparitions: explained and applyed to Doctor Dee, and c. The holy Book to be written by God himself according to promise. LVI p. 104. A prayer: the work goes on. LVII p. 111. Mystical Apparitions explained. New instructions for future Actions. The Dayes, the dresse of the place. LVIII p. 115. A parable against Ed. Kelley, who contesteth with the spirits about the lawfulnessse of his Magick: yeildeth neverthelesse to bury in the ground his Magical Books, and Characters: which is accepted, for one of 27 be burned. An Apparition shewing (as it proved) the present estate of A.L. LIX p. 118. Kelley's obedience. The work goes on. The former ceremonies used. LIX .... Ed Kelley at last very well satisfied, that all is from God: and very devout. LX p. 138. Gods power. He not tyed to time. The Incarnation of Christ acknowledged. Warnings to Al. L. and promises. LXI p. 139. Calls, Aires: What and how to be used. Divisions, and Governments of Angels. Divisions of the Earth. Al. Lasky, his case. Mapfama, or Dic nobis, under Gabriel. Jes acknowledged. Good instructions, Humility, and c. A good Prayer, ill applyed. LXII p. 146. An illuder. Obedience, Faith, without which, Gods promises not irrevocable. Examples in Scripture. The Cabale of Calls, and c. As before. LXIII p. 153. Ed. Kelley doubtful again. The parts of the Earth: revealed unto Ptolemy, by an Angel. Some characters and Prophetes of divers places of the World. (Some mistaken, I believe,) Constantinople. The Turk. The Arke of Noe. The place of Paradise. Eli, Enoch, John: where reserved. A contradiction observed by Doctor Dee, not answered by the spirits. Rome. and #182; The spirits, (upon good grounds) suspected, and answered by Ed. Kelley, for illuders, and cozeners: who is opposed by Doctor Dee, with much confidence, and some appearance of reason. Some mistakes in the writing, from what cause. LXIV p. 159. Ed. Kelley very bold (and perverse, as censured by Doctor Dee,) with the spirits: (yet not without good ground of reason; all well considered.) The Book: the leaves, dimensions, and other particulars of it: not to be written, but by Angels. Al. Lasky yet in favour. LXV p. 160. God all in all. The Devil in perpetual opposition. How dangerous (truly spoken, though by the Devil,) to deal with him. Infidelity punished. Anabaptistical Prophecies and Promises. Al. Lasky suspected. LXVI p. 162. Ed. K. reproved, and exhorted to repent; earnestly, yea with tears, in shew. Devils and their businesse, both with good and bad. Some Cabalistical stuff, promised. and #182; p. 164. Ed. Kelley's Confession of heretical, damnable opinions by him held and believed. His repentance, abjuration of Magical arts and practices; conversion unto God; believed by Doctor Dee (upon great probabilities) to be hearty and sincere. His thanks to God for it. and #182; 165. More of Kelley's conversion. No Apparition, and why: divers conjectures of Dr. Dee. LXXVII p. 166. Apparitions to comfort and confirm Al. Lasky. LXVIII Visions and Apparitions to Ed. Kelley, first alone: then in the presence of Doctor Dee: The visitation; the mercies, of God: Great promises, Exposition (by spirits) of the Vision. and #182; Ed. Kelley tempted, and doubtful again. LXIX p. 171. A Vision to Ed. Kelley, and Al. Lasky: with promises out of the Psalms. LXX p. 171. Furniture of the Table: crosses, and c. The Table of the Earth: Governour, Angels, and c. The Book, the title of it, Let those, and c.) and doctrine of Enoch, revealed unto him by speciall favour: counterfeited by D. And Magicians: their Characters. Mystical Tables, Figures, Words, and c. Linea Spiritus Sancti (a horrible profanation; but such are most Cabalistical mysteries) mystical crosses, and c. Solomons knowledge, (if you will believe them) how far it extended. and #182; LXXI p. 178. The Cabale goes on. The wonderfull extent of it. Diseases how to be cured, or procured by it. Money coined, and uncoined, given by whom. and #182; LXXII p.181. LXXIII p.183. The secrets of States, (so Trithemius too: we have his Tables: but never was any man the wiser: whereof more in the Preface:) Medicine: Christ his earthly Kingdom. All things in these Tables have suddenly gone: Madimi appeareth: Doctor Dee wanteth money, but can get none. A gingling (but false) Prophesie, concerning the Emperour to succeed Rodolph., See also p. 243.) and #182; Ed. Kelley, his rage and reviling, much disliked by Dr. Dee; repented of by Kelley himself: taken notice of (his repentance) by the spirits. An extraordinary (so apprehended by D. Dee) storm of Thunder and Rain.

and #182; LXXIV ibid. More Cabalistical instructions (somewhat like Magick, as Kelley thought:) concerning the practice of it. Dreadful Prophecies, of sudden alterations in the World. Al. Lasky, in favour. The Book to be prepared, and c. Ed. Kelley a perfect Magician, by his own acknowledgement. and #182; LXXV p. 185. Patience and Humility, commended. A pretty similitude

(if true: whereof see in the Preface:) of the Adders dealing with her young. Infidelity, how great a sin. Yet Ed. Kelley still incredulous, for all this, and very resolute. and #182; LXXVI 186. Christ, his coming in Triumph, and c. The Book of Invocation. Satans (pretended) opposition. Some Prophecies, Promises, and Instructions. LXXVII p. 187. Some questions, belonging to the Cabale, partly eluded, partly answered. Invocations of good Angels. Set Prayers not allowed, and why. Evil spirits, how to be dealt with. The Book of Invocations: and now, Set Prayers allowed of. LXXVIII p. 189. Sermon-like stuff, of the use of affliction, and c. Some promises to Doctor Dee and Ed. Kelley. A Progresse in the Cabale of Calls. LXXIX p. 195. Doctor Dee and his fellow reprov'd. Doctor Dee, with great humility, doth answer for himself. Enoch: the Book delivered unto him (the same in substance, as this, they say:) by God. His Prayer, Humility and c. LXXX LXXXI p. 197. The spirits appoint their time, and appear. The precise time of Christs coming; and other Prophecies, not revealed unto men, for three reasons. LXXXII LXXXIII p. 198. 199. The spirits, and c. as before. The nineteen Calls, and their beginnings. LXXXIV p. 200. More Calls and mysteries; but not without (pretended,) opposition of wicked spirits. Adam's fall. The Curse upon it, and the effect of it. LXXXV p. 206. More Calls and Aires. An apparent contradiction observed by Doctor Dee; but cunningly evaded by the spirits. Doctor Dee, his Hymne, and spiritual (but not from God, because not well grounded:) rejoicing, and thanksgiving. His son Roland in great danger. LXXXVI p. 210. Doctor Dee's contest with his spirits: he asserts his own innocency, and (to the utmost of his power) obedience: but is baffled by the spirits. Al. L. rejected. LXXXVII p. 211. The same contest prosecuted here also with some threatnings. and #182; Their coming to Prague. and #182; Some Chimical gibbrish (fit stuff to amuse unsettled braines:) found in the house, concerning the Philosophers Stone. Read there, (and, si rubco m. sit nupta m, and c. and #182; p. 213. Some conjectures, and meditations of Doctor Dee's, upon some places of Scripture. LXXXVIII The VI Viol: in the Apocalypse; as understood by Doctor Dee. A very good blessing, pronounced by an evill spirit. Divers Woes denounced. Somewhat of Doctor Dee's Wife: Al. Lasky. Doctor Dee, sent to Rodolphus Emperour, with a message, as from God. LXXXIX p. 217. The Angelical Book. New orders about it. Al. Lasky, though rejected, yet to be great for a while. Inspiration promised to Dr. Dee, about a Letter to the Emperour. and #182; A copy of the said Letter (by inspiration probably enough of spirits, as a man may ghuesse by the stuff,) to the Emperour. Secrecy desired. XC p. 219. Sermon-like stuff. The power of God. Several Woes. The Trinity, and c. Dr. Dee not being willing to be put off longer, the spirits, (against their wills) make some progresse in the Cabale. Doctor Dee, in the execution of Gods will, to proceed with fury, and c. XCI p. 222. Doctor Dee, sharply reprov'd (by examples out of the Scriptures, and c.) For chusing (when it was put to his choice) rather present performance, than longer delay. XCII p. 223. The same matter here also. The yeares of Doctor Dee's life, 73. and a half; (which perchance might come very near to the truth, if we could certainly know when he died:) determined. Ed. Kelley to die violently: (and so he did: for endeavouring an escape out of prison, he brake a leg, and died of it; as generally reported:) Doctor Dee doth repent and revoke his choice; in very good language, had it been upon a good ground. and #182; Doctor Dee's Letter to the King of Spain his Agent (or Ambassadour) with the Emperour, about his Letter; and means of accesse, to the Emperour. XCIII Several questions proposed by Doctor Dee. The spirits shrewdly put to it about a lye which they had told; and yet by the help of Cabalistical querks and distinctions, (but especially, of Anabaptistical infatuations in Doctor Dee,) they come off with credit. In what sense Doctor Dee might truly say, That himself had seen, whatsoever Ed. Kelley had seen. and #182; Doctor Dee his Letter, and Present, graciously received by the Emperour. XCIV p. 228. Apparitions, not in the Stone. The priviledge of apparition in the Stone. The Myserie of the Trinity. Reason an enemy to God, (to Delusion indeed, and wildnesse: found, and sober Reason:) as the spirits would have it. The Emperour threatned. The names of the spirits now appearing, and how to be found in the Cabalistical Tables. and #182; Some drunken pranks of Kelley's, and why here recorded. and #182; A letter of the Spanish Embassadour his Secretary to Doctor Dee, whereby he doth signifie the Emperours desire and appointment, to have him come to him. Octavius Spinola, Chamberlain, and c. brings him to him. An account of what was said on both sides. Doctor Dee's Monas, (of which, see more in the Preface:) his Revelations and Visions: His Angelical Stone, and c. and #182; XCV p. 231. Kelly's former miscarriage taken notice of: the cause of it: It is forgiven. Doctor Dee, and c. Their Office magnified. Kingdomes of the Earth to be destroyed. Hierusalem restored. Christ to Reigne. Other Predictions, very strange, (but not true) and the certain year. Rodolph. Emperour, to be exalted. Stephen King of Poland, to be destroyed. Enoch's Tables. Doctor Dee his Prayer, and Kelley's Vow. and #182; Doctors Dee's Letter to Octavius Spinola, to be communicated to the Emperour: but not delivered at that time, by reason of the Emperour his absence. and #182; XCVI p. 235. Ga. Za. Vaa:

spirits invited: that is, called upon by Doctor Dee: their answer interpreted by him. and #182; The former Letter, (with some alterations) delivered, and the Emperours very gracious answer to it, by the said Spinola. Doctor Curtzius, a Doctor of the Laws, one of the Emperours Privy Council; accounted very Learned: appointed by the Emperour to deal with Doctor Dee, in his behalf. and #182; XCVII p. 237. Doctor Dee asketh counsell, (of God, he thought:) but first encountereth with Pilosus, (an evil spirit: [Hebrew omitted] as I take it:) and his temptations. Ed. Kelley very penitent still, but desirous, (as unfit) to be out of his Office. The spirits appear. Reconciliation: twofold: (with God, with the Church, and c. Purgatory. The body of Christ, The case of Rodolph. Emperour, in case be obey, or disobey. The spirit of Choice in Doctor Dee, explained. Doctor Curtz allowed of. and #182; p. 239. Doctor Curtz, and Doctor Dee, (after some Complements by Messengers) meet. Their conference of: six hours. Doctor Dee's Relation of himself, his Studies, his Suite; (and therein, though not apprehended by himself, his intollerable presumption, pride, high opinion of himself, and c.) Revelations, Books, and wonderfull confidence; as of most, that are so deluded. and #182; Ed. Kelley strangely tempted. and #182; Doctor Dee's mistrust of Doctor Curtz, upon what grounds. and #182; XCVIII p. 240. Lying: and froward silence: not ordinarily expounded. Reconciliation to the Church. The sin against the Holy Ghost: what it is. Complaints, and Prophecies against the Emperour, and Doctor Curtz, because of their infidelity, and disobedience. Doctor Dee in high favour: England given to him, and for his sake, not destroyed: Tet the Crown there, to be transferred, and c. Doctor Dee warranted, and commanded to write to the Emperour, that he could make the Philosophers Stone: though, yet, he could not, but is promised it; and the gift of healing: (which diver Enthusiasts have boasted of; and if they have done any thing really, there is no question but they have done it by the help of spirits. How safe therefore it is to go unto such, let men consider.) Ed. Kelley prays for Doctor Curtz his sudden death, but not heard. and #182; XCIX p. 243. The same Commission, here again, about the Philosophers Stone: and the Emperour, here also threatned: and another (Ernestus) assigned to his place. Reported here to be possessed by a Devil. and #182; C p. 244. Doctor Dee, comforted and confirmed by his spirits, against slanders, and evill reports: out of Scripture, and c. and #182; The spirits here, seem to allude to a passage of the Sibyls Verses, (a counterfeit Book:) as Doctor Dee doth observe at last, to agree with it. They tell Doctor Dee he shall be with the Emperour in spight of the Devil: (so they can play upon themselves, when they list, to fool men:) but did not say true, and in that shewed themselves very Devils; and that Doctor Dee might have understood, had not his understanding been so blinded and captivated by them. and #182; Doctor Dee invited to Dinner, by the Spanish Embassadour: who, among other things, professeth himself to be descended of Raymundus Lullius: that this Raym. L. (if we may believe him) by a retired solitude, without Books: (the way commended by the late Method also: but indeed the most ready way to put men out of their wits:) of an ignorant illiterate man, became very learned: and that he had the Philosophers Stone: whereupon he doth conclude and build, that which Doctor Dee related of himself, his visions, and revelations, and c. might be as possible, and true. The Emperour, by him commended. and #182; p. 246. The Second Letter, written by Doctor Dee to the Emperour. His confidence as great as ever; and particularly concerning the Philosophers Stone, which he doth here promise to the Emperour, (being so perswaded by his spirits, though as yet, as ignorant of it, as ever.) and #182; Doctor Dee at Dinner again with the Spanish Embassadour. and #182; Ed. Kelley troublesome: Doctor Dee's confidence in God, and great penury. and #182; p. 247. Dr. Dee visited by Dr. Curtz, at his own house. His complaints: Dr. Curtz account of the Emperour (his Master) present apprehensions of this business: Some Mathematical Books written by Dr. Dee, and Commandinus (a very famous man) and c. and #182; p. 248. Another Letter of Doctor Dee's to the Spanish Embassadour. His wonderfull confidence, declining (wisely: his spirits had so instructed him,) the test of humane reason. (rostris, for mentis to be corrected, here.) and #182; An account, (in a Postscript) of his last conference with Dr. Curtz. and #182; CI p. 249. After a swelling Preface, (fitted for the Scene, and Auditours) a long discourse (upon occasion of Doctor Dee his Wife's sickness:) of true Physick, and the causes of diseases: much favouring (whereof more in the Preface:) of Paracelsus his styles, and spirits. Rare stuff, most part of it, for a Quack. and #182; CII p. 252. CIII p. 253. The same matter prosecuted, and particularly applied to Jane Dee, (the wife of Dr. Dee,) her present case: Her Disease: and the Remedy. and #182; CIV p. 253. Doctor Dee reproved, as not sensible enough of what God had done for him: which is pompously set out by the Spirits. Money not to be expected from these spirits, who neverthesse promised them (after a while) great plenty of all things: power to make, and marre, when they please, and c. Ed. Kelley reproved for contriving how to steal away: Al. Lasky to prevail against his enemies. and #182; Another meeting of Doctor Curtz, and Doctor Dee's. The Emperours Answer, (by Doctor Curtz) to some passages of Doctor Dee's message, delivered unto him, as from God. Doctor Dee doth interpret himself. Accepts of the Emperours profer, to do him good, and c. and #182; Dr. Curtz and Doctor Dee, together again: but no account of his two Letters to the Emperour yet given. Mathematical inventions, of Doctor Curtz, and c. and #182; A draught for a Passe, to be obtained of the Emperour for Doctor Dee, and c. Doctor Dee takes notice of the respects of two Spanish Embassadors, and another great Man, alone to him publicly. and #182; The account of some two moneths, from 8 Octob. 1584. to Decemb.20. are wanting. and #182; p. 353. Their second arrival to Prage. Doctor Dee's Letter to the Spanish Embassador; His wonderful progresse (as he thought) in high mysteries and revelations, and c. and #182; His house there. and #182; p. 354. Doctor Dee's Letter to Doctor Curtz: (one of the Emperours privy Council, and c. as before,) Complaint of aspersions, ( and minis: not nimis, as printed:) Profession of good intentions towards the Emperour, and c. and #182; CV p. 355. (ad 361.) Long parabolical, anigmatical Apparitions; (which Doctor Dee did not like very well, nor understands; as appeareth by p. 361.) and some wild Doctrines, of the fear of the Lord; innocency, sanctification in Christ, and c. cabalistically set out. The Philosophers Stone, promised to the Emperour by Doctor Dee. and #182; CVI p. 361. Gods mysteries not to be dispenced but by degrees, and c. The Philosophers Stone, a great mystery. and #182; CVII p. 362. A Progresse in the Corbale. Opposition as before. The Lesson (see p. 387.) out of the Book of Enoch. and #182; CVIII p. 364. and #182; CIX p. 365. and #182; CX p. 366. and #182; CXI and CXII p. 367. A further Progresse. The mysteries of that worthy Lesson highly set out, and some kind of exposition of it: but as Ed. Kelley rightly judged, ignotum per ignotius. Reverence required. Doctor Dee in a swoond. An illusion, (so pretended.) and #182; CXIII p. 367. Doctor Dee, and c. Excepted against, as unworthy, because of their sins, and unthankfulnesse for so many mercies. Another, (whomsoever Doctor Dee would chuse) upon certain cautions and conditions, to be substituted in Ed. Kelley's place. Doctor Dee's sorrow, and humble request about the Philosophers Stone. His desire to be instructed (by his spirits) about the Sacrament of the Lords Supper. The mystery of it cabalistically unfolded. The Trinity, Adam's fall, Christ's Incarnation. The Doctrine of Transubstantiation: Of receiving under one kind: Of adoration of the Eucharist: But receiving of it, not allowed. and #182; CXIV p. 373. The former Doctrine highly magnified: as also the Lesson, in Chemical gibbrish, of multiplication; dignification, and c. and #182; CXV ibid, More of their unworthinesse, (through sin) and incapacity, for such high things. Doctor Dee prayeth. Al. Lasky rejected. Doctor Dee much troubled. and #182; CXVI p. 375. Doctor Dee very earnest for the secret of the Philosophers Stone, so often promised: but eluded with Sermon-like stuff of reproof: of patience, afflictions; worthy partaking; Confession, and c. and #182; CXVII p. 378. Doctor Dee himself heareth; and feeleth. More reproofes. Doctor Dee to prevail against his enemies: but commanded speedily to go for Prague, to prevent imprisonment, and c. and #182; CXVIII p. 379. Here again, hastened to be gone. Al. L. his case. and #182; CXIX ibid. They begin their journey; but by an Apparition in the way, after some goodly promises made to Doctor Dee, for his obedience: and Predictions (all false) of judgements upon the Emperour, and exaltation of Stephen King of Poland, and c. They are commanded to return back again, and to return to Prague. and #182; Which done, Doctor Dee's Child is christened, some of the chiefest in the Emperours Court being Godfathers, and Godmothers. and #182; CXX p. 382. The Prophets of old times summoned: why visited, and c. The eternal generations of Christ, the Son of God, Platonically set out. Divine Necessity, the cause of all things. Election: Perseverance, and c. Earnest exostulations, and exhortations. Christ again. The Church Militant, and Triumphant. Doctor Dee and Ed. Kelley much taken with this goodly stuff, and confirmed in their Errour. and #182; p. 387. The pretious Lesson, before spoken of, of revealing the secret of the Philosophers Stone. and #182; p. 388. The Lesson, and some obscure words of it, expressed in English. Ed. Kelley, desirous to be rid of his office. and #182; CXXII p. 389. Jane Dee (Doctor Dee's wife) her earnest and humble Petititon to God, (so the poor woman thought) and his Angels, for relief in her great necessity. The Petititon answered, first with reproof; but commendation, and promises, afterwards. The spirit confesseth, he had no power to procure them money: but instead of it, pretends to give them good counsel, to get out of Prage speedily, and c. and #182; A Record of a hot conflict between Doctor Dee, and Ed. Kelley, about some Magical papers: in which conflict Doctor Dee thought himself in danger of his life, and was saine to cry out for help. and #182; p. 391. An Apparition fitted for the occasion. The fault of Ed. Kelley's refractorinesses, laid upon the malice and envy of the Devil, and some places of Esdras, applied to that purpose, Ed. Kelley rebuked; but comforted and confirmed with a promise of no evil spirit to be suffered to trouble him henceforth: and many good exhortations: with a Parable also to that purpose. and #182; Some questions proposed by Doctor Dee, who is referred to the Book of Enoch. and #182; CXXIV p. 395. Doctor Dee, and c. Sharply reprov'd for not fulfilling the command of a speedy departure, with more expedition. He acknowledgeth (convicted by some plausible considerations,) his fault, and prayeth fervently. and #182; CXXV p. 396. The Stone shut up for twenty dayes. Their journey (from Prage, to Cracovia:) and in the way, strange whirlwinds. Some strife about their house. Al. Lasky, by whom Doctor Dee is brought to the King: (fustinem, for fistereni, to be corrected, and c.) delivers his Commission, and c. He receives the Communion: so doth Ed. Kelley. and #182; CXXVI p. 398. The Kings presence required by spirits, at these Apparitions. and #182; CXXVII ibid. Superstitious prayers (by appointment of spirits) to the Angels, Governours of Kingdoms and Nations. Stephen (King of Poland) greatly in favour (with God) and to be the Minister of great things. Doctor Dee doth apprehend, (which Kelley doth often professe to have found in himself) that the spirits knew his thoughts. and #182; Ed. Kelley, very unquiet, and blasphemous: Tet confirmed again, by some Apparitions; to Doctor Dee's great comfort, who still (very devoutly and innocently, had not he brought this grievous delusion upon himself, by tempting God to grievously:) doth submit unto, and comfort himself in God. and #182; CXXVIII p., 400. Apparitions in the presence of Al. Lasky. Promises to Doctor Dee, and to King Stephen. Al. Lasky upon conditions to be received into a favour again... and #182; Doctor Dee receives the Communion again. and #182; CXXIX p. 401. Apparitions at the Court of the King of Poland, in the presence of Al. Lasky, one of the Princes Palatine of the Country) who is offered by the spirits, sudden destruction of the King, (if he desire it,) or to see him struck with Leprosie; or otherwise corrected, if so rather. Al. Lasky his pious and religious answer, and choice: for which he is commended. The spirits will not endure, though requested, to deal with the King, in the Hungarian Tongue. They promise to speak to him in Latine. A good blessing, and formall absolution, pronounced by evill spirits. and #182; CXXX p. 402. and #182; Doctor Dee, and c. Brought to Stephen, (King of Poland,) who upon some conditions, is willing to be present: yet makes an objection out of Scripture, as not fully satisfied that these apparitions, and c. Were from God. To which Doctor Dee makes an accurat answer: (by which it doth appear, that either he had studied the case very well, or was helped as other reall Enthusiasts, by his spirits:) but very full of faults in the Copy, and so printed. More here, I think; then in all the Latine of the Book besides. We take notice of it in the Errata. and #182; Before the Action, a fervent Prayer of Doctor Dee's, of his calling, revelations, Al. Laskie, King Stephen, and c. and #182; In the Action, or Apparition, King Stephen, sharply reprov'd for his sins. But upon condition of repentance, and submission to God (in this way) the Kings of the earth (intoxicati calice Meretricis: a phrase often used in this Book that is drunk with the cup of the Whore,) are to do homage unto him; and be, right Anabaptisme,) to work strange extension, and c. Very lofty language, here used: Fige pedem in Aquil. and c. and #182; XXXI p. 406. Sad complaint, (as from God) of incredulity: The Incarnation of Christ, and thereby priviledge of Christians above the Israelits. Tears. Doctor Dee, sent with an errand to King Stephen: and a direct promise, and profer of the Philosophers Stone. and #182; Doctor Dee delivers his errand in Latin: (but here our records, I know not by what chance, are very defective. King Stephen, it seems did not prove so credulous, as was expected.) and #182; CXXXII p. 408. The spirits are angry, and command all to be shut up, for a season, till further order. (the account of some moneths is wanting.) and #182; CXXXIII p. 409. The power of God. The Jewes, and Jerusalem to be restored. And now, one Francis Puccius (a Florentine, a zealous and learned Papist,) being entertained, and admitted to these secrets: with great hopes of some good to be done by this fellowship: Rome also being designed henceforth for the Scenes (See p. 417.) the spirits apply themselves, and fit their speech to this end and occasion. The interpretation of Scriptures. The Fathers. The Church. Luther and Calvin, condemned. The Pope of Rome, cannot be (say the spirits) the Antichrist: and think they prove it. Exhortations to return to the Church: and a form of prayer, or Thanksgiving, to that purpose. In the conclusion, the spirits apply themselves to Puccius, personally: He is to rebuke the present Pope, (here called, a wicked Monster,) against whom, if he will not be perswaded, terrible judgements are denounced. and #182; The same Action (because the spirits here rather chose to speak English, than Latine: whereof somewhat is said in the Preface: in Latine by Doctor Dee. and #182; CXXXIV p. 417. The summe of Francis Puccius, his commission, in high Language. Future Actions in Rome. and #182; But here followeth a hiatus of some 6 months: which bereaves us of many particulars. In the mean time happened the sentence of banishment against Doctor Dee, by the Popes mediation and authority; (as his Nuncio, p. 434. doth acknowledge) and so brake the purpose of going to Rome: though much driven on by Puccius, and c. As will appear. and #182; p. 418. Doctor Dee's record of a strange thing, (a very miracle, in his judgement,) that hapned in his presence, and sight; to wit, Books that had been burned by him (or in his sight) restored unto him whole and entire, by spirits, and c. and #182; CXXXV p. 419. Prince Rosimberg (you may see his Titles p. 425.) called, and admitted into the Society, to be partaker of the Mysteries; and the Executioner of (so supposed) Gods judgements, and c. and #182; Prince Rosimberg, upon relation of what had been revealed, concerning himself, accepts of it thankfully: promises amendment, and prays for the Emperour, (whole Vice-Roy he was in Bohemia, and c.) That he may not be destroyed, but repent rather. and #182; p. 421. A Letter of his (with his own hand) to Doctor Dee, to the same purpose. and #182; Doctor Dee's Journey to Leipsig. and #182; His Letter to Sir Francis Walsingham, Secretary to Queen Elizabeth: wherein is observable his wonderfull confidence; and vain boasting, (though not without some grounds:) as a very Enthusiast, and deluded man: though it cannot be denied, that some Enthusiasts, upon lesse grounds, (when God hath been pleased to give way) have had far better successe. and #182; p. 424. One Jul. Ascanius, his Letter to Doctor Dee, informing him of some reports, and attempts against him in Germany, as a Necromancer, and c. and #182; p. 425. A Letter of Doctor Dee's to Prince Rosimberg, complaining of those reports, and attempts, by the Nuncio, and c. and #182; 426. Another, to the Emperour, of the same subject. and #182; The sentence of Banishment against Doctor Dee, and c. In the German Tongue. and #182; p. 429. Prince Rosimberg his questions and petitions, miraculously (as was conceived) answered. A white paper being set upon the Altar, whilst Masse was said: the said paper after Masse, was found all written, and as soon as copied out, all the Letters of it vanished. A Copy of the said paper, or (miraculous) writting. and #182; ibid. Some observations of Doctor Dee's, upon Francis Puccius of whom before) his carriage; whereby it did appear unto him, that the said Puccius did not deal truly and sincerely: which troubled Doctor Dee, who much desired to be rid of him. and #182; p. 430. A conflict of his, with the said Puccius, about their going to Rome, and c. and #182; p. 431. A Paper delivered by Puccius, to Doctor Dee, as from the Nuncio; by which they are absolved from all crimes, (were they never so great and hainous) so they will go to Rome. Puccius his incenstancy about that Paper. and #182; Doctor Dee's Letter to the said Nuncio, upon that occasion: wherein, among other things, to tell him of these Books that had been burned, and were (miraculously) restored; and of many more burned (part of these Records certainly) not yet restored, but promised and expected. and #182; The said Letter after some contest about it, committed to Puccius, to be carried and delivered. and #182; More of Puccius his not faithful dealing. Some Heresies also of his. Some other things laid to his charge by Doctor Dee. and #182; p. 434. The Popes Nuncius, his answer to Doctor Dee: grave, and courteous. (As the beginning of it, aut, for autem to be correct.) and #182; p. 435. A Paper, (here inscribed and stiled, Oraculum Divinum) in Kelly's absence, written and delivered (as Doctor Dee doth here record:) by spiritual and divine means: the drift whereof is, to confirm Prince Rosimberg, At whose request, the sentence of banishment is mitigated. and #182; p. 436. A long and submissive Letter of Francis Puccius, to Doctor Dee, and c. Where, among other things, he gives him a very punctual account of what had passed, in discourse, between the Popes Nuncius, and himself, concerning their cause, apparitions, high attempts, and c. (Well worth the reading.) His encounter with a Jesuit, before the said Nuncio. What account Prince Rosimberg, and some other great men, made of them. and #182; p. 444. Kelley, to Doctor Dee: Doctor Dee, to his Wife; but nothing considerable in either. and #182; CXXXVI p. 444. and #182; CXXXVII p. 445. Apparitions in the Stone, (after 6 months intermission) renewed, with expressions of great devotion, in Doctor Dee: but with many Woes and threatnings, by the spirits: who neverthelesse, Prince Rosimberg being present, promise fair to him, and give him some instructions, how to carry himself. and #182; Francis Puccius very troublesome; but at last quieted with the restitution (Doctor Dee, at this time, abounded with money, 2000 Ducats in one bag: Prince Rosimberg had a good purse:) of 800 Florens which the said Puccius had formerly contributed for the service. and #182; CXXXVIII p. 448. Doctor Dee makes bold to propose some questions (tending to the secret of the Philosophers Stone; as I take it;) out of season; but is rejected, and doth humbly submit.

THE CONTENTS OF THE SECOND PART. Part II Action I p. I. Sermon-like stuff: Doctor Dee having a zeal, but not according to knowledge) mervailously affected with it. Prince Rosimberg his expectation of money answered, and eluded with great subtilty, by example out of Scripture, of Abraham, David, Solomon, and c. The precious Powder he had, how and when, to be used. Judgements to be executed upon several Great ones, (sure enough if they had prevailed) by Prince Rosimberg, as from God. Ed. Kelley, his Wife barren: why. He very weary of his office: reproved for it, and another (Arthur, Doctor Dee's son,) to be substituted in his place: yea, and his portion of the precious Powder to be taken from him, if he do not repent. II p. 4. Arthur, first presented, and prepared by Prayer, and c. Enters upon his Office: Seeth divers things in the Stone; Lions, Men, and c. But beareth not. III p. 5. Arthur again, as before: Three Exercises in one day. IV p. 7. Arthur again, as before: in two Exercises more. V p. 8. Ed. Kelley, in his Office again: sees and hears, as before. Uriel, first authour of Doctor Dee's and Ed. Kelley's conjunction. A New Law promised here again. Anabaptistical Doctrine of committing Adultery, for Gods sake, and c. and #182; Of some words here, see the Errata. VI p. 9. Here the spirits begin to shew themselves in their own likenesse apparently, teaching doctrines of Devils: and yet still (as their instruments at this day in divers places) in the name of God. Doctor Dee and Ed. Kelley, are exhorted, yea commanded, to have their Wives in common. The case argued on both sides stifly and eagerly. Other strange Doctrine of Devils, (noted, and rejected in the Preface ) of murder condemned by the Laws of men, approved by God. Saint Paul impiously slandered. Great promises, in case of obedience. The Powder. The Pope here accursed: yet Popery elsewhere justified. Kelley scandalized: Doctor Dee in great Agony. Some secrets of distillation revealed by Spirits. The Powder again, and how E.K. came by it. Predictions of England, and c. (all false and foolish) Ed. Kelley his fidelity suspected. Cabalistical mysteries of Letters, and Numbers: not well understood by Doctor Dee, and c. Though much helped by his spirits. But at last, he hath joy, ( in spirit as he is perswaded) and resolves to obey and #182; Doctor Dee, Ed. Kelley, and their two Wives, their sense, apprehensions, and resolutions, concerning this new doctrine of promiscuous copulation enjoyed: expressed in form of a Covenant (so by them called) with God: here first exhibited, and afterwards, p. 20. compleated, and subscribed by the Parties: and #182; with a most wicked clause, or conclusion, of dreadful imprecations to all that should hereafter come to the knowledge of it, or bring it to knowledge: whereas it is much to the glory of God, and true Religion, that such mysteries of Hell and darknesse, should come to light, to be abhorred by all men: and that others may be warned by such sad examples, not to hunt after new doctrines, and pretended inspirations and revelations. and #182; p. 17. Ed. Kelley his Declaration of his dislike, from the beginning of these Actions, in generall: His opposition upon occasion. His dislike of this new doctrine (in particular) as contrary to the revealed Will of God: how satisfied in some measure: and thereupon his readinesse to obey. But upon the womens professed dislike, and demurre, resolves to give over all further dealing. VII p. 19. Apparitions. The chief Stone carried away by Spirits in their sight. More exhortations and arguments, for compliance to this new doctrine. Offer of a Miracle, for further confirmation. VIII p. 21. Another Apparition (upon request made) to confirm them in their purpose of obedience. IX p. 22. Tet another to the same purpose. The Covenant torne by Kelley, made whole again by spirits. The great power of God: faith and obedience the main thing. Great promises. Judgements pronounced against Kelley his tearing the paper of Covenant: Against others, (some already executed) for enticing him away: By which it seems Kelley being terrified, resolves to tarry, and obey. and #182; The Stone, strangely taken away, as strangely restored, in the presence and sight of both. X The Act of obedience (good words, to countenance greatest villanies; never wanted: as dayly seen:) performed, is accepted by shews and speeches. Commendation of Wisdom, Secrecy enjoyed. XI Cabalistical Doctrine, of the Creation of man: The soul of man, not the subject of sanctification, and c. Great Promises and Predictions: (equally true) entertained, (with the Doctrine:) with comfort. and #182; p. 28. Prince Rosimberg: (the man now in favour: but miserably abused and deluded:) two Letters of his to Doctor Dee, and c. Several questions by him proposed, as expecting great things; and wholly to be governed by their Spirits. His confidence of a great Treasure, in the Powder delivered unto him. and #182; p. 30. Several Questions, and Petitions of Doctor Dee's upon the former Proposition, and c. to be offered unto God: among the rest, one for the making of the Philosophers Stone: Another, for Kelley's being sick: for his Wife, being barren: for his own Wife sick, and c. The Emperour of Moscovie, his great opinion of Doctor Dee, and favour offered. and #182; But here followeth that great hiatus, or interruption of Story, which bereaves us of many years (Spoken of in the Preface:) account. All from hence, to the end, set out unto us but the sad and lamentable Catastrophie of this long Delusion. Kelley is no more heard of now; yet the spirits appear still in the same shape, as before. and #182; An. Dom. 1607 (Stylo Ful.) Martii 20. By this time Doctor Dee was become a very old man: If he were Sexagenarius (as he is stiled in Puccius his Letter, P.I. 439.l.15.) a.d. 1586. he must needs be fourscore and upwards by this: But we need not take the word so precisely: However if towards it then, (more or lesse) he must be very old now, as I said before. THE CONTENTS OF THE THIRD PART Part III. Action I p. 32. Raphael (pretended) sent unto Doctor Dee, to comfort him, being (besides old Age) much afflicted with poverty and sicknesse. II p. 33. The same Raphael. Of a certain Treasure somewhere under ground, (as was supposed.) Doctor Dee's questions rather eluded, than really answered. Put-offs, and Promises, (of wonderful Wisdom, and c.) Still. III. Ibid. A Voice sent to Doctor Dee, then (as it seemeth) alone. IV p. 34. Raphael again: who, with many fair pretenses, and very forcible Rhetorick (to such a one as Doctor Dee) doth deliver a message unto him, of a Journey into a far Country, to be undertaken by him in this his miserable case and condition, of purse and body, through years, and present sicknesse. The danger of his disobedience herein, and reward of obedience; the Philosophers Stone, and c. Doctor Dee is willing. (O rare faith: or rather prodigious, but deserved infatuation!) Salisbury, and his Devils; if the Devil may be believed. and #182; p. 36. Some Cases and Questions proposed, and to be proposed. and #182; It seems Doctor Dee, at this time, took upon him to be a Cunning-man. His necessity which was great, might put him to it to try all means: but I think he was too honest to thrive by it.

V p. 39. The same Raphael. Some questions (I doubt, how truly) resolved about the Treasure. The Journey hastened. The History of Tobias. VI p. 40. Raphael in the Stone: The Jewel; the Powder: in Doctor Dee's possession; but not yet of use to him. His thankfullnesse, (good man.) VII p. 41. Raphael again in the Stone. The Journey. Great Promises of Wisdom, and c. Doctor Dee's enemies at Court. Money intended by the Emperour (so also p. 38.) to Doctor Dee, hindered. Some Cases, concerning others, and himself, at his request answered. VIII p. 43. Raphael: Divers Questions and Cases by him answered. One John Pontoys, very ambitious to serve Doctor Dee, in these Apparitions. and #182; Which end here in our Relation: and probably, with his life: or at least, (though his Spirits had promised him, p. 34. addition of many years) not long before his death. I cannot yet learn the direct time of his death: but much about this time, (by all reports:) and in England, certainly, Though his sin was very great (as in the Preface is shewed:) yet because of his simple and sincere intentions towards God, it may charitably be hoped, that God was so merciful to him, as to let him know his error, and to repent of it, before his death. and #182; p. 46. That which follows here, is certainly intended for part of that holy Language, which Adam in Paradise is said P. I p. 64, 92. to have spoken: and by which great wonders might be wrought. I have neither faith, nor curiosity to inquire into it any further: neither will, (I think) any sober man. Instead of other Approbation: the Reader (besides the judgement of the late Arch-Bishop of Armagh: for his Piety and Learning so famous every where; spoken of in the Preface, first page of it: and the judgement of divers others, that read the Book Manuscript, and wished it printed:) may consider, how sollicitous the Devil hath been, when he saw his plots (God opposing) not likely to take effect; that these Mysteries (these Papers and Records) might not come to light. First, by p. 418. And p. 431. (Doctor Dee's Letter to the Popes Nuncio) and some other places of the Book, it doth appear, that they were all burnt, by command; though some afterwards (upon appearance of better hopes) strangely restored again. Again, Part II p. 21. Is that horrible imprecation; whereof more in the Table. Lastly, these remaining Papers and Records, here exhibited, were under ground, God knows how long: and since that, though carefully preserved, were even and so at the last, (not unluckily, I hope for the publick good:) they fell into my hands. ERRATA: Those of the Book, MAny will be found in the Book: a good part procceding (besides ordinary typographical mistakes, even where best care is used:) from the uncorrectednesse of the Coty: which might happen, partly through the illegiblenesse of the Original it self, in many places: and partly from mistakes in the said Original, where most legible. The cause of which mistakes and miswriting, you may find P. I. p. 159. l. 20. and c. and besides what is there said, it may be probably collected from P. II. p. 27. l. 43. and p. 23. l. 20. and some other like places that Ed. Kelley, for the most part, when he made report to Doctor Dee, of voices and speeches, (such especially as were of some length) did not know what he said himself, and so might the easier mistake. A good part of the Greek. P. I. p. 27. was misreported, and mistaken, as is shewed in the Preface p ....) and I believe never throughly understood by Doctor Dee himself: It cannot therefore be expected otherwise, but that there should be many faults in the writing: for which I would not have the innocent (the Printers and Correctors, I mean:) to bear more blame, than comes to their share. Yet however, though many: most are such (those places excepted where the Original was very faulty:) as may easily be corrected by an ordinary Reader that is conversant in books of all kinds: Or if not so easily corrected, yet such as will not bereave the Reader of the main sense and matter. Some few passages here and there, it may be, will be found, where a reasonable Scholar may be put to it: as P. II. p. 9. L 11. alias vobismet ipsis disimperuis: which certainly must be read, alas vobismet, ipsis disruperitis: there being a man fest (and pertinent) allusion, in the words, to that allegorical [Greek omitted] (wing-breeding: or, bearing:) of the soul, so famous in the Books of Philosophers; Platonists especially. That very expression is to be found in Plato, (or Works commonly adscribed unto him:) not [Greek omitted] onely and [Greek omitted]: (which is the same in effect:) but even [Greek omitted]: alas confringere, as it is here. Some such places here and there, may be found, where the Reader must take some time to confider, (in what is Latine, especially:) if he think it worth the while. I have said as much as I think needful, and my leisure will afford me at this time. Since this written, observing that p. 403, 404. the Latine there is both pages, is very full of faults, (far more there, than any where else: that I have observed:) I thought it would not be a miffe to correct those two pages. The Reader may the better know what he hath to do upon such occasions, though I dare say he will not meet with the like again in the whole Book. A TRUE RELATION OF Dr. DEES Actions, with spirits. Liber Mysteriorum ( and Sancti) parallelus Novalisque. G1 Lesden MAY

28. 1583. G2 [delta] . As J. and E.K. sate discoursing of the Noble Polonian Albertus Laschi his great honour here with us obtained, his great good liking of all States of the people, of them that either see him or hear of him, and again how much I was beholding to God that his heart should so fervently favour me, and that he doth so much strive to suppress and confound the malice and envie of my Country-men against me, for my better credit winning or recovering to do God better service hereafter thereby, and c. Suddenly, there seemed to come out of my Oratory a Spirituall creature, like a pretty girle of 7 or 9 yeares of age, attired on her head with her hair rowled up before, and hanging down very long behind, with a gown of G3 Sey, .....changeable green and red, and with a train she seemed to play up and down.....like, and seemed to go in and out behind my books, lying on heaps, the biggest .....and as she should ever go between them, the books seemed to give place sufficiently, dis.... one heap from the other, while she passed between hem: And so I considered, and ..... the diverse reports which E.K. made unto me of this pretty maiden, and ..... [delta] . I said ..... Whose maiden are you? [delta] . Sh. .... Whose man are you? [delta] . I am the servant of God both by my bound duty, and also (I hope) by his Adoption. A voyce. .... You shall be beaten if you tell. .... Am not I a fine Maiden? Give me leave to play in your house, my Mother told me she would come and dwell here. [delta] . She went up and down with most lively gestures of a young girl, playing by her selfe, and diverse times another spake to her from the corner of my study by a great Perspective-glasse, but none was seen beside her selfe. .... Shall I? I will (Now she seemed to answer one in the foresaid Corner of the Study) ..... I pray you let me tarry a little [speaking to one in the foresaid Corner] [delta] . Tell me who you are? ..... I pray you let me play with you a little, and I will tell you who I am. G4 [delta] . In the name of Jesus then tell me. .... I rejoyce in the name of Jesus, and I am a poor little Maiden, Madini, I am the last but one of my Mothers children, I have little Baby-children at home. G5 delta] . Where is your home? Ma..... I dare not tell you where I dwell, I shall be beaten. [delta] . You shall not be beaten for telling the truth to them that love the truth, to the eternal truth all Creatures must be obedient. G6 Ma. .... I warrant you I will be obedient. My Sisters say they must all come and dwell with you. -notes- G1 [delta]. Is Dr. Dee, E.K. Edward Kellet, See the Preface. G2 A. L. G3 Green and red. G4 Jesus. G5 Proles ipsius Madini. G6 Madini her six Sisters.

[delta] . I desire that they who love God should dwell with me, and I with them. Ma. .... I love you now you talke of God. G1 [delta] . Your eldest sister her name is Esemeli. Ma. .... My sister is not so short as you make her. G2 [delta] . O, I cry you mercy, she is to be pronounced Eseméli. E.K. she smileth, one calls her saying, Come away Maiden. Ma. .... I will read over my Gentlewoemen first. My Master Dee will teach me, if I say amisse. [delta] . Read over your Gentlewoemen as it pleaseth you. Ma. .... I have Gentlemen and Gentlwoemen, Look you here. E- K. She bringeth a little book out of her pocket, .... She pointeth to a in Picture the book. Mad. .... Is not this a pretty man. [delta] . What is his name? Ma.....My..... saith, his name is Edward, Look you, be beth a Crown upon his bead, my Mother saith, that this man was Duke of York. E.K. She looketh upon a Picture in the Book with a Coronet in his hand and a Crown upon his head. Ma. .... This was a jolly man when be was King of England. [delta] . How long since is it that he was King of England? Ma. .... Do you ask me such a question, I am but a little Maiden? Lo, here is his Father Richard Plantagenet, and his Father also. [delta] . How call you him? Ma. ....Richard, Surely this was Richard Earle of Cambridge. E.K. She turneth the book leaves, and said. Mad. ....: Here is a grim Lord, He maketh me afraid. [delta] . Why doth he make you afraid? Ma. .... He is a stern fellow, I do not know him what he is. But this was the Duke of Clarence. This was Father to Richard Earle of Cambridge. Lo, here is Anne his wife. E.K. Turning over the leafe, The same was heir to all Mortimers lands. Edmund was her brother. Lo, Sir, here be the wicked Mortimers. E K. She turned over diverse leaves, and then she said Ma. .... This same is Roger Mortimer. .... My Mother saith this man was Earl of the Marches. This same is his wife. He had a great deale of lands by her, for she was an Heire. This same is wild Genvill, her Father. G3 Here is a Town they call Webley. Here is Beudley. Here is Mortimers Clybery. Here is wild Wenlock. Here is Ludlow. Here is Stanton Lacy. Genvill his wife was Heire of all these. Here is Hugh Lacy her Father. He weareth his haire long, for be was Deputy of Ireland; That maketh him look with such a written face. My sister bath torne out the other two leaves, I will bring them when you have supped. I pray do not tell any body of me. [delta] . We were earnestly called for to Supper by my folks. G4 After Supper. Ma. .... Here is William Lacy Father to Hugh. Here is Richard his Father. And here is Sir Richard his Father, and here is William, Sir Richards Brother, Here is his going into France. [delta] . Quo anno Christi? Mad. .... I warrant you my eldest Sister will tell you all. Here is his going into Denmark. G5 My Sister will come shortly, and tell you how be married in Poland, and what issue this William bad. [delta] . I pray declare the Pedigree down to this Albert Lascy. Ma. .... Alas, I cannot tell what is done in other Countries. [delta] . I know you are not Particular of this Country, but Universal for all countries in the whole world, which is indeed but one Countrey, or a great City, and c. Mad. .... Well, my sister will shortly come and tell you unlooked for, If you judge these things well that I have spoken. Nam vera sunt. Nam verus est qui me misit. -notes- G1 Dee. G2 Eseméli. G3 Pronounced Jenville. G4 Note. G5 Her eldest Sister. Her Sister is to tell the rest.

Truth is all that is truth. The Mortimer I spake of, is the first of the six: there were fix Mortimers Earles of March. Edmond was the last, and Roger the first; that Mortimer was the Grandfathers Grandfather of this Edmond. E. K. There seemeth some one to call her, whom I hear now. Ma ..... I come. [delta] . She took up her Skrolls on the ground, of which some were very old, and she put up her book. Ma ..... This may stand you in some stead. [delta] . Saw no creature: But the voice came behind him over his head, till now: when he espied one standing on the Table besides the silke cloth on which the Stone stood; he seemed like a Husbandman all in red apparel, red hose close to his legs, a red jacket, red buttoned cap on his head, yea, and red shooes. He asked E. K. how he did, and E. K. answered, Well I thank God. [delta] . By your apparel it should seem you have somewhat to say concerning the Commons of this Realme, and not of high School-points, or Sciences. I am desirous to know who sent you? I consider your speeches, for I have left nothing behind. E. K. He kneeleth down and seemeth to say somewhat, his speech is quick, round, and ready. He seemeth to pray in a strange Language. E K. Now he standeth up. .... Hast not thou said, From whom comest thou? What is thy message? [[delta] . He looked toward me] And hast urged my name? Saying, All things have a name. It is true; for so they G1 have because they are. Hast thou lest any thing unsaid? [delta] . You rehearse my speeches not onely in general, but also in particular. The will of God be done (to his glory) for the rest. .... My message is from him, in whose name thou hast desired it, which hath said lift up thine eyes, and look unto (behold I say) the sum of my Commandments, 1. What I am, 2. Whose Ministers you are, and (as it is said before) 3. To what end and purpose it is. Then cease to plead when Judgement standeth in place; For all things are determined already. The 7 doores are opened. The 7 Governours have almost ended their Government. The Earth laboureth as sick, yea sick unto death. The Waters pour forth weepings, and have not moisture sufficient to quench their ownsorrows. The Aire withereth, for her heat is infected. The Fire consumeth and is scalded with his own beat. The Bodies above are ready to say, We are weary of our courses. Nature would fain creep again into the bosom of her good and gracious Master. Darknesse is now heary and sinketh down together: She hath builded her self, yea (I say) she hath advanced her self into a mighty building, she saith, Have done, for I am ready to receive my burden. Hell it self is weary of Earth: For why? The son of Darknesse cometh now to challenge his G2 right: and seeing all things prepared and provided, desireth to establish himself a kingdom; saying, We are now stronge enough, Let us now build us a kingdom upon earth, and Now establish that which we could not confirm above. And therefore, Behold the end. G3 When the time cometh, The ..... thy sorrows shall be greater than the sweetnesse, the sorrows (I mean) of that thouseest; I mean in respect of the sweetnesse of thy knowledge. Then will you lament and weep for those thou

Therefore (I say) thirst Not overmuch: For fear least thy capacity be confounded. Neither move thou him which hath moved all things already to the end. But do thou that which is commanded. Neither prescribe thou any form to God his building. All things shall be brought into an uniformal Order. G5 Whom thou sayest that thou hast not yet confirmed, confirm with good counsel. It is said I have accepted him. Are not these News sufficient? It is said, He shall govern me a people: of himself be cannot. Therefore let him believe, and G6 secondly Rejoyce that the Angel of God hath so governed him. That in Election he shall govern him a people. Desireth be to hear of greater blessednesse? G7 He hath also said: Then shall it be said unto him, O King. It followeth consequently that he is called, and that to a Kingly Office: For whosoever is Anointed in the Lord, his Kingdom is for ever. Will he be the son of perdition? Let him then with his fathers put on the garments of pride. Desireth he news? Tell him thou hast prayed for him; the Devil envyeth him, and his estate. Tell him that I say so. Say it is a shame for a Kings Son to commit theft; and for him that is called, to do the workes of unrighteousnesse. Studies thou to please him? Give him sharp and wholesome counsel. For in him (I say) the state and alteration of the whole World shall begin. Wouldst thou know from whence I came? Thoushalt. But do it Humbly, it is not my part to meddle any further than my charge. But as it is said before unto thee, So shall it come to passe. [delta] . If I might without offending you, I would move two Petitions unto you, one concerning the Soul, and the other concerning the body: Concerning the Soul, is for one Isabel Lifter, whom the wicked Enemy hath sore afflicted long with dangerous temptations, and hath brought her knives to destroy her self withall; she resisteth hitherto, and desireth my helping counsel, which how small it is God knoweth. The other is of another woman, who hath great need, and is driven to maintain her self, her husband, and three children by her hand labour, and there is one that by dreamt is advertised of a place of Treasure hid in a Cellar, which this woman hath hired thereupon, and hath no longer time of hiring the said Cellar, but till Midsummer next. She, and this dreaming Maiden digged somewhat, and found certain tokens notified unto her: But so left off. I would gladly have your help herein, if it pleased God. Mur. .... I answer thee, I will come again soon, and thou shalt receive a Medicine which shall teach thee to work help in the first. The second is vanity, for it is not so, but to the intent that after great hope of this world hath infected the weaklings minde: Desperation might have the more open and ready entrance. But yet she shall be comforted for thy sake. [delta] . The praise be unto God. Mur. .... I Go. One thing I have to say, be faithfull in all things. I have said. [delta] . G1 a Commission was out to attache, and apprehend him as a fellow for coyning of money. Secondly, that his wife was gone from Mistresse Freemans house at Blohley, and how Mr. Husey had reported him to be a cosener, and had used very bitter and grievous reports of him now of late; and that his wife was at home with her mother at Chipping Norton, whereupon, I considering his great disorder and incumbrance toward him externally, and his greater offending of God with his furious impatience internally; and remembering the whole premises of God his service to be performed by us two (if we would be dutifull servants to his Divine Majesty) I was touched with a great pang of Compassion, both that any Christian should use such speeches as he used, or be of so revenging a minde and intent as he shewed himself to be: and also in respect of mine own credit to be brought in doubt, for embracing the company of such an one, a disorderly person: And thirdly, that the good service of God might hereby be taken from our two executing, to our great danger, both in body and soul: Therefore to do my G2 duty as a man resolute (upon our uniting for Gods service) to do for him as for my self: I made God my refuge for comfort, counsel, and help in this great affliction, and crosse of temptation. Whereupon after my vehement and humble prayers for the foresaid purpose, this voyce was heard of E.K. I had (upon some reasonable respect) set the shew-stone with the mystery in it, on the Table by E.K. also. A voyce. .... Let the daughters of light Take up their garments, let them open the windows of their secret Chambers, for the voyce of man hath said. Oh, shew they self to be a God; yea, perform that which thou hast already promised, gather your vestures together, for those that are sick have need of help, you are the children of pittie, G3 and in the loins of compassion do you dwell: For I have said, you are. And I have said, my Determination shall not fail, although with the sons of men my Determinations may be undetermined. Come gather up your garments, for the Cankers are ripe, and the Biting-worm seekth to gnaw into the Lily. He hath said, Let me prove them, for they are not just: Yea, let me tou them, for they are unrighteous, I have granted him power, but without prevailing, I have given him weapons, but they are not sharpned, his fingers shall defile, and yet not deface. For I have appointed him a night, and have prefixed an end thereunto, to the intent it may be known: That thus far I have stretched his mouth. E.K. I have heard a voyce about the shew-stone very great, as though men were beating down of mud walls. The thumping, shuffling, and cluttering is such. A voice. .... Arise, I say, for I will be revenged against the scorning of those; yea, of those that are sucklings. [delta] . After a great silence and pause, appeared one on the Table (without the skirts of the silke sarcenet) like a woman having on a red kirtle and above that a white garment like an Irish Mantle, on her head a round thing like a Garland, green and like a Coronet under the Garland, but not perfectly to be discerned; on her breast a precious Stone of white colour, and on her back another precious Stone; both which Stones were set upon a Crosse, in the very center of the Crosse. [delta] . Your external apparel (you Daughter of Light) you perceive that we have somewhat noted: but by the power and mercy of the external Light, we trust and desire to understand somewhat of your internal vertue. She said ..... What do you think I am a Jewellers wife by my apparel? [delta] . We deem you to be the Messenger of him that hath for mankind purchased the Jewel of eternal Blisse, by the incomparable Jewel of his most precious Blood. G4 ..... Will you have this too? [delta] . After a pretty while silence, I said, We expect the execution of the purpose for which you are sent. She said ..... It is written that Fride was the first offence. Githgulcag knew not himself. Therefore he was ignorant. E.K. She is much fumbling about the Stone on her breast, and regarding it. E.K. Now She talketh with other whom I see not, her talke is very short and quick, but I cannot perceive what she saith. She. .... Read what I have said. I read the former words. She. .... You will grant me that Pride is the greatest sin. -notes- G1 A meer untruth in every part thereof, and a malicious lye. G2 Amicorum omnia communia. G3 Note of Determination undeterminable. Pride was the cause he knew not himself. Therefore Pride is the cause of Ignorance. [delta] . The Argument is good. She. .... Ignorance was the nakednesse wherewithal you were first tormented, and the first Plague that fell unto man was the want of Science. E.K. Now she speaketh to other again who appeare not, and they seem to answer her again. She. .... The want of Science hindreth you from knowledge of yourself. E.K. She looketh upon . and smileth. Now she speaketh to the unseen people again. She. .... Whosoever therefore knoweth not himself, is proud. [delta] . God help us to know ourselves for his Honour sake. E.K. She looketh upon . and smileth. She. .... You have time enough, therefore we may take leisure. [delta] . [I made speed to write. E.K. She talketh again with her invisible company. She. .... Pride is rewarded as sin, Ergo the first offender was damned. What say you Sir? [speaking to E.K.] What difference is between your mind and Pride? E. K. Wherein am I proud? She. .... In the same wherein the Devil was first proud. Who glorified the Devil? E. K. God. [delta] . God glorified not the Devil, but before he became a Devil he was in glory. G1 She. .... The abusing of his Glorification made him a Devil: So the abusing of the goodnesse of God toward this man, may make him a Devil. The works of the Spirit quicken; the doings of the Flesh lead unto distraction. Art thou offended to be called a Devil? Then extol not thy self above thy Election. G2 No man is elected by proper name, but according to the measure of his faith, and this faith is lively and bath a quickening Spirit in it for ever. Indeed thou art ignorant, and therefore thou art sufficiently plagued: Why dost thou boast thy self and say, This I can do? The Reeds pipe, but it is long of the wind, and herein thou shewest that thou knowest not thy self for that thou art proud; pray therefore that thou mayest have understanding, and cast away pride if thou wilt not be counted a Devil. By true understanding you learn, first to know your selves what you are: of whom you are, and to what end you are. This understanding causeth no self-love, but a spiritual self-love. This understanding teacheth no Blasphemy. This understanding teacheth no fury. G3 It teacheth a man to be angry, but not wrathful. For we may be angry, and not offend. Wrath is to damnation. Therefore considering that Damnation was the end of the first, which was Pride, and Ignorance, the punishment of the second (which is very loathsome.) Pray unto God thou mayest avoid the first, and be unburdened of the second. Consider by whom thou art counselled, and of whom the counsel is: with us there is no cause of offence, neither is the counsel given with a weak mouth. Wilt thou be well rewarded? Why studies thou not to do well? Wouldst thou be one of the chosen? stand stiff and be contented with all temptations. Is God a God of Justice? E.K. It is true. Be thou therefore a just servant. No man inheriteth the Kingdom of Eternity, without he conquer in this World. No man can challenge justly a reward, without he be a Conquerour, or do the workes of Justice. Doth the Devil perswade thee? Arme thy self against him. Doth the World not like of thee? It is for two causes; either for that thou lives well and not as a worldling, or else because thy wickednesse is such as that the World wondreth at it. If thou be in the first Rejoyce, For blessed are those whom the World hateth; when they laugh at thy godlinesse, Be sorry and grieve thou at their sinfulness. If thou offend in the second flie hastily from the World: Tell the World what thou hast of hers, and let her be ashamed that thou knowest her. Is thy flesh stiff-necked? Fast and pray, it doth avoide temptation. G4 Be sorry alwayes; For in this World there is nothing to rejoyce at; For fin onely provoketh to sorrow, whether it be of thy self or of another. -notes- G1 A Devil. G2 Faith. G3 Wrath. G4 Be sorry alwayes.

Be stiff against temptations, for whosoever is not armed as I am, shall be vexed with the weapons of his adversary. My Garland is Godlinesse, my Brestplate is Humility, and upon my back I wear Patience. G1 These do I wear to the intent I might shew you what you should wear. But as these things are placed in their crosses, so do the crosses alwayes follow them that wear them. Art thou punished as an Apostle? Rejoyce; it is a happy crosse. Art thou vexed as a Tyrant? thank God it is in this World. For blessed are those that are punished here, to the intent their sins may be forgotten hereafter. I perswade to the contrary; Be humble, seek true wisdom, then are you truely fashioned according G2 to your Maker, and shalt rest with us, with Halleluja in Heaven. I have counselled, I have done my message thus far. [delta] . Your counsel is perfectly good, and your message merciful. His name be praised and glorified that sent you. Amen. As you were called hither, by the name of Daughters of Light: So this other day, there was one sent hither (of that blessed company) who was accounted a Daughter, and had six Sisters more: That Daughter her name was Madini; so of your name we are desirous to be informed, for distinction and instructions sake, in the trade of these my steries. She said. .... It is good to know my name; to see whether it agree with my Doctrine. E.K. What can you (for all your exhortation) accuse me of? Indeed I thank you very heartily for your exhortation and good counsel; but how unjustly I am misused at Huseys hand, and so provoked to this extream affliction of mind and sundry unseemly speeches, be you Judge between Husey and me. She said. Whosoever hath committed sin and is not reconciled, shall have the reward of a sinner. There is a double Reconciliation, the one is with God, the other with the Conscience. But this man is not reconciled in Conscience (repenteth not his wickednesse) thereby it followeth he cannot be reconciled with God: Ergo he must be rewarded as he is. The reward of sin is to be absent, or rather to be banished in this world from the society of God and his Angels. So it falleth out to Regions and Countries, Cities, Kings and Subjects, Authorities and their G3 Officers, when (I say) they are estranged with absence of their appointed and good keepers. Therefore it proved that the Devil is most with him, and nearest with him. Whom the Devil is a Lord of, he useth as his servants, and where his service may be greatest done, there is he most alledged. His subtilties are principal and great: And by these reasons I prove that G4 Husey is easily to be infected, either with envy, malice, slander, or dishonour of Gods word. This is one of those Assaults that is promised should assault you. Who is to be blamed, be that consenteth, or he in whom the procurement is? Thou didst consent and chose him for a Companion. Be not therefore angry at his malice; for the fire that is, thou hast brought in with thine own bands. To measure the Enemy his industry is impossible to look into, his subtiltie is more incredible. The Reward of good life is great: But the filthinesse that sin carryeth with it in this World, and leadeth with it into the World to come, is most horrible. Is it not said, That a skirmish shall be (and that great) but you shall be Conquerours? It is written, It is true and shall be never overthrown; so mighty is his strength that bath armed himself with it. In the Serpents belly, there is nothing clean: neither with dishonest persons (ungodly I mean) is there any pure society: Light agreed not with Darknesse, nor vertue with vice, therefore be you G5 of one, and in one, that you may agree and have the reward of one. Behold it is said, I will part bounds between the just and the unjust, I will suffer the Enemy to sowe discord to the intent that those that are my people may be separated and have a dwelling by themselves. G6 Peruse the Scripture, it is alwayes seen that the Spirit of God forceth Satan in spite of his head to separate the evil from the good by discord, and herein the Devil worketh against himself. We good Angels keep secret the Mysteries of God; things that are to come we alwayes G7 keep close with this exception, The form of our Commandment. Truth it is that a Commission is granted not onely to enquire of thee, but also to attach thee, and that by the Council. If he go down he shall be attached, therefore tempt not God. G8 [delta] . But if he tarry here and his being here so known as it is, it is likely that he shall be attached here to my no small grief or disgrace. What is your counsel herein? She said. .... It is written misery shall not enter the doors of him whom the Highest hath G9 magnified. DIXIT, and DICO, and DICTUM SIT. The world shall never prevaile against you. [delta] . As concerning Isabel Lister who is vexed of a wicked spirit, how well have I executed that which was prescribed me; or how well doth it work? ATH. .... Friend, It is not of my charge. Remember the true path that leadeth unto true honour, where there sitteth a True and Just GOD, who grant you his Direction and establishment of perfect life. [delta]. Amen, Amen, Amen. E.K. She is gone. Junii 9. a Meridie hora 5. [delta] . Very long I prayed in my Oratory and at my Deske to have answer or resolutions of divers doubts which I had noted in a paper, and which doubts I read over distinctly, they concerned the preparation of things about the Table of practice, and other things above my Lamin and Stone; but answer came none, neither in the Stone did any thing appear; no, not the Golden Curtain, but the Stone was of his natural Diaphanitie. But I held on in pittiful manner to request some advertisement, if for any our trespasses or offences this unlooked for alteration from former dealing had hapned, and c. At length a voice came from behind E.K. over his head, and said thus: A voyce. .... The judgements of our God are most profound and hard in the understanding of man. There is silence above, let there therefore be patience amongst you. I have said. G5 [delta] . Upon this answer I began to discourse of divers causes of this silence, and divers manners of silences; and in the end I became in a great and sorrowfull heaviness, and fear of the wrath, or displeasure of God; conceived for some, our misbehavior towards him since our last dealing, whereupon I prayed long at my Desk, standing for mercy, comfort, counsel, and some exposition of the former sentence. After a long time thus passing there appeared one in the very top of the frame of the shew-stone, much like Michael. Who said, .... Write, for I must be gone. Silence there is in heaven, for the Governours of the earth are now before the Lord, the doings of their seats are now disclosed, every thing is NOTED. For that God will be righteous in all his doings. There is not this day any one that governeth the people upon earth, but his government -notes- G1 The Book found. G2 The Powder. G3 The ii Earths. is disclosed, and his government is set open, and his faults revealed. They without number cry, Lord, let thy vengeance come. The earth sayeth. Be it so. Sathan is before the Lord: He hath garnished himself with Garlands as a Conquerour, and G1 what he saith is wonderfull. Therefore shall the Lord open his mouth, and curse the earth, and all living creatures. For Inicuity hath gotten the upper hand: Publickly the States of mankinde in the world are G2 condemned. We are all silent and ready with our Viols to powre the wrath of God upon them, when he saith, BEIT SO. Therefore be you patient. For, our patience in an universal silence. G3 We look for the mouth of Justice: But L O: The Lord saith unto the Lord, lift up thy eyes (O God.) Behold, the Dignity of thy workmanship, yet suffer for awhile. G4 I have a people that will forsake their cruelty, and put off their Garments that stink of abomination, in whom thy name shall be magnified, and our glory in heaven more exalted. But as thou wilt, so be it. Behold, I speak in body, because I tremble, as at the force of thy great indignation: Notwithstanding, we will what thou wilt. If therefore these wonders be so great in heaven, wonder thou not at our silence: Therefore be patient, and say unto the earth? Why groanest thou so hard, or why is thy body so rotten: Hast not thou justly deserved these things for thy iniquity? I say, if you be partakers of these secrets, how much more shall you be partakers of that sweetnesse, which is the eternal dew, and very bread it self of life. S O. E.K. He is gone. [delta] . I prayed a pretty while after with thanks-giving, and c. Soli Deo nostro omnis laus, potestas, and gloria in seculorum sæoula, Amen. Junii 14. 1583. Friday, a meridie, Hora 4½. [delta] . The golden vayl, or curtain appeared, covering the whole stone, whereas all other vayls and curtains before did use to cover but the more part, or those things which were the standing implements of the action for that time. This appeared as soon as he looked into the stone. I made long, and often prayers of thanks-giving, calling for grace, mercy, and wisdom: with such particular instructions as I had written down the doubts requiring light, or resolution in them, and c. At length appeared a woman like an old maid in a red Peticote, and with a red silk upper bodies, her hair rould about like a Scottish woman, the same being yellow: she stood aside from the green Sarcenet belonging to the stone, and she said ..... God speed my friends. [delta] . A good greeting to with us speed by him, Amen. E.K. I never saw this woman before. .... It may be you have seen me, but my apparel may alter my fashion. E.K. She seemeth to go in a great path before her very speedily. [delta] . I pray you, whither make you such a speedy journey. .... I am going home, I have been from home this seven-night. [delta] . Distance of place cannot protract time in your journey homeward. G5 ..... Jesu, now be will be angry with me, as he was with his maid. . Every Action not yet effected, whether is it at home, or from home? [delta] . God grant you then to make speed homeward, and to your home, and all we to the home where the highest may be well pleased. .... So, so, you talk too wisely for me. [delta] . God make me to talk wisely indeed, and God take all vanity from my heart. G6 ..... You may think me a vain huswife to be going thus long: But ly me you may perceive how vain all worldly wisdom is. I am in a better case then many are, for though I be from home, yet am I going home, some there be that neither have home, neither can go home. E.K. Now cometh a goodly tall aged man all in black, with a Hat on his head, he hath a long gray beard forked, he saith to the Maid, thus: Old man..... Wihther go you maid? Maid ..... Belike Sir, you may be some kyn unto these men, for they are also desirous to know whither I do go. Old man ..... Me thinks I should have known you before? Maid ..... If you knew me before, you may the easier know me now. -notes- G1 Sathan. G2 Viols ready. G3 Yet awhile. G4 1583. G5 Marie my maid had angered me on Thursday night, with her undue speech. G6 All worldly wisdom vain.

[Old man] Where have you been? and if thy gravity were as good as thy ancient dissembling, I would tell thee. Old man. .... These words be very large, what is the cause thou wilt not be acquainted with me? (I never did thee harm) and I have desired to be acquainted with thee a long time. Maid. .... With counterfeit gravity I will never be acquainted, neither thy age, and thy fame, nor thy hairs, nor the sobernesse of thy countenance can move me to any acquaintance for that thou never delightedst in true wisdom. Old man. .... Then go your way like an Harlot. Maid. .... If wicked words do prove an Harlot, then thou hast judged thy self. E.K. Now she goeth on forward, and the Old man is gone out of sight. There appeareth now a young man, sitting on the side of a Ditch, and to him she said. Maid. .... What aileth you to weep? Young man. .... I weep for thy discourtesie Maid. .... Thou canst not move my conscience: No, (I say) thou canst not move me to pittie. E.K. She licketh his tears, and saith. Maid. .... Every thing else hath some saltnesse, but here is none. Young man. .... Oh, I pray thee, do something for me. Maid. .... Oh, to qualified these tears, is no other then to dry rotten Hemp with a mighty fire. Young man. .... I will see thee hang'd before I will weep any more Maid. .... Every thing commonly teacheth of it self. E.K. The young man went away stamping, and angry, and now she is come where a multitude of young Children are, there is much meat on a Table, and the Children being not high enough to reach it, pull'd the maid by the Cloaths, and pointed to the meat;

she goeth round about the Table there is but one dish uncovered, and that seemeth to be like dew, she putteth her fingers into the Dish, and letteth the Children lick, and they fall down dead. Maid. .... Blame Justice and not me, for if the Children had ever tasted of this meat before they might have continued. E.K. Now she meeteth a thin visag'd man very feeble, who staggered on his staffe, and he said. Feeble. .... Help me for Gods sake. Maid. .... I will do my best. E.K. As she came toward the man, the man fell down; She heareth him up, and again he falleth down, and she listeth at him still. Maid. .... Good will forms, but the matter is not sufficient: This is long of thy self. Feeble. .... Oh, I say, help me. Maid. .... It is too late to help thee, I came this way many times before, and thou never soughtest help at my hands. It is written, he that desireth not help, till he be helpesse, he shall be voide of the benefit of an helper. E.K. The feeble man goeth away, and she departeth from him: Now she cometh towards a man going up an hill, who had torn all his Cloaths off with brambles and bryars. There stand a great many of Mawmets, little ugly fellows at the top of the hill, who threw stones against him, and so force this climbing man (or goer up the hill) to tumble down again to the foot of the hill. The skin doth seem to be off his hands and his feet, and they very raw, with his excessive travail with hands and feet up that hill; Now there appear men eating meat below at the foot of the hill, who offered him meat to eat; But he laboureth up the hill again, one of these men said, come let me bind up thy feet. The Clymer. .... Unto him that hath no wearinesse, there belongeth no sorrow. E.K. She standeth and vieweth him.

The Clymer. .... I pray you help me. Maid. .... It is impossible for thee to get up here. Clymer. .... Of my self it is: I will never be of the minde. It is impossible. Maid. .... Come on, I will do the best I can. E.K. She leadeth him over stones, and rocks. Maid. .... Thou wilt be knocked in pieces, ere thou come to the top. Clymer. .... Do you your good will, I feel no harm. E.K. Now she leadeth him in a place, where Springs, Quick-mires, and Bogs are. Maid. .... Surely thou art best to go down, for thou wilt be drowned. Clymer. .... I pray you help, I will go as long as I may. E.K. He goeth forward, and sinketh almost to the throat. Maid. .... It is deeper on the further side, thou wert best to go down again. Clymer. .... I feel the ground hard under my feet: I will not yet despair. E.K. Now he cometh out of those deep places, and he seemeth to come to a place like the bottom of a hedge, where stand stiffe thorns, piked upward, very sharp. Now come two, or three handsome fellows, and said, Alas, let him tarry here and drink, we will lead him up another way to morrow. Maid. .... Farewell. Clymer. .... I pray leave me not so, let me go with you. Maid. .... I must needs be gone, I cannot tarry for thee. Clymer. .... I am yet neither hungry nor thirsty, and feel no weariness: Why therefore should I stay. E.K.

 He goeth, as though the thorns prickt him, and grindeth his teeth for pain. Now they are come to a fair place, and then she said to one. G1 Maid. .... Fetch meat and drink and cloaths, and cure his wounds: For unto thee belongeth the felicity of this place: For neither from the highest to the lowest is there any whom I pittie, but such as this is. Clymer. .... I know not how I shall use these things. Maid. .... The true Heirs have alwayes discretion. To thee it belongeth, and for thee it is prepared. Use it therefore without offence as thine own. E.K. Now both he and she go into a Castle, and the doors are shut after them, and she cometh out again. Maid. .... This is written for your understanding: Let therefore your eyes be opened, and be not blinde. Neither forget what here hath been opened. [delta] . We perceive that Felicitas via ardua est, multis obsita difficultatibus et periculis; sed constantia et patientia pervenitur ad Felicitatis arcem, which we beseech the Almighty God to grant unto us. Maid. .... Well, I will be going till you have supped: And then I will tell you more of my minde. It will be yet six, or seven weeks journey before I can get home. G2 [delta] . Sit benedictus Dens noster nunc et semper, Amen. After Supper we staid awhile, being come to the place, and though nothing was seen, or heard, yet I spake, assuring my self of the presence of the foresaid maid, though as yet to us insensible. [delta] . We would gladly know thy name.
 G3 Maid. .... My name is Galua'h, in your language I am called Finis. E.K. She suddenly appeared as she spoke this. [delta] .
 That is Latin. Gal. .... I. G4 . You are none of those that are called filiae lucis, or filiae filiarum. Gal... No. [delta] . You will not be offended, if I propound a doubt somewhat impertinent to our matter in hand, yet of importance for us to hear your judgement in the same. Tritemius, sayeth that never any good Angel was read of to have appeared forma muliebri. I pray you to give us an G5 answer to this so great a Clark, his words, which are to be read in his little book, Octo Questionum Maximiliani Cæsaris. ....
 There Quæstio Sexta. Sancti autem Angeli, quoniam

 G5 An Angeli boni in forma feminea aliquando apparent?

Gal. .... You think then I have some understanding. [delta] .
Yea, God knoweth, I do. Gal. .... First it is evident that the Spirits of God are incomprehensible to those that are their inferiours: For the higher order is incomparable unto God, And by degrees, those that are their inferiours are also incomparable unto them. it followeth therefore, that in respect of that degree in Angels things are incomprehensible. G1 Angels (I say) of themselves, neither are man nor woman; Therefore they do take formes not according to any proportion in imagination, but according to the discreet and applicable will both of him, and of the thing wherein they are, Administrators: For we all are Spirits ministring the will of God; and unto whom? unto every thing within the compasse of Nature: onely to his glory and the use of man. It followeth, Therefore, considering that we minister not of our selves that we should minister in that unsearchable form within the which our executions are limited: But if Tritemius cansay, That woman also bath not the Spirit of God, being formed and fashioned of the self same matter, notwithstanding in a contrary proportion by a degree; If Tritemius can separate the dignity of the Soul of woman from the excellency of man but according to the form of the matter, then might his Argument be good: But because that in man and woman there is proportion, preparation, of sanctification in eternity; Therefore may those that are the eternal Ministers G2 of God in proportion to Sanctification take unto them the bodies of them both. I mean in respect of the Form; For as in both you read Homo, so in both you find one and the self same dignity in internal matter all one.
But Tritemius spake in respect of the filthinesse (which indeed is no filthinesse) wherewith all women are stained; and by reasons from the natural Philosophers: as a man tasting more of nature indeed then of him which is the Workman or a supernatural Master. He (I say) concluded his natural invention. In respect of my self, I answer Tritemius G3 thus: I am Finis, I am a beam of that Wisdom which is the end of mans excellency. Those also that are called Filiæ and Filiæ filiarum are all comprehended in me, and do attend G4 upon True Wisdom; which if Tritemius mark, be shall perceiveth that true Wisdom is alwayes painted with a womans garment; For than the purenesse of a Virgin, Nothing is more commendable. God in his judgement knoweth how Tritemius is rewarded G5 If you think these arguments be not sufficient, the one in respect of the first ground, and the other in respect of the measure of my name, I will yet alledge greater.
[delta] . These Arguments do satisfie me: But to have wherewith to stop the mouths of others who might use Cavillation upon such matters, it were somewhat needful to have heard your judgement: Whereas indeed our own affairs in hand are rather to be followed at this present, and of greater Arguments or Instructions in this matter I trust hereafter to have understanding: But as now I chiefly regard our Action in hand. Gal. .... Begin the Book next Tuesday. My self will be thy Director; And as my name is, so I will lead unto the end. All other things use, according to thy judgement and proportion of his Spirit that guideth you. Gal. .... I my self will be the finger to direct thee. [delta] . Gal. .... The finger of God stretcheth over many mountains. His Spirit comforteth the weaknesse of many places. No sense is unfurnished where his light remaineth For understand what I am, and it is a sufficient answer. [delta] . At the beginning to write the Book, shall I require your instructions? Gal. .... Do so. The Mountains of the World shall lie flat; Rut the Spirit of God shall never be confounded. E K. She sitteth on a rock, and hath done ever since supper. Gal. .... Ah Sirra I was a weary. [delta] . As concerning the Polonish Lord Albertus Lascy whom we are certified to be of God elected to govern him a people, whom we are willed to love and honour, What have you to say of him? and c. Gal. .... Ask me these things to morrow. E.K. She smileth and casteth a light from her. G6 Gal. .... I smile because I speak of to morrow; yea I seem to smile. G7 delta] . As concerning Isabel Lister, I pray in what case is she? in respect of the wicked spirit which long hath molested her? Gal. .... Believe, For that is the chiefest: What is spoken by us we give but our consent to. For he that speaketh in us is to be asked no such question. G8 For when be saith, it is measured. As it was said before; The Hills and Mountains of the World may be made plain, but the Spirit of God never confoundeth. [delta] . He that is the end of all things, and the end of ends (unto whom all honour praise and -notes- G1 Angeli ix seipsis neque mares, neque f minæ neque sunt. Angelorum Ministeria. thanksgiving is due) blesse us, endue us with his graces, and abundantly power forth his mercy upon us. G1 Gal. .... Understand my name particularly, and not generally. I speak it to avoid errour. Persevere to the end. [delta] . Qui perseveraverit fidelis (Deo nostro) usque ad finem hic salvus erit: which faithfulness with all constancy and patience the Blessed and Almighty Trinity grant and confirm unto us for the glory and honour of his Name, Amen. E.K. She is gone with a brightness. G2 Saturday afternoon, hor a 6. [Graphic omitted]

After that the noble Albertus Laskie had been with me, and was now gone to London, [delta] . I used some discourse by prayer to God, and afterward protestation to Galuah in respect of her willing me to ask certain matters again this day which.... yesterday were not answered: But very long it was, above half an hour, before any thing appeared, more then the Golden Curtain all over the Shew .... At length appeared divers confused forms of divers Creatures, and then, by and by, vanished away. [delta] . I prayed to God to banish all confusion from us and our actions, and to send us lucem and veritatem, per unum and propter unum, and constantiam rerum.... G3 Then appeared he by whom (before) we were called Il, and seemed to scorn at E.K. E.K. Here appeareth Il, and he seemeth to mock me. Il. .... That is a gird to you Sir for your fishing. [delta] . E.K. had spent all that afternoon (almost) in angling, when I was very desirous to have had his company and helping hand in this Action. [delta] . Shortly after this, appeared Galuah and to be in a field closed round about with a hedge. Gal. .... Ilere is no way out. Il. .... Come I will do somewhat for you; It is a strange thing that wisdom cannot find a way G4 through a hedge. EK. This Il pulleth down the hedge: Gal. .... Go thy way, thou bast done but thy duty. Il. .... Farewell Dee, Farewell Kelly. G5 E.K, He is gone. Gal. .... Those that taste of everlasting Bankets, fare well, and desire the same to others. E.K. Now she is come to a great Castle-gate, all of stone, with a drawbridge G6 before it. There is like a Greyhound graven or cut in the Stone over the Gate. Gal. .... It is very late, I will look if I can have my entertainment here. 15832 E.K. She is gone in. [delta] . After a while she came out again. Gal. .... Bee it spoken. Cursed, defaced, and damned be this place. G7 Gal. .... And why? Because they have puffed up their flesh, follow their own imaginations, wallowing in their filthinesse, as Swine that tumble in mire. Behold it is too late with this people, I can get no lodging. O ye my feet, be a witness against them, let the windes move the dust to report their unkindnesse. EK. Now she goeth a long a great Way, like a common high-way; and the light of the Air about her seemed somewhat dark like Evening or Twilight. Gal. .... Yea though you have too much light, I have too little. I did but over-bear you, when you saw me not. [delta] . [Note. I had spoken of too much light coming from the west window of my Study toward the Table, where the Shew-stone stood, when we began now to attend her coming, and thereupon she spoke this.] E.K. Her own garments cast a light. E.K. Now she cometh amongst a company of men having gowns furred with white, and some of them having Velvet Caps, and some Hats. One of them said to her, What art thou? Gal. .... I know not what I am my self Will you buy any pretious Stones of me? -

E.K. She taketh out of her bosome a great many of precious stones uncut, or unpolished. E.K. These men look on them. Gal. .... Truly, they are pure and good. E.K. They say also; Surely they seem to be good, delivering them from one to another. E.K. There appear two fat men; who said, let us first get money before we buy such trifles: besides that, they have not their perfect form. Gal. .... I pray you, buy one of them of me. Will you buy none neither? E.K. She speaketh that to them, who first praised the stones. .... Tush, I pray thee go about thy business, dost thou net perceive how they are found fault G1 withall? Gal. .... Tush, Tush, they be not cut for your fashion. Be it said. G2 .... Their senses are glutted with transitory vanities. Gal. .... Let them (therefore) perish vainly, because they are transitory. G3 E.K. Now she cometh where she must clamber up a wall, having steps in it of ragged stones; There is a fair building beyond it. There go many up those steps: and when they are almost at the top, there meeteth them some, who take them by the hand, and help them up and over into the place. Then one of them that stood at the top of the wall (who had a furred Gown) and helping of men up, said to her; Come away woman, wilt thou come up? E.K. She saith nothing to him, but standeth still, and looketh away from him. E.K. Again, that man said to her, come away wilt thou come up? Gal. .... Unhappy are those whom thou helpest: And whose breath hath infected many, your hands are too bloody, for me to come anigh you. E.K. Now come handsome women to the wall, and some said, good sister, I pray you come away. Gal. .... Your voluptuous father knoweth me not, for his daughter, I deny yo .... G4 E.K. Now come two, or three brave fellows with Rapiers by their sides, and having hatts without bands, and their hosen pinned up, and with no garters; these help up people that come, and one of them said: Tarry a little, woman, and I will help thee shortly. Gal. .... Fy upon you: your cloaths are infected with abominations of your Chamber, I will tarry time. E.K. Now cometh a big stout man to the top of the wall, and a boy with a Crown on his head: He seemeth to be about 18. years old. .... So it is, and please your Majesty: Therefore let this way be razed. G5 E.K. He spake to the young King upon former talk between them which I heard not. .... Be it done. G6 E.K. The wall quaketh and falleth down: And some of the jolly fellows, G7 which were on the wall before, fell down, and other fellowes came and digged a great hole, or breach in the wall. Gal. .... Thanks be to God: Now, here is entrance enough. E.K. She goeth in. -notes- G1 Those men. G2 A voyce from the stone. The young man, or striplin (with the Crown on his head) and the other big man embraceth her: His Crown is a Triple Crown; or three Crowns one upon another. He hath a little thing in his hand, which he holdeth close, and over-gripeth, so that it cannot be discerned. G1 .... Though thou hast travelled as a woman, thou shalt now be known to be a man. E.K. He spake to Galvah. They embrace each other. They fetch cloaths for her, and put upon her a black Gown, a mans Gown, as the Gown of a Counsellor. G2 She kneeleth down like a man in form, her head and all. E.K. Then the young King spake to her, saying, .... What this Rod may do, work. E.K. He giveth the transformed man a Rod; one half being bloud, and the other half white, the partition of these two being long-wise. G3 Que justa sunt faciet and meas mensurabit virtutes. For untill it was appointed, I sought it not. Let us cleanse the Court, and examine the multitude; For error is alwayes covered in many. Cursed are those that are judged by a multitude. E.K. All they that fell off the wall, and they that would have helped her up, they come in bound band and foot. .... Root them out, O King, pittie no such persons, for those be these that never had mercy on themselves. E.K. Now cometh a woman out, having a Crown on her head: she hath a long visage. G4 ..... Nay, let her drink as she hath deserved. E.K. The transformed man layeth down the Rod before him, and beginneth to weep; and said Let it not be said, but I pittie the anointed. G5 ..... Let her die, for she hath deserved death. E.K. Other men about her lay hand on her, and pluck the Crown off her head. The transformed man taketh up his Rod, and layeth upon the top, or Crown of that womans head. E.K. The young King sayeth unto her, What wilt thou? G6 .... If it please you, pardon for my life and dignity. E.K. The bigge man, and the young King talk together aside, the woman holdeth her hands abroad, and knocks her breast? And a great company of them about her are hewed in pieces, by tormenters armed. 1582. G7 Adjuvaho. E.K. The King and the bigge man come in again. G8 E.K. The King said to the transformed man; Be it as thou wilt, Be you two joyned together. For I wish you both well. E.K. The woman boweth down with obeisance, and thanketh them. E.K. The bigge man taketh the King by the hand, and the transformed

E.K. All is now on the sudden vanished away, and the transformed man is returned again to her womans shape, and she said. Gal. .... Now I will go with you, Sit, your journey. E.K. She speaketh to you . To [delta] . .... I will lead you, if you will follow me up. But you must have broken shinns. [delta] . By Gods grace, and with his help I will follow you, and in respect of my shinns breaking, the joy of the consequent effect will utterly take away the grief of the shinns breaking. Gal. .... And to you Sir, you were best to hunt and fish after Verity. [[delta] . She spake so to E.K. because he spent too much time in Fishing and Angling.] Gal. .... Whom thou sawest here shall govern over 21 Kingdoms. G1 delta] . If there be no mystery in that speech, the Conquest must be great, and the trouble great and strange. E.K. She goeth on her way along a lane. [delta] . We know not who should be that King so shewed. Gal. .... Sure thy demands are fully answered. Consider thou what thou seekest, And of whom thou seekest, And by whose help. Then look to that which is declared. I will follow my office, for in those things wherein thou art inquisitive I have shewed the End. G2 delta] . Truely the occasion of my present asking you some questions, arose upon matter concerning this Noble Polonian, of whom you had us yesterday ask as this day. Gal. .... Vanity hangeth not at mine Elbow. Believest thou that already spoken? spoken (I say) of him? [delta] . Yea forsooth, I do believe it. G3 Gal. .... I say unto thee, His name is in the Book of Life: The Sun shall not passe his course before he be a King. His Counsel shall breed Alteration of this State; yea of the whole World. What wouldst thou know of him? [delta] . If his Kingdom shall be of Poland, or what Land else. Gal. .... Of two Kingdoms. [delta] . Which I beseech you? Gal. .... The one thou hast repeated, and the other he seeketh as right. [delta] . God grant him sufficient direction to do all things so, as may please the Highest in his calling. Gal. .... Concerning Charles Sled, his nose gushing with blood twice yesternight and this morning upon my charitable instructions giving him to vertue and godlinesse. Gal. .... I know him not: nor any name bath he with us. [delta] . Meaneth he well towards me? Gal. .... Whatsoever a wicked man meaneth it is not well; but in that sense it is demanded be meaneth well. The evil spirit that possesseth him was cast out of him, even at his nose, at the presence of those Charles Sled. that were present with thee. [delta] . Gal. .... Believe me we know not his name; Trouble me no more with him. [delta] . O Lord, though men be fraile, faulty, and filthy, yet thy mercies are most praiseworthy (among all generations) of all thy doings. Gal. .... Hold thy peace, we are now to execute the Justice of God. [delta] . I spake a great while of the mercies of God and his Justice, and gave thanks for our Calling and Election into this blessed state. Gal. .... I will take up my lodging for this might. G1 [delta] . This voice out of the Stone being taken to be the voice of God, importeth as much as if God himself had sealed to that as his will and decree, That all Creatures should render thanks unto him and glory; fiant: Dignum and Justum est. Amen. Tuesday Junii 18 An. 1583. ante meridiem circa 9. [delta] . I prayed first, and declared our attending this day the promise of God to be performed, and c. Ga .... Are four hours yet to come? and I will be ready. Are the works of wisdom secret, until I have ascended this Hill? Is the Harvest ready when the Corn is ripe? Are the Labourers ready when their Instruments are prepared? I have said. G2 All wisdom is reckoned by the eternal Will; and until it be said, there is no action tollerable; When the Sun shineth I will appear amongst you; when it is said Come, so I am ready. The dayes of your fathers were blessed; but the hour when this Book shall be written shall be sanctified, yea in the middest of intellectual understanding. For herein is the Creation of Adam with his transgression. The Dignity and wisdom he had. The Errour and horror wherein he was drowned, yea herein is the power spread of the biggest working in all Creatures. For as there is a particular Soul or fire inflaming unto every body (I mean reasonable) So there is an Universal fire and a general brightnesse giving general light unto them, which is but One, and shineth through the whole, yea is measured equally unto every thing from the beginning. The life of all things is here known: The reward of death to those that are rewarded for life. None are rewarded but according to their deserts: of the which there are two kinds. 1. These are rewarded with death for their wickednesse. 2. So are they rewarded with life for their constant living. Amongst the Angels there may be errour, and sin may make them fall from the brightnesse of their glory. But to the Soul of man (being once glorified) sin is utterly, yea most largely opposite: Neither shall that dignity ever be lost, stained, or defaced, that is obtained here with the workes of righteousnesse and true wisdom. Whatsoever hath been from the beginning (since it was said in Divine Determination, Be it done) is here inclosed. Therefore should this day be Hallowed and Sanctified before the Lord by you. For if the Prophets, did worship this day of his ascension, much more ought you (which have tasted of the first, and shall now taste of the secrets of his Judgements) glorifie his coming: But with you Satan is busie; His bristles stand up, his feathers are cast abroad. G3 Therefore watch and pray; For those that go to Banquets put on their upper garments. Amongst you therefore is no sound belief; Neither do you consider the scope of this blessednesse: But such is the greatnesse and excellency of his foreknowledge, that he suffereth the enemy to carry a burden, yea sometimes to preach upon a Stage: For it is said, He shall triumph unto the end, and place himself here as he would have done above: Neither shall be thrust out of doors till the end be determined. Therefore watch and pray, and look about with diligence; for those things shall be opened unto you which have not been disclosed unto the Holy Ones. Oh, how hard a thing it is for slesh to continue in the works of Justice! Yea, oh how hard a thing it is for Wisdom to be acquainted with a hotchpot of filthinesse? Cleanse your garments, Lift up your hearts, and rent your faults in pieces, that there may be one heart with one consent, and unto one end, unto him which is One and the End of all things: and to him for and in his truth, and for the greatnesse of his mercies: To whom be praise for ever. [delta] . Amen. E.K. All the while she spake there came a bright beame from the Mystical Stone to the body of her, and at the end she mounted upward and disappeared. [delta] . We set up the hour glasses to measure four hours justly after this answer and instructions. Tuesday, After Dinner about one of the clock and ½ the hours expired, and we attended the mercy of the Highest. [delta] . At a great gladsome shining of the Sun (whereas it had not shined but a little and inconstantly ever since his last words) one appeared on the corner of the green silk Sarcenet, by the Mystical Stone, She was like a woman as Galvah in face, but her apparel was a mans gown furred with foynes, or, as Gentlewomen do wear upon gowns. [delta] . Upon the diversity of your apparel we are to ask whether you be Galvah or no? or have you also, as I have done, put on your Holiday-cloths? -notes- G1 A voice out of the Stone. G2 Note. G3 Satan.

Gal. .... FEAR GOD. E.K. She steppeth forward one step. Gal. .... My Garment is called HOXMARCH, which in your speech is called ..... [delta] . Initium sapientiae est Timor Domini: we acknowledge it to be an old and a true Lesson, and also the first step of the path-way to felicity. Gal. .... What is fear? [delta] . Fear is of two sorts: one is called filialis, the other servilis. Gal. .... Unto the Just all fear is joy; and therefore the beginning and entrance into quietnesse. True quietnesse and rest is wisdom; For the mind that knoweth bath the greatest rest and quietness. The Daughter of Dispaire unto the wicked is fear. This fear is the first that accuseth unto damnation: But be that is perfectly wise, or bath tasted of wisdom, knoweth the End. And his fear is of the thing that is done. This is the true fear of God; and when we fear sin, we do it because we hate it. When we study to do good, it is a token of our fear, in that it is a token we fear him, whom we love and for whose honour we study to do well. This is all that may be said of lively and unlively fear. G1 Touching the Book, it shall be called Logah: which in your Language signifieth Speech from GOD. Write after this sort LOGAETH: it is to be sounded Logah. This word is of great significacion, I mean in respect of the profoundnesse thereof. G2 The first leaf (as you call it) is the last of the Book. And as the first leaf is a hotchpot without order; So it signifieth a disorder of the World, and is the speech of that Disorder or Prophetie. Write the Book (after your order) backward, but alter not the form of letters, I speak in respect of the places. E.K. Now a beame shooteth through him from the Stone and so through his head and out of his mouth, his face being from E.K. toward [delta] . G3 .... Write the 49. You have but 48 already. Write first in a paper apart. E.K. Said that Galvah her head is so on bright fire, that it cannot be looked upon: G4 The fire so sparkleth and glistreth as when an hot iron is smitten on an Anvil, and especially at the pronouncing of every word. It is to be noted also that upon the pronouncing of some words, the Beasts and all Creatures of the World every one shewed themselves in their kind and form: But notably all Serpents, Dragons, Toads, and all ugly and hideous shapes of beasts; which all made most ugly countenances, in a manner assaulting E.K. but contrariwise coming to, and fawning upon Galvah. It is to be noted also that by degrees came a second beame, and a third became of light into Galvah from the Stone, and all the three together appeared: the third participating of the other two. The second became came at the word Larb, pronounced; when also Frogs and Serpents appeared, and c. The third beame upon the word Exi pronounced. Note also, that the manner of the fiery brightness was such, and the grisely countenances of the Monsters was so tedious and grievous and displeasent to E.K. that partly the very grief of his minde and body, and partly the suspecting the Creatures to be no good Creatures, neither such grievous fights necessary to be exhibited with the Mysteries delivering unto us, had in a manner forced him to leave off all: But I again with reasonable exhorting of him, and partly the providence and decree Divine, wrought some mitigating of his grief and disquieting. Gal. .... These are these seven. [delta] . Blessed and praised for ever be He who is one and three: and whom mighty ministers or governours do incessantly glorifie. 1583. Gal. .... Thy folly and weaknesse is great, God comfort thee. [[delta] . He spoke to E.K. for his excessive disquietnesse and suspecting of the verity or goodnesse of Galvah.] [delta] . Note. Now the beames were all retired into the stone; again likewise all the Creatures and Vermine or ugly shaped Beasts are all gone. We were willed also divers times to G5 pray. At fundry pangs of E.K. his grief and disquietnesse, sundry speeches were uttered by the spiritual Creature: among which these noted. .... He that is angry cannot see well. From him that is perverse, God turneth his face. G6 The hindrance of punishment, is the mercy of God, which imputeth not sin unto them whom he hath Chosen; Therefore be patient, and reconcile thy self to God. -notes- G1 The Title of the Book. E.K. I do it with all humility and sincerity of minde, and beseech God to help me with his grace; for of my self I cannot do so, yet I am Thomas Didymas, I will believe these things, when I see the fruits of them. [delta] . He seemed yet again to doubt, whether this Creature and the rest, (partakers of this action) were soundly good, and void of all halting, or abusing us. E K. How can you perswade me that ye be no deluders? G1 Gall. .... I will prove it by contrary. The servants of darknesse have their Garments stained: their mouths stinck of blasphemy, and lies, but our Garments are no such, neither do our lips speak any untruth, and therefore we are of God, for whosoever is of the truth, is of God. Moreover, the Devil is known by his works: for the spirit of God controlleth them, the spirit of God agreeth with us, and useth no controlment against it, therefore it is not Daulesse. In one thing thou maye I know us differing from Devils. G2 The wicked spirits alwayes albor this word Mercy. But it is the Doctrine that we preach in respect towards you, we are not now (then) evil. But this way teacheth hardnesse, and is a stumbling block to the wicked: but the beauty of the Castle is not able to he expressed. G3 Happy are they, which are covered with the Pearls of Righteousnesse, and on whose head there is a Garland of godlinesse: For unto those belongeth to taste of the Fountain of true wisdom. Is it not written of this book, that it teacheth nature in all degrees? The judgement hereof is Intellectual. And wash your feet, and follow me. [delta] . Lord wash thou our feet, or else we shall not be clean. Gall. .... How thou art God knoweth: But comfort your selves in this. G4 That neither this Testimony can perish, neither unto you can remain any slavery: Quia vestra erit victoria, in him, and for him, to whom I leave you. [delta]. What shall I do with these 21 words now received; Gall. .... There are onely the words of the first leaf. [delta] . I pray, how shall I bestow chem, or place them. Gall. .... In them is the Divinity of the Trinity. G5 The Myserie of our Creation. The age of many years. And the conclusion of the World. Of me they are honoured, but of me, not to be uttered: Neither did I disclose them my self: For, they are the beams of my understanding, and the Fount tin from whence I water. [delta] . I beseech you, how shall I write these names in the first leafe. Gall. .... They are to be written in 5 Tables, in every Table 21 Letters. [delta] . How shall I place the 5 Tables upon two sides: three in the first, and 2 in the second, or one in the first, and 4 in the second, or how else? Gall. .... As thou seest cause. [delta] . Shall I write them in Letters of Gold? Gall. .... The writing bath been referred to thy discretion with collours, and such things as appertain to the writing thereof. Upon the first side write three Tables, and on the second two. [delta] . How, thus? Gal. .... Set them down, I will direct thy judgement. [delta] . When, now? Gal. .... Not now. E.K. She is gone, [delta] . Deo Nostro sit Laus, honor, and gratiarum actio perennis. Amen. Wednesday 19. Junii. Hora 2. a Meridie. [delta] . I made a prayer to God: and there appeared one, having two Garments in his hands, who answered. .... A good praise, with a wavering minde. [delta] . God make my minde stable, and to be seasoned with the intellectual leaven, free of all sensible mutability. E.K. One of these two Garments is pure white: the other is speckled of divers colours; he layeth them down before him, he layeth also a speckled Cap down before him at his feet; he hath no Cap on his head: his hair is long and yellow, but his face cannot be seen; at the least it was turned away-ward from E.K. continually, though E.K. changed his place. -notes- G1 Arguments to prove our Instructors to be good angels. G2 Mercy. G3 The attire before. G4 This Testimony victory. G5 The first leaf of the book.

..... You shall see my face, so, it is white. E.K. Now he putteth on his Pied Coat, and his Pied Cap, he casteth the one side of his Gown over his shoulder, and he danceth, and saith, ..... There is a God, let us be merry. E.K. He danceth still. There is a heaven, let us be merry. Doth this Doctrine teach you to know God, or to be skilfull in the heavens? ..... Note it. E.K. Now he putteth off his Cloathes again: Now he kneeleth down, and washeth his head and his neck, and his face, and shaketh his Cloaths, and plucketh off the uttermost sole of his shooes, and falleth prostrate on the ground, and sayed: ..... Vouchsafe (O God) to take away the wearinesse of my body, and to cleanse the filthinesse of this dust, that I may be apt for this purenesse. E.K. Now he taketh the white Garment, and putteth it on him. .... Mighty is God in his great Justice, and wonderful in his immeasurable mercy: The heavens taste of his Glory: The earth is confounded at his wisdom. In hell they tremble at him, as at a Revenger. This sheweth thee (O) to be a God, and stretcheth forth thy Glory from the East unto the West; for thy Heavens are Statutes, and thy Creatures Laws: that thou mayest be accounted a God of Justice and Glory. Because thou art a God, Therefore there is a Heaven: For unto the Prince of Righteousnesse, there belongeth a place of Glory; Into the which there entereth none that are defiled, neither such as are blemished with the spots of iniquity. Manus Hæc bona est ..... E.K. putting forth his right hand, Hæc Autem mala ..... E.K. putting forth his left hand, Qui Habet aures intelligat. E.K. Now he sitteth down on the Desk-top and looketh toward me. [delta] . This Parable is in general, somewhat understood of us: but in particular, how it may be, or is to be applied, presently we understand not. G1 ..... Beware left error enter within the dwelling place of Righteousnesse. E.K. He seemeth now to be turned to a woman, and the very same which we call Galvab. E.K. Now he is come down to the usual place, on the Table. [delta] . I have assayed divers wayes to place the five Tables, on the two sides on this first leaf; Is it to your likeing as I have done it, in the five little Triangles? Gal. .... As concerning the setting down of the five Tables. it is sufficient as it is done. The cause why I appeared thus, was that you might avoid error. [delta] . I pray you to shew us the means how that error was or is to incumber us. G2 Gal. .... Whosoever taketh servants of the wicked, to prove the Glory of God, is accursed. But, O Satan, how many are thy deceits? Note, my Companion (E.K.) would have caused personal apparitions of some of the reprobate spirits, before the Prince Albert Laskie in my Study, thereby to shew some experience of his skill in such doings: But I would not consent to it: And thereupon Galvah gave judgement and warning of such an error, of my Companion his intent, and c. Gal. .... Behold, it is said, before he go from hence I will pour water into him; And my Angel shall annoint him, as I have determined: Hide therefore Nothing from him; For you belong G3 unto him. Neither can flesh and blood work those things that I have Glorified in him (All things that are established in God, are Glorified. I speak this for thy understanding) Neither let your hearts be hardned; for the Earth is condemned, and these things shall come to passe. Credit is all that I seek (saith the Lord;) for when I come, I shall be sufficiently believed. G4 I take the God of Heaven and Earth to judge; and swear by him as a witnesse, that these words G5 are true, and shall endure unto the end. The general points of mans Salvation are concluded already; but the special gist belongeth unto God. God strengthen you against his adversary. [delta] . Amen. Gal. .... Soon you shall know more. [delta] . This Prince would gladly know, Whether it shall be best for him, with the first opportunity, to be going homeward. Gal. .... It shall be answered soon, and what questions soever he also demandeth. [delta] . May he be here present at the action doing? G6 Gal. .... Those that are of this house, are not to be denied the Banquets therein. [delta] . May I request you to cause some sensible apparition to appear to him, to comfort him, and establish his minde more abundantly in the godly intent of God his Service? -notes- G1 I have said. G2 Note. G3 Note of A.L. G4 An Oath. G5 Note of General points, and special gifts. G6 A.L. may be present at Actions.

Gal. .... If you follow us, let him be governed by us; But whatsoever is of the flesh, is not of us. E.K. She seemeth to weep; for the water cometh forth of her eyes. [delta] . You perceive, how he understandeth of the Lord Treasurer his grudge against him; And perhaps some other also, are of like malicious nature: What danger may follow hereof, or incombrance? Gal.

..... The sum of his life is already appointed, one jot cannot be diminished: But he that G1 is Almighty can augment at his pleasure. Let him rejoyce in poverty. Be sorry for his enemies. And do the works of Justice. E.K. She seemeth to put the air over her, and so to enter into a Cloud of invisibility, and so disappear. [delta] . Deo gratias agamus Wensday after noon, circa horam 5. The Lord Albert a Lasky being present. [delta] . We attended of Galvah some instructions or discourse concerning the Lord Laskie. E.K. At length appeared before the Lord Lasky (in the air) an Angel in a white Robe, holding a bloody Crosse in his right hand, the same hand being also bloody. [delta] . In nomine Jesu Christi Crusifixi, a te requiro qui Grucis Trophæum hic Gestas illa nobis signifies, quæ sunt ad Christi gloriam, cui sit honor and Laus perennis. E.K. Now he is come from before the Lord Lasky, and standeth here on the Table: he turneth himself to all the four quarters of the World; he kneeleth down. He prayeth. .... O God, Why should the people upon earth rejoyce? or wherein should the pleasures of their sensual delights be fixed? Why doth the Moon hold her course? or why are the Stars observing an order? Why are thy people thus scattered abroad? Because iniquity hath caught the upper hand. The Doors of our God are polluted with blasphemy, his Temples desolate, his Commandments violated, and his Glory accounted as nothing. But wilt thou suffer; or canst thou hold thy hand from thy great and mighty strokes? Most High God, Most Mighty God, Most Honourable God, have mercy upon thy people; respect the Creation, (the Creation I say) of those, wherein thou hast delighted. Suffer not the Serpent to extol his bead above thy Altars, neither let thy hshly Vessel be poisoned with his venome; For thou art Mighty and overcomest all: and who can rebel against thy Prowesse? Bend down thy merciful eyes, Behold this confusion: look upon thy Temple and see the desolation thereof. And then in thy mercy (O) shew thy self to be a God, and such a merciful Governour, as hath compassion upon those that are diseased, yea even unto death. Grant this Camascheth galsuagath garnastel zurah logaah luseroth. Amen. [delta] . I pray you to declare unto us your name. .... My name is Jubanladace. [delta] . If I should not offend you, I would gladly know of what order you are, or how your state is in respect of Michael, Gabriel, Raphael, or Vriel. .... Jub. Unto men, according unto their deserts, and the first excellency of their Soul, God hath appointed a good Governour or Angel, from amongst the orders of those that are Blessed: For every Soul that is good, is not of one and the self same dignification; Therefore according to his excellency we are appointed as Ministers from that order, whereunto his Excellency accordeth: To the intent that he may be brought at last to supply those places which were Glorified by a former; And also to the intent, that the Prince of Darknesse might be counterpoised in Gods Justice. Amongst the which I am one which am the Keeper and Defender of this man present: which carry the Triumph and Ensign of Victories continually before him, as a reproach to my adversaries and his, and to confirm the dignity whereunto he is called by the presence of this Character. E.K. Now he heaveth up the Crosse. G2 ..... I have also sealed the same in his heart: For unto him belong great Victories, in the name, and for the name of his God. The Jews in his time shall taste of this Cresse: And with this Crosse shall he overcome the Sarazens, and Paynims: For I will establish one Faith (saith the Lord of Justice) That I may be known to be the same that I was first among all people. Moreover I will open the hearts of all men, that he may have free passage through them, and will G3 not suffer him to perish with the violence of the wicked. I will hereafter visibly appear unto him, and will say, This is to be done. But a year is not yet come, and these things shall be finished. But (thus saith the Lord) I have hindred him, because he hearkned to the provocation of those that are wanton. And hath consented to those that blasphemed my name. Bid him look to the steps of his youth, and measure the length of his body; to the intent, he may live better, and see himself inwardly. -notes- G1 A.L. poverty. G2 A.L. Judæi. Victoriæ. A.L. G3 A.L. [delta] . Note. At this Instant Tanfeld came rashly upon us, into my Study: we thinking that the Study door had been shut: the Lord Laskie being gone out of my Study, the other way through my Oratory, to take Tanfelds message from the Court, and having dispatched G1 him, rested without: and Tanfeld having commendations to me, as he said, from some at London, fearing least he should be sent away by and by, without doing these, came indiscretly upon us, to our no little amazing, and great fearing his rash opinion afterward of such things, as he could not perceive perfectly what my Companion and I were doing: Hereupon, Jubanladace gave this sentence, or declared this the fatal end of Tanfeld. Juban. .... It is said, He that entreth in thus rashly, Lo five moneths are yet to come, and fishes of the Sea shall devour his carkase. G2 ..... As before, whatsoever he taketh in hand shall prosper, for my names sake. For thus it is said, and these words are the words where withal I do annoint him; for than the comfort of the Highest, there is not a sweeter Inunction. Look not for the marveiles of this World, as the wicked man in his heart doth; but study to please him with whom ye might rejoyce for ever. You sons of men, What do ye seek after? I'o ye hunt after the swiftnesse of the winds; or are you imagining a form unto the Clouds? or go ye forth to hear the braying of an Asse, which passeth away with the swiftnesse of the air? Seek for true wisdom; For it beholdeth the brightest, and appeareth unto the lowest. Cecill hateth him unto the heart, and desireth be were gone bence. Many other do privily sting at him; I cannot properly say sting him; But (I say) I will pour down my wrath upon them, and they shall be confounded in the midst of their own iniquity. Let my faithful live and be like the fruitful Vinyard. Be it so. [delta] . For his return homeward, What is your advice? perhaps he wanteth necessary provision, and money. Juban..... He shall be holpen here, and elsewhere, miraculously. I speak as it were to himself. Let him go, so soon as he can conveniently. [delta] . I say again, perhaps he wanteth money, but the Treasures of the Lord are not scant, to them whom he favoureth. Jub. .... His help shall be strange which hath not been often seen. The Queen loveth him faithfully, and hath fallen out with Cecil about him: Leicester flattereth him. His doings are looked into narrowly. But I do alwayes inwardly direct him, and I will minister such comfort unto him, as shall be necessary in the midst of all his doings. When this Country shall be invaded, G3 then shall you passe into his Country, and by this means, shall his Kingdom be established again. This is more then my duty. This is the first time he hath been here, and it is wonderful. The second coming is not long unto, and then shall he be wonderful. Destitutus à me, premitur à malo. He is now destitute of me. [delta] . Note, as soon as he had said this sentence, he seemed to fink through the Table like a spark of fire; and seemed to make haste to his Charge, I mean the Lord Laskie: whereby we perceive the frailty of man to be great when he is Destitute (yea but after this manner) of this good Angel. Benedictum sit nomen Dei nostri nunc and in sempiterna sæcula.. Amen. Thursday 20 Junii 1583. After Noone Circa 6. Gal. .... Labour in the writing of this Book diligently. See thou cleanse thy self on both sides. Be alone while it is done: that is to say, while thou art in doing it, henceforth and till the time G4 come use speech with us no more; every seventh day accepted. [delta] . How shall those dayes be accounted? Gal. .... From Tuesday last: Tuesday being the first of the seven, and the next Monday, the seventh, and so forth every Monday is the seventh. In a pure action all things ought to be pure. [delta] . May I be writing every day, and at any time, when it shall come in my mind? G5 Gal. .... Ever as thou shalt feel me move thee. I will stir up thy desire. [delta] . How shall I do for the letters? Shall I simply translate the letters as I find them? Gal. .... I. [delta] . The titles of the sides, are they to be written onely in the holy Characters? Gal. .... As thou sayest, even those words do make the holy, that thou callest them holy. [delta] . I believe verily, that they are holy and sanctified. G6 Gal. .... In the last seven of the 40 dayes, the words of this Book shall be distinguished. [delta] . And accented also? Gal. .... I. [delta] . How shall I do, for the Tables where certain letters are to be written in all the void places, seeing they will not justly agree? Gal. .... There is one superfluous: it is to be filled in order as it sheweth. [delta] . I shall not dare adventure on it without direction when I come to it. Gal. .... Thou shalt want no direction. [delta] . For the inequality of the first 49 lines I require your advise. -notes- G1 This Tanfeld served the Lord Laskie. G2 A. L. his annointing. Miraoula and signa non sunt petenda à Deo. Gal. .... It is no question. Gal..... Thou beginnest in the world to look up to heaven: So was it begun in earth to look up to the doing about. The last life is Hotchpotch of the wicked in the World, and damned in the Hell. G1 E.K. What is a Hotchpotch, and c. Gal. .... The greater thy folly is, the greater thy wisdom will be hereafter. .... There are the Souls of the wicked and damned in Hell. Those thou are in the world cannot describe the least joy of those that are in heaven: Much lesse those that are ignorant, declare the manifest beauty of wisdom. There shall come a day with you, when you shall rejoyce. In the mean season, rent your hearts, and turn unto the Lord. [delta] . Deus in adjutorium nostrum intende, Domine ad juvandum me festina; Gloria Patri, and filio, and S. and c. Amen. Saturday, ante Meridiem. Hora 10. Junii 22. [delta] . Whiles I was writing certain prayers to good Angels, and ad proprios nostros Angelos for A.Lasky, there appeared one very big in the aire, all in a white Garment full of plaights, and tucked up very dubble, with a myterlike Attire on his head, and a crosse on the forepart of it; He willed E.K. to speak to me, and to tell me of his being there: But he refused, and expresly denied it, partly by reason Galluah said that he would not deal with us, but every seventh day (being every Monday) till the actions were ended: and therefore he supposed this Creature to be an illuder, and partly he urged some evident token, or proof of their well-meaning towards us in Act, and c. He went down, and still this Creature followed him with a drawn sword, requiring him to declare these words to me; but E.K. a long while bad him declare them himself unto me, if he would: and said, why should he not, and c. At length my Companion came, appeased, and contented to hear what this

Creature would say, who at length said thus: .... The Eagles have food for their young ones, by Divine providence, and not of themselves. Lord G2 let me diminish the power of this wicked spirit that doth so provoke, and stirre him to mischief. .... If the love of the fathers (O God) be great towards their Children, much greater are thy blessings in those whom thou hast chosen. [delta] . So, (O Lord) so. .... Behold, I will draw threds together, and make him a Net, which shall alwayes be between G3 him and the Adversary: neither shall it diminish his understanding from the true sight of me. It hath been said, The place is holy. Write that shall be here spoken, with devotion upon thy knees. Great is thy name (O God) and mighty art thou in all thy workings: Thy help is strong to those that delight therein. O magnified be thy name from generation to generation. Oratio. Spiritu and mente dico, G4 Sit mihi verus orandi modus: nam bonitatem Dei Laudo: O, Iram Patris meritis sum, quia lumen ejus elongatur a me: Verum in nomine Christi remissionem delictorum meorum, and confirmationem in suo Sancto Spiritu exopto. Per te, Halleluja, resurgam, me accuso, me condemno: omnia male feci. Omnia per te (Pater) sunt. Paratus esto exaudire. Oculos ad C los Elevare nolo, egestatem quia meam nosti. The help of the Lord is with these, that he loveth, and so be it. [delta] . He made the sign of a Crosse over our two heads, and so went away. Gloria sit in excelsis, Deo nostro and in terra Pax hominibus bonæ voluntatis, Amen. Saturday, Junii 22. a Meridie, Circa 6. [delta] . Upon the perusing and examining, this prayer Gabriel revealed unto us, I found certain imperfections, and some doubts, wherein we thought it good to ask counsel, and require Gabriel's advise: That the prayer might be perfect, as he might well like of to Gods honour and our comforts. At the length: Nothing appearing to the eye, but the noise of a sound about E.K. his head, and withall a mighty weight, or visible burden on his right shoulder, as he sate in the green Chair, by the holy Table, or place: And unto certain places of the prayer, which I noted and repeated, those words, and answers were by Gabriel given. Gab. .... The Preface must be in, for if our hearts be not prepared unto prayer, our prayers are in vain. Quid differs Domine, Cor meum in melius Comfortare. Per te and in nomine tuo resurgam; id est, Halleluja. The first way is more effectual. Say Angele mee, but the other is more effectual, Cura me sanum. Regard me, and look unto me, being whole. [delta] . As concerning the inscription, which I have written before the prayer: I would gladly know, whether it be to your well liking of it. Gab. .... Fiant omnia ad laudem Dei. My doings are of no such regard: What I have done be it done, so that your additions be to the honour of God, it is sufficient. The effect of his prayer is greater, then is the form. The former is greater then the forming. That is to say, he that hath formed it, is mightier then any virtue, wherein it is formed. Wheresoever, therefore the mind formeth it with you with perfect humility and consent, there is also the former. As formed of him therefore, I leave you to the end of his workmanship, which continually formeth all things according to his own fashion. Sins. .... Your sins have banished me, from saying these things I would. [delta] . O cleanse our hearts, and wash away our fins, amplius lava me ab iniquitate mea and a peccato meo munda me. Gab. .... Sins are never washed away, or forgotten with the highest, but with such as are sorry, and also make satisfaction. G1 O Lord, full sorry I am for my sins, and what satisfaction is ... required I would gladly know. Gab. .... The offence was not thine. Every one must satisfie, or else he shall be damned. [delta] . Good Lord expound to us the mystery of satisfaction. Gab. .... When the Soul offendeth, and is consenting to wickednesse, he is then to make a spiritual satisfaction, which is the end and perfect fruit of Contrition. For those that are truly Contrite, do truly satisfie. Another satisfaction there is, which is external. This satisfaction is to be made for sins committed against thy Neighbour: For if thou offend thy Neighbour, and do him wrong, or take any thing from him, by fraud, or violence, it is a great sin. For this, thou canst never be Contrite if thou make not satisfaction, not onely confessing it, but in satisfying his desire that is G2 offended, and that with sorrow. This is true Doctrine, and shall never be overthrown by the spirits of false invention: which indeed is the first eye unto the Devil. If you may offend your brother, and be therefore accursed: How much more shall you be accursed, when you offend the messenger of him that is your Father. Behold, he sayeth not, I have once done amisse. God be mercifull to you, that his mercies might be the greater upon you. Be mindfull of my sayings. [delta] . Deus misereatur nostri, and benedicat nobis, Cor mundum Creet in nobis, and spiritum rectum ponat in pr cordis nostris, Amen. 1583. Wednesday, Junii 26. Hora 9 ½. Præsente D.Alberto Lasky. [delta] . As we were together in my study, and I standing at my Desk. There appeared to E.K. a round Globe of white smoak over my head. Thereupon I perceived the presence of some good spiritual Creature, and straight way appeared the good Angel. I.L. [delta] . I said, Benedictus qui venit in nomine Domini, and igitur nobis est gratus landis adventum. I.L. Et quid tu dicit? [ad E. K. Loquutus est.] E.K. Si bonus es, and lucis spiritus, bene venisti, I.L.  Saturday Junii 29 a meridie hora 4. [delta]. While I was about to write the Title of the second side of the seventh leaf: and (E.K. sitting by me) Madini appeared as before like a young girle, and I saluted her in the Name G6 of God, as coming from God for good, and said to her, that I was wonderfully oppressed with the Work prescribed to me to perform before August next, and desired her to help me to one to write the holy Book as it ought to be written: seeing I did all I could, and it seemed almost impossible for me to finish it as it is requisite. one to write the Book; and thereupon appeared to her (but unseen of E.K.) her Mother .... Madimi said also, that she was now learning of Greek and Arabick, and the Syrian Tongue. Mad. ....Mother I pray you let him have one to write his Book. [delta] . I pray thee tell me Madimi, what was his name which yesterday tempted my friend and accused me most unduly and untruely to E.K. as a murderer, and hypocrite, and one that had injured a thousand. Mad. .... His name was Panlacarp. [delta] . Can the wicked Conjurers have their Devils to write Books at their commandments, and shall not an honest Christian Philosopher have the help of God his good Angels to write his holy Mysteries so greatly redounding to his Glory? And seeing you are the Mother of Madimi here, I beseech you tell me your name here: as the order of all our doings are distinctly and orderly noted. Mother. .... I am of the word, and by the word: I say, Seal up those things thou hast: And I my self will take charge of Galvab to the end. Ad evitandum scandalum. [delta] . Truth it is, it must grow to a great mislikeing grudge, that God should seem to have laid burdens on our shoulders, greater than we are able to bear: and then if we fall and faile under them, he would find a cause not to perform his promises made for carrying of those burdens. Mother. .... Whatsoever is thy part, the same will I perform. I will put thy yoke (in this one thing) upon my shoulders. [delta] . Will you then write it as I should have written it? Mother ..... I have said I will. [delta] . Where shall I leave the Book? G1 Mother. .... Leave it where you will: your locks are no hindrance to us. Even when the time cometh believe and you shall find it written. [delta] . You have eased my heart of a thousand pound weight. Mother. .... Because ye shall not fall into error. Dost thou believe? [delta] . Yea verily. Mother. .... Then verily will I do it. Fides tua erit instrumentum operationis meæ; Erit, and videbitis, and nunquam peribit. Galvah. .... One thing I will teach thee. The End is greater than the Beginning, or the Midst; For the End is witness of them both: But they both cannot witness of the End. Mother. .... [delta] . Benedictus fit Deus, Pater Noster, Deus totius Consolationis, qui respexit afflictionem servuli sui, and in ipso puncto necessitatis meæ præstitit mihi auxilium; ipse Solus Cordis Scrutator est and renum. Ipse est Lux mea, and Adjutor meus, and Susceptor meus est. In Domino speravi, and liberavit me ab angustia maxima propter gloriam Nominis sui, quod sit exaltatum and magnificatum nunc, and in sempiterna secula. Amen, Amen, Amen. [delta] . My heart did throb oftentimes this day, and thought that E.K. did intend to absent himself from me, and now upon this warning I was confirmed, and more assured that it was so: Whereupon seeing him make such haste to ride to Islington: I asked him why he so halted to ride thither: And I said, if it were to ride to Mr. Harry Lee, I would go thither also to be acquainted with him; seeing now I had so good leasure, being eased of the book writing: Then G1 he said, that one told him the other day that the Duke did but flatter him, and told him other things, both against the Duke (or Palatine) and me, and c. I answered for the Duke and my self; and also said, that if the fourty pound annuity, which Mr. Lee did offer him, was the chief cause of his minde setling that way (contrary to many of his former promises to me) that then I would assure him of fifty pound yearly, and would do my best by following of my sute, to bring it to passe as soon as (possibly) I could, and thereupon did make him promise upon the Bible. Then E.K. again upon the same Bible did swear unto me constant friendship, and never to forsake me: And moreover said, that unlesse this had so fall out, he would have gone beyond the Seas, taking ship at New-Castle within eight dayes next: And so we plight our faith each to other, taking each other by the hands upon these points of brotherly, and friendly fidelity during life, which Covenant I beseech God to turn to his honour, glorie, and service, and the comfort of our brethren (his Children) here in earth. Tuesday, Julii 2. A meridie, Circa Horam. 2 [delta] . While I was writing of Letters to Mr. Adrian Gilbert, into Devonshire, Madini appeared by me in the study, before E.K. sitting in the Chair, first on the ground, then up higher in the aire; and I said, How is the minde of Mr. Secretary toward me, me thinketh it is alienated marvellously. G2 Mad. .... Those that love the world, are hated of God. The Lord Treasurer and he are joynd together, and they hate thee. I heard them when they both said, thou wouldst go mad shortly: Whatsoever they can do against thee, assure thy self of. They will shortly lay a bait for shee; but eschew them. [delta] . Lord have mercy upon me: what bait, (I beseech you) and by whom? Mad. .... They have determind to search thy bouse: But they stay until the Duke be gone. [delta] . What would they search it for? Mad. .... They bate the Duke, (both) unto the death. [delta] . And why? Mad. .... Take heed that you deal uprightly. .... [She spake to E.K.] E.K. God the Creator be my wisse of my upright dealing, with, and toward him, (meaning [delta] .) ever since my last coming to him. G3 Mad. .... It is good to prevent diseases. E.K. By this book (taking the Bible in his hand) I swear that I do carry as faithfull a minde to him, as any man can, ever since my last coming. Mad..... Look unto the kinde of people about the Duke: and the manner of their diligence. [delta] . What mean you by that? his own people mean you? or who? Mad..... The espies. [delta] . Which be those? Mad..... All, there is not one true. [delta] . You mean the English men. Mad..... You are very grosse, if you understand not my sayings. [delta] . Lord, what is thy counsel to prevent all? Mad..... The speech is general, The wicked shall not prevail. [delta] . But will they enter to search my house, or no? Mad..... Immediately after the Duke his going they will. [delta] . To what intent? what do they hope to finde? Mad..... They suspect the Duke is inwardly a Traytor. [delta] . They can by no means charge me, no not so much as of a Trayterous thought. Mad..... Though thy thoughts be good, they cannot comprehend the doings of the wicked. In G4 summe, they hate thee. Trust them not: they shall go about shortly to offer thee friendship: But be thou a worm in a beap of straw. [delta] . I pray you expound that parable. -notes- G1 Fifty pound y ar'y to be provided for E K. by John Dee. G2 The Lord Treasurer, and Secretary Walsirgham. G3 E.K. his se. cond oath. G4 Trust them not.

Mad..... A heap of straw being never so great, is no waight upon a worm, notwithstanding every straw hindreth the worms passages. See them; and be not seen of them, dost thou understand it? [delta] . I pray you make more plain your counsel. Mad..... My counsel is plain enough. [delta] . When, I pray you, is the Duke likely to go away? Mad..... In the middle of August. [delta] . If in the midst of August he will go, and then our practises be yet in hand, what shall be done with such our furniture is prepared, and standing in the Chamber of practise. Mad..... Thou hast no faith. G1 His going standeth upon the determinated purpose of God. He is your friend greatly, and intendeth to do much for you. He is prepared to do thee good, and thou art prepared to do him service. Many men purpose, but one setteth in order. [delta] . As concerning Adrian Gilbert, what pleaseth you to say of him, and his intended voyage. Mad..... He is not in the true faith. [delta] . How hath it been said, then, That he should be the setter forth of God, his faith and religion among the infidels. Mad..... That is a mystery. [delta] . Whether shall it be good, that the Duke resort hither oft, or tarry for the most part at his house at London. Mad..... Humane policie cannot prevail. As many as are not faithfull in these causes, shall die a most miserable death: and shall drink of sleep everlasting. As in one root there are many divisions, so in the stem and lanches are many separations. [delta] . Give some more light (I beseech you) to the particular understanding. Mad..... The fire that kindleth all these, and wherein thy live is One, forwing them according to (whatsoever) the substance whereupon they are grounded. So by the lesse you may prove the greater: That as in particular, so likewise generally, All emanations are from one. In the first workmanship lieth secret in one unknown: And is sealed, and therefore it both an end. The son through the Circles and Massie body, The heart in the body, The intelligence in the inward man, The son from his own Centre spreadeth out the beams of his limited virtue, The Hart life to two; and yet G2 the Centre of life to the whole body, understanding quickneth the minde; that minde I speak of putteth on a siery shape. It followeth therefore, that every thing (what substance soever) hath a Centre: From the which the Circumfluent beams of his proper power do proceed. When these are perfectly known: Then are things seen in their true kinde. I speak this to prove, that the good Angel of man, which is the external Centre of the Soul, doth carry with him the internal Character of that thing whereof he seeketh to be a Diguisier, within the which doth lie secret, the Conjunction and Separation of the proportion of their times, betwixt the soul and body of man. O happy (therefore) is that Soul, which beholdeth the glory of his dignifications, and is partaker with him that is his keeper. This known unto men, the thicknesse of the earth doth not binder their speeches; neither can the darknesse of the lowest aire obscure, or make dark the sharpnesse of their eyes. This Character, (at his next coming hither) shall made manifest unto him. E.K. He sheweth a bloody hand, holding a bloody Crosse with letters on it, like our boy letters. [delta] . I beseech you, how shall his provision of money from home serve his turn, or how shall Le here have help for his charges bearing? Mad..... Your words make me a Childe. Those that fish for Dolphins do not stand upon the G3 ground. Those that sit in Counsel call not in the harvest pe ple, nor account not their works. He that standeth above the Moon, seeth greater things then the earth: Is it not said, The Lord will provide? I stand above the Moon, for that I dispose his life from above the disposition of the Moon. To ask what Jacob his servants did, was a folly; because their master was blessed: A greater question to ask how blessed he was, then to ask how many sheep he had. [delta] . I am desirous to know what you meant by saying, That my words made you a Childe. Mad..... Because you ask me Childish questions. His good Angel shall reveal his Character unto G4 him, and thou shalt see it, [pointing to E.K.] But take heed thou say truely; And use great reverence, or else the feet that love thee shall carry thy Carkas out of the doors. If he carry it upon him, it shall be a token of the Covenant between him and God. [delta] . The image, or similitude thereof (mean you) made in pure Gold. Mad.. ... I. .... So those that shall see his Standards with that signe in them shall perish stterly. [delta] . You mean, if the same be painted, or otherwise wrought in his Banners and Penons, and c. Mad.. ... Let him use it as a Covenant, between God and him. [delta] . How shall he frame it in Gold, solid-wise, or Lamine-wise? Madd. .... His own Angel shall reveal it. -notes- G1 A.L. Service. G2 The heart. The monde putreth on a fiery thape. G3 Note the form of a child. G4 Reverence to good Angels, actum divinum.Perhaps ensmiled.

[delta] . Because it hath been said, that in the beginning of our Country troubles we should be packing hence into his Country; What token shall we have of that time approaching, or at hand?

Mad. .... Your watchword is told you before: When it is said unto you, Venite, and c. [delta] . But (I beseech you) to be ready against that watchword, hearing what is to be done, as concerning our wives and children into his Country. Mad. .... Miraculous is thy care (O God) upon those that are thy chosen, and wonderful are the wayes that thou hast prepared for them. Thou shalt take them from the fields, and barbow them at home. Thou art merciful unto thy faithful and hard to the heavy-bearded. Thou shalt cover their legs with Bootes, and brambles shall not prick them: Their hands shall be covered with the skins of Beasts that they may break their way through the hedges. Thy Bell shall go before them as a watch and sure Direction: The Moon shall be clear that they may go on boldly. Peace be amongst you. E.K. He is now gone away in a fire. Æterno Deo nostro, sit Laus Honor, and Gloria in seculorum sæcula. Amen. Thursday Julii 4. hora 11. ante Meridiem. 1583. Note. [delta] . When I came home yesterday from the Court, and from London, and from the Lord Laskie, I found that E.K. was purposed to ride forth of Town, and intended to be away (as he expresly told me) five dayes: Certain Companions and his acquaintance having so appointed with him, some tarrying for him in Mortlucke, and some at Brainford (as was perceived this day afterward, and as he confessed unto me.) Whereupon I thought good to fignifie so much unto the Lord Laskie who meant to come and refresh himself at my house, as he was wont before; either this day, or within two or three dayes after: Who also delighted in E.K. his company, and c. Hereupon about the time of E.K. his rising I wrote these lines, intending to send them presently to the Lord Laskie, that word might be returned of his intent before E.K. should ride, I meaning and hoping to perswade E.K. to tarry so long, and upon such respect. NObilissime Princeps, in reditu, nostrum Edwardum inveni, facie quidem læta : sed intineri tamen, ut dicit, quinque dierum, se accingentem : Hocque matutino tempore abitum vel iter istud ingredi molitur ; Reversurus (ut affirmat) post quinque dies. Quid sit ipsa veritas, novit ille que verus and Omnipotens Deus est noster. Hoc volui, isto mane summo, vobis significare, ut, quid factu optimum sit, Cogitatis : De aliis, suo tempore, Væstræ Celsitudinis sidelissimus Clientulus Julii 4. 1563. Joannes Dee. This Letter being now written, and not yet folded up, my friend E.K. was ready and came out of his Chamber into my Study; and I told him, that I was even now sending word to the Prince Laskie of his rideing out, and return after five dayes; and so shewed him the Letter: who when he came to the phrase, Quid sit ipsa veritas, he was same what off ended, saying, What secret meaning hath this, upon some of your two former conference? Truly (said I) even such as the circumstance of the Letter doth import, that is; Whereas you said that you intended to return within five dayes, or at the same dayes end, it is uncertain whether you will, or shall, return later or sooner: and therefore Quid sit ipsa veritas of your return, or intent to return, onely God doth know. He would by no meanes admit that my sincere exposition, but seemed suspitious of some other undue constructions of those former words; thereupon I took the Letter and tore it in three pieces, and sent none: But in my mind referred all to God his disposition, assuring my self of God his most constant proceeding in his own affairs. Shortly after said E.K. to me, Certainly here is a spiritual Creature in my right G1 shoulder, who sensibly saith to me, Come away: So (said I) did one say to Sowle, when they would have had him away to have drowned him, whom I stayed in this Study by force, and so hindered the Devil of his purpose then; as appeareth by that unhappy wan yet alive. Nay said E.K. they have told me that if I tarry here, I shall be hanged; and if I go with this Prince he will cut off my head, and that you mean not to keep promise with me; And therefore if I might have a thousand pound to tarry, yea a Kingdom, I cannot: Therefore I release G2 you of your promise of 50 pounds yearly Stipend to me, and you need not doubt but God will defend you and prosper you, and can of the very stones raise up children to Abraham: And again I cannot abide my wife, I love her not, nay I abhor her; and there in the house I am misliked, G3 because I favour her no better. To these, such his words spoken in great pangs and disquietnesse of mind, I reposed and said, That these his doings and sayings were not of God, and that by my whole proceeding he might perceive what confidence I reposed in his dealing with the spiritual, our friends, seeing even to the uttermost penny (and more than my ability served unto conveniently) I laid out still about the ...ming of such things, as were by me to be done, and c. Well, on the sudden, down he went; upon his Mare, and away toward -notes- G1 Sowle. Evil spirits. G2 Fifty pound yearly stipend. G3 E.K. his wife.

Brainford. After whose going, my Wife came up into my Study, and I said, Jane, this man G1 is mervallously out of quiet against his Wife, for her friends their bitter reports against him behind his back, and her silence thereat, and c. He is gone, said I, but I beseech the Almighty God to guide him and to defend him from danger and shame; I doubt not but God will be merciful to him, and bring him at length to such order, as he shall be a faithful servant unto God, and c. Note within three hours after, came E.K. up my Study staires unbooted, for he was come in a boat from Brainford. When I saw him I was very glad inwardly: But I remained writing of those Records as I had yet to write of Tuesdayes last actions. I have lent my Mare out (said he) and so am returned. It is well done said I, and thereupon he sate down in the chair by my Table where he was wont to sit: And it was ten of the clock then. He took up in his hand the Books which I had brought from London of the L. Laskie, written to him in his commendations, and c. And as he was looking earnestly on them, a Spiritual Creature did put the Book on the outside of the parchment cover, divers times; and once would have taken it out of his hands: Divers times I heard the strokes my self; At length he said, I see here the handsome Maiden Madimi, and have done a pretty while. Then said I to him, Why told you me no sooner? Whereupon I took paper purposely to Note what should seem Note-worthy as followeth. [delta] . Mistresse Madimi, you are welcome in God, for good, as I hope; What is the cause of your coming now? Mad. .... To see how you do. [delta] . I know you see me often, and I see you onely by faith and imagination. Mad. .... [Pointing to E.K.] That sight is perfecter than his. [delta] . O Madimi, Shall I have any more of these grievous pangs? Mad. .... Curst Wives, and great Devils are sore Companions. [delta] . In respect of the Lord Treasurer, Mr. Secretary, and Mr. Rawly, I pray you, What worldly comfort is there to be looked for? Besides that I do principally put my trust in God. Mad. .... Madder will staine, wicked men will offend, and are easie to be offended. [delta] . And being offended will do wickedly, to the persecution of them that meane simply. Mad. .... Or else they were not to be called wicked. [delta] . As concerning Alb. Laskie his Pedigree, you said your Sister would tell all. Mad. .... I told you more then all your Dog painters and Cat painters can do. [delta] . You spoke of William Laskie and Sir Richard Laskie his brother, of which William going into France, and then into Denmarke: and his marriage into Poland, came this Albert Laskie, now Paladine of Soradia, and c. Mad. .... Those were two pretty men for me to meddle withal. When you set your selves together, and agree together, I will make all agree together. E.K. Will you Madimi lend me a hundred pound for a fortnight? Mad. .... I have swept all my money out of doors. [delta] . As for money we shall have that which is necessary when God seeth time. Mad. .... Hear me what I say. God is the unity of all things, Love is the unity of every Congregation (I mean true and perfect love.) The World was made in the love of the father. You were redeemed in the love of the Father and the Son. The Spirit of God is (yet) the love G2 of his Church. Yet (I say): For after it doth Triumph, it is not called a Church nor a Congregation: But a Fruitful Inheritance and a Perfect Body in Christ. Take the love of the Father from the World, and it perisheth. Take the love of our Redemption away, and we are dead. (I will not offend) put your instead of our. Take the light of the Holy Ghost, which is the love of the Father and the Son from the Church, and it withereth. Even so take love from amongst you, and you are members of the Devil; Therefore it is said unto you Diligite ad invicem. For love is the Spirit of God uniting and knitting things together in a laudable proportion. What dost thou bunt after? Speak man, What dost thou bunt after? [This was said to E.K. upon some secret judgement of Madimi in him. E.K. I hunt after nothing. G3 The love of God breedeth faith; Faith bringeth forth (on the one side) Hope; and (on the other side) the workes of Charity. Dost thou love God? Seekest thou to be among his Elect? Why dost thou not (therefore) love those things that are of God? Herein thou shewest the want of faith; Herein are thy bragging words confounded; for thou sayest, No man can accuse thee of evil. But thou hast no faith because thou hast no hope. Wilt thou say, that thou bast saith? Shew it me by thy love: Whosoever (therefore) loveth not God, is accursed. Thou lovest not God, behold, thou breakest his Commandments. Oughtest thou not to love him? And hast thou not faith through the love in God? Truly thou oughtest so to do. Wilt thou let me see thy hope on this side; Let thy workes stand on the other side. And shew thy self to have faith that therein thou mayest love God, and be beloved of him: But if thou bast none of these, thou bast hate. If thou hate God, the -notes- G1 E.K. his wives friends. reward thereof is great; but the greatnesse is unquenchable fire. Whosoever followeth not the Commandments, hateth God; If sin be the breach of the Commandments, and c. Dost thou love Silver and Gold? The one is a Thief, the other is a Murderer. Wilt thou seek honour? E.K. No. G1 So did Cain. But thou hast a Just God that loveth thee; Just and vertuous men that delight in thee; Therefore be thou vertuous: For thou shalt tread the World under thy feet: I promise thee, I have driven the Skullen-drab out of our Kitchen long ago. The hand of the Lord is like a strong oak, when it falleth it cutteth in sunder many bushes. The light of his eyes expell darknesse, and the sweetnesse of his mouth keepeth from corruption. Blessed are those whom he favoureth, and great is their reward; Because you came hither without licence and seek to overthrow the liberty of God his Testament, and the light wherewithal he stretcheth unto the end, and for because you are accursed it is said, I will not suffer mine to be overthrown with temptation, though he were led away, Behold I bring back again. Depart unto the last Cry: Rest with the Prince of Darknesse there is none. Amen, go you thither. Et signabo vos ad finem. E.K. LIBER PEREGRINATIONIS PRIMÆ: Videlicet A Mortlaco Angliæ, Ad Craconiam Polomiæ. Saturday, Septemb.

21. 1583. Sie Sancti Matthæi.. WE departed from Mortlack, about three of the Clock after noon: The Lord Albert Lasky, (Vaywode of Siradia, in Polonia) meeting me on the water, as we had appointed: And so brought night to London; and in the dead of the night, by Wherries, we went to Greenwich to my friend Goodman Fern the Potter his house: Where we refreshed our selves, and thither came a great Tyltboat from Graves end to take us in, (by appointment of me and Mr. Stanley) to go to our ships, which we had caused to ly seven, or eight mile beyond Graves end. To which ships we came on Sunday morning by Sun rise: In the greater of them (being a dubble Fly-boat of Denmark) my Lord Laskie, I, and E. K. with my Wife and Children, and c. went: And in another ship (by me also hired for this passage) went some of my Lord his men, two horse, and c. that ship was a Boyer, a pretty ship. With little winde we straight-way hoysed sayl, and began our voyage in the ship. G1 This 22. day we were in great danger of perishing (on the sands, called the Spits) about midnight: We had (by force of winde contrary) anchored by them, and the Anchor came home, no man perceiving it, till the ship was ready to strike on the sands.
Then, upon great diligence and pollicy used by our Marriners in hoysing sayl, and cutting our Cable, (to leave our shote anker) and committing our selves to the hands of God, and most earnestly praying for a prosperous winde: It pleased the Almighty, and most mercifull God, suddenly to change the winds, which served us to bear from the sands, and to recover Quinborough, back again. G2 The 23. day (being Munday) we came to the mouth and entrance of Quinburrough Creek, or Haven. And as we made to land in small Fisher-boats, the Lord Laskie, my Wife and Children in one boat, and I, with E. K. Marie, Elizabeth, and John Crokar, in another, it fell so out, that at the ships side, our Fisher-boat his sayl-yard and sayl was entangled on the Maynyard of the Fly-boat (being stroke down) so that, in our setting from the ships side, the top of our Boat being fast above, and the windes and stream carrying the Boat off below, it inclined so much on the one fide, that the one half of the Fisher boat (well near) was in the water, and the water came so in (by the intangling before specified, not easily to be undone, or loosed) that my Lord, my Wife, and all that saw us thought that of necessity our Boat must sink, and so, we to have perish. But God in his providence and mercy had greater.....of us, so that we became clear; the Boat half full of water, so that we sat wet to the knees, and the water with the billow of the Sea came still beating in more and more: And in this mean trouble; one of our two Boat-men, had lost his long Oare out of the Boat into the water; and so not onely we lacked the help of that Oare, but also by reason they would have followed the winde and ebb, for that Oar, (contrary to our course in hand, and not able to become by) with much adoe we constrained them with the sayl, our one Oare, and the Rudder to make such shift as they could to get to Quinborrough Town: And in the mean space E. K. with a great Gantlet did empty most part of the water out of the Boat, else it must needs have sunk by all mans reason. At length (to be brief) we came to the Town side, up the crooked Greeke: where, when as the Master of our ship would have taken me out in his arms (standing in the water with his Boots) he fell with me in the water, where I was foul arrayed in the water and Oase. God be praised for ever, that all that great danger was ended with so small grief, or hurt. At Quinborrough. Wednesday, Septemb. 25. Circa 3. A Meridie, jam pleno mari. [delta]. Loquor de tribut rebus, de meipso and illo qui me misit : De vobis, respectu illius quod estis, and de servitio Dei quod futurum est O vos potestates C li and terræ, colligite vos in simul. respicite Deus vestrum : Considerate beneficia ejus; an non vos colligavit simul? Et concatenavit vos in seipso? An non estia glorificati respsectu officii vestri, ad quod prærandum potenter assignati estis, in voluntate ejus, qui glorificat seipsum. Ecce quomodo vesmet dedidistis principi tenebrarum : vel quare vestri principes contendunt contra altissimum : and colligitis vosmet in simul ad contendendam contra ipsum, qui et potentissimus, vel illum velletis subjugare, cujus arma sunt super omnem fortitudinem : Quo modo audetis contendere cum ejus fortitudine? Vel quæ est causa quod tam empïi essevelitis? Sed ita oportet esse : quia vobis siigilavit gubernationem, and in vestras manus dedit violam destructionis, Sed date locum fini costro : Quia in ejus fortitudine dispersi eritis : Et omnium rerum conclusioni ostie vestra debent esse aperta. Ne mirentur servi Dei, de fortitudunie temptationis : Quia magna et potetestas impïi and biantis Leonis,

G4 Idcirco, vobis bene sit : Quia inimicus est fortissimus, ubi præda est maxima. Mementote, quod Homines sitis. Mementore, quod terra sitis. Mementote, quod Peccatores. Mementote , quid eratis, and ne tradatis oblivioni quid estis. In illo enim vivitis qui omnia in sua habet subjectione. Sed ille , que cum illo est, Crucifixus ad gloriam, debet in medio mortalitatis componere se ipsum ad Immortalem Potentiam. G5 Servi Dei, semper prævaluerunt : Sed semper per Adversitates. Qui non est de hoc mundo , vos præparavit, Nihilo minus debetis ea implere , quæ ipse providet. G6 Quod mundus possit fieri novus, and ipse agnosci. Potens ipse est, Potens est ille, Aquilla illa quæ cooperit magnum montem alis suis. Sed potentior est ejus fortitudo qui numerat stellas, and montes colligit : Nam quicquid ipse loquitur, est veritatis ignis : Et est simul Potentia and Actus, in immediata proportione. G7 Etiam ipse qui fecit Orbem, hominem in simul compegit, and omnia operatus est, Omnia ipse existens. Ipse est qui vobis præceptum dedit : Et ego vobis dico, Respicite de puncto in punctum , ad medium C li , and per Circulum terræ : Considerate omnia in uno, and unum in omnibus. Saturday 28. Of September we fell on Holland Coast, and none of our Marriners, Master, nor Pilot knew the Coast: and therefore to the Main Sea again, with great fear and danger, by reason we could scarcely get off from that dangerous Coast, the winde was so scarce for that purpose. Sunday 29. Of September we came into the Briel-haven, and there were like to strike on ground: at length we came to an Ankor, and lay in ship all night. Monday 30. our strength O God. Nature is subject unto you for the name of the Lord, not as unto Kings, but as unto the Ministers of his eternal will, where by your justification is settled above the works of Nature already; For, behold, you participate the mercies of God through his Son Christ Jesus, in us: in that we open unto you those things that have been sealed; even from the Just, for the which we are become slaves unto Corruption; shewing our selves in divers shapes, to the dishonour of our Creation: Yet are we quickned and revived, because we are become the finger of God: and you are sanctified, and withal justified, because you are touched with the finger of him that revieveth all things.
Therefore, Rejoyce, Rejoyce, be Joyful and sing Praises unto God, and faint not: saying, Our enemies are risen up against us, yea, they are multiplied; for thus saith the Lord, and it is already spoken by the Holy Ghost. [E.K. He maketh now great obedience Morvorgran sheweth to Gabriel on his own left breast a Character. Gab. .... For 19 moneths. Behold the will of God: Because thou bast conspired and risen against the Lord, in his chosen, and hast said; It is to weet those that are subject unto thee, Let us rise up against him, and persecute his soul: let us secretly entrap him, for, without doubt, he is rich. And because your conspiracies are not of theft onely, but [also] of murder: Therefore I seal thee with a weaker power; And be it unto thee according unto the word of God, that judgeth Righteously. From evil unto worse. From worse unto confusion. From confusion unto desperation. From desperation unto damnation. From damnation unto eternal death. [E.K. Now Gabriel did put another prick to the Character on his left breast] Mor..... Blessed be those that entertain those that are annointed in the Lord: for they also shall taste of the oil of his mercy. I bad care of you, saith the Lord, neither will I suffer you to periss in the way; Therefore be thankful, and forsake the world; for the world bath forsaken you, and conspired against you. But these things are nothing. Behold lastly, thus saith the Lord. E.K. Now cometh a salet or helmet on Gabriel his head, or an half sphere; A great noise of many voices is heard as of Phillars that fell. Now that thing is taken off his head. Gab. .... Thus saith the Lord. The world on both sides, shall rise up against thee, and they shall envy thee. E.K. Now cometh a beam from above (again) into Gabriel his head. Gab. .... E.K. He is gone, but his Desk standeth still. Sunday a meridie hor a 2. Octob. 13. Gab. .... And hereby I teach you, that those afflictions which you suffer in soul either for your offences towards God, or for the imperfections of your mindes, being void of brotherly charity toward your neighbours; (And so from you generally hereafter, how great, or how many soever) ought not to be manifested or made open to the world: but perfectly shadowed in Charity, bearing your own infirmities, and so the infirmity of others with quiet and bidden minde. For the anguish of the soul is compared with prayer, dwelling in one house which ought to laugh with the World, and to weep towards heaven. For every sin is noted, and the least thing as well amongst the Celestial bodies, as the Terrestiall is perfectly considered of. For sin hath his end, and his end is punishment. And so, contrariwise of Vertue, Wisdom (in the one and twentieth Ent ... ie or L...,) His ground is upon mildnesse, which mildnesse purifieth the body and exalteth the soul, making it apt and ready to behold the heavens, receive glorious illuminations, and finally bringeth in the soul to participate, with us, not earthly, but everlasting wisdom. The Son of God was sanctified in his flesh, through mildnesse, and was not of this world, because he was the mildnesse of his Father. Therefore be you meek: Be fervent in meeknesse. Then shall you take up that Crosse which Christ spoke of, following him: which Crosse is the Compassion in mildnesse over thy brethren, for sin sake: Not as worldlings do, looking, but not lamenting. The other part is in suffering mildly the afflictions of the world, and flesh: Hereby you become Martyrs for that you mortifie your selves, which is true Martyrdom. He that forsaketh the world for the love of God, in his Son Ghrist, shall have his reward. But he that forsaketh himself, shall be Crowned with a Diadem of Glory. Thus saith the Lord, I am jealous over you, because you have vowed your selves unto me. But great are the temptations of the flesh, and mighty is his strength where the spirit is weak.

But thus saith God: It is better to fill up the Soul with heavenly contemplation, and celestial food, to reign in heaven, and to be beloved of him: Then to pamper the filthy flesh, whose delight destroyeth both body and Soul. It is written, He that bridleth not his flesh, is given to riotousnesse, which is the sleep of death, and the slumber to destruction. But this is true abstinence, when contemning the world you fly the delight therein: refraining from pleasures of the body, Temperating the flesh, and making it weak, and that, for the Lord his sake. For the flesh and spirit rejoyce not at once. Neither can the full belly grone out true prayers. Feed therefore the Soul with the love of our society. And bridle your flesh; For it is insolent. One thing, I say, look to your servants. See, that in one house there dwell not delighters in vertue and holinesse, mingled with such as harbour vice upon vice: Whose drunkennesse is abomination, and whose diet stirreth up fornication. For wickednesse is amongst them: and they fear not God, neither do they abstain, according as the holy Ghost by his Church hath taught. Make them clean: Then shall you feel our presence amongst you. And we will all of us defend you from the rage of wickednesse. We delight in the God of truth, and in the worshippers of Justice. Thus sayeth the holy Ghost: Lo, I have made me a Tabernacle, where the God of Gods reigneth in Justice. And I will sanctifie those places which rejoyce in charity. Mingle therefore your Alms with charity. And let your prayers and fasting be mingled with Alms deeds. For he that prayeth and fasteth without mercy, is a lyar. Moreover, let your friendship be such, as is of charity, and not of this world: Neither for the worlds sake, but for the service of God: All friendship else is vain, and of no account. Charity is the gift of the Holy Ghost, which Holy Ghost is a kindling fire, knitting things together, through Christ Jesus; in the true wisdom of the Father: Which fire is of no small account, neither to be reckoned of, as the Heathens have done. For happy are those which are fed with charity. For it is the meat of us that are anointed, which is the son of God, and the light of the world. [delta] . Is charity the son of God? Gab. .... It is so: He that walketh in charity walketh in God; for charity is the will of the father, is his own delight, and illumination of the faithfull, through his Holy Spirit. The charity of the Church, is the Holy Ghost. But be that dwelleth in charity, dwelleth in the bloud of the Lamb, which is the will of the father, which is the Holy Ghost. Blessed are those that dwell in charity. Persevere to the end: Not negligently, but with good will, which good will, is called fear. Which fear is the beginning of wisdom, the first step into rest. He that continueth to the end, receiveth his reward: But he that leaveth off, is a damned Soul. Many G1 men begin, but few end. Neither is your justification by the beginning, but from the end. Paul was justified: Because he died the servant of God, and not for his preaching sake. He that dwelleth to the end, is the Childe of God: inherited of everlæsting life; and equal with joy himself: Not the joy of joyes, but that joy which God bath made equal with the joyes of his son Christ, in the company of the faithfull. Even in this place, many persons had conspired against you. But the strength of God bath sealed them: And they shall not be unpunished. For the Angel of the Town is sealed, and his seal is to destruction: Thrice cursed are those which dwell within his government. But you are safe, and shall be safely delivered from them. In England, They condemne thy doings, and say, Thou are a Renegade. For they say, Thou bast G2 despised thy Prince. G3 What wouldst thou know of them? Cease till you hear the number of their destruction. Desire what plague you will (saith the Lord) upon this people, for their ingrate- fulnesse, and G4 they shall be afflicted. For the Lord is angry with them: and he saith, Judge you this wicked people, their Town, Men, Women, and Children: And it shall be seen that the Lord, the God of Heaven and Earth, bath mercy on you. [delta] Non nostra, sed Dei voluntas fiat, ad ejus nominis laudem and honorem. Gab. .... Bid the fires fly from Heaven, and consume them, and it shall be done: Or, say, Let the Earth swallow them, And they shall perish. For I have made Heaven and Earth (saith the Lord) and .... Justice is for my people. I am a flaming fire amongst you, and the Rod of Justice It is said, Heave up thy hands, and thou shalt be heard. The peace of him that is the spirit of wisdom inflame your mindes with love and charity, and grant you continuance to his glorie. [delta] . Amen. Embden toward Lyre, my Lord tarried at Embden. We came late to Lyre: and the same night we went from thence in a lesse Scute by Styck-busen to Oppen. Munday 21. Octob. By nine of the Clock in the morning we came to Oppen: a very simple Village, and from thence we went straight way to Oldenburgh. Tuesday 22. Octob. The Lord Albert Laskie, being at Styck-busen behinde us, with the Earle John of Embden and Friesland, and c. E.K. The Curten seemeth to be far backward in the stone: and the stone to be clear between the Curten and the fore part. Under the Curten I see the leggs of men up to the knees. [delta] . Then appeared one, and said: Il.....Room for a Player. Jesus, who would have thought, I should have met you here? E. K. He is all in his ragged Apparell, down from the Girdle steed: But above he hath a white Satten Gerken. [delta] . By the mercies of God we are here: And by your will and propriety, and the power of God you are here. Il..... Tush, doubt not of me, for I am I.L. E.K. My thinketh that the gravity of this Action requireth a more grave gesture, and more grave speeebes. Bear with me, though I say so unto you. Il. .... If I must bear with thee, for speaking foolishly, which are but flesh, and speakest of thy own wisdom: How much more oughtest thou to be contented with my gesture, which is appointed of him, which regardeth not the outward form, but the fulfilling of his will; and the keeping of his Commandments: which is God: whose wisdom unto the world is foolishnesse, but unto them that fear him, an everlasting joy, mixed with gladnesse, and a comfort of life hereafter: Partaking infallible joyes, with him that is all comelinesse and beauty. How say you to this, Sir, Ha? C.K. He turneth up his heels to C. K. E.K. I do not understand your words: for because I do onely repent your sayings. Il. .... It is the part of him that is a servant to do this duty: Of him that watcheth, to look what he seeth: For the greatest point of wisdom, is, reverently, to consider thy calling. It is said, do that, which is appointed, for he that doth more, is not a true servant. E.K. How can that be? Il. .... Speak when thy time cometh. Sir, here is mony: but I have it very hardly. Bear with me, for I can help thee with no more. Come on Andras, where are you Andras? E.K. Now cometh one in a Gown to him. The Gown is bare like a prentice of London, a young man. Il. .... Did not I bid thee go yonder, and fetch me money. Andras .... Whither. Il. .... This is one of them that forgetteth his businesse so soon as it is told him. And..... Sir, I went half way. Il. .... And how then? Speak on, Speak on. And. .... Then being somewhat weary: I stayed, the rather because I met my friends, The third day I came thither: but I found him not at home. His family told me, that he was newly gone forth. Il. .... And you returned a Coxcombe. Well thus it is: I placed thee above my servants, and did what I could to promote thee: and endeavoured dayly to make thee free. But I am rewarded with loytring, and have brought up an idle person. Go thy way, I will deliver thee to the Officer. The Officer shall deliver thee to the Prison: and there thou shalt be rewarded. For such as do that they are commanded, deserve freedom: but unto those that loytre, and unto such as are idle, vengeance, and hunger belongeth. E.K. He taketh him by the arm, and delivereth him to a man with a staffe in his hand: and he putteth him in at a door.

E.K. Now Il himself goeth into a house, which ail this while appeared on the left hand. Il. .... Come on. [E.K.] Now he bringeth another by the hand.] Il. .... My thinketh you should be a fit man to do my message. E.K. Now he whispereth him in the ear, and pointeth outh.... Il. .... I warrant the man, be not abashed. A strange matter. [Pointing to E.K.] Il. .... I have businesse in Denmark, and this fellow is afraid to go thither: Tell him, thou comest from me, and that I will come my self shortly. I know he will do so much for me, he hath had much acquaintance with me. .... I care not, if I had some man to keep me Company. [E.K.] this new come man said so.] E.K. He whispereth again with this man in his ear. Il. .... These good fellows are not ready, or else they might go with thee. Go thy way in Gods name: See that you do your businesse. I keep such servants, as none in all the Countrey keepeth. E.K. He keepeth no servants. Il. .... Meddle with that, you have to do with all. I pray this man, and that man, and every one deceiveth me. Good Lord, where should a man finde a true friend now adayes? I will go and tell the knave that he provide for himself. For it will be marvellous hard weather. You were best to do so, least you blow your Nails. E. E. He speaketh to one within the house. Il. .... Thus you see me (Masters) how I am troubled with my servants. How now what aileth thee? [E. K. There cometh a woman round about his house, and she seemeth to passe by him. She is in English Attire.] Il. .... I will know what aileth her to cry. What aileth thee? Woman. One of my Children is dead. Il. .... Alas poor Childe: How can Children resist cold? she might have kept it warmer. Cold pierceth, where shot cannot enter. [delta] . This woman is not of our Company? I trust, None of our Children, shall perish in this cold. Il. .... Ha, A, your Children? you keep them warm: It will do them no hurt. Those that are warned, eschue danger to come: For many things are prevented by the quality of wisdom. [delta] . I trust, we shall safe arrive at the place appointed, in Cracow, or elsewhere. [delta] . But as concerning Vincent Seve, brother in Law to the Lord Albert Laskie I pray you to G1 shew us the truth of his state. E.K. I see him walking in a street; and a thick man with him; And Gerlish seemeth to come after him. The thick man his beard is somewhat like my Lord his beard, he cometh after Vincent. Vincent hath a black satten Dubblet on, cut with crosse cuts; He hath a ruffe about his neck, along one edged with black, or blue. G2 delta] . I beseech you. I.L. to shew us what Town that is. Il. .... Speaking to him that sheweth it: for I shew it not. [delta] . O God. Il. .... I remember not the name of any such Town. Quem Deus non amat, non novit. E.K. Now the Town appeareth again, the Sea runneth by it. There is an old rotten Church standing at the Town end. The Town seemeth to be 60. or 80. miles off. E.K. It seemeth to be Embden in my judgement. E.K. But Vincent and Gerlish seem not to be in one Town, or street. [delta] . I beseech you to say unto us whether A. Il. .... Judge my words with reason, and thou shalt, finde them true, Touch them with understanding, G1 and thou shalt finde them profound. My words are true, Because I am sent by Truth; Neither are we to speak gravely, when we take upon us the persons of Buyers and Sellers. Whosoever doth the will of his Master truely in this World, shall be laughed to scorn: But whoso speaketh worldly and sendeth out shadows, is accounted a pillar of the Earth. Happy are those which are not foolish, neither in works say, There is no God; Such request, such answer. Such earthly minde, such heavenly motions. Yet Heaven speaketh truth, and the Earth lyeth. I will plague the people, and their blood shall become Rivers. Fathers shall eat their own Children, And the Earth shall be barren: The Beasts of the field shall perish, And the Waters shall be poisoned. The Air shall infect her Creatures, And in the Deep shall be roaring. Great Babylon shall be built, And the son of wickednesse, shall sit in Judgement. But I will reserve two Kingdoms untouched, G4 And I will root out their wickednesse. Yea, thus saith the Lord, From the North shall come a Whirlwind, And the Hills shall open their mouths: And there shall a Dragon flie out, such as never was. But I will be glorified by you, and by those that are not yet dead. And you shall have power, such as I will be glorified by. Keep therefore the Statutes which I taught you, Forget not my words: For unto those that look back, there is great wo. Happy are they that continue to the end. Amen. E.K. Now he is gone. [delta] ..... E.K. Now he is come again. Il. .... Thus saith Jehova: I am the beginning and the end, The root and life of all Righteousnesse. I say, (By my self) I am with you, And will blesse you in Righteousnesse. Cease G5 therefore to move me; for I am Almighty, And inquire not of me, what I have determined; For Time groweth, and I am a Just God. Therefore Cease, Cease, I say; I in my self say Cease. Call not upon my name in desiled places; Least the wicked ones hear what I determin. I G6 will visit you at your journeyes end: I will testifie my promise to you. Be in haste therefore: And flie from sin; And flie the society of such as are accursed: For I am jealous over my people. Yea I will not suffer them to drink or taste of their vessels. Be you unto me a people, that I may behold my people: And I will be unto you both, A God for ever. E.K. IL. saith Amen, and falleth all in pieces, as small as ashes. E.K. Secondly redeeming, and Thirdly sanctifying the World in his Creation, Now, and for ever: And as long as it shall be said Osanna in the Quire of the High God .... Amen. [delta] . .... Amen. .... Amen. .... Amen. .... Manifold are the Mercies of God towards man, whose basenesse deserveth no such grace and most unspeakable blessing: But such is God; what he justifieth himself, in the strength of his mercy, and heveth his honour with his own holinesse. For what is man, that can justifie himself? or that hath any thing, wherein his bowels can rejoyce? Wherein can he determine happinesse to himself? Or how can he compare himself with the trees that are fruitful? If the life of man be sin, then is it hateful. But who is be that hateth it? But even he which is above, and is farthest from iniquity. Great, therefore (O man) are thy miseries, when naturally thou art, and lovest to be hated of God, whose service is Justice, and whose delight Peace. Consider therefore the Mercies of God, through his loving kindnesse towards thy weaknesse: And acknowledge his Power which maketh those strong which have no force of themselves. Gather not up your own inventions; But be faithful servants, performing the will of him which sanctifieth you with obedience: for of dust you are become flesh, and of flesh the servants of sin; that at length you might be made free, through your own consents in the mercies of him which hath entred into your weaknesse, and weighed out his blood for your Redemption: Even he which hath payed the uttermost penny of your Ransome. And why? Not to the intent you should brag of your selves. But hath charged in condition you should maintain justice into the works of Righteousnesse. Unto whom is Heaven a seat? but unto such as are faithful servants: Wherein the Dignity of your Master is known, of whom it is said, Blessed are those that serve the God of Hosts. If any thing, now, happen unto you, that is the riches of your Master, Be thankful for it, and consider his liberalitie: And how much the more be openeth his Treasures to you, Be so much the more thankful; For unto such belongeth the ownership of more, and the reward of such as are ten times faithful. Happy are those to whom it is said, Thou good servant. Be no Gadders, for there is no house to the house of your Master. Take heed also, least you minister his bread, to such as are his enemies, and so, unworthy: for unto both these belongeth the reward of unfaithfulness. Be not high-minded, when you borrow your riches, lest the moths enter in and corrupt your garments: for Pride is the depth of sin .... Cease not to rebuke the dishonourers * as, o .... Neither maintain the honour of any other: For he that entertaineth you, hath sealed you for others, And hath strengthened you with Authority, The Rod of his Justice. Generally these things have been spoken unto you, and these Lessons are not yet to learn: But happy are those whom God sanctifieth; being unholy, And ten times blessed are the Temples wherein his Holinesse dwelleth. True it is as thou sayest: Generally men are sanctified, the people of the Earth through all Nations, mystically: through the mercies of God: But where the sanctification agreeth not with the thing sanctified, there entreth wickednesse. The Spirit of God is not sanctified in Hell, Neither is his holy Temple beautified with the feet of the unrighteous. It is written, Dogs honour not bread, neither defiled places things that are holy: For as Hell dishonoureth Heaven, in respect of unrighteousnesse: So, those that are wicked dishonour the vertuous, and such as are truly holy, by society: and they stink of their wickednesse. For it is written, And Satan went from the presence of the Lord, leaving a stink behind him. The light of the Sun is taken from the Earth, by the congealed cloud. The sins of the people, and filthinesse of places, are put between vertue and the things Sacramental. Therefore, it is not true, that thou mayest lawfully call upon the Name of God in unhallowed places. [delta] . I crave pardon for my ignorance, and errour herein: But I required not to know of the heavenly Mysteries; Onely such things I demanded information of, which not onely were above humane power to answer, (and so might seem worldly mysteries:) but also the true good news of them, might, many ways, be comfort unto us and ours. .... Behold in Israel, the rough stones are acceptable Altars, And the stinking Caves have been known unto the Lord. And why? Because the place was holy, neither this filthinesse here, nor of any thing else created, hindreth: But the filthinesse of the place and Country wherein they are defiled; for in pure places, the defiled are blessed. David sanctified Saul, with the presence of his Anointing, and his Harpspake out the wonders of the Lord. We come unto you here, because the will of God in you shineth: But the filthinesse of this Country obscureth the beauty of our message. Not that it is obscured in us, but hindered through wick ..... from you. Therefore flee the company of Drunkards, and such as we ..... their own understanding. [E.K. He holdeth up his face and hands to heaven-ward. .... Drunkards and such as defile themselves are apt to know things worldly; not as wise men do: but that the World may be a plague to their iniquity. Thon desirest pardon, and calledst th... businesse a worldly mystery. But the mysteries of this world are put under the feet of the faithful: which (overseen through God) are generally comforted and directed. Then, therefore what care remaineth either of the Seas, or of the slimy Earth? where, on the other side, thou regardest the Ship, and on the other side Money. I say unto thee, God correcieth this world and the casualties thereof, lest those that are of thee, should blaspheme his name. [delta] . Blessed be his holy Name, and his Power magnified for ever. .... Thy goods are safe, And the Earth shall provide for you. Be not you careful; for unto the just, yea even the hairs of his head are numbred. I am silent for the World; for it is not my propriety: But notwithstanding ask and thou shalt not be denied [delta] . As concerning Vincent Seve, his state and being, we are very desirous to be informed. E.K. Vincent Seve appeareth here, going down by Charing Crosse. There is a tall fellow with a cut berd with him in a skie coloured cloak. Vincent hath a great ruff: This man waiteth on him with a Sword. He is going down into Westminster Ward: He is now talking with a Gentles man on horseback, who hath five men following him, with Cape-cloaks short, and mustaches; And he on horse back is a lean visaged man with a short Cloak and a gilt Rapier; his horse hath a Velvet foot-cloth. E.K. In Vincent his forehead is written; Where power wanteth, rigor weakneth. E. K. Vincent laugheth heartily; and sheweth two broad teeth before. He holdeth a little stick within his fingers crooking. On his left hand he hath a skar of a cut, on the nether side of his hand. Vincent hath a pair of bootes on, which come straight on his legs, and very close. A great many boats appear at White-Hall. One is graffing in the Garden there. Many people are now coming out of Westminster Church. The Gentleman on horse-back alighteth now, and goeth down toward the Court before Westminster-Hall. He goeth now up a pair of stairs; and there standeth a fellow with a white staff. Vincent is gone in with him; The servant walketh without. The servant goeth to a Waterman there. The Waterman asketh him, whether that be he; that is the Poland Bishop? The servant asketh him, what hath he to do? Now the servant goeth from the Waterman. Now cometh one down the stairs, and saith to the Serving-man, that his Master shall be dispatched to morrow. The servant saith, He is glad of it. Now all that Shew is vanished away. Now come there two handsome men, they have Cloaks on their shoulders, and they have hats on like Tankard Crowns. One of these said, A ..... I understand by the King, that he beareth him great favour. The other said, B ..... But Kings when they become rich, wax Covetous. But do you think he will come this way? A ..... Tea mary, if he be wise; for he shall find no better friendship than in Denmark. Here is the fellow, he hath brought a bag of Amber. E. K. He taketh the fellow by the shoulder, and saith; Come away. He hath been an old doer. E. K. Now they are gone, and that Shew.

E. K. Now is the first man in the black Gown come again. .... Thus you see, the World answereth for the World. Be merciful. Flee privy leakes; for the Devil is ready at every corner. Be Humble and Obedient. That receiving the reward of true servants, you may rejoyce as Enheritors of ever lasting freedom; The reward of such as are faithful to the end. God grant you may sobe. Amen. E. K. Now cometh the Vail again which all this while was gone behind the Stone. [delta] . my Lord behinde: and also missing my Children and servants, which were gone before us an other way to my great grief: till by midnight, by sending out messengers to listen and enquire after them, I heard of them. I, my Wife, Rowland, Nurse, and Myrcopskie, my Lord his man. Thursday, Novemb. 7. We came to

Lubek, and were there at Inne, at the signe of the Angel, or rather St. Michael, at a Widow her house, a very honest Hostesse. Saturday, Novemb. 9. I received Letters from the Lord Albert Laskie, of the English mens ill dealing, and consulting with the Towns-men of Hamburg for my stay, and conveying back again into England, and c. Wednesday, 13. Novembris, 1583. Mane hora 9½. At Lubek. Per horam fere, per intervalla, varias fecimus petitiones and sæpe oravimus. At length appeared a sword, two edged, firy, or rather bloody, and a bunsh of rags hanging at the top of it. The rags seemed of Woollen, and Linnen Cloath: like a bundle of Rags gathered out of a Taylers shop. The sword stood upright in a manner, but leaning from E.K. his face, though it seemed to smite at E.K. A voyce. So be it, (O Lord) for thon art mighty. Be it so unto them: For they have embraced an Harlot, and have forgotten thy jealousy. E.K. The sword shaketh mightily. Many are the Harlots that swarm upon the earth, and innumerable are their Children, and such as they foster. Their reward is ready. E.K. The sword now shaketh again mightily. .... He that entreth into the house of the wicked is defiled: but the that consenteth with an Harlot is accursed. He that delighteth in her secrets, shall be stabbed. And Leprosie shall dwell in his house for ever. [delta] . O Lord, I trust, this respecteth none of us, in common sense to be understood. .... He that delighteth in light, loveth not himself, but desireth the love of him, that illuminateth: But, thus saith God, I will not dally with you: Neither shall you handle me, as you have done. For, your Horedom, is wilfull: and your vanities worse. But this I leave amongst you, that you shall know that I am righteous. For, he that despiseth me, is accursed; and unto him that dissembleth my fashion, are miseries without number. So, unto them, that enter into the house of blasphemy, is vengeance ready at hand. [delta] . O Lord, what is this? Man is but earth, where the heavens dwell: neither are the works of man acceptable, but with righteousnesse. E. K. There appeareth a man with a Bible about his neck, like a Doctor; and he standeth miserably in fire. And so likewise appeared divers other with Bibles about their necks, and they in fire likewise. Still come flames from the earth, and encrease the flames of these men about them. There appeareth, and endlesse. ... me, most terrible with fire, and other most hideous shews.... They be suddenly gone away. And all these men be now no more in sight. A voyce. Happy are those that see, and can remember. Blessed are those that hear, and are not forgetfull. [delta] . These words, and shews, O Jesus, make evident what..... E. K. All is gone, except the sword which standeth in a Cloud, and there cometh a hand and setteth a seal upon the sword. A voyce. I brought you from iniquity, to the intent you might be purified: But the more I cleanse you, the more you are defiled. .... I have offered of old, and it shall be told. I have promised, and it shall be performed. You have not kept my Commandments. And therefore you shall be plagued. He that goeth out of the way, shall receive the reward of error. For stragglers, are spotted people. And none can be blessed, but such as dwell in the Tabernacle of righteousness. But behold, I will tell is unto you but with greater hardness. And I will make you know me, before I visit you in kindness. For thus sayeth Sathan. Lo, they erre still. Do Justice for thy glory sake. They enter into the houses of Idols: And laugh with blasphemers. They are silent, when thy name is blasphemed. Deal with them as a God: or else thou art not righteous. Therefore, be free from Sathan, that he may praise your righteousness. Yea, that he may say, as he hath said. Let me touch them.

Untill then; I will be just. I will not forget this wickedness, till you be made clean. For, behold, I have sealed it: and therefore it must be finished. For what is sealed of me, cometh to passe. [delta] . A voyce. He that dissembleth the image of Christ, is a liar. [delta] . .... Now cometh a grave man, all cloathed in white, with a Mytre upon his head. .... The God of peace is a comforting Medicine, to such, as delight in him. The peace of the world, is the image of God: God and man, which is Jesus Christ, the son of the living God: Which knit with the father in the spirit of truth, (proceeding from them both ..... everlasting will,) opened his mercies to his Apostles, replenishing them fully and mightily with the will of the father, to the comfort of the world: Which, made messagers thereof, have delivered to the Church, full and perfect Statutes (as the Will of him, whereunto she is united and married) to be kept inviolable, and without transgression. This Will, Covenant, or Decree, (sealed unto the end of the world in the number of the faithfull) whosoever breaketh, or dissembleth, is accursed, or damned. Therefore saith the word of God unto you: You have run astray, you have entred into the houses of Idols. I have brought you from fire, but you are entred into flames. And why? Because you defile yourselves with the wickedness of deceivers: Whose images you saw affirmatively, though not verily: Continually overwhelmed with daily, and inextinguible flames: Continuing even so long, as their error is exalted; Yea, even in the professors thereof, to their eternal damnation. For as Christ, and his Doctrine is light and truth: So seem the impositions of Sathan to agree, or take unto themselves, shapes or likenesses of the true image of him that saveth: Whereby he trusteth in himself under the colour of meekness, into the companie of the faithfull: Devouring their Souls with ravening, dissembling, and false likelyhoods of truth, unable to be decided by man. Happie are those that believe them not: For he, even he it is, that is a liar, and is oldest in deceit. But as the father is eternal: So is the son eternal, which eternity of the father and the son, is the holy Ghost eternal, proceeding equally, as the finger of God, and spirit of truth, to the general workmanship of Gods determination knit together, three Persons. [E. K. He maketh a great reverent curfie] in this omnipotency by spiritual illumination, and through the holy Ghost delivered unto the Apostles, as the pledge of God his mercie and promise, is alwayes certainly linked, joyned, and engrafted into the society of those G1 that fulfill the will of the highest perfectly, and without error, whose strength shall continue, and glorie branch out, even unto the end of this world, and beginning of comfort. Therefore, believe: For the spirit of truth worketh wonders, raiseth the dead, and hath power to forgive sins. Through the power of him, unto whom it is ma ..... For, as Christ hath all power in heaven and in earth delivered ..... So hath he delivered all power in heaven and earth to his true Church. Therefore she cannot erre. For where power is without measure, error hath no number: Believe not therefore those that lie: saying, The Church of God is infected with errors. For the offences of few are not counted error, but unrighteousnesse: Neither can the stragling feet of a few drunken, bring infamy G2 to the whole house. [delta] . ..... It lieth not in my power to deliver you, or reconcile you from death and Hell: The tormentry and filthinesse of the world, and the wrath of God. But yet, (That Cloud, set aside) which is between me and you) I speak afar of to you, saying, The Justice of God, is vengeance it self: Neither hath it any contrary, but even in the midst, and Centre of it self: Which is the drop and liquor of his eternal, great, and incomprehensible Majestie of himself, his mercie: Which, even in the midst of Justice is found out, by sorrowfull repentance, and reconciliation: Not in that it is necessarie with God: But that it is a Medicine applicable, and most healthfull to the infirmities of that man, that coveteth to be healed, released, or recovered from his soares. This is it, that must comfort you. For, as Justice is the reward of sin, so is mercie the reward of repentance. But mercie is the Center of light: and Justice to be cast off, and shut within darknesse. Therefore, be not negligent. [delta] . This whoredom, how is it committed, or of whom. .... I teach the ..... Where they habitation was, error rained, God called thee from it: and delivered thee by many, but unknown wayes: means not to be uttered by man. These places also are shut up from the favour of God. For their obedience is counterfeited, and their prayers, outcries. Therefore hath the Lord opened him unto you that invented the vanitie: that you might be partaker; of his knowledge, and secret judgements of the wicked. Here also you entred, and are newly defiled: For the Devil entred in, and found him waking: And lo, he entred yet, and he was not asleep. But he was happie, being kindled with desire of God, else had the judgement of his bodie for this world been fulfilled. Wickednesse followeth him: and the spirits of evil counsel are at hand. You shall feel the sorrow thereof, and your family shall be discomforted. But pray unto God, that it fall not out, that Sathan goeth about: Neither that it come to passe, which he hath power to execute. For, this token signifieth your miseries, and it is a sign of that, which is given to execution. I have said. The peace of God be restored unto you. [delta] . -notes- G1 [delta] Ecclesia Christi. G2 [delta] Fortè, staggering.

E.K. Here is the man again. .... Two words and I have done. Nothing is plainer than that which is spoken: Nothing certainer than that which is appointed. Be you penitent, that God may be merciful. This is all I have to say. Wash your selves, and I also will make you clean. Kesist you Satan diligently, and I will help you mightily. [delta] . O Lord that seal to the Sword and rags break off. E.K. Now he is gone. [delta] . E.K. Now he is here again. .... This cloud is a separation betwixt this, yea this glorified company and you. Look not for any light, whilst this darkness is present. Behold, my mouth faltreth, and my lips are stayed: But pray you, and you shall not be rejected. For the stronger you be, the mercifuller is God, and the weaker is, and shall be, your adversary. Love together; Serve God together: Be of one heart together. Alwayes preach God. I am tied. E.K. He is gone. [delta] . Misericordia and pax Dei sit super nos nunc and semper. Amen. Friday, Novemb. 15. hora. mane. Lubek. [delta].K. The cloud appeareth, and openeth, so that the Sword may be seen. [delta] . O Lord deal mercifully with us, as thy children, to be corrected with rod or whip, and not with thy enemies, with sword to cut or wound us. Let not Satan force thee to justice more mightily, than thy fatherly goodnesse can incline thee to shew mercy upon us. E.K. An hand cometh and nippeth off an inch of the top of the Sword, and some of the rags are fallen down; some hanging on the hilts of the Sword, and some are thrust through with the Sword. Now the Sword is shut up again in the Cloud. [delta] . Have mercy on us, O Lord, and deal with us as thy younglings and novices. E.K. Now come in an eleven, all like Noble men. One of them hath a regal Cap, and a Gown faced with Sables. The Cap is like a Polonian Cap, but trimmed up with rich Sables. Now cometh one and bringeth a very rich Chair, beset with precious Stones: Four of the Company

set down this Chair, for that Principal man. He that brought the Chair went away. They all do low obedience to this principal. He sitteth down, and putteth his Gown over. He is a goodlier man than the Lord A.L. The 4 pluck a thing like a Canopy over the Chair, and they put a round Cusshion under his feet. This Principal speaketh as follovveth. .... Pluck up thy heart and be merry, pine not thy Soul away with inward groanings; for I will open unto thee the secrets of Nature, and the riches of the World, and withal give thee such direction, that shall deliver thee from many infirmities, both of body and minde: Ease thee of thy tedious labour, and settle thee where thou shalt have comfort. [delta] . Thanks be given unto the Highest, now, and ever, of all his Creatures. .... Why dost thou ... within thy thought: Hast thou not need of Counsel? [delta] . Yes, God knows; for I am half confounded. .... Then first d ... with thy self to rest thee, for this Winter. Secondly open thy mind to desire such things as may advance thy Credit, and enrich thy Family: Reap unto thee many friends, and lift thee up to honour; For I will stir up the mindes of Learned men, the profoundest in the World that they shall visit thee. And I will disclose unto you such things, as shall be wonderfull, and of exceeding profit. Moreover, I will put to my hands, and help your proceedings, that the World may talke of your wisdom hereafter. Therefor wander not farther into unknown places, contagious, the very seats of death for thee, and thy children, and such as are thy friends. If thou enquire of me where, and how. Every where: or how thou wilt thy self. For thou shalt forthwith become rich, and thou shalt be able to enrich Kings, and to help such as are needy. Wast thou not born to use the commodity of this World? Were not all things made for mans use? [delta] . Will you give me leave to speak? .... What canst thou speak hereunto? Wilt thou thank me for this?

[delta] . All thanks be unto the King of Glory, and c. [delta] . Is it your meaning that we shall stay here, and go no farther with the Lord Albert Laskie? .... Yes, in the Summer; when it is more fair. [delta] . I beseech you, Where would you, that we should make our ... this Winter? .... Where you will. Are you so unwise to go with him now. Let him go before, and provide for himself, that he may the better provid for you. The weather will be hard, and the travel unfit for children. If thou covet to live in ease, heap not up thy wives sorrow. [delta] . I desire to live in quiet, that my spirit may the better attend to the service of God. .... Well, Tarry you, and my promise shall be quickly performed. I will not halt with jou. How say you Sirs? [E.K. He speaketh to his Company, who make cursies, and say nothing.] [delta] . I beseech you to appoint an apt place: This you see is no fit place. .... I will stir thee up such friends, as shall content thee. As for dwelling places thou shalt bestow them. Well, you are contented. [delta] . Is it your will, that in this Town we should part from the Lord Albert Laskie? .... What should you do else? Are you mad men? Will you run headlong into danger? wilfully? [delta] . I beseech you, shall this be nothing prejudicial to our former doings, and order already taken and decreed for our going together? .... What, is this contrary to reason? Well you are content [delta] . As the will of the Highest is, so is mine and none other. .... Sirha, do you see this sword? I will be a surety for this (I warrant thee) also. [delta] . .... Your brother is clapped up in prison, How like you that? Your house-keeper I mean. [delta] . And why I pray you? .... For that, that thou mayest be ashamed of. [delta] . What is that? .... They examnhim: They say, that thou hast hid divers secret things. As for thy Books; thou mayst go look them at leasure. It may be, that thy house may be burnt for a remembrance of thee too. Well if they do, so it is: if not, as thou wilt. I have told thee my phansie, and given thee my counsel, offered thee my help, and desired to do thee good: The choice is thine. [delta] . O Lord the Author of all truth, and director of such as put their trust in thee, I most humbly beseech thee to consider these premises, thus to me propounded. If they be true, and from thee, confirm them: If they be illusions, and not from thee, disprove them. For, hardly in my judgement, they do or can agree with our former precepts and order taken by thee. A voice ..... He that ascendeth up to the top of the bill, let him believe: For until he come thither, let him do his labour. O Lord, I doubt of these things, and promises of ease, wealth, and honour. A voice. .... Judge the Truth, by the last Action. O Lord, What is that Action? A voice..... Wensdaies Action. This Cloud (said the voice of the Lord) is put betwixt us and you: What therefore may come between? Now judge you. [delta] . I suspect the whole apparition of the eleven to be an illusion. O Lord confirm my judgement or disprove it. A voice. .... The Spirit of the Lord is not amongst you. [delta] . What misery are we then in? O Lord, Mercy, Mercy. A voice. .... Dispute not with God, where whoredom is great. [delta] . O Lord, This whoredom we understand not. A voice. .... Pray daily, with repentance, that this cloud may be taken away, and this sword diminished. For the Seal cannot be broken, until Satan have done his uttermost; yea the uttermost of his malice. For it is granted him and he must strike. But pray you unto God, that the sword may be made shorter, or pluckt out of the hilt, that in striking he want power. For your sin is abominable, and a sevenfold offence in the sight of the Lord. [delta] . What this whoredom is (God knoweth) we understand not perfectly. If the Spirit of God be not with us, how can our prayers be acceptable? A voice. .... Thus saith the Lord, Turn unto me and be sorry for your fins, and let my Angels be witness thereof. For I swear by my self, that my Justice shall hang over you: And when I punish you next, I will raze you from the face of the earth. Therefore, Vow your selves unto me, and make your vessels clean; for your habitations in my sight are nothing: neither is the substance whereof I framed you acceptable. I am the Spirit of Truth and Understanding, and will not be dashed in pieces with worldlings; Neither use I to dwell in defiled places. For my Sanctuary is holy, and my Gates are without spot. And with me there dwelleth no unrighteousnesse.

[delta] . Lord, is it thy will we shall go with Albert Laskie to Lasco? A voyce. The Lord saith, What I have said, is true. Who rebuketh me, saying my words are untrue? The correction of him that reigneth is mightie; who hath numbred it? But to his destruction. Be you holy, that my hand may be weak. [delta] . O Lord, the fear of thy punishment astonieth my heart: and uncertainty of it in time, and place, doth also encrease my grief, and c. A voyce. The fool saith in his heart: Oh, bow great is thy punishment over me. Teach me the place of thy correction: And where thou wilt chastise me. Who is he that desireth to meet God his vengeance, or the punishment of him that confoundeth the damned? Make your hearts clean, and wipe the sin from amongst you: And desire to be forgiven, for miserable are they that meet with vengeance, or that know the place where she taketh up her Harbour. [delta] . Gloria, Honor, Laus and gratiarum actio perennis sit Deo nostro Omnipotenti: Nobis verò a Deo Patre, propter Jesum Christum in Spiritu Sancto, sit Misericordia, Pax and Consolatio in via virtutis and veritatis. Amen. Monday, Novemb. 18. Hora 9. Mane. Lubek. E.K. There appeareth the Cloud, wherein the sword remaineth enclosed. [delta] . O Lord, be mercifull unto us, and rigorously execute not thy Justice upon us, thy weaklings: Nor suffer Satan to Triumph, where thy glory is expected, and c. Convertite nos Deus salutaris noster, and averte iram tuam à nobis, and c. E.K. Now cometh one in a white Coat, not perfectly to be seen, but as if he were seen through a Cipresse; and said as followeth. .... Who is he that leadeth out the Lion to prey? or who is he that lifteth up the feet of the young ones to devour? Who feedeth the smell of the roaring Bear, or hath taught him to remember the place of his recreation? Hath he also taught the fields, to put forth their voices: and the mighty Trees to flourish in pride? Are not the Hills glad when they bring forth Corn? When the Valleys rejoyce with threefold waters. The beasts of the wilderness have they not known Caves: and unto such as are made tame, is there not a ..... understanding? For, who is he that teacheth them, to make subject themselves, which are ravening, or to bridle such as are of their forwardness? Even be it is, that looketh down from Heaven, and beholdeth the earth, and measureth with his feet, saying, It is done. Which entreth also into the houses of men, and listeneth to that which they call wonders. Which openeth the gates of his knowledge with his own finger; And which sayeth unto you: How are ye become wise? Or from whence is your understanding, are your hearts become Caves to send out Thunders? Or why are your spirits thus vexed with holiness? Are you not a stiff-necked people, and such as are despised? Are you not poor, and therefore hated. Since, therefore, you are become Bastards, who teacheth your lips to speak of my Church? Or hath taught you to urge me with mine own spirit? Behold, I am mighty, Because I am the joy of the faithful. For I am called the Temple of the Holy ones, and the beauty of Israel. The spirit of man crieth out, and pierceth into the Lord, as the swiftnesse of an Arrow: And he heard them. Therefore, thus doth the winde of Cabon open her mouth, and sweareth by the Jaspas Pillar that standeth in the Temple of Reconciliation, and it Thundereth, and is said, Be it done, And behold, the doors open, and the Holy Altar is covered. The beasts with many feet bring up burnt-offerings: And there is a sacrifice that ascendeth up, and it is a mighty winde, such as hath not been since the beginning of dayes. Open your ears therefore, and prepare your selves to bear: For this ..... is mighty, for it is of peace. My Justice (saith the Lord) is sealed, and you have sinned mightily: My arm is stretched forth, and I must be magnified: For vengeance is gone forth, and is appeared already. But who is he that resisteth the venome of the earth, or instructeth man to avoid the Darts of poison? He saith unto you. Thus it is, because I have sanctified you, and have made you holy to the earth: Therefore will I help you: But not as you desire: For your prayers and unrighteous life shall become bands of yarn. And I will make a contention betwixt Sathan and you. If therefore you labour hard, and open fervent mindes, such as are not of the world, and can binde this sword and cloud of vengeance fast from amongst you: Be it so unto you, for it is your own righteousness. For Sathan hath reviled, and hath said, Then shalt thou see. But so long as they are Holy, and become righteousness, they are become safe: but when they fall, Satan entreth in. For the power of righteousness is become a Conquerour, if it fight mightily: And Satan shall be confounded by a righteous judgement.

For I have decreed it: and by my self I swear it. I will be a righteous Judge betwixt you. Therefore, take heed you sin not, nor go into death: For great is the fall of vengeance. Be not therefore defiled with the filthinesse of the wicked: Neither G1 delight in such as counterfeit truth. For I am one fire that judgeth all things. And I delight in people that are joyfull with one Banket. For those that fill their bellies at the houses of strangers: Become enemies to me. For I have said, My spirit is holy, and my annointed righteous. Let the earth rise up, and continue in her wickednesse: Yea, let them say, we have found the anointed: But my continuance is truth, and they are become liars. For my spirit worketh, and behold, there are wonders in the sight of men. And wheresoever I dwell, such is my power. Be therefore of One house, that you may eat together: Least you banket too much, and so become deceivers. I am one, and am known by One: And unto One, Which One I am married unto. (And I am mercifull) Whosoever abideth not therein, is an Adulterer. Avoid you darknesse, for righteousnesse is present, and my spirit entreth. Blessed are such as believe. Amen. Even to the, Amen. [delta].K. He is gone. There appeare some bands linked together, as Chaines about the Cloud. [delta] . Welcome be these bands. E.K. He is here again; ..... and saith ..... eth. .... Why are you become dull? Why are you yet ignorant? Seest thou these ..... [He pointeth, and speaketh to E.K.] E.K. I seethem, I thank God. .... These bonds are your own righteousnesse: And as they appear before the Lord, so shall they binde vengeance together: But if you become weak you fall. But pray, that you fall not: For they are the dayes of sorrow. The spirit of God is twofold; present Jah agian, and present Nah gassapalan. Therefore take heed. For, in the first, you are blessed: and it may return. But be that is filled with the second, shall be drunken for ever. The first is power present, and a comfort inmeasurable, glorifying, and strengthening all things that are agreeable to it: But when they differ, it returneth. The other is the spirit of the first, and the second, Almighty, and everlasting, unmeasurable, and inexplicable: drowning the will of man, that becometh strong in the fountain of gladnesse and understanding: true wisdomer self, and not returning. Pray, therefore, that you may be perfect: and that you may be seasoned: For it is a salt that savoureth to the end. The peace of God be amongst you. E.K. He cast off his Cloudy Lawn, and went away. He seemed to be Raphael. [delta] . Yet we beseech you more expresly, and particularly to deal with us, and c. .... It is said. .... It is written. .... It is true. Cease. [delta] . Gloria, Laus, Honour, Triumphus and Jubilatio fit Deo nostro omnipotenti: Nunc and semper. Amen. Wednesday, Novemb. 20.

Mane bor. 11½. Lubek. [delta] . As thou hast of thy mercies (O Lord) given us some shew of thy favour bent toward us: so are we desirous to understand how our Letters have wrought upon our friend his heart to joyn with us to call for thy mercies, pardon and help: for if they have, Then do we hope, our bands (of acceptable life) whereby to binde vengeance prepared and intended against us, shall wax more and stronger: by thy great mercy and help to thy well-pleasing in thy service hence forward.
E.K. The Cloud and bonds appear: But the bands appear fewer.
[delta] . O Lord, is our state since yesterday become weaker with thee? And shall it so narrowly be exacted? Thy will be done, who art holy, just, and most wife, O God. E.K. The bonds about the Cloud, now are onely two; which before were fix, or seven. The bonds seem of a smoky ashy collour, spirally going about the Cloud. G2 ..... Judgement is the end of Justice: distributing and delivering also to every thing, seen, heard, or determined to his proper end uprightly. Are you able to deny this? [delta] . The end of our actions, words, and thoughts may seem twofold: One of us intended, and ment to be good: The other not depending upon our weaning, but according to exact wisdom, what is the end of the same; here deemed the proper end, if I understand right. -notes- G1 Note. G2 At length a voyce.

A voyce. Lo, judgement is the end of Justice in things that are handled uprightly: whereof you finde the Omnipotencie and Truth of him that judgeth Omnipotently: Which beholding your Combat, hath girded himself together, and beholdeth the Lists, and be judgeth uprightly: For, he hath sworn it. Arm not your selves therefore as weaklings: But provide as mightie and couragious Souldiers, for your own defense. I am without corruption (saith the Lord) and lean not with the windes of Basannah. [delta] . O Lord, give me leave to request thee, and c.
A voyce. But I am just, and judgement her self. Enter not therefore into my holy places: Neither kneel down before my sanctuaries; saying, the Lord hath Chosen us, He liveth, and it is truth for ever. For I have said, It may be undetermined. I will also see, whether you be strong inwardly, or privily rotten. For with the world your weaknesse is great. Whosoever overcometh shall rejoyce. But I will be a God in my Covenant and will hold on my promise: Fight therefore as it becometh you, and cast off the world. Make flesh subject, and strangle your Adversary. For unto such belongeth the entrance into my Chambers, and the use of my will, as the Horn of my glorie. For it is written, light dwelleth not in darknesse: Neither hath darknesse comprehended any light: For darknesse is the Cave of error, and the reward of sinners. Thus sayeth he, which beholdeth your sorrows: And it is a fight for many daies, which appeareth neither in the one, nor in the other: nor giveth he answer untill the end. E.K. There is one come in like a Ghost, and he taketh all the hangings away, which beautified the place like to Curtains. Now all the sides of the stone are darkish; and the Cloud standeth in the very middle thereof. Now the bands seem brighter then ..... because the place is so darkish. [delta] . O Lord, many daies Combat is assigned us. And forasmuch as Militia est vita hominis super Terram, we are now in a great uncertainty of our Combat ending. E.K. There standeth the number of 40. upon a great Labell, and nothing else. [delta] . This 40. (O Lord) what betokeneth it, dayes, weeks, or years? Well: Whatsoever it be, Blessed be the name of the Highest. Our God, King, and Father. E.K. [delta] . E.K. Now is one come in very brave, like a Preacher; I take him to be an evil one. [delta] . Benedictus qui venit in nomine Domini. G1 E.K. He saith nothing; Not so much as, Amen. .... Are you so foolish to think that the power of God will descend into so base a place? E.K. The power of God descending, descendeth to beautified the place: And whatsoever he beautifieth, he doth it mercifully: And so through his mercy he descendeth among us, that put our trust in his mercies. .... It is true: But, unto those that are righteous. [delta] . Christ his coming hath been to save sinners. His conversation was among sinners, halt, lame, blinde, and diseased. So likewise: Now our frailty, or impurity will not exclude his presence, or the Ministry of his faithfull Angels. .... What, in this base manner? [delta] . Do you mislike the manner? .... Can any that hath any drop of wisdom like it? [delta] . Are you wise? .... Or else I could not see thy imperfections. [delta] . Which be they? Accuseme. .... What greater imperfection, then to imagine much more believe, that the Angels of God, will, or may descend into so filthie a place, as this corruptible stone is? Considering the clearnesse, and bignesse of the aire, or the places that are prepared in mans bodie, for such entrances. [delta] . Who causeth thee to come here? .... Thy folly. [delta] . Art thou good, or bad? .... I am good, or else I could not see the bad. [delta] . Ergo, thou art alyar, for thou sayd'st, No good Angel, would, or might come here into this stone. [delta] . Thus will God be glorified against wicked Satan, and his Ministers. His fetch was very -notes- G1 This Preacher-like Creature, sayeth.

can he say any thing. He seemeth to be a very foolish Devil.
[delta] . Mendacem oportet esse memorem. Now be packing hence. .... I will abide here. [delta] . Where God will permit thee, there mayest thou be: But we will (as now) cease: And we thank God highly of this comfort and victory: We beseech him, that we may as prosperously overcome all other Diabolical assaults or sophistical, or untrue perswasions: and all his Temptations. Amen. Glory, Honour, power, and praise be to our Almighty and living God, the Lord of Hosts, Jehovah, now and ever. Amen. Saturday, Novemb. 23. a Meridie hora 1 ½ Lubek.
E.K. Here appeareth the same bad one, sitting, who last appeared. The Cloud with the sword appeareth at last: with two wreaths on one side; and two on the other, spirally. This Creature taketh the cloudy pillar, and throweth it from him divers times. He sayeth. Call as long as thou wilt, I will keep thee for seeing any more sights here. [delta] . Or Lord, attend unto thy glory: Attend unto thy honour, regard the arrogancy of this Luciferine brag against thy younglings expressed. [delta] . And of the Lord, Alb. Laskie, and c. .... He shall come to destruction, as thou and thine to miserable beggery: Because he hath consented to them that are Ministers of iniquity, spirits of falshood. E.K. He looketh on a bare book, when he saith thus.
..... The power of God entred into the Soul of man, and doth visit the Chambers of his understanding: openeth his will with power. The spirits of darknesse are ready for every place, and can deceive, saying, This is of God. Unto these you have listened: and have sworn it as a Covenant between God and you.
But I am come from God: and am entred indeed, and will make you hungry in your own foolishnesse, that you may become wise.
None hath entred here with power but I. And I will tarry here.
And I will be a wall betwixt you, and your imaginations: and betwixt those that have tempted you, and your weaknesse. For thou hast called upon God: and be bath heard thee, and I am he that sayeth so unto thee. .... Laws of salvation are ready, follow them. The way into darknesse is wide, and tasie, and where light is, it encreaseth joy. Be thou therefore warned by me. Nay, I have said. [delta] . Thou hast said here, That thou art God, is that true? For thou hast said, Thou hast called upon God, and he hath hard thee: And I am he, that sayeth so unto thee. .... I see thee: And thy wisdom is nothing: Make of me what thou canst, I am the messenger of God. .... Avoid darknesse, avoid darknesse, avoid darknesse. E.K. He plucketh down violently (in the stone) the Clouds, and all becometh light in the stone. ....
Ly here with thy fellows. Those that are of wisdom, let them understand. [delta] . O sapientia patris æterni, illumina mentes nostras, ut tibi serviamus in sanctiate, and Justitia toto vitæ nostræ tempore. Amem. .... Carmathar, a Knight of the Rhodes, was thirteen years deceived with one that appeared (as be thought) in glorie and wisdom in the image of Christ. Antony was beguiled in divers wayes. The Prophets and Apostles have doubted in many things; But because they faithfully believed they were not rejected. Their hope became fruitfull, and they blessed with understanding from above. If so be else, you repent, and be sorry in that you have yielded unto the instruments of wickednesse: and follow on, as they your fathers have done, you shall also become wise: But I say unto you, That which you have consented unto is amisse, and false, worse then error it self. For, where have you tasted anie fruit out of that Doctrine. How poor is the power, that hath been long told of in you. You have forgotten your own knowledge, and are become of seers, blinds: such as grope their way. Such end, such beginning. For the end hangeth from the beginning: and is become a means in it self, to bring all things to passe. But neither the end nor beginning of such things as you have handled bath been perfect, or probable: But a deceit, comprehending the image of falshood: Yea, much more the traps and snares into wickednesse; which deserveth destruction eternally.

If this may advise you, Be it so. If these examples and probable arguments be sound, Then necessarily you ought of dutie to be counselled by me: But I have opened my mouth and told you. Be it unto you, according to your disposition. [delta] . Be it unto us according to the mercies and loving kindnesse of the Highest; into whose hands we commit our selves, all our doings, and intents. .... That is well said ... God be with you. E.K. ..... The purenesse of humility, dispersed through the inward bowels of man, is that, which is called (with you) Perseverance. Which Perseverance, beautifieth and establisheth in a true and stedfast Basis those things that are acceptable in the sight of God, the workes of man. Hence springeth justification, which .... with the love of God. Herein are you become like unto us, for that we are the image of Perseverance, and the Glory of God. But in us it is dignified: In you it is, and must be imperfect: For nothing is of flesh or blood, that receiveth perfection. The Emanations from God, to, and into his creatures (which agree in the Center of the Earth as the knitting up of things) are established: So that one jot of his Will neither can, nor may perish, wax weak, or dwell in error: Which foreseen from the beginning, carrieth in it self the remembrance of all things to the end. Through which mercy and remembrance, you are become the servants of God: Not for your own sakes; but in that it is the Glory of him, which hath called you G1 to this exercise: Troublesome to the World, but rewarded with Glory. If therefore your imperfections rise up and resist the Will of God, saying, blasphemously as you do, Let us seek other wayes, Then you are not counted perseverers, neither are your works worthy reward: But humane reason can perswade and give judgement against these follies, much more are they damnable, and deserve correction in the voice and judgement of such as are pure. He that dealeth with the wicked is a lyar, and shall have his reward: But the end of comfort is in the purenesse of spirit. But O you of little wisdom, you rise up against the windes, and yoke your wits against the mount a ins: Nay you cast your selves down he ad'ong, where there is no mercy. For what blasphemie is it to say, If it be the will of God, it must follow? Is not man subject to the bringing in of his own labours? And are not they allowed to his comfort, being brought in? The soul of man is the Image of God, after his form, which keepeth within himself the power of his divinity in the heavenly Spirit, whereby he hath Authority to consent with God in the workmanship of his Will and Creatures: Which Power being sealed already, giveth unto man (as King of himself) to consent to his own salvation, conjoyning and knitting himself together, either with perseverance in the assured hope of mercy, or (with wilfull drunkennesse,) to the reward of such as fall. Therefore, Become Holy. For the soul beautifieth, when it is be- autified in it self. Resist not the Will of God, which is mighty on you: Be not obstinate. Be humble, Rejoyce not for this World: But be glad that your names are sealed, and that you shall correct the World. Despair not through weaknesse; for from whom cometh strength? If puddles become Seas, the end is more wonderful: But yet greater when sinners are called to the knowledge and performance of God his Will, thorough his mercies. Even as one day perisheth, and is not, although he hath been; Even so it is, and shall be the state of this World. For the Earth must sing O Sanna with the Heavens, And there must be One veritie. And Herusalem shall descena with an born of glory to the end. The Sun and Moon shall be witnesses, and wonder at their stay. The Kings of the Earth shall become proud in themselves, and are unable to be tamel with man. But I will yoke them (saith the Lord) with correction; And force them one to imitate anothers steps: Yea they shall tread the grapes alike; For in my Vineyard Corruption shall not dwell with Authority: Neither shall the Prince of Darknesse usurpe my further honour. E.K. He speaketh much in a smaller voice than he did. I cannot perceive it.] He turned back and spake. ....I speak these things for your understanding, and that you may be strengthened. E.K. E.K. He turneth now back again (as before) speaking. He seemeth now to lean against a Pillar of Copper, great and round: And he is become lesse than he was. Now he standeth on the top of the Pillar, Now he kneeleth down, his back being turned. A voice saith to him ..... Swear ..... [1] He said ..... It is done. He said ..... The first voice openeth his mouth and saith [There is a great rumbling and rousings of falling of Towns or Houses, as it were in the Stone.] He said ..... The will of God is sealed in this Prophetie, and it shall endure. A voice. .... Swear ..... [2] He said ..... I have done. He said ..... It thundereth, and it is the second voice. After Supper, at I had a desire to shew to E.K. some places of St. Johns Apocalypsis, a voyce said to him, Equus albus est initium Doctrine vestræ , Et est verbum Dei. 10. and 9. sunt Novemdecim. G3 [delta] . Hereupon seeking in the 19. Chapter of the Apocalypsis: we found the Text, Equus albus, and c. versu 11. A voyce. Ne dubites. Sum enim servus Dei. To this purpose appertain these places of Scripture, G4 and c. These are the dayes wherein the Prophet said, No faith should be found on the earth. This Faith must be restored again, and man must glorifie God in his works. I am the light of God. [delta] . Then, by like, He is U R I E L. .... I am a witness of the light. These are the times when Justice and truth must take place. Behold, I toused him, and he became a Prophet. [delta] . Mean you Esdras? G5 Vriel. Yea, in his ninth Chapter of the fourth book. There you shall finde manifestly the Prophefie of this time, and this action. [delta] . Alak, we think the time very long, before we entred in the right trade of our true lessons. Ur. Ur. The Bible it is. [delta] . I meant somewhat of our other book, which is to be written. Ur. I will speak of that also. [delta] . This delay is greatly to our grief, and occasion of many temptations. Ur. The temptations of the world are nothing unto the wise, happie are they that feel temptations with emptinesse of the belly. The Timber is not yet seasoned, or else thou shouldest Prophecie. I mean not thee E.K. [delta] . Vincat manifesta veritas. E.K. He is gone. I am Uriel [said this man] The light, and hand of him that created Heaven and Earth: that talked with Esdras, and did comfort him in affliction, and the same that hath talked with you: Yea, from the beginning of this action. Therefore, gird your selves together, and hear the voice of the Lord: Listen, (I say) to such things as are hid, (I say) to them that dwell about the Heavens. Behold, this is the last sleep of the world: and the time, that the power of the highest hath armed himself, saying, Come, O ye strength of the Heavens, and follow me. For the earth hath cried vengeance, and hath cursed herself, and despaireth. Come (I say) For I will place the seat of righteousnesse. That my King do in may be in One: And that my people may flourish: Yea, even a little before the end. And what is this? E.K. He spake these four words in another Tune. E.K. He looketh up to heaven. A voyce. Blessed art thou, which respectest thy Justice, and not the sins of man. G2 Ur. This is the voice of the Angel that now taketh place. [delta] . May we be so bold as to demand the name of that Angel? Ur. No, It is not lawfull. I swear by all things that are contained within G3 this holy book: G4 By the seat of God, and him that sitteth thereon. That the words, which have been spoken in this Action, and shall be now spoken, by me, are true: Three years are yet to come; even in this moneth, (that beginneth G5 the fourth year) shall the Son of perdition be known unto the whole world: Suddenly creeping out of his hole like an Adder, leading out her young ones after her, to devour the dust of the earth. G6 septenarius unus, nostrorum annorum 24. sit habendus pro uno anno mystico: vel 42. menses, and c. [delta] . The sentence is dark, in respect of the time. Consider well. [delta] . I suspect 42 moneths (now and then) to be understood for an year. Ur. This moneth in the farth year, shall Antichrist be known unto all the world. Then shall G7 wo, wo, dwell amongst the Kings of the earth: For they shall be chosen all anew. G1 The earth wasted. The Rivers become blood, with the blood of men and beasts mixed together. In this time shall the Turkish state be rooted up, and cast from the earth. And instead of him shall enter in that Devil: the father of liars, and such as dwell in the house of Vanity. Behold, G2 This * Prince shall fly through his Kingdoms, as the Greyhound after his spoyle: devouring his possessions, and cutting down the wicked: But he shall become proud. The Prophets of the Lord shall descend from Heaven, clothed with their old Garments very fresh, and not stained. Thy eyes shall see them. Out of these books shall the true Doctrine of the Prophets, and Apostles be gathered: Which are not to be understood, but with the spirit of understanding, the spirit of wisdom, and truth. Behold, I will say unto you my self. Come, Hear. For, the voice of the Lord is with power. Therefore, be milde, and of bumble spirit. For 10, G3 the time shall come. And I have seven books, such as shall be delivered unto one of you. And I will meet thee walking in the fields. And will stretch forth my hand, saying, Come: Then shall thine eyes see those things, that thy spirit doth. And thou shalt become a man of understanding: For I will give thee bread, and thou shalt eat it, such, as shall be the bread of sufficient comfort. E.K. It thundreth in the stone. Of thee, [pointing to E. K.] thus sayeth the Lord. G4 Thou art flesh, and become stubborn. Thy judgement waxeth dull, and thy heart sealed: But I will unseal thee; and thou shalt be partaker: But (because thou hast offended me) not with power in worldly things, I will make thee a great Seer: Such an one, as shall judge the Circle of things in nature. But heavenly understanding, and spiritual knowledge shall be sealed up from thee in this world: For, thou art become stony, and hast cried out against my Saints. Notwithstanding, your life shall be together. Thou shalt be a workman of nature, looking into the Chambers of the earth: The Treasures of men. Many things are pluck from thee, which were thine: But not from you, because I have promised them. What is he, that bridled the windes, . At your prayers? Or, who is he that preserved you from the bloody imaginations of men, [and] battred of the world invincible? Is it not he, that is God of Heaven and Earth? Is it not he, that made both flesh and Soul? Tea, even he it is, that sayeth. Fly from the wickednesse, and society with Devils. Leave off to sin against the Lord: for G5 he is of great power. this is the last time that any shew shall be made in this stone. For, 10, the promise of the most highest shall be fulfilled. E. K. Now I see all those men, whose feet I saw before: And there sitteth One in a Judgement seat, with all his teeth fiery. And there sit six, on one side of him, and six on the other. And there sit twelve in a lower seat under them. All the place is like Gold, garnished with precious stones, On his head is a great stone; covering his head; a stone most bright, brighter then fire. Four bring in a man bound. Now all is gone except Uriel. Ur. The end of words, the beginning of deeds. A voyce. Seal it up: For, it is at an end. [delta] . What is your will, that I shall do with this stone. Ur. All is said: and I am sealed for time to come. [delta]. Saturday, Februarii, I. We passed the dangerous way of Ice, having 25 men to cut the Ice for our Coaches to come through above two English miles long: but for all that great help, we could not get to Vinew City that night, by reason of the great water and Ice hard by the Town, which was broken over the banks into the medows very deep. Sunday, Februarii 2. We came over the great water, the Ice being most part (with that nights winde) driven away out of our passage. Monday, Feb. 3. We came by Shadek to Lasko Town, and there were lodged in the Provost his fair house by the Church. Prima Actio apud Lasko. Tuesday Februarii II. Stilo veteri, ast 21. Stilo novo. [delta] . Angels: After (I say) more than half an hour space attendance; E.E. seemed and thought that he felt a thing about his head, as if it clawed with Hawks claws. It continued no long time. And toward the Easterly corner of my great Study above, seemed to E.K. clouds to appear, far off, as at a quarter of a mile distance. Then appeared a Sea, endlesse one way, and a Haven mouth with a River which fell or ran into that mouth. And besides that River doing down into the Haven, did another River appear by running into the Sea, without any Haven making or having. The water of this Sea, is not like Sea-water, but rather like Quicksilver. Now cometh a mountain, and swimmeth upon that main Sea. Now that mountain seemeth to rest and stand before that River mouth, that is by the Haven. A voice. .... Measure me. E.K. Now seemeth a great thing like a man to stand, with one leg in the foresaid River, and with the other in the said Sea, by, having a corner of the ... id between his said legs. His right leg is in the River, and his left in the Sea. His right leg seemeth gold, and his lest leg lead. The mountain standeth before him. His legs are like two posts, of the substance of the Rainbow. He is very high: he hath a face, but with many eyes and noses, but not distinctly to be discerned. His body seemeth to be red Brasse. He standeth with his arms abroad, and no hands appear. His right arme is of the colour of silver; His left arme seemeth to be black, twinkling. His head is much of the colour of that Sea wherein his left leg standeth. Now beginneth a right hand to appear; a fair right hand. A voice said to this man. .... Measure the water. He answered. .... It is 250 Cubits. A voice. .... Measure that foot of earth. E.K. He pointeth to the mountain. Answer. .... It is a cube twice doubled in himself in a straight line. E.K. One speaketh behind me, saying. .... Measure the Sea also. Answer. .... It is 750. Cubits. G1 E.K. He now stoopeth to it, and taketh of it in his hand. He saith..... The fourth in the third, and three in himself square. The age of Nature. E.K. Now all is gone, all is clear, and nothing appeareth. [delta] , At length after this, E.K. heard from the foresaid corner of the Study, the noise, as of a Ship tossed and jolted of the waves of the Sea. After that E.K. saw one that stood all covered in a white cloud by the Easterly corner of the Table, above the Table in the Air. He said. .... Beati sunt, quibus veritas , spes, and consolatio est : and quibus luminaria majora inserviunt, in fortitudine and potentia æterni and Omnipotentis Dei. E.K. Now the cloud covereth him, and abideth. E.K. Now he cometh out of the cloud, and stepeth three steps forward -notes- G1 3. in 4. efficiunt 12. and 3. and in se efficit 9. Nunc 9. in 12. efficiunt. 108.

and the cloud standeth behind him, like a garment ..... At length he said. .... Then is their blessednesse, eternal life. E.K. He standeth upon a white great round Table, like Chrystal, all written with letters, infinitely. On the middle of the Table is a great swelling or pommel of the same substance the Table is of. Upon that pommel he standeth. He hath nothing in his hands; neither can his hands be discerned. His Robe hath no sleeves. He said. .... Yea those wicked oues keep open wars against God, and his Anointed in Heaven, and Earth, onely for the safeguard and true keeping of such as love God, and follow his Commandments, rejoyce in Truth, and are visited in Righteousnesse. Dark speeches to the flesh: but words mixed with humane understanding; wherein briefly I will manifest the envy between the wicked (in respect of their enviousnesse) and those that are justified in Heaven; which fight in the government of mans soul in the Creatures of God: Not in that they know they shalt overcome: But in that they are envious and proud from the beginning. Their contention is evidently amongst you, which are joynd in the service of God: Not as Deservers, but as Chosen; whose vessels and power, are best known unto God. E.K. One standeth on my left shoulder and saith. Sinister. .... Dost thou not hear, how like a fool he speaketh, without all reason? Thou art a spirit of lying. Thou art one farthest from the glory of God. Thou art a sower of lyes, and a teacher of false doctrine. E.K. Thus saith he on my left hand. Sinister. .... Speak, for I have power over thee. Canst thou deny it? Dexter..... Thou thinkest so, because thou badst power: But the brightnesse thou badst, is turned into iniquity. True it is, thou badst power to banish the wicked out of Paradise: But me thou knowest not; because thou hast not banished me. In respect of thy dignification (which sprang with power) I say with the Hallelujah: But in respect of thy fall, Thus saith the Lord; Posui tenebras a tergo meo. Sinister. .... Fy upon God, that ever he created me.

Dexter. .... Even thus, do they seek continually to enter into the weakest vessel: of envy, not to triumph; for they know they shall not: but they hinder the time with man, wherein they may offend his conscience. E.K. I hear howling and lamenting. G1 Dexter..... Such are those of whom thou seekest aid and comfort: Those that appear unto thee, have sought thy soul; And the fruit of them, is according to their destruction. Believe them not. It is said before. Thou dealest with devils. What reward shall be reap, that fighteth against the Highest? Or taketh part with such as are banished from Righteousnesse? Much more shall his punishment be, which seeketh help of those that are dishonoured. For dishonour .... to imperfection, and is become a monster for destruction. It is written .... Nothing can stand before the Lord, that is imperfect; Much more that imperfection weakened, which obeyeth the imperfect. Leave, for the kingdom of Righteousnesse is at hand, And thou must vow. Hear the Lord, That thy sins may be forgiven thee: For the Prophetes of the Lord are not uttered to the world, with the seales of the wicked. Therefore become holy, that thou mayest augment the benefit of God bestowed amongst you; and render it to the world, as the message of truth, with thanksgiving. Meum est pauca dicere. [delta]. Sed quis sis, Nescimus, an non ident Naluage, qui nobiscum prius egisti hodie ? Nal. .... I am. E.K. Why call you those Devils, with whom I deal; not offending my conscience, but intending to do good to my self and my neighbours? If you be of God, where is the fruit of your doctrine? and c. Nal. .... If they were not Devils and enemies of truth, they would praise and honour God in his Messengers of truth. But because these Actions are true, and the truth of them shall be the destruction of their kingdom; Therefore devilishly and enviously they resist the will of God. Denying G2 the power; Blaspheming his truth, and infecting his vessels. In our Doctrine there is nothing taught but the state of the world, here, and to come. The prophetes of time, and the knitting up of God his mysteries, opened from time to time, to those that are his sanctified: as testimonies in the Creation and Operation of his Creatures; where of this doctrine is a part. The Prophets in their times were not ignorant by revelation of the good will of their Creator. The Apostles in Christ his Kingdom, were made partakers of the mysteries to come, of the state of mans salvation; and ending of this combat, which is in that day, when all Creatures shall receive their reward. The Church of God is alwayes garnished and furnished with spiritual Revelations: as a Mansion or Dwelling-place of the Holy Ghost. These latter dayes, and end of harvest must have also Labourers: For no Age passeth away, but through the hands of God, who maketh the end of his doings known to the World: To the end, the World may consent unto him in Glory. So that this Doctrine, is the mysteries of the word of God, sealed from the beginning, now delivered unto man, for that Reformation which must be in G3 One unity established unto the end. The very part of that Circle, which comprehendeth the Mysteries of the Highest, in his Prophets, Apostles, and Ministers yet to come, which are alive, and shall bear witness of eternal Comfort. The fruit of our Doctrine is, that God should be praised. For of our selves we seek no glory: But we serve you to your comfort, teaching you the will of God, in the self same Christ, that was crucified; sold and died in the Patriarchs, and published to the World by his Disciples, and is now taught unto you, in the remission of sins .... greatest in the World, for the end of all things. The very key and entrance into the secret my steries of God, (in respect of his determination on earth) bringing with it reward in the end of eternal glory, which is the greatest Treasure. Those that tempt thee, do it in respect of the fear they have of the power of God, springing in thee. Let this suffice. The World is vain in respect of eternal joyes. Heaven and Earth passeth away: The reward of the Righteous endureth. E.K. Nal. .... What do you see imperfect, in all that hath been delivered? [delta] . Nal. .... You have 49 Tables: In those Tables are contained the mystical and holy voices of the Angels: dignified: and in state disglorified and drent in confusion: which pierceth Heaven, and looketh into the Center of the Earth: the very language and speech of Children and Innocents, G4 such as magnifie the name of God, and are pure. Wherein, the Apostles understood the diffuse sound of the World, imperfected for mans transgression. These Tables are to be written, not by man, but by the finger of her which is mother to Vertue [[delta] . Madimi said her mother would write them, An. 1583.] Wherein the whole World, (to flesh incredible) all Creatures, and in all kinds, are numbred, in being, and multitude. The measure and proportion of that substance, which is Transitory, and shall wax old. These things and mysteries are your parts, and portions sealed, as well by your own knowledge, as the fruit of your Intercession. -notes- G1 To E. K. G2 Devils, This Doctrine what it teacheth. The knowledge of Gods Creatures. G1 Unto me are delivered five parts of a time: Wherein I will open, teach, and uncover the secrets of that speech, that holy mysterie. To the intent the CABALA of nature, in voyce, substance of bodie, and measure in all parts may be known. For there is nothing secret, but it shall be revealed, and the son of GOD shall be known in POWER, and establish a Kingdom with righteousnesse in the earth, and then cometh the end. G2 For the earth must come under subjection, and must be made pure. That death may be swallowed in his own Kingdom, and the enemy of righteousnesse finde no habitation. The word of God endureth for ever. His promises are just. His spirit is truth. His judgements inscrutable. Himself Universall. He it is of whom you labour. The promises of God in this earthly Noble man shall be fulfilled. Salomon used the places of honour, and was exalted. Thus sayeth the Lord. I have sealed him against hatred; and have made his seat open. Let him therefore arise up, that the people may see him. For mortal men have places of honour, and in their own Courts, they come to be exalted: Who is he that made the earth, and dignified him with a living Soul? Even be it is that exalteth, and in whose hands the Kingdoms of the earth are settled. Behold, the fifth time shall come, (in respect of the parts of time) and it is the day, that hath been promised. Then shall your eyes be open. Then shall you see. A voyce. Stay there..... Nal. I obey. E. K. Now I see him passe away over the Christalline Table, which is round like a Cart wheel, having a great knop in the middle. [delta] . As concerning our ordering of the Table, and the rest of the furniture, we are desirous to know, what is now to be done: seing, now we are come to the end of this first journey. A voyce. Be it thy charge. I will put to my hand. [delta] . Mean you it to be my charge to order these things, as my imagination shall be instructed, by God his favour. A voyce. It is so said before.

For, a time is an year, purposed by determination in the judgement of God; which is not known to man, how, or when it shall happen. Another sear is a time established, and presently delivered, as the present judgement of God. This is that I speak of. A time is an year. E.K. I never heard any speak so leisurely. Nal. Now look to your understanding. I speak of two years. One appointed in the judgement and determination of God to come, and unknown to man. The other the time of the judgement of God (and before determined) now present: Notwithstanding, before determined. There is difference between an year mystically promised, and unknown: and the time that is mystically promised. G1 and known. Annus mysticus sumitur dupliciter: Unus, qui est Tenipus cognitum Deo, and homini non revelatum: Tempus, hoc dicitur, apud Deum. Annum nos illud computamus, Aliud est præfinitum, cognyum Deo and Angelis, and revelatum homini: and Annus est præfens, This last is the year I speak of. [delta] . What are your parts of that year? Nal. March, April, May, June, July, August..... In illo autem die, invenietis Christum. The words of this Doctrine must agree, and times. E. K. When come you with the rest of your words? Nal. As it is given me, so I give it unto you. A great unpatience. [[delta] . He was thus interrupted by E. K.] "Must end their course in the promise of God: [In] G2 These weeks are the fruits of my labour to be known. For I must unfold unto you, and open the secrets of this mystical, and Delivered speech: Whereby you may talk in mortal sounds with such as are immortal: And you may truly know the nature, and use of God his Creatures. Therefore, be diligent in hearing, and Receiving. For the course of man is contrary: But the determination of God most certain." You are answered. .... Mean you these Lenten weeks, or the weeks of all the fore-rehearsed moneths? .... Of my whole appointed time. E. K. He standeth higher up. .... May we (without offence) require your.....at all times, as our case requireth? Nal. Your labour is my readinesse. .... You see I have an Ague: What is your counsel therein? Nal. I have to counsel you (from God.) [delta] . Blessed be the Fountain of counsel, and of all goodnesse. E. K. He sheweth and house; and six, or seven on the top of it with Torches: They are like shadows. .... In the name of God what may this mean? E. K. These shadows go up and down the side of the house, thrusting their Torches into the sides of it. The house is like this very house. They go round about the house. There are eight of them. They have claws like Eagles. When they sit, they are like Apes. They set a fire on it, and it burneth mightily; Now your wife runneth out, and seemeth to leap over the Galery rayl, and toly as dead. And now come you out of door, and the Children stand in the way toward the Church. And you come by the yern door; and kneel, and knock your hand on the earth. They take up your wife; her head waggles this way and that way. You look up to heaven still, and kneel upon one of your knees. The stone house quivereth and quaketh and all the roof of the house falleth into the house, down upon the Chests. And one of these baggage things laugheth. The house burneth all off. Your wife is dead, all her face is battered. The right side of herface, her teeth and all is battered. She is bare-legged, she hath a white Peticote on. Now the apparition is all gone. Marie seemeth to be pulled out of a pool of water, half alive, and half dead, her hair hanging about her ears. They hold her up. Now they carry her out at the Gate. You seem to runne in the fields, and three, or four men after you. You run through waters. All disappeareth; And now Nalvage appeareth again. He seemeth to have wept. -notes- G1 E.K. He speaketh a language to me unknown, and looketh somewhat on one side. G2 Cabalistical in respect of the receiving.

Nal..... God giveth you warning that you may eschue them.
[delta] . And how shall I eschue them? Nal..... Thus sayeth the Lord. Behold, I have sealed thee for my self: for my people, and for my servant. Therefore shalt thou not perish; No, not the least hair of thy bodie. Fear not, be strong in faith. For I come shortly. Harken therefore to my voyce, I say, therefore hearken to my voyce: For the spirits of wickednesse, and confusion have risen up against thee: If therefore they prevail against my purposes; Then shall it be no world: Neither are there any heavens. But, this place is not for thee; yet, if thou wilt, be it unto thee. I will seal destruction, both for a time and for ever. Be mighty therefore in me. All the earth rageth in wickednesse. And sinne smelleth thee ready now to creep out of his hole. If thou move they seat, it shall be more acceptable. For, even this year shalt thou see the beginning of many troubles: And the entrance of this LASKO, into the bloody service of the world. E. K. He seemeth to spit fire, and so vanish away. O Jesu Christ, we have committed our selves into they hand; and do submit our wills to they government. What should this mean of terrible destruction threatned to my wife and maiden? And as it were frenzie, to light on me for sorrow. These things cannot well agree with our former assured protection. E. K. I see a little wench on the bench, all in white, she sayeth. .... It is our very earnest desire, that the Danish Treasurer in England, in the ten places, (seised on by E.K.) might be brought hither, very speedily: whereby A.L. might redeem Keysmark and Lasko lands, morgaged: and also pay his debts in Cracow, and about Cracow. For, else, neither can he come with any credit, to Cracow, (as he is willed) neither can he come to us, there, so commodiously, and oft, as our conferences may be requisit. coats; and at length sitteth down on the Cushions. Mad. .... Even as spiritual and dignified illuminations, from ascension, and by descending, work the will of God, determined in all Creatures, diversely, according to the measured purpose of the Highest, in dispersing his will upon and into every one, particularly; whereby some become wife, one in this, another in that degree; other some mighty in works, whereby health and help, comfort and joy, is given to the faithful: Even so, ascending, doth Hell infect, sometime with error, and sometime with infirmities: So that from Heaven springeth health, from below infirmities of body and soul. Whereby we find two immediate powers, bringing forth two properties, The one Comfort, G1 with Joy; The other Infection with sorrow. But this may be objected: Hath it not been seen, that the wicked cure diseases? and restore health? Whatsoever is of death, is sorrow; which is the ground of spiritual and bodily infection so that evil cannot work good. How can it therefore be that the dead revive, or restore health? The cure therefore of all spiritual infection (I mean the infections of such, as are spiritual is in respect of his weaknesse, and not of his strength; Because Satan infecting, may become weak (whereby he cannot prevail) and so give health, by reason of weaknesse: Otherwise, with power, tringing death all manner of wayes. I, than an ... she is of God and in God, tha.... the thought of man. E.K. She ... I hear ... abuz. .. eare. .... These two immediate and supernatural properties are so dignified in Creation and Determination, that the good Angels cannot cure, or help such infirmities, as are brought in by the subtile infection of the wicked themselves: Unlesse in body the immediate power of the second Person in Trinity be adjoynd in the aid and cure of the infected body; which is the true Physitian. And as he took upon him man his frailty, so he is chief Governour over the same in all degrees. If the soul be infected, the Angels have no power to ... it or make it clean: but by the will of the Father which is the Holy Ghost, descending through the Angels into the propriety of the Church: whereby the Disease is cured. Therefore, considering, thou art infected, not naturally, but by spiritual and wicked inflammation, stirring up thy body unto infection. We that are good Angels, cannot minister help unlesse we feel the immediate power of him which is the second, and the water of Life. Notwithstanding, as we know how the infection grew, either locally or really: So can we find contrary places and things for comfort. When Herod was infected by the Devil to kill very Christ the Son of God; His purpose was not altered by contradiction to the I evil, but by the foreknowledge of God, which appointed Egypt for his safeguard. So it is said unto thee, It is thought good thou shouldst rest at CRACOVIA; G2 for it is a place sanctified, both in fore-determination, and now. Therefore use the Sabbath, and rest from labour: Reap now, and eat the fruit of thy labour; Presse the Vine, that thou mayest drink, and be comforted: For the promises of God, are not in vain; Neither are the Heavens fruitlesse. For as it is said, Thou art not bound, but for the service of God: Neither shalt thou G3 be enriched by Princes: but shalt enrich them. Flesh may speak vainly, and be without comfort: But the promises of God, cease not, neither become uncertain. This year to come, is of great blood-shed: prepared to stop the mouth of the Earth, which gapeth for sorrow. Therefore thou must be separated, that the promises of God may be fulfilled: which cometh (not at your request, but at his Determination) most abundantly. These Boords need not, The pavement shall serve; for it is neither the Earth, nor mans bands, (but the Finger of him that liveth,) that provoketh. Behold .... That the power of God might be known, therefore be hath chosen those that are not regarded, to the intent, it may be said. Lo, This is of God. .. Hast therefore, and stay not, for thy warning is great. Those that are wise (to sin) in their fleshly imaginations, are deceivers of themselves: Which with us are not to be accused, but rather unknown. For the Kingdom of Heaven is divided from Hell: and those that are of Hell, are unknown from us. For as ... and ..., naturally, know not, one another, such, and so it is of us. Sit tibi fatis quod illam non novimus, neque virtutem ullam descendentem ab illa vidimus. G4 Neither is the power of God in him, for his own sake: but for the Spirit that God hath planted in him. For we have known him, and again have forgotten him. And yet we understand him. But (I teach thee a Mystery) by irradiation into him: and not by reflexion from himself. As the heavens fly from the stink of the infected powers, even so, fly thou. G5 Ganislay, Ganislay. Gan. .... What wilt thou with me? what wilt thou have?[Graphic omitted] E.K. Amen, unto him that is, and was, and liveth for ever. E. K. He looketh earnestly on his table, and turneth him to view it. Nal, .... All things are in order. Thus saith the Messenger of him which is the God of Wisdom. Is your worthinesse such, as you can merit so great mercy? or are your vessels cleansed, and made apt to receive and hold the sweet liquor, pure understanding it self? [delta]. Hath the Sun entred into your bowels, or have you tasted of the night-dew? Where are your wedding Garments; or after what sort do you provide for your marriage? Unseasoned you are and withered flesh, partakers of those things which make you holy: through which partaking and the secret providence of him that is the Highest, you became dignified to the end, and are sufficiently washed for the time of entrance. O stiff-necked people you deserve nothing, and yet you have the hire of such as labour. But, what, can corruption be partaker of those things that are incorruptible? or man, which favoureth in himself, can you savour also of the Almighty. O you weaklings, O you of no faith, O you Cankers of the earth; Where is the shame you have; Where are the tears you let fall; Where is the humility you are taught to? Nay you are such as say in your hearts; if the Spring be fair, the Harvest is like to be good: If these things come to passe, it is the finger of the Lord. But such is your imperfection, such are the fruits of the flesh, and the vanity of mortality. Notwithstanding, consider that you are servants: Do therefore the will of your Master. You are become free: Be faithful and thankful to him that is the giver of liberty: Nay you are become children: partakers of the counsel of him that sitteth and seeth, and saith I am. Therefore be sober, faithful, and waver not, for the inheritance of your Father is great: your freedom is without recompence, and your Master the King of Justice.

Where are the people, or in what generation did they dwell, that hath been thus acquainted and drawn into familiarity with the true Servants and Angels of God? Unto whom have those mysteries been opened. Is it not said, of those that are sanctified, The Lord appeared unto them in a vision: But he cometh to you when you are awake: Unto them he came unlooked for, unto you he cometh requested. Arise up therefore, and be not forgetful what the Lord hath done for you; for G1 the things of this World are not, until they be done, neither is there any thing assured, but by the end. It was said unto Abraham, And I will destroy them. He believed it; but he asked not, when. Great is the reward of Faith; for it giveth strength: But those that are faithful are not of this world. Notwithstanding, you have said, (as it was said by the Disciples to Christ, when they were yet unpure, and blind) When shall these things come to passe? Lord, what is meant by G2 this, or that? Simple Faith excelleth all Science. For, Heaven and Earth shall perish in their corruption: But the voices of the Lord, much more his promises, are become Angels for ever: for as the Sun begetteth in the earth, and is father of many things that live in corruption and have end: So is the God of Heaven, the bringer forth and begetter of things celestial with life and for ever. For why, Dixit and factum est, Every Idea in eternity is become for ever, and what is G3 thought, is become a living creature. I teach you a mystery. As the tree in sappy life, watering her self throughly, bringeth forth the ornaments of her own beauty: So the spiritual part of man being good and dignified, burnisheth himself, with his sound and faithful thought: I mean the glory and shew of his own beauty; for the soul of man groweth, either with beauty to salvation, or with dishonour and filthinesse, to damnation. I have done my Commandment. I have as a Schoolmaster warned you, and as a friend counselled you: I will also teach you. [E. K. He speaketh in a thin small voice.] [delta] . He used a great pause, and silence. E. K. He standeth and pointeth with his rod to the letters of his Table, as if he made some account or reckoning. He went out of the middle, and measured how may steps it is about. Nal. .... Pater, Filius, Spiritus Sanctus : Fundamentum, substantia, and principium omnium. [E. K. Thought in his minde, rerum, and he answered his thought, saying, What need I say rerum? The Grammarians will be on my side. Omnium, is more than to say omnium rerum.] E. K. This seemeth to be spoken by some other, in my imagination. Nal, .... Omnium, is the thing that is my charge. E. K. He still conferreth place to place, and c. So. E. K. Now he standeth still. Corpus omnium .... E. K. He pointeth to the whole or round table which he standeth on. 1. The substance is attributed to God the Father. 2. The first circular mover, the circumference, God the Son, The finger of the Father, and mover of all things. 3. The order and knitting together of the parts in their due and perfect proportion, God the Holy Ghost. Lo, the beginning and end of all things. E. K. He still counteth and conferreth places and letters together. Nal. .... Lo, it is divided into 4 parts: whereof two are dignified: one not yet dignified, but shall be: the other without glory of dignification. E. K. He seemeth to point to some divisions. Nal. .... Power, glory, and honour, be unto thee, for thou art the true body of all thing and art life eternal. E. K. Now he is suddenly vanished away with the Table. Deo nostro sit onmis laus and gratiarum actio nunc and in sempiterna seculorum secula. Amen. Thursday, Mane, Aprilis 12. 1584. Cracoviæ. [delta] . Some delay upon our prayers made, at length appeared Nalvage in shape and attire as last before: He standeth still. Nal. .... Benedictum sit nomen Domini in æternum. [delta] . Amen. Nal. .... Audite mei fratres patienter. The Godhead in his secret judgement keeping in his Almighty bosom, the image and form of all things, universally, looked down upon the Earth; for he said, Let us now go down among the sons of men: He saw that all things grew contrary to their creation and nature; either keeping their dignities and secret vertues shut up in obscurity, or else riotously perishing, through the imbecility and from ardnesse of ignorance: So that it was said, Behold, I delight not in the World: The Elements are defiled, the sons of men wicked, their bodies become dunghills, and the inward parts (the secret chambers of their hearts) the dens and dungeons of the damned: Therefore I will draw my spirit from amongst them, and they shall become more drunken, and their ignorance such as never was: No, not since the fall of heavens. G1 For, lo, the time is come, And he that is the Son of Unrighteousnesse, is and liveth: Unto him therefore shall be given strength and power: and the Kings of the Earth shall become mad: yea, even raging mad; yea even in the third maduesse, and that in the depth of their own imaginations; and I

become a Serpent in the wilderness: for I have tucked up my garments and am fled away, and She [In the wilderness.] shall mourn on the Mountains without comfort. Lo, the Thunder spake, and the earth became misty, and full of fogge, that the Soul of man might sleep in his own confusion. The second Thunder spake, and there arose spirits, such as are for Sooth-sayers, Witches, Charmers, and Seducers: and they are entred into the holy places, and have taken up their seats in man. Woe be unto the earth therefore: For, it is corrupted. Woe be unto: the earth, for she is surrendered to her adversary: Woe be unto the earth, she is delivered into the hands of her enemy: Yea, Woe be unto the sons of men, for their vessels are poysoned. But even then said the Lord, Lo, I will be known in the wilderness, and will Triumph in my weakness. And lo, he called you, and you became drunken, and foolish with the spirit of God: And it was said Descend, for he calleth, and hath called: and Raphael that brought up the prayers descended: and G1 he was full with the power, and spirit of God: and it became a Doctrine, such was never from the beginning: Not painted, or carved: filed, or imagined by man, or according to their imaginations, which are of flesh: but simple, plain, full of strength, and the power of the holy Ghost: which Doctrine began, as man did, nakedly from the earth: but yet, the image of perfection. This self-same Art is it, which is delivered unto you an infallible Doctrine, containing in it the waters, which runne, through many Gates: even above the Gate of Innocency, wherein you are taught to finde out the Dignity and Corruption of nature: also made partakers of the secret Judgements of the Almighty to be made manifest, and to be put in execution. Which knowledge in you is to be made perfect: two wayes, by power, mediate, and immediate. Immediately from God, in respect of his will, and secret Judgements, as unto the Apostles. By means and tradition, as from us, opening the substance and body of nature, according to our own image, which is the thing I have now in hand. I am therefore to instruct and inform you, according to your Doctrine delivered, which is contained in 49 Tables. In 49 voyces, or callings: which are the Natural Keyes, to open those, not G2 49. but 48. (for One is not to be opened) Gates of understanding, whereby you shall have knowledge to move every Gate, and to call out as many as you please, or shall be thought necessary, which can very well, righteously, and wisely, open unto you the secrets of their Cities, and make you understand perfectly the contained in the Tables. Through which knowledge you shall easily be able to judge, not as the world doth, but perfectly of the world, and of all things contained within the Compasse of Nature, and of all things which are subject to an end. G3 But behold, this charge of mine is tied unto time: Therefore be diligent to learn, diligent to hear, and that with patience: For it is neither a free School, not a School of continuance. For as power is not given unto me beyond the first day of August next, so have you no strength to learn after, because I am the staff of your Doctrine. Nal..... I am for the comfort of the world, and not for the hindrance: Thus sayeth the Lord. To them that have Harvest let them reap, and unto such as have labour let them work. As for me, I am tied to time, and am ready at all times: For I measure not your night, not day. [delta] . Thanks be unto the highest. Nal..... Cease now with me, for no more descendeth. Soli Deo Honor and Gloria. After-noon, the same Thursday. .... After some short Ejaculations of prayers to God, there appeared a great black masty Dogge: with whom I would have nothing to do, but expect Nalvage. He said, that he was Nalvage. We rebuked him as an Hell-hound. At length G4 he departed, and Nalvage appeared; but brighter then to day. Nal. .... Have you those things I told your to day? [delta] . We have them in record and minde. Nal..... Read them..... [delta] . I did read them. E.K. He laugheth, ha, ha, ha, and c. a great laughter: He hath also a Table, but seemeth not to be like the former Table of Nalvage. There are ten, or eleven divisions in this Table, as was not in the former Table. [delta] . If thou art Nalvage, proceed in the Doctrine of wisdom, if thou art not Nalvage, depart in the name of Jesus. .... I have free will, and therefore I will be here. [delta] . Now I doubt nothing, but thou art a deceiver. [Audite:] The ignorance of the wicked G5 becometh dust: which shewing it self is swept out of doors, and thrown on the Dung-hills. E.K. Now appeareth one like true Nalvage. Nal..... Even so is it of the [ and nbsp, ] for thou hast opened thy blasphemy: and being discovered, art become more accursed: Therefore because thou art accursed, thou art not dignified; but G6 become a Vessel of iniquity: And therefore hast no free-will. For, free-will either is, or is in state to be dignified. Therefore, as dust I sweep thee out: and cast thee into that Dunghill, which is the place of the greatest woe: the Dunghill, and the few ard of the unrighteous. And, because -notes- G1 Raphael. He striketh him with an yern, like a pair of tongs; in form of a Mould to cast Pellets in: griping his brain and underchaps, and so he fell down and disappeared: and in his place came Nalvage. E.K. Nal..... Also in receiving of the calls, this is to be noted: that they are to be uttered of me, backward: and G2 of you, in practise, forward. [delta] . Nal. .... It may be said, can there be patience in the Angels, which are exalted above the aire? For, G1 such as were of errour have their reward: Tea, forsooth my dear brethren. For there is a continual fight between us and Satan, wherein we vanquish by patience. This is not spoken without a cause: For as the Devil is the father of Carping, so doth he suttley infect the Seers imagination, mingling unperfect forms with my utterance: Water is not received without aire, neither the word of God without blasphemous insinuation. The son of God never did convert all, neither did all that did hear him, believe him. Therefore, where the power of God is, is also Satan: Lo, I speak not this without a cause, for I have answered thy infection. [delta] . E.K. E.K. confessed that he had been that day, and some dayes before, dealing by himself after his manner, to understand of my Lord Laskie, and of other matters of Lasko, and left him questions in his window written. Be comforted, and beware G4 of deceivers: for the power of the wicked is increased, and is become mighty: But into this vessel shall enter no unclean thing, not for this time onely, but for ever. Unto thee Nalvage thus saith the Lord, gather up thy wings and enter: D as thou art commanded, G5 and be multiplied. Be comforted; for Gabriel shall ascend and stand before the Lord, and shall have power and descend: and he shall be yoked unto thy loynes, and thou shalt become mighty; that thou mayst open the wonders of the Lord with power. E.K. Now is Nalvage come into the Stone. Mic. .... Be comforted, be comforted, be comforted my brethren in the God of Hosts: for your G6 comfort is and shall be of the Holy Ghost. Therefore let peace be amongst you, and be no more babes; for wisdom dwelleth not amongst children. The peace of God be amongst you: And thus much I have comforted you. E.K. He is gone. E.K. Now here is another. [delta] . It is Gabriel that came to Daniel. Gabr. .... I did so, and I am that Gabriel, and the World beareth witness of my coming. You rebellious windes, you deceivers of the righteous, you naked substances and things lighter than the windes, know not you that the God of your creation hath rewarded you, know you not your own weaknesse, know you not your state of no return? I say headlong you all (without resistance) fall down to your places: Be gone, sink, for I am of power, and do prevail. Behold he hath placed darknesse behind him, and hath made the lights of heaven as the Lamps of his beauty. Go you that are confounded without return; for the name of our God in his determination is invincible. This night is a Sabbath, and a scourge to the wicked. Nal. .... I promised to expound you a word, the first you had to day, but the last. It signifieth, of the Highest. E.K. His Table now appeareth very evidently to me, as that I could paint it all. Cease for this time, for it is a time of silence, for the wicked are confounded: in the morning G7 early you shall be taught plentifully: for my power is become a hundred and fifty; and I will finish my charge, long before the time appointed. When we enter into him, we know him; but from him, he is scarce known unto us: as of G2 him of whom it is said, he hath consented with an Harlot: we know not the end of God his justice which is upon him. His prayers are come to the second heaven, neither hath any received remembrance of him: But we will pray unto God to be merciful unto him, and that for thy sake; Because thou shalt not be made a laughing-stock to the wicked. Pray thou for him, that thou mayst work in him that G3 which he worketh not for himself. Hold up thy hands for him; for it is a lawful and a charitable thing: For God hath granted thee a force in prayer: But be patient and humble. G4 We with thee, give thanks and laud unto the Lord. Wherein, they will open the mysteries of their creation, as far as shall be necessary: and give you understanding of many thousand secrets, wherein you are yet but children; for every Table hath his key: every key openeth his gate, and every gate being opened, giveth knowledge of himself of entrance, and of the mysteries of those things whereof be is an inclosure. Within these Palaces you shall find things that are of power, as well to speak, as to do G3 for every [(1) Palace] is above his [(2) City] and every City above his [(3) entrance.] Be you therefore diligent that you may enter in, not as spoilers, but as such as deserve intertainment in the name, and through the power of the Highest. For great are the mercies of God unto G4 such as have faith. This is therefore the key of the first seven, according to the proportion of the first Creation. No more for this time. A sign alwayes to make an end. E.K. He drew a Curtain before the Stone, of white colour. The same Saturday, after Noon, hora 3½ 4. Me thinketh that I hear a stir within the Stone. At length they appeared. E.K. They have very eyes which twinkle as other mens eyes do, and G5 therefore I see them with my external eye, not within my imagination, as .... There are two kind of visions, the one by infusion of will and descending, the other by infusion by permission and ascending. The first is the image of the Will of God descending into the body, and adjoined to the soul of man, whose nature is to distinguish things of his own likenesse, but shut up in prison in the body, wanteth that power; and therefore being illuminated by spiritual presence, inwardly, seeth now in part, as he shall hereafter do in the whole. G6 But note, that every vision is according to the soul of man in power: and so is received of him that seeth. The boy of man feeleth nothing spiritual until he be of incorruption: Therefore useth no sense in and illumination. The other is to be found out by his contrary. E.K. G1 Gab. .... I know what he is: Power is given to me to resist him, but not to touch him. He hath ascended, and begotten him a son, wherein the people of the earth shall be accursed. As those that are in prison shut up from light, and the use of the day comprehend not any thing, but that which entreth unto them by permission, or free will, so is the Soul of man shut up from all light, except that which entreth by the will, or suffrance of the highest. But as obedience is the tryal of dignification, so are the Ceremonies appointed by God, the witnesses of justification. For he that violated the outward Law was accursed: But the very end of Justice to salvation is the obedience, and submission of the Soul. How can it be that the earth and elements shall bear witness against man in the day of Judgement, but in the perverse use of them, G2 contrary to God his Commandments. He is a slow School-master, and of small understanding. Gab. .... Cease, for the conflict is great, and must have judgement of the Lord. [delta] . After a few prayers necessary, and invitation to Gabriel and Nalvage for their instructions. G3 ..... Our instructions shall grow most plentifully amongst you. But give place to time, for this is the voyce of the highest. Be holy and righteous in the works of your hands, and keep alwayes the Sabbath of your Redeemer hereafter: For even yet, the Serpent is amongst us. For even yet the Serpent is amongst my holy ones, and endeavoureth to cut you asunder. Therefore I say be holy even in the works of your hands, for he thinketh to prevail against you: But let your houses be swept clean, that when the spy entereth, he finde nothing to feed on. [delta] . We ceased and gave our selves to the Sabbath: considering, intending hence foreward to visit the Church and Assembly, to pray and meditate on God his service. The white Curtain appeared still drawn before in the stone for an hour. E.K. There appeareth a face standing upon two Pillars, the Curtain yet remaining drawn: The face is fiery, and hath very great teeth. The Pillars are like Marble spotted gray, and the ground of the Pillars colour white. He said, the works of the highest are become a stumbling block, and have entred into the breasts of a woman, and he is become angry. But when she thinketh her self happy, she shall stumble, where she would not, and become sorrowfull without comfort. E.K. This face and Pillars became a great water swelling upward, and so vanished away. [delta] . After about an hour, the Curtain was opened. Tuesday, Aprilis 17. Cracoviæ. After divers Ejaculations appropriate to the action, and the Curtain of white water yet remaining. E.K. thought divers times that he saw through the white Veil, and stone and all, nothing appearing therein. E.K. immediately fell into a new doubting of the verity of these actions, and said he had a Vision by a good Creature the last night, who said these Creatures with which we dealt, would no more appear, unto him. Hereupon he said that both the last dayes scorner, and these our instructors were all Devils: and that he would no more sit to receive A.B.C. And so by Letters, any Doctrine of theirs, unlesse they would otherwise expresly, and lively deliver a plain rule thereof: With many other arguments to disprove the verity of our Actions, whereupon he said, that John your boy ear well enough deliver you their Letters, and so you need not me, and c. I referred all to God, his will, and mercies: For, as I had at his hands onely, and by his order, and for his service required wisdom and true knowledge, so do I not doubt but God will, according to his accustomed goodnesse, provide for me, that is best for my vocation here in earth, and c. E.K. He rose, and went away: and left me alone in my Study, appointed for these actions. Deus in adjutorium meum intende, Domine ad adjuvandum me festina. Gloria Patri and Filio and Spiritui Sancto, sicut erat in principio and nunc and semper and in secula seculorum. Amen. Thursday, Circa 9. As I was in my upper Study, and had gathered the holy words of the second and third call, and had conferred them with their English delivered also unto us: E.K. came up the stairs, and so went into his Study, and came out again, and as he was' going down the staires I opened my Study door, and saluted him: He thereupon came up again, and came into my Study: And there I shewed him what I had done; and how I had some understanding of those holy words, their significations by reason of due applying the English to the word Christus, intending thereby to have induced E.K. to like the better of the manner of our friends, due, and Methodical, proceeding with us, and told him that unlesse of this strange language I should have these words delivered unto us Letter by Letter, we might erre both in Orthography, and also for want of the true pronounciation of the words, and distinctions of the points, we might more misse the effect expected: But as on Tuesday last, so now again he said, our Teachers were deluders, and no good, or sufficient Teachers, who had not in two years space made us able to understand, or do somewhat: and that he could in two years have learned all the seven Liberal sciences, if he had first learned Logick, and c. wherefore he would have no more to do with them any manner of way, wished himself in England, and said that if these books were his, that he would out of hand burn them, and that he had written to my Lord (by Pirmis) that he took our Teachers to be deceivers, and wicked, and no good Creatures of God, with many such speeches, and reasons (as he thought) of force to diswade himself from any more dealing with them: But willed me to use John my Boy as my Skryer, for that these spiritual Creatures were not bound unto him, and c. I answered unto all these parcels and reasons, as time served declaring my perfect trust in God, that seeing I have many years desired, and prayed for wisdom (such as these Actions import) at his hands, and by such means as to his Divine Majesty seemeth best, that he would not either mislike my prayer, or abuse my Constant hope in his goodnesse and mercy: Therefore I concluded that I referred all to the mercifull will of God, and doubted nothing at the length to be satisfied of my request, and prayer made unto him. So he went from me this second time. ... God lighten his heart with knowledge of the truth, if it be his Divine will and pleasure. Note. Pirmis went on last Wednesday morning, and had received our Letters after noon, on Tuesday last: But on Monday before the wicked Prince of darknesse did what he could to hinder our proceeding. On Thursday, Tabius (brother to my Lord Laskie his wife) brought news to Cracovia, that my Lord, Laskie was coming to Cracovia ward. Emericus came from Kesmarke, and returned back again. Tabius rode from Cracovia toward Kesmark. Saturday, Aprilis 21. à Meridie. What sin is it when the creature riseth up, and saith in his heart, Let the Lord make a Covenant with me, considering he is a bond man? [E.K. They seem, both the voices at once, to come to my eare.] None but he that becometh disobedient, and refuseth his Master. [delta] ..... [[delta] would do so. Gab. Nal. .... These things, that is to say, this Doctrine, delivered by us, is of God, and of his mercies granted unto you, which cannot be in vain: and therefore to be performed; for the secret determinations of God are unknown unto us. He never heard of any man that would ask, if God would perform his promises. E. K. By August next? What if it were a hundred August? you may be a weary before August next, as the Childres of Israel were of their Manna. E.K. Why joyn you numbers with these letters, and added none with those of the former Table. G1 Brother, what is the cause that all the World is made by numbers? The Numbers we speak of, are of reason and form, and not of merchants. [delta] . I beseech you as concerning the powder whereof he thinketh that he hath made due assay of it, as if it should have been the Philosophers Stone, and so affirmed to be, by the minister of this action? I beseech you so to answer, the thing, as his reason may be satisfied. [delta] . They gave no answer hereunto, but proceeded in the former matter of Numbers. G2 Gab. .... Every Letter signifieth the member of the substance whereof it speaketh. Every word signifieth the quiddity of the substance. The Letters are separated, and in confusion: and therefore, are by numbers gathered together: which also gathered signifie a number: for x every greater containeth his lesser, so are the secret and unknown forms of things knit up in their parents: Where being known in number, they are easily distinguished, so that herein we teach places to be numbred:

letters to be elected from the numbred, and proper words from the letters, signifying substantially the thing that is spoken of in the center of his Creator, whereby even as the minde of man moved at an ordered speech, and is easily perswaded in things that are true, so are the creatures of God stirred up in themselves, when they hear the words wherewithal they were nursed and brought forth: For nothing moveth, that is not perswaded: neither can anything be perswaded that is unknown. G3 The Creatures of God understand you not, you are not of their Cities: you are become enemies, because you are separated from him that Governeth the City by ignorance. E.K. Whether is this Language known in any part of the World or no? if it be, where and to whom? Gab. .... Man in his Creation, being made an Innocent, was also authorized and made partaker of the Power and Spirit of God: whereby he not onely did know all things under his Creation G4 and spoke of them properly, naming them as they were: but also was partaker of our presence and society, yea a speaker of the mysteries of God; yea, with God himself: so that in innocency the power of his partakers with God, and us his good Angles, was exalted, and so became holy in the sight of God until that Coronzon (for so is the true name of that mighty Devil) envying his G5 felicity, and perceiving that the substance of his lesser part was frail and unperfect in respect of his pure Esse, began to assail him, and so prevailed: that offending so became accursed in the sight of God; and so lost the Garden of felicity, the judgement of his understanding: but not utterly the favour of God, and was driven forth (as your Scriptures record) unto the Earth which was covered with brambles: where being as dumb, and not able to speak, he began to learn of necessity the Language which thou, E.K. callest [I Hebrew:] and yet not that [2 Hebrew] amongst you: in the which he uttered and delivered to his posterity, the nearest knowledge he had of God his Creatures: and from his own self divided his speech into three parts; twelve, three, and seven: the number whereof remaineth, but the true forms and pronuntiations want; and therefore is not of that force that it was in his own dignity, much lesse to be compared with this that we deliver, which Adam verily spake in innocency, and was never uttered nor disclosed to man since till now, wherein the power of God most work, and wisdom in her true kind be delivered: which are not to be spoken of in any other thing, neither to be talked of with mans imaginations; for as this Work and Gift is of God, which is all power, so doth be open it in a tongue of power, to - notes- G1 Numbers. the intent that the proportions may agree in themselves: for it is written, Wisdom sitteth upon an Hill, and beholdeth the four Winds, and girdethber self together as the brightnesse of the morning, which is visited with a few, and dwelleth alone as though she were a Widow. Thus you see there, the Necessity of this Tongue: The Excellency of it, And the Cause why it is preferred before that which you call Hebrew: For it is written, Every lesse, consenteth to his greater. I trust this is sufficient. E. K. As concerning the power, What is it? Gab. .... What it is, that it is, for the knowledge of it may lead you to error. [delta] . This answer offended greatly E. K. and thereupon he left, off, and would receive no more at their hands. God make him patient, and a favourer of this Action as soon as it is needful that he should be. [delta] . Laudetur, magnificetur and extollatur nomen Jesu Christi in omne ævum. Amen. Note on Tuesday after Noon, circa boram quartam, as we two sat together, E.K. said that G1 he thought upon the matter, Et quod jam vellet duas horas mihin concedere singulis diebus ad recipienda illa, quæ illi tradere vellent. Ego autem illi and maximo Deo gratias egi, quia hanc esse mutationem dextra excelsi factam vere judicavi ; nam ante prandium rigidissimus erat in contraria opinione and sententia. Wensday, Cracoviaæ, Aprilis 25, Maue, hora 7. The Vail appeared as at first almost. After half an hour Gabriel and Nalvage appeared, after my manifold prayers and discourses. [delta] . Two keyes we have received by the mercy of the Highest and your ministers, the rest we attend, according to the merciful will of the Highest. Gab. .... Move not from your places, for the place is holy. [delta] . Shew a token O Lord when thy will is, whereby to perswade thy merciful dealings with us, and the presence of thy faithful Ministers. [delta] . The frame of the Stone gave a crickling, no hand touching it, or otherwise any mortal G2 or worldly thing moving it. I heard it very certainly, and to E. K. it seemed the sound of a bunch of keyes, as if they had quickly been shaken and strongly. E. K. Gabriel sitteth, and Nalvage standeth. Gab. .... My Brethren hearken to my voice, for I am the true servant of the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, the dignity whereof is sufficient both for the verity of the Doctrine, and the confirmation, and perswasion of your mindes: for as God is the Father of the Faithful, so he sheweth himself unto the faithful: whereby you may prove the great comfort and consolation: that you may justly gather of the mercies of God, as touching your Election. For at what time hath God appeared unto the unrighteous? or where do you read that ever he visited the reprobate? For the reprobate hath no visitation, but in the rod of Justice: G3 But you may rise up among your selves, saying lo, we are froward, we want faith. True it is, the acts of faith, but not the roots of faith. But I say unto you, that the power of God in his Election, is the Basis of mans purity and acceptation. But here there is a Caveat. That man imagining his Predestination and perfect Election, justifieth not himself; for wheresoever this is found, or this Doctrine preached amongst you, either simply in man, or publickly in Congregation, it is the sure sign and token of their perpetual ignorance and confusion: For the Will and Power of God belongeth not to our measure (for it was the cause of rebellion amongst us) much lesse among men, which are fighting yet for the Glory of their reward. Behold it is a sin in him that judgeth of his brothers Conscience; Much more is it a threefold error, to form the imaginations of fin, by whose imaginations they are. Be not proud therefore of the gifts of God, but become bumble; Neither justifie your self in respect that this is the word of God delivered unto you for your own selves: But the more you receive, be the more thankful; and the more you be in the strength of God, the more use you the purenesse of bumility. Of whom it is said, Behold my Spirit hath entred, yea into my servants, and they are become bumble and meek in the sight of men: But if we be the servants of the God of Abraham, then are G4 we the spirits of truth and understanding, for our faith is dignified in the sight of the heavens, and we are become mighty in the power of the Almighty. Therefore ought we to be believed. Now if you will confesse your selves to be the children of Abraham, then must you also accept of our Doctrine: For the meat whereby Abraham lived, is the same food we minister unto you: of whom it is said, He believed God, and it was counted unto him for righteousness. Even so do you, -notes- G1 24. Aprilis. this afternoon. G2 Note. G3 An objection. Answer. G4 Good Angels.

that you also may be righteous, wherein do you differ from Abraham? Were you not barren? Who hath made you fruitfull? G1 Did God make a Covenant with Abraham? Even so he doth with you. Did the Lord in his Ministers appear unto him? so doth be, and will do unto you. Were the sins of Sodom (the fifth that perished) imported into Abrahams bosome, as the secret determination of the Lord? Are they also not manifest unto you (even by the same God) as touching the time and corruption of this world? Rose he not up in the morning, and beheld the confusion, and headlong Ruines of the wicked? And shall you not also see the ruine of him that is the son of wickednesse. Yes, unlesse you hinder your selves. For the promise of your God is without exception. Be mindful therefore of your selves; and consider your calling: That you may be still blessed in him that is the God of Abraham, who is your Father. G2 In these keyes which we deliver, are the mysteries and secret beings and effects of all things moving, and moved within the world. G3 In this is the life of MOTION, in whom all tongues of the world are moved, for there is neither speech nor silence that was or shall be to the end of the world, but they are all as plain here, as in their own nakednesse. Despise it not, therefore ..... For unto them that are hungry, it is bread, unto the thirsty drink, and unto the naked clothing: A Serpent it is of many heads invincible. Believe therefore, that with him you way be wise: that your humility may be such, as may be numbed in the world. I have said. Nal. Move not, for the place is boly. E.K. What mean you by that sentence or phrase. Nal. It is of two parts, the first in respect of the spirit and presence of him that is holy: present and teaching. Secondly in respect of your consent, which is obedience, for obedience confirmeth the will of God in man, and the will of God confirmeth mans salvation; wherefore it is said, move not: and why? because the place is boly. Gab. Nal. Mark, [to E.K.] E.K. So I do. Gab. Nal. In his hands were divers things; mosse, leaves, flowers, and herbs; and he wondred, saying, Why art thou naked? and he said, Lo, I am old, and am without Garments, and these are the things where withall I will be clothed. And the Prophet talked with him, and told him of the Whale. E.K. They speak both together, that I cannot discern their voyce. And he commanded him to kneel, and he lifted up his hands to heaven and prayed within himself; and he said also unto him, I am a Prophet, rise up, I will blesse thee in the name of my prophesie: and, lo, he took him by the hand, and went forward: and the way was rough, stony, and very sound: and, as they went, they found men, huge and big, monstrous: and the Prophet said, These please me G3 not: and, as they talked on the way, they over took a little child, And the Prophet ask't him his name, and he answered, He was a man: and he said, Thou pleasest me, for thou mayest be a man. G4 There was a Hill, and they ascended, and, after a while, the child became weary, and sate down, saying with himself, This hill is troublesome, I am not able to keep company with them; and the Prophet, missing him, went back, and found him sitting. And he began to weep, saying, Whither will you lead me? But the Prophet comforted him, and said: Now thou seest, thou art not a man. And thus he did, ascending sundry times; and, lo, it was the top of the hill, and the Sun was hot and clear in the midst of the day. The Prophet said unto the child, look to the Centre of the Sun, and so he did, stedfastly. G5 And the Prophet said unto him, Now I have experience of thee, and I know thou wilt be a man; And he said unto him, that was naked, Here are Pen, Ink, and Paper. And lo thou hast one that can see far off, and he shewed him the Seas: Saying, look unto the G6 East: and he told him of the Whale, and of his coming, and of many mysteries. can I therefore STAY so many dayes? and he said unto him, Sit down, and note, untill this G1 Child become a man. Feed by comfort. For the Whale shall be thine, in whose belly is a Chest swallowed of G2 great value, and they were contented. Behold, the people of the countrey were rich, and had conquered many Nations, so that he was a Monarch in the world; this Monarch was skilfull in all Sciences, and knew all things to come, and he called his Counsell together, and said unto them. Lo, thus it is; the cause why I have made those mighty banks, and have drawn my people from the lower places and the Seas, is for that, I fear a Whale: which, if he land in my Kingdomes, will be my destruction, and they told him what the Prophet had said, and he began to rage, and was puffed up with anger, and he opened his books THE SECOND TIME; and his eyes were opened, and he understood that the Prophet had ascended unto the top of the mountain, and had taken with him a naked man, and a child: and he said to his Ministers, Ascend, and bring me the child, for I will examine him, and know the Prophets meaning, and he apparelled him richly, and gave him much, but he prevailed not. And he said within himself, Ascend again they shall, and bring down that man. And the servants ascended, and they found a Marble stone, and they were angry among themselves, G3 saying, Is this a man? And lo they came unto the King, and said, Thou sendest us forth, but we found a mighty stone not able to be moved. Where is it therefore that thou wilt have us seek that man; But he said within himself, I will overcome the child, and he took him by the hand, and led him into his Orchard, where he opened unto him the secrets of his books, so that he became skilful. But, lo, the Prophet arose, and, as he walked towards the Hill, to comfort them whom he accounted G4 his friends, he espied the child apparalled strangely, and in company strangers: and he opened his mouth, and began to prophesie, saying. The King hath risen up against himself, for he hath CHOSEN THE CHOSEN, and hath opened the secrets of his own Kingdom to his destruction, and he stretched forth his hand, and said unto the child, Come with me: and he was unwilling, for his pleasures were great. And he lifted up his voyce and said: and he SW ARE, And, lo, he came with him even unto the mountain: and the Prophet said unto him, When thou wast a child, I led thee, but now thou art become a man. stretch forth thy leggs, and labour, and he was unwilling. Thus, whilst they were talking, they that waited upon him were at his feet armed, saying, come with us, for we are strong enough to deliver thee. But the Prophet said unto them, GOE back and tell your King, that I found him on the way, and a stranger, and I had pity on him, and I took him for my own. Therefore strive not, for justice must prevail. And they began to stagger as drunkards, for they knew it was true. And the Prophet said, Now come with me, I will yet lead thee: and they ascended. The Prophet held up his hands, and SAID, I SEE, and behold, he that was naked arose: and said, I SEE ALSO. And the Seas arose, and a great tempest, and broke down the banks: and entred on the earth, G5 doing much harm to the people of that Kingdom: And, lo, there arose a wind the SECOND: and there were four beasts, such as are in the world, and were never known. And they came swimming, and so landed on the Hill. And the Prophet said, Arise, draw out your swords and kill them, and so they did. G6 Behold, the blood of them vanished into aire, and the flesh became earth: The entrals of them wasted away with the waters: and their bones burned with a mighty fire. The second wind arose, and there were five Crowns: in the midst of them sate the Father of life, with a golden head: whose Feet bathed themselves in due and sweet Manna: and the Prophet said, Put forth your hands: and G7 they did so: But to they were afraid, for he that stood in the midst of the Crowns, was full of beauty. G8 And the Prophet said, Fear not, come with me; and he opened unto them the secrets of the Crown, for in every one of them was a golden sentence. And the secrets of the Hill began to shake, and there was a great Earthquake. G9 The third wind arose: and the twelve Cedar trees that were never corrupted, came and planted themselves in twelve places of the Hill, and they brought forth strange fruits, not as Cedar trees do. G10 The Prophet said, Gather, for I know you hunger, that you may be refreshed. While they thus talked, the fourth wind arose, and, behold, all the mountain was a flaming fire, and there were five G11 Earthquakes, such as were not since the beginning of the world. The Prophet took them up, for they were become as dead. And suddenly The Firmament and G12 the waters were joyned together, and the Whale CAME, like unto a legion of stormes: or as the bottomless Cave of the North when it is opened: and she was full of eyes of every side. The Prophet said, Stand still, but they trembled. The waters sank, and fell suddenly away, so that the Whale lay upon the Hill, roaring like a Cave of Lions, and the Prophet took them by the hands, and led them to the Whales mouth, saying, Go in, but they trembled vehemently; He said unto G13 them the second time, Go in: and they durst not. And he sware unto them, and they entred in, and he lifted up his voyce, and cried mightily, Come away, and, lo. they stood before him richer then an Emperours Throne, for unto him that was naked, were clothes given: unto him that was a child and a man, were 12 gates opened. And the Prophet cried mightily, and said, This Whale cannot die; and lifted up his voyce again and said: Within this Whale are many Chambers, and secret dwelling places, which I will divide betwixt you on the right side (unto the which was a child, and -notes- G1 Note untill. The naked man is Dee, The Childe is Kelly, The Prince is the Devil, The Hill is the World, The waters are the bosome of God, The 4 beasts are the 4 Elements, The 12 Trees are the 12 parts of the Heavens, The Whale is the spirit of God, The Chambers are the degrees of wisdome, The Thunders and windes are the ends of God his Will and Judgements. The rest are not to be spoken: This I take to notifie to us the judgement and arbitrement of God between us, in respect of our Petition to his Divine Majesty now made, whereby we may be assured what to judge of the Creatures which do deal with us in this action, and of the impugners, or diswadens of the credit of it. For unto them that have, shall be given, and from them that have not, shall be taken away: For why, the bur cleaveth to the willow stem, but on the sands it is tossed as a feather without dwelling. Happy are they that cleave unto the Lord, for they shall be brought unto the store-house: and be accounted, and accepted as the Ornaments of his beauty. But pray with me. O thou eternal foundation and strength of all things, mortal and immortal, which delight in thy face and in the glorie of thy name, Consider the foundation of our fragility, and enter into the weaknesse of our inward parts: for we are become empty; whose salt is not, nor hath any savour: Fortifie, and make us strong in thee, and in thy strength; Have mercy upon us, Have mercy upon us, Have mercy upon us; that in this world our strength may be in patience, and after this life, that we may ascend unto thee. -notes- G1 Nalvage.

Gab. .... Give unto him that hath his basket open: But from him

 Priests, all in white, having B L R A H I C A V N H D L] long hair hanging down behind: their white garments traile after them: having many pleits in them. Me think that I have seen one of them before, and upon that creature appeareth a B upon his cloathes, an L in another place, an R upon his other shoulder, another A upon his other shoulder. There is an H upon his breast; there is an I upon his head, and a C upon his side on his garment; and an A under his wast behind: The Letters seem to go up and down enterchangeably in places. There seemeth an V on him, also an N, a D. Now cometh a tall man by, all in white, and a great white thing rowled about his neck, and coming down before like a tipper. They all in the Stone (being 9) kneel down unto him. The tall man said ..... Take this Key, and power: ascend and fill thy vessel, for the River is not pure, and made clean. E.K. Now he is gone (that said this) in form of a great Millstone of fire. E.K. Now they go up a Hill, with a great Tankard, as it G1 were, of Bone transparent; Now he openeth one door, he, I mean, that had the Letters on his back. 1. There appeareth a Partridge, but it hath one leg like a Kite: This Partridge seemeth to sit on a green place under the gate, one leg is much longer than the other, being like a Kites leg. This Partridge seemeth to halt. He biddeth one of his Company take it up. There goeth a bridge to the top of that Hill, all upon arches, and under it goeth a River. He taketh the Partridge and pulleth all his feathers, and they fall into the River: He cutteth off the longer leg just to the length of the other. They about him cry, O just judgement. Now he turneth him off over the Bridge, and he flyeth away, for the feathers of his wings were not pulled. 2. He goeth on, and cometh to another gate; and there the third man unlocketh it, as the second next him unlocked the first Gate; he himself having the Key first delivered him, as above is noted. There appeareth a thing like a Kite, all white, very great, it hath a fowl great head, he seemeth to be in a very pleasant Garden, and flyeth from place to place of it, and beateth down the Rose trees and other fruit trees. The Garden seemeth very delicate and pleasant. They go all into the Garden: and he saith, Thou art of the Wildernesse, thy feathers and carcase are not worthy the spoil of the Garden. Now the Kite scratcheth and gaspeth at this man; but he taketh the Kite and cutteth her carcase in two equal parts, from the crown of his head, and throweth one half over one side of the Bridge, and the other half over the other side, and said, Fowles must be devoured of Fowles. The rest say, O justitia divina, clapping their hands over their heads. -notes- G1 An Hill.

3. Now the next in order openeth another Gate (going up upon the same Bridge still.) The rest of the building from the Gate inward, seemeth very round and bright: yet there appear no windows in it. It is a frame, made as though the 7 Planets moved in it. The Moon seemeth to be New Moon. There standeth Armour, and this man putteth on, all white Harnesse. He seemeth to kick down the Moon, and her frame or Orb; and seemeth to make powder of all; For there is no mercy here, saith he. 4. Now another of them goeth forward to another Gate, and openeth the Gate, and goeth in; there appear an infinite multitude of men. There sitteth a man cloathed like a Priest, having a great Crown on his head: here are many preaching in this place. He goeth to that Crowned Priest, and he taketh away divers patches of the Vesture which he had, and the patches seemed to be like Owls, and Apes, and such like. He saith ..... A King is a King, and a Priest is a Priest. He taketh from the rest their Keyes and Purses, and giveth them a Staff and a Bottle in their hands. He goeth from them. He putteth all that he took from them in a house beside the Gate, and writeth on G1 the door, Cognoscat quisque suum. Now they proceed to another Gate, and another of them opened that Gate. The Bridge continueth still, ascending upward. Now there appeareth (that Gate being opened) a marvellous great Wildernesse. There cometh a great number of naked wilde men to him. He shaketh that Gate with his hands, and it falleth in pieces, one falleth on one side into the River, and the other falls on the other side into the River, ..... Let both these places be made one. Let the spoil of the first, be the comfort of the last: For from them that have shall be taken, and unto them that have not shall be given. 6. E.K. Now he goeth, and the last of his Company openeth another Gate; he is longer in opening of that Gate, than any of the rest. There appeareth a bushy place, and there runneth a great River on the very top of the Hill, and a great Gate standeth beyond the Hill, and a very rich Tower all of precious Stones, as it seemeth. Here he filleth his Tankard in the River, and holdeth his hands up, and maketh shew as he would return. He said ..... This was my coming, and should be my return. E.K. Now they appear suddenly before the first Gate, and there the Principal man diggeth the earth, and putteth stones and brambles, and leaves aside. There he taketh out a dead carcase, and bringeth it to a fire, and stroketh it: a very lean carcase it is; it seemeth to be a dead Lion; for it hath a long tail with a bush at the end. He saith ..... Come let us take him up, and comfort him; for it is in him. Now the Lion seemeth to sit up and lick himself, and to drink of the water, and to shake himself, and to roar. The man taketh of the segs -notes- G1 He wrote Cognoscat.

or flags by, and stroketh the Lion as he would make his hair smooth. Now the Lion is become fair, fat, and beautiful. He saith ..... Tarry you here, till I bring you word again; for I must follow the Lion into the Wildernesse. E.K. Now all they are gone, except the two our School-masters, Gabriel and Nalvage. Gab. .... This is the Judgement of God this day. Happy is he that bath judgement to understand it. [delta] . Thou O Lord knowest the measure of our judgement: Give therefore light, under-standing, and the grace to use thy gifts duely. Gab. .... Listen unto my words, for they are a Commandment from above. Behold (saith be) I have descended to view the Earth, where I will dwell for seven dayes, and twice seven dayes: Therefore let them be dayes of rest to you. But every seventh day, I will visit you, as Now I do. E.K. He speaketh as if he spake out of a Trunck. [delta] . I understand that this rest is, that every Monday, for three Mondayes else next after other, we shall await for our lessons, as now we receive, and that we may all the rest follow our affairs of study or household matters. Gal. .... It is so, for one day shall be as a week: But those dayes you must abstain from all things that live upon the Earth. [delta] . You mean on these three Mondayes, ensuing next. Gab. .... You shall cover this Table with a new linnen cloth. E.K. Pointing to the Table we sat at. [delta] . Most willingly. Gab. .... Moreover a new Candlesticke, with a Taper burning. [delta] . Obediently (O Lord) it shall be done. Gab. .... And the Candlesticke shall be set on the midst of the Table betwixt you two. Note ..... That a day may become a week, and a week as many years. Gab. .... For I have put on my upper garment, and have prepared to enter, and it is shortly: and not yet. E.K. Now he hath plucked the Curtain, as if he had pulled it round about the Stone; and it seemeth full of little sparkes like Stars. Gloria patri and filio and spiritui sancto; sicut erat in principio, and nunc, and semper, and in secula seculorum. Vide libro ..... P pro sæquentibus.

LIBRI MYSTICI APERTORII CRACOVIENSIS SABBA TICI, An. 1584. Saturday Cracoviæ, 7 Maii, Mane, hora 6. Fter prayers, appeared Gabriel and Nalvage, with the Table, and Gobriel with his Dare in his hand. Moreover there appeared the like furniture of Table with a white Cloth, a Candlestick, and Taper on it, with a Desk and Cushions (which I had caused to be made with red crosses on them:) also E. K. himself and I appeared in the same Stone. In effect, all things as we had before us, after half a quarter of an hour, that shew of our furniture, and our selves, disappeared. E.K. Gabriel standeth up, and speaketh as followeth. .... A mighty City was built on the top of a mountain, in the which dwelt many thousands. Round about the Hill, ran a fresh River, which was the onely comfort of the Town: for, of it they drank, their wives, their children, their man-servants, their maid-servants, their camels, horses, mules, and all the beasts of their fields. The beginning of which River was a Spring, which was unknown to the City, by reason of the .. yth from whence it descended. It came to passe, that a Serpent groaned for her time, and lo, she brought forth: and ... were such as her self: and she lifted up her bead and leaned upon her twice writen taile: and bebeld the Sun stedfastly, (for ber envy was toward that City) and she said within her self .. My children are yet young, the time grew, and they became big: and she went unto she Spring, and Smiled and said with a laughing voice: The Earth is fallen into thee, thou art choked: but hearken unto my voice, Thou shalt receive comfort: But she would not. And she lifted up her voice and roared; for she was full of craft and deceit. And she said unto the shingles, through the which the Spring runs (or rather syeth) Thou art full of emptinesse, and void places. Let my children (therefore) bide themselves within thee for a season: and they were contented; And she departed willingly, and saith within her self: Now I know I shall be Lady of the City.

And after a few years, the young Serpents became great; so that the one half of their bodies dwelt within the Shingles, the rest troubled the passage of the Spring: So that the Spring groaned; for, the injury that was done against her, was great. A great misery, for the Hill is become desolate without the water, and the City and the beasts perish for want of drink; for the people groan, and are full of sorrow. This City and Serpents are 60 .. now, and judgement must be bad, betwixt the Shingles and the Spring. for between lieth the life and death of the City. Thus saith the Lord unto thee [pointing to E. K.] Gird up thy self, and sit down, Consider both parts, and give judgement: for thy mouth shall this day be the judgement of the Lord. E.K. Do you mean me? .. E.K. As the Lord hath put the Authority of Judgement into my hands, so I beseech him to give me wisdom and understanding to judge right. And because the judgement hereof is committed to me, I suspect some other mystery to lie hidden in this my judgement required: But if it shall please God that my friend here, Master Dee shall give me his advise, I shall think my self well satisfied. .... Consider with your self (saith the Lord) and give judgement against the Shingles, for the fault is plain. Consider two points, the necessity of the Spring, that it must come that wayes: and secondly, the health of the City. E.K. My judgement is that the Shingles and Serpent should be removed away by an Earthquake from the place which they encumber and let, that there may be a fit new place, and course for that Spring, to the relief of that City as before it was.

..... Be it so as thou bast said, for it is a just judgement. Now hearken, what the Lord saith. The people and City of the Hill, is the world, which are from time to time by the mercy and spring of Gods wisdom, relieved .. quenched: according to the extremity and necessity of their thirsting: But the people and City are such as are of the Temple and Church of God, which drink of his mercy to their comfort. The Camels and other beasts are the people of the Earth, which delight in sin, and in their own imagination, which also are relieved with those that are of the City: but the diversities of their bodies, doth cause the diversity of the ends of their comfort. The Hill wherein the Spring is, signifieth his Prophets, and such as are drunken in the Lord: Through whom, inwardly the mercies and will of God and of the Highest are open from time to time, according to the secret will and determination of such as are without the City of his Elect. But the frailties and affections of their flesh and outward man, are their fond imaginations and loose Shingles wherein the Serpent, the old Devil, bath harboured her children the spirits of

darknesse and deceit, which alwayes resist the Will of God, and are put between the mercies of God and his people. Moses, Daniel, Esdras, all the rest of the Prophets: Christ his twelve, Paul the Messenger of God, they did all Burt the Congregation of the Faithful in their flesh, until they gave sentence against themselves (as thou bast done) with amendment of life: for who is worthy to know the secrets of our God, but he that delighteth in righteousnesse, is obedient, full of faith, and the spirit of understanding? Be it therefore unto thee as thou bast said. Let the Shingles and Serpents be separated, that the Fountain may feed as before. All the trash that this bast of the wicked, burn it. E.K. I do not know, they are wicked. .... Their doings with thee, are the hindrance of the Will of God, and therefore they are wicked. .... Thou bast given judgement against thy self: Take heed thou offend not thy own soul. [delta] . Send down thy Spirit O Lord, and illuminate E. K. his heart with perceiving of his wrong opinion, and c. E.K. If Moses and Daniel were skilful in the Arts of the Egyptian Magicians, and were not thereby hindred for being the servants of God, Why may not I deal with these, without hindrance to the Will of God? .... Darknesse yeilded unto light: the Greater excluded the lesser. The more a man knoweth wickednesse, the more he shall bate it, being called back. The more they know the shadow, so much more they delighted in the body: For the doings of the Egyptians, seem, and are not so. The doings of the Lord are, and continue; for as the Painter imitateth the gestures of man in his faculty, so doth the Devil the substances and things created and made by God. Stand up and look into the whole World, into her youth, and middle age, for they are past. Where are the monuments that Satan hath builded? E.K. Hath Satan builded any monuments? .... Yes: Hath he not builded him a Fort upon the whole Earth? Hath he not the victory over the Saints? Dwelleth he not in the Temple of the Highest? Triumpheth he not in the Cities of the whole World? Yes. .... But without comfort, are his victories: without pleasure his dwelling places. For he knoweth his time is at hand. He that now giveth freedom, shall become bound; And unto whom the whole World is as a Garden, shall there be no one foot left. Therefore are all his pleasures vanity: all his Triumphs smock, and his Authority, nothing indeed, but a meer shadow: For that that is not, cannot be; where, it is said of the Lord, it shall not be. Neither can truth, light, or wisdom, ascend from the Earth, but descend from the Heavens. Compare the Earth, (into the which the Devil is thrust as into his dwelling) with the Heavens, which are provided for the holy. Consider the pain of the one, and the pleasure of the other: The seat of Gods Justice, and Fountain of his Mercy: The Cave of Darknesse, and the Diadew of Light. And then cry, wo, wo, wo, unto such as erre, and whose lives are but shadows: For their felicity is such, as from whence it came; and their reward is all one, with the spirit and prince of Darknesse. Compare found knowledge, with true wisdom, Thy spirits of lying with us, that are the voice of truth: The vanity that they lead thee into, and the reward of our message: And say within [His life .. ned.] thy self, peccavi. Wilt thou be perswaded by experience? Consider thy imprisonments, thy affliction and shame of body. Consider the love of a few, and envy of a multitude. Weigh with thy self the venity of thy life; Thy rash foot-steps, All that bappned unto thee, by the society, and (as thou thinkest) comfort; but indeed the stinging pricks of thy enemies ..... Since, we came into thee, (sent from the Lord, and calling thee, to God) thou bast been delivered from them; from a place full of fornication, and the wrath of God: exalted to the skirts of worldly honcur; and hast been satisfied for the necessities of this World. Holy is the money that is gotten righteously; but accursed are the that are reaped with wrong.

All which things thou bast by us in blessednesse, and in the knowledge of the will of God, above all men. Besides our continual presence with thee, to the comfort of thy Soul. Even these things are of us, and of our God. Which sware unto Abraham, and dwelleth in the Temple of righteousnesse. Now, therefore let experience be a Judge betwixt us and them. But, this sayeth the Lord. I real with you as a Childe: But the vessels that I must use, must be G1 pure and clean. [delta] . Cleanse thou us, (O Lord) Cor mundum Crea in nobis;Crea. Gab. .... They that are incredulous believe not the Lord, but drive away his spirit: But where G2 a grain is, it becometh as a mountain. The Lord is upon the earth: Take been thou sweep thy house clean, for unto him that is naked, shall there be Cloathes given: But he that is covered already, shall be made hare. Consider with thy self: for the Lord speaketh not once more, till thou hast fulfilled thy own judgement. G3 E. K. I will be contented to bury them in the field, and not to use them, or come at them: and that I will swear upon the Bible to perform: and if they be earthly, I will commit them to the earth: and so separate those shingles from the place near the spring: and in this manner fulfill my own judgement: For, I will not be obstinate, but commit all things to the end. Because thou art content to bury them; and withall, upon faith in the promises of God, to abjure them in simplicity of heart, and external use .... simply, as a true meaning before the face of the highest: The Lord accepteth it, and it shall be sufficient. Further thou hast 27. Confirmations of sin, and consent with the Devil, which your intention G4 calleth

Characters, whereby those seven and twenty, (like unto their mother) are become familiar and pleasant with thee, they must be brought before the Lord: and offered into his hands. For so long as they are, the wicked alwayes vex thee: For the Obligation burnt, the condition is void. These must be buried with the rest. [E. K. Which rest?] ..... But must be brought, and burnt here before the presence of God: That, the cause diminished, the effect may perish. E. K. I will be contented to bury them likewise, beseeching the Almighty to accept of my intent herein, as of the rest before specified. .... He is contented; but let one be burnt. You may suffer one to testifie the discredit of the rest. It is but according to the grounds of thy own Magick. E. K. I do not understand your meaning herein. Gab. .... Radius partis, may be sicut totius Corporis. E. K. I understand not that, also. Gab. .... Magick worketh effect in things absent, that it doth in their parts, being present. G5 The wicked kill the body absent, but the garment present: so are all of one confederacies, disgraced by the confusion of one. Thou art contented to bury them all, upon the confidence, and sure hope of the promises of the God of light, and to bring one as a confirmation of thy promise to testifie thy obedience as concerning the whole: which one burnt and abjured, may be a testimony to the Angels, that thou art obedient for God his sake, and for his testimony and truth. But this you shall burn with Brimstone onely. Whose ashes shall be kept as a testimony, till the rest be also consumed. This you shall do the next Monday at the rising of the Sun. That the number of the time may be of one bignesse. For, before August shall those Keyes be delivered unto you: which give entrance, yea, even into the privy Chambers of wisdom, whereof you shall have 14. the next Monday. And this dayes action is not the least amongst them. Glory be to G6 God, and obedience unto man. E.K. The Curtain is drawn. [delta] . We are desirous to know whether thus, this dayes action shall be finished: and whether we shall fast still as was prescribed. Gab..... Detract not from the day, that, which is commanded. [delta] . We are very desirous to understand of the present estate of the Lord Albert Laskie: for as much as we were willed to go with him, and he linked to us in some part of our actions: To understand of his state, would be to our great comfort. Gab. .... It needeth not, for the world her self is at band. [delta] . Verily, I understand not that speach: Is he coming back again? What, We are commanded -notes- G1 Pure vessels. G2 Increduli. G3 His own judgement is to be fulfilled. G4 Characters. G5 [delta] . I doubt that I misheard some-what. One burnt, and abjured obedience. G6 ... ence.

we know: And further then our Commandment is error. He is in his hand that knoweth how to use him. E. K. I see a man climbing over a Hedge, and as he clammereth over the stakes break, and he falleth down. Now he is going up between two Trees into a Meadow-ward. Now he hath both the boughs in his hand, standing still on the ground. Now he goeth lower, there is a gap, and through that he is gone into the Meadow ..... so it is of Laskie ..... said a voyce. [delta] . This is dark: it may please you to give some light. .... This is more then enough for the matter. Cease to ask these things here, where it is said, no impure thing should enter. [delta] . Gloria, laus and honor Deo Noscro Omnipotenti, Patri, silio and spiritui Sancto, nune and semper. Amen. [delta] . Note, at this present was one come, and in the house (of whom we understood not till he was gone:) whom the Lord A. Laskie had sent to certisie us, that first he was in some cumber and hindrance. Secondly, how Fabius (his brother in Law) and another had given him counsel, very rashly to proceed: But leaving that. Thirdly, by the gap and open way with estate of the Commons, or Citizens, by their great Zeal, and favour that he obtained his purpose. This (in effect) we understood at the Messenger his return after noon. Which G1 marvellous exactly did answer to the former shew. Remember that on Saturday after noon, the Chancelour came to Cracow, with 60 Coaches in his Company and train: he bringing in a close Coach (covered with red) the Lord Semuet S. Boroskie Prisoner, whom he took on Friday night before, at his sisters house, being separated from his Souldiers and servants, and c. Saturday, 14 Maii, Mane hora 6 Fere. + Cracoviæ. Orationem Dominicam fudimus, and c. Mitte lucem tuam and veritatem, O Deus, and c. [delta] . E. K. Said, he had done that with the trash specified, as he thought would be acceptable to the Lord: And as concerning one of the 27 Characters he had left it with me, ever since the last action, to be burn at this dayes action, and it lay ready by me. E.K. Our instructors appeared at the very first looking of E.K. into the shew-stone. [delta] . Will you that I shall now execute this burning of the Character here as a sacrifice (to the highest) of our humility and obedience? Gab..... Not as a sacrifice, but as a victory. [delta] . Shall I then do it, I pray you? As with the consent of my yoke-fellow, and so all one to be taken as his action. :..... He that doth righteorsly offereth up a sacrifice. Nal..... It is true, that he that is obedient, and doth well is accepted with the Lord. E.K. I did take sacrifice to be onely with bloud. Gab. .... This is a sacrifice, because it is done righteously. E.K. You said, Not, as a sacrifice, but as a victory. Gab. .... He that overcometh his enemy rejoyceth not for friendship sake, but for victory. The friendship toward God is obedience. He that obeyeth God, is a friend unto himself. God needeth not the love, or friendship of man. Therefore you rejoyce with God, who overthrew them, and thereby comforted. For he that dwelleth in the Lord is comforted. Thou opened thy mouth, and sayest before the Lord. The spirit of God hath descended. G2 . Gloria Patri, and c. And he hath entred into judgement with me, and I am condemned. But where Justice dwelleth, dwelleth also mercy. For, my Idolatry is forgotten before the Lord. E.K. Have you committed Idolatry? E. K. [delta] . He speaketh in your behalf Master Kelly. .... I will therefore open my mouth, saying, I have erred. I will open my mouth also, and confesse my sins: And, I will vow unto the Lord against the wicked. And I will say unto the Lord. Lo, hore are the spoils of the bloody blasthemy. Behold, O you Angels, a blasthemy, and against the highest. Behold, the wickednesse of Ascendam. -notes- G1 May. G2 [delta] . He noteth some secret discourse, meditation, or prayer, and also action of E.K. as I conjecture.

Bear witness with me, that I return not, and rejoyce; for such are the spoyles of the wicked. Gab. Art thou contented to consent hereunto? E.K. What I have done with the rest, God, and they (if they be of God) know: upon the foresaid conditions I am contented to have this Character to be burnt. Let it be burnt. [delta] . I burnt it immediately, with the flame of brimstone, and brought the burnt black coal or cinder thereof to the Table, and laid it on a paper.  But when it raineth mightily, or the heavens frown, then keep they their houses, saying one to another, What unreasonable Tempest is this? what Hail-stones are these? Good Lord, who ever saw such windes? were there ever such windes? So shall it be of the power of God, G3 which holdeth in his hands the windes, and seattereth cloudes abroad with his feet: For of his coming, shall it be said amongst you, My Spirit hath vexed me, and I am trouble: Why bast thos G4 brought in things, greater than thy self? or where shall this power dwell that over shadoweth me? Wanting you shall desire, (as you do) and being filled you shall think you have too much. Flesh can never be throughly mortified but with death. Think not, that the Lord is as the Son, that keepeth his continual watch through the heavens; which because be is made for a time, is also tied to time. He that sitteth and judgeth, keepeth no course; but a continual performance of his long-before providence: For he that useth him otherwise, shall be rejected: because his [[delta] .]

Who made the heavens, or spread them like a garment? Who breathed into man, the spirit of understanding? Who overthrew the proud world with maters? Who smiled at the ruin of Pharaoh?
 Who rooted the wicked out of their seates? and made them become vineyards for my people: yea the stiff-necked generation? Who threw down the Towers of Babylon, and the great Harlot? Who dwelt upon the Earth, and became stesh, to pay for your wickednesse? Who tumbled the stone front the Wells that the Sheep might drunk? Even be it is, that gave all these their times. He it is, that is as able to make you

Those therefore, that seek heavenly things, ought to be obedient; let G3 with their frowardnesse, they be consumed in the end, burnt to ashes with fire, as the Eertk shall be for her unrighteousnesse. Therefore, be you obedient, and full of Humility; using the instrument of righteousness, (which is faith) That you may be partakers of the celestial comforts; which are the bire of such as forsake G4 their frowardness. It bath been said unto you, .... Measure not out Gods building. It bath been said unto you, .... Continue to the end. It bath been also told you, ... That the Determinations of God are not as yet established upon you. For it is written, It may, again be G5 undertermined I speak this for your instruction: Lot many have the power of God, but not unto righteousnesse: as was evident amongst the Jews in the choice of their Kings. In the very house of God, amongst those that entred into the holy place. For, all that the Prophets annoynted were not good. Not, that they were evil in the time of their anointing, but because their In-unction, and the dignity of their office was defiled in them in the end, through their own frowardnesse. The High-priests also were chosen in righteousnesse, and by the spirit of God: but they became Kebels in the holy house: and such as of whom it is said, Altiffimut autem fuit scandalum illis. Even so my bretbren may it be with you. [delta] . Jesus defend us from that inconvenience. For although, it hath pleased God, to shew himself unto you, yet are you not ashamed to sey: If the harvest cometh not is, at the time appointed, I will become a runnagate. But Euge (mytrethron) Hath the Lord need of you? It needeth not be told you; you know the contrary. Then it followeth, you have need of God. But for what? and why? That your G6 souls may overcome this World, overcome the body, to the dignity of an Angel. And because you are miserable, and turned out to the field, full of brambles and misery, leane, naked, and unarmed, to fight against him, that resisteth against the might of God. Consider these last two, and then answer your selves, for the rest. G7 I give you a short warning. God will fulfil his promises: And (as he hath said) by this August, you shall understand. 1. How to know and use God his Creatures, good and bad. 2. But when, and for what, is the gift of the Highest, and shall be fulfilled in you (If you will G8 be obedient) when it pleaseth him: even with a sound from his own mouth, saying, Venite and audite. For these Actions are twofold: Consider it, if you can: and they are the greatest, because they are the last, and contain all that hath been done before them. Which if you consider well, and to what you are called; you shall perceive, that the Judgements of God, are not a Tennis-ball. Thus much I thought to warn you my brethren. Have a little patience for the Action. G9 He that stirreth from his place shall find the reward of it. -notes- G1 This prayer was miswritten in this place it should have been written the 22 of May following. G2 Illuder. G3 Obedience. LIBRI SEPTIMI APERTORII CRACOVIENSIS MYSTICI, SABBATICI, Pars Quarta ; Anno 1584 Maii 23. Wednesday, + Cracvoiaë, Maii 23. Manc, hora 7 3/4 ferc. Post orationes nostras. The Curtain appeared, at the first looking. [delta]. There happened a great storm or temptation to E.K. of doubting and misliking our Instructors and their doings, and of contemning and condemning any thing that I knew or could do. I bare all things patiently for God his sake, and c. At length the Curtain was opened, and they appeared. E.K. I am contented to see, and to make true report of what they will shew; but my heart standeth against them. Gab. .... The time shall come, that the oak that is beaten with every storm shall be a Dininge Table in the Princes Hall.G1 Gab. .... Move not, for the place is holy. He that doubteth, doth the property of the flesh, but he that bath faith, bath the gift of the Holy Ghost. The Swallow flieth swift, but where see lighteth, there is no remembrance of her being: such are the words of

man. But our words are like unto a swift arrow, that entreth and ticketh where it lighteth. As man loveth the Owre for the Gold that is in it, and for the end of his use; so God loveth the G2 dunghills of the World, and c. But the enemy, the more he lifteth up himself, the greater shall be his fall: for instead of joy, shall enter in an hundred, and instead of hundred a thousand. But move are of those Rebels; for they are like the small stones which are in every place of the Earth. But move not. Let us do that which is our part: Unto others be it as they deserve. G3 E.K. Because E.K. came not, (according as it was bidden yesterday) to follow the Action: I went to his Study door, and knocked for him: And I requested him to come; and he refused so to do, and gave me a short and resolute answer, That he would never more have to do with these Actions. I asked him the reason why: He would give none: But earnestly denied to proceed. I told him that his words G1 yesternight (that he could not this day deale) did very much grieve me, and c. whereof he made small account. So I went into my Study again, and committed the Cause to God. After half an hour and lesse, he came speedily out of his Study, and brought in his hand one Volume of Cornelius Agrippa his works, and in one Chapter of that Book he read the names of Countries and Provinces collected out of Prolemein (as the Author there noteth) Whereupon he inferred, that our spiritual Instructors were Ceseners to give us a descrimim of the World, taken out of other Books: and therefore he would have no more to do with them. I replied, and said, I am very glad that you have a Book of your own, wherein these Geographical names are expressed, such as (for the most part) our Instructors had delivered unto -notes- G1 Those words he spate after the Action ended more than an hour in the Chamber before my Study of practice.

information, by those known names; to understand those 91 unknown and unheard of names, of seven letters every one: whereby they (our Instructors I mean) are very greatly to be thanked, and to be deemed (in all reasonable mens judgments) most friendly, and far from cosenage, or abusing of us: And farther I said, that I my self, had G1 here set down on a paper, all the 91 names together orderly, as we received them, and that I had here brought the description G2 Geographical of the whole earthly Globe: and also Powponius Mela set sorth in English with the Chartes thereunto belonging, fairly described by hand: To the intent he might see the verity of their words yesterday delivered unto us: for the performance of my request made to them, on Tuesday last in this form of words, as the Book hath it recorded thus; [delta] . As you gave us a taste, or warning of Italia and Britania, so, if it be thought good to you, we are desirous to understand of the rest, the Application to such names as we understand. Whereby you may perceive (said I to E.K.) how your reason is marvellously confounded by your wilful phantasie: For so much as, wherein you would find fault, in our spiritual Instructors doings, Therein they have done that which I requested them: as appeareth; and that to the intent, of known Countries we might understand which Angels had the government: for such purposes, as occation might offer or require our practices to be tryed in. This (quoth I) is to grosse your error, and to wilful your wrangling: But I do in narrower points peruse and consider their words and doings; In which though sometimes my writings (after your declaration) hath been amended by them, yet the occasion of miswritting for the most part, hath been either in your misreporting what you saw and heard, or in my wrong hearing, or writing: and sometime by the spiritual present correcting of my writing, and sometime longer after, and c. G1 Devil is not onely manifest, but also still contendeth against the power and will of God: stirring up, and provoking man to fast at full Bankers, to stzdy for good and evil. To rise up against the Lord, and against his power. And to vex the Lord himself: which cannot be vexed at the wickednesse of the Devil. Even for this cause, sayeth the Lard unto you: How long will you wallow in wickednesse? How long will you be drunkem with folly? How long will you rise up against the Lord and against me? G2 Saymg, And if this be the power of God, Are these the Messagers of the highest? Is this the will of God? Or cam it be, that be bath care of the earth? But these are the blasphemies of your mouth. But I see, I must differ my self for a time, and must raise up a Table where there shall eat more worthy. Coshier what it is to deal with Devils: Is it not to take part with Rebels? Is it not to be Traitors against the anxeinted in his own Kingdom? Is it not a greater siu then the sin of the Devil? For why, The Devil sinneth in himself, and therefore had his fall. But your sin is in your selves and by the Devil, and therefore it is the greater. But, as it is said before, Where is there a moniment upon the earth that the people have raised up, in the remembrance of wickednesse? Many there be that say, Li, there is Hierusalem Lo, there was the Lord buried.
Lo, there the flouds divided themselves with all the rest; in remembrance of the Lord: But none there is that say, Lo, in this place the wicked have risen up and prevailed. Therefore to cleave unto the Lord is good, and to follow a sensible Doctrine, which bringeth with it self the loathsomnesse of wickednesse, and the study to do well, that the wicked may be confounded.
Ales! let the whole earth rise up, [thrusting up his band] eren this band, can gather them all together: what therefore can the Lord do when be fromneth? Oxureesenable Creatures, and worse them beasts, more ignorant then the beasts that grase in the are wicked? (you of no faith) wherefore bath the Lord made the earth, bat to be glorified in the creatures therees? And what is be that glorifieth God on earth but mas? Think you [mot] (therefore) that the Lord bath not care of his people? Think you that there is a Seat upon earth, wherein be bath not bidden the might of his free G3 power? Doth Satan get a Soul that be is not prio of? Believe, O you of little Faith, for it is the power of God, it is the Key of the whole world, which is the Key of mans conscience: If be lock not the door, but depart and leave it open: We be to that Soul, for the Prince of darknesse entreth, and is possessed to the eternal no of his dwelling place. If, therefore the earth be a Cave unto him that made it, (as appeareth by his Prephets, and by the Son of God.) What are you? Or how empty are you? When you think it is in vain, that the Lord hath appeared unto you. But in you two is figured the time to come: For many shall cleave unto the Lord, even at the first call: And many shall doubt of the Lord, and not believe him for a season. But as you two shall dwell in one Center, (if you (yet) do look forward, and step right) So shall the face of the whole earth be, for 800. one hundred and fifty years. (For, the fruit of Paradise shall appear, that nothing may be on earth without comfort. For, lo, the first shall be last,) and is shall be a Kingdom without corruption. Now, now, bath the Serpent wallowed his sill. Now, Now, are all things in the pride of their wickednesse. Now, now, is the Heir ready, most like his father. But we unto the earth through his government. For, his Kingdom shall have an end with misery. And these are the latter dayes. And this is the last Prophesie of the World. Now, now, shall one King rise up against another: And there shall be biond shed throughout all the World: fighting between the Devil his Kingdom, and the Kingdom of light. Contentions and quarrels on the earth between man and man, father and son, wife and husband, Kingdom and Kingdom; yea, even in the very beasts of the field shall there be barred: And into them shall the spirits of Contention enter. .... Said also of you; It repenteth we that I made this people. Let me raze them cut, and make a people of G1 thee. This Idolatry was the cause, from time to time, that you became Captives, and of Inberitours, Runnagates, and without a Master. Unto you also, thus saith the Lord (unto you my Brethren, I say that are here) More than the love of a father is, is the love of God toward you: For, unto which of the Gentiles, bath the Lord shewed himself? Where dwell they, or where have they dwelled, into whose houses have the Angels of the Lord descended, saying, thus and thus, doth the God of Heaven and earth mean to deale with the World. Think you not, that this is more than love? Look therefore narrowly into your selves: Uncover the doings of your life, and secret Chambers: Enter into judgement with your selves Unto thee I speak [To E.K.] Hast thou not run astray from the Lord, and committed Idolatry? But thus saith the Lord, I am a pure Spirit that participateth not with the defiled: neither can I enter in mercy into that house which is defiled. A great saying, my Brethren: For hereby you are monished to make your consciences clean, to open your selves in pureness, to the Lord, that he may enter into you with comfort. For, so long as thou dealest, with wicked spirits, will the Lord keep back his bands: and thou keepest back the Lord. For shall G3 it not be said bereafter? Lo, is not, this man known to have dealing with the wicked? And (as the foolish voices of the people are) Is not this be that can constrain the wicked? with further arguments, by repetition of thy doings. Well, of thou wilt be the Minister of God; If thou wilt go forward in his works; If thou wilt see the happy times that are to come, thou must abstain from G4 evil, and thou must sweep thy houseclean: Thou must put on thy best garments, And must become humble and meek. Let not thy life be a seandal to the will of the Lord, and to the greatnesse of his works: For the power that is within thy soul (in respect of his essential quid,) is of great force and ability to perform those things that proceed with power: which is the cause that the wicked ones obey thee; for they fear themselves, when they see the seal of thy Creation. This is therefore the Cause, that God finding thee (as he passeth by, by his Angel) fit in matter, but, my brother (God knoweth) far unfit in life. O Consider the dignity of thy Creation; Consider that the affection of God toward thee, is more than love. See

[The necessity of the Devils doings. 1 either with good men 2 or with evil men.] O, consider, my brother that the appearing and works of the devil are but of necessity. That is to say, that be that is good, by resisting of the devil may manifest and make plain to the powers and spirits of Heaven, the strength of his faith, and assurance of his Hope: and so, necessarily, by the promise of God, inherit everlasting life, to the which he is elected. To the wicked, that because of their disobedience and partaking with them, that are the Angels of darknesse, (even those, that strive against the Lord) they might worthily be dawns: according to the necessity of God his judgement. See, therefore they appear unto thee, either for the greatness of thy wickedness, or else because they suspect thee to be elected. If thou, therefore think thy self elected, despise them; If thou therefore think to be a spirit dignified, and in glory, Then be faithful in the assurance G5 of hope, and resist the devil: that we may testifie thee, before the heavens, and before the God of Justice. This for bearings of our Instructors presence, I did expound or conjecture to be done greatly for the honour of God, many wayes, if the same were recorded somewhat near to the very manner of the thing as it was: for so, should appear to the posterity, how truely it had been said before, that he should be converted to God: How truely God did prepare E.K. his G5 soul to be a vessel cleansed, and so made apt for his visiting of him, in mercy and comfort. whereby the life of E.K. (now being amended, and his dealing with the wicked clean loft off) should not be a scandal to the will of the Lord, and to the greatness of his works: as was noted unto us in the last Action. Also I said, that not onely his Conversion recorded should be a more evident argument G6 of his so oft repeated Election: But his patient attending this present day, ([delta] two hours and a half, and taking all things in such sort as became an humble and patient servant,) will be a more sure and evident argument that it was no light pang, such as he hath made out ward shew -notes- G1 Vide. of diverse times before, but a very hartly and sincere conversion, such as without all doubt, will be found very acceptable to the highest. Moreover, he declared that about nine, or ten dayes past, he died intend to have gotten away secretly by the help spiritual of those, with whom he had so long dealt: And therefore that till now, he dealt bypocritically. But, whereas they to fore were ever accustomed to threaten him Beggery, (a thing which he most hated and feared.) That now he careth not if he should have want; yea, he took it neither to be shame, or sin to beg: and that he now made more account of God his favour and life eternal, then he doth of all transitory wealth and riches, and to be entangled within the danger of these wicked spirits their snares, with all. Also he now perceived his great error wherein he was of late, when he would for an assured temporal maintenance have forsaken the dealing with the wicked, and so more willingly would have followed these actions without repining: Saying now, that he is no perfect Christian, who for money must be hired to forsake the Devil and his works, and c. And as for the issue of these actions he would never either doubt, or mislike, be so ever they fell out assuring himself: That God would do all things best, and for his honour, and c. Many other his sayings very gladly I omit, thinking these sufficient here. [delta] . O Almighty, eternal, and most merciful God, we thank, glorify, and praise thee; O blessed, G1 and most glorious Trinity, we will for ever magnify thy unspeakable providence, favour, Election, and Conversion unto thee. O Blessed Jesus, we will for ever extol thy loving kindness, and long suffering toward us, and thy Triumphant proceeding against Satan and his Ministers, for thy Elect sake. O holy Ghost, the director into all truth, and comforter of thy Elect, confirm, and establish our G2 hearts with thy gracious, and continual zeal, and love of truth, purity of life, Charitable humility, and constant patience to thy well-pleasing until the end: That after this life (through the mercy of the father, and Merits of our Lord Jesus Christ, and thy charitable embracing of us,) we may for ever enjoy the heavenly Kingdom, among the blessed Angels, and all the dignified company of mankind. Amen. Amen. Amen. Munday, Junii 11. Mane hora 7¼. Cracoviæ. [delta] . After our prayers due, and thanks to the Almighty for his great mercies and power shewed in the conversion of E.K. we stayed still attending some shew, as we were accustomed to receive: and among divers our short discourses of our faith, hope, patience, constancy, humility, and other our duties, requisite in this action, and in the service of God: E.K. of himself said these sentences worthy to be recorded, as the evident token of his found and faithful turning, and intent to cleave unto the Lord. 1. E.K. I Acknowledge my sins have deserved, that this seven years I should have no shew, or sight of his good Creatures. 2. E.K. If I should sit thus for seven years, attending the pleasure of God, I would be contented. 3. E.K. I repent me nothing of that I have done, in forsaking those I was wont to have to do withall, and c. E.K. In the stone nothing appeared all this while of our sitting here. [[delta] . Hora 11. we left off, so we attended 3. hours and 3. quarters.] [delta] . Nihil visibile apparuit in Ghrystallo sacrato, prater ipsius Chrystalli visibilem formam: ut E.K. dixit. [delta] . I will affirm nothing in this case, but this my conjecture may be recorded: The cause of the non-appearance the last Friday, and now this Munday may be this: G3 1. That, as we lost and refused three dayes assigned by our instructors, to finish all in; So now we shall call, and request three dayes, and have nothing: as, these two dayes it hath fall'n out: and it is possible, one day more we shall have the like non-appearance. Or else. 2. According to the premisses; Onely, three dayes before our journey shall be begun, G4 we shall have that delivered us, which in the three last dayes we should have received, and c. -notes- G1 Conversion. Or else. G1 3. That great Caveat before noted, (on Saturday Junii 2. last past) may have some forewarning of this our patience to be used, after our Conversion unto God: The words then recorded are these: This Action shall never come to passe, until there be no remembrance of wickednesse, or Hell left amongst you: And yet, after, for a time you must have patience. For, your Offices are above a Kingdom. To conclude; whatsoever, with God, is known and used as the true cause, we are contended: Nothing doubting of the goodnesse, and wisdom, and power of God to perform his promises and Covenant made to, and with us, for our services to be used to his honour and glory. Most willingly, and patiently we will attend the will and pleasure of the highest herein. Intending hence forward (by the help of God) not to give our selves over unto, nor easily to be inveigled, or allured of the temptations of the world, the flesh, or Devil. For which our disposition of minde, and all other benefits received from above, we render most humble, hartly, and entire thanks to the Almighty, most glorious, and blessed Trinity, Amen, Amen, Amen. Munday, Junii 18. Mane, bora 8. Cracoviæ [delta] . After the Lords prayer, and some other peculiar prayers and thanksgiving, for the exceeding great mercies shewed in the Converting and Reforming of E.K. and my promising to record the Act thereof, as well as God should give me grace: and also craving earnestly for comfort to be given to A.L. being somewhat oppressed with pensiveness to see his own subjects, and servants to triumph against him in his low estate from high, and all for lack of money and wealth, and c. Suddenly appeared a mighty long, and big arm and hand in the aire, to catch at the benstone: and E.K. meaning to save it from him, put his hand on the stone, and immediately the stone was out of the frame, we know not how, and lay by on the Cushion, and c. G2 And then soon after appeared Gabriel, in all manner as he was wont, and on the right side of the stone (that is against E.K. his right hand) as he was wont. [delta]. Let his house come, that his iniquity way be seen. G3 E.K. I see many houses, and besides them a fair House, separated by it self, the House is of stone and wood, and a square thing in the end of it, like a Turret. The houses of the Town are low wooden houses, small: There appear in that odd house fellows in red Coats, like Poland Coats. Now I see a bigge man sitting within the house afore the window: and the house is hanged with Turkie Carpets, and there is wrought in one of the Carpets (just afore the door) a man on horseback, with a sword in his hand: and the man is like the man I saw at Mortlack with a Wart on his cheek: There stand by him two boyes, they have red Coats on, one of them is a little fair boy: There standeth a man by with a sword, which he delivereth to him that fitteth, and he looketh on it, being gilt and graven on it, and layeth it down on the G4 Table. E.K. Now that man calleth the lesser boy to him, and the boy thereupon runneth along a Gallery. Now that man with the Wart goeth out after, strouting himself, and no body with him: Now he calleth that lesser boy to him, and maketh signe to him, smiting one hand on another, and drawing it under his throat: as though he threatned the boy, unlesse he kept secret. Now he cometh to a door and knocketh, and one like an Italian letteth him in. There he hath in the corner a frame of wood, and a great stone in the middle of it (of about 16 Inches square) and there is a fire on that stone, on the middle of it. Now he taketh that engine, or frame with the fire between him, and that man (like an Italian) and carrieth it into another Chamber. There they have a dead mans hand. Now he taketh out of his Casket a black box of yern (as it should seem by the blacknesse of it) The box is about a foot long. Now he hath set down the box, and the same is open, and therein appeareth an image of wax of blackish colour, like shoemakers wax. There is one like an Angel, made of red stuffe, standing at the head of the image, holding like a Skarf over the face of the image. The image is marvellously scratched and rased, or very rudely made with knob; and dents in the legs of it. G1 Now he looketh four wayes: And speaketh (the man with the Wart on his face.) G2 The house aforementioned seemeth to stand without the stone, and beyond the stone. Now they poure bloud out of a Bason upon the fire, and lay the hand upon it: and it frieth in the fire. G3 Now he, and the Italian-like man, have put on Apparel, black, like Gowns: each of them, and the engine seemeth now to be set in a Chimney. Gab..... Be it, as it was. G4 E.K. There be six smokes, like six men standing about them: and they go like smokes out at a window, and there standeth one like a Gyant man, and he taketh them, and windeth them up as they come out at the window. Be therefore comforted in me: for the breath thou breatbest is mine, and the body that thou awe Nest in, is the work of my hands. The earth from whence thou camest is mine also. It is I, therefore, that cast down, and none but, Is that raise up again. E.K. All the stone is become full of a smoke. Gab. .... Art thou sure that the Sun shineth? [pointing to .] [delta] . [delta]. Semper laudetur qui Trinus and unus est, Omnipotens and sempiternum. Amen. Wednesday, Junii 20. a Meridie. 1584.

Cracoviæ. [delta] . It is first to be noted, that this morning (early) to E.K. lying in his bed, and awake, appeared a Vision, in manner as followeth: One standing by his beds head, who patted him on the head gently, to make him the more vigilant. He seemed to be cloathed with feathers, strangely wreathed about him all over, and c. There appeared to him [E.K.] four very fair Castles, standing in the four parts of the world: out of which he heard the sound of a Trumpet. Then seemed out of every Castle a cloath to be thrown on the ground, of more then the breadth of a Table cloath. Out of that in the East, the cloath seemed to be red, which was cast. Out of that in the South, the cloath seemed white. Out of that in the West, the cloath seemed green, with great knops on it. Out of that in the North, spread, or thrown out front the gate under foot, the cloath seemed to be very black.
Out of every Gate then issued one Trumpeter. whose Trumpets were of strange form, wreathed, and growing bigger and bigger toward the end. After the Trumpeter followed three Ensign bearers. After them six ancient men, with white beads and staves in their hands. Then followed a comely man, with very much Apparel on his back, his Robe having a long train. After him came five men, carrying up of his train. Then followed one great Crosse, and about that four lesser Crosses. G3 These Crosses had on them, each of them on, like men, their faces distinctly appearing on the four parts of the Crosse, all over.
After the Crosses followed 16 white Creatures. And after them, an infinite number seemed to issue, and to spread themselves orderly in a compass, almost before the four foresaid Castles.
Upon which: Vision declared unto me, I stangth way set down a Note of it; crusting in God that it did signifie good. After noon, as E.K. sat by me, he felt on his head some strange moving: whereby he deemed than some spiritual Creature did visit him; and as we were continuing together, and I had red to E.K. some rare matter out of Ignatius Epistles, Polioarpus, and Martialis; some of the Satramene, and some of the Crosse, a voyes answered, and sand, First it is true, that the sign of the Crosse is of great force and vertue. After this, the spiritual Creature seemed to E.K. to be very heavy on his right shoulder, as he sat by me in my study: And as E.K. considered the numbers of such as he had numbred to passe out of the four Gates, (it is to wit, 1. 3. 6. 1. 5.) The spirited Creature said, the number 16. is a perfect number, consisting of 1. 3. 6. 1. and 5. He said further more, God the father is a standing Pillar. [delta] . Upon which world I asked him, if I should write such matter as he was to speak. And he answered to E.K. at his right ear. [[delta] . His voyce was much like unto a many voyce, not base, nor hollow.] ..... If thou wilt. -notes- G1 Note. G2 The white Curtain. G3 These Crosses seemed not to be on the ground, but in the aire in a white Cloud. The great Croses seemed to. be of a Cloud: a like the Rain bow

..... Divided with a straight line, is one and two. [delta] . What is to be divided with a straight line? ..... The Pillar. [delta] . In the name of Jesus, who art thou? ..... The servant of God. [delta] . Art thou sent from God, with good tydings or message? ..... What I am be Knoweth, of whom I bear witness. [delta] . What is your name, either as you are notified among the blessed Angels, or called by, of any mortal man? If you be of Verity, and so of Charity, you cannot mislike my speeches. E.K. He sayeth nothing. [delta] . Belike he is not sent unto us by God: for if he were, he would do his message. .... I am AVE. [delta] . This AVE is one ex filiis filiorum, of whose order Rocle is, vide sup. lib. 2. and 4. [delta] . If you be AVE, In the name of Jesus, say, that all wicked Angels are justly condemned: and, that, by the mercy of God, in the merits of Christ, mankind, elect, is to be saved. Ave. .... The G1 visitation of God, is twofold: [1.] In respect of his secret will and purpose: and in particularity. And in that be bath [2] sealed us, with the good will of mankind to their comfort. But if I be a seanddl to the word, then am I not of righteousnesse: But my righteousnesse is of the world: Therefore, That I visit you of myself, can be no offense. Those that are, and die in wickednesse, are dishonourable, and far from the mercies of God: For it is written, I am a God to the living. Therefore, do I dishonour them: such (I say) as are wicked. The mercies of God, (which is the true Manna) comforteth the comforted, and giveth hope of G2 3 amendment, of such as run astray, are sinners, and may return: Therefore, I say, The mercies [of God] (which is the Fountain and sweetnesse of the love of God) is a thing most blessed, most holy, most to be desired in Heaven and Earth, and of me, the creature and servant of God, to be reverently spoken of, and required: For, it is the food wherewith we live: even the very bread wherewith we are rejoiced. Thus much, thou hast required. [delta] . I did so: for so, is his Justice against the impenitent, and his mercies to his Elect testified truly. Ave. .... Have penitence: I will return after a few moments. [delta] . Hereupon, (in the mean space) we considered the premises: and liked very well of the scandal, or offence, avoiding: Because it was lastly (Junii 18) said, God will appear no more to you, until you take your journey. And secondly he answered my request of God his Justice against the wicked Angels, and also of his mercies towards mankind. [delta] . About a quarter of an Hour after, there seemed a thing to come again on E.K. his right G3 shoulder: and (as before) he caused his shoulder to be very warm where it lighted on. [delta] . Benedictus qui venit in nomine Domini. Hallelujah. E.K. Amen Ave. .... The place is sanctified. [delta] . Sanctus; Sanctus, Sanctus, est Dominus Deus Zebaoth. Ave. .... 1, in the favour of God, considering (and by force of his secret love toward you) how Satan purposeth, yet, and daily to overcome you, thought good, (through the mercies of God) to prevent his malice, and the effect thereof. [delta] . O blessed, be thou, our God of mercies and all comfort. Ave. .... That, (although, yet, the Harvest be not) the Vineyard might yield some fruit: [For the glory of God.] whereby God might be glorified, and you, (in despite of the world) revived and comforted, might rejoice, and shake off the present cares to come. For if those that be unworthy, can seem to be listed up, and to enjoy the fruits of the Earth, by the Tempter: Much more ought the true servants of God, to feel his fatherly goodness. Those that trust in me (saith the Lord) shall not be driven to despair; neither will I suffer the beast of the field to tread such as I delight in under -notes- G1 E.K. and I said now in our talk together, That God would not visit us but at the days of journey taking (as was last affirmed) Therefore whatsoever came before was to be doubted as an illusion. He therefore answereth first our doubt, and then to my request he maketh answer. G2 Misericordia Dei. G3 Note this manner of a thing felt warm on the right shoulder.

feet. The Earth is mine, and the glory thereof: The Heavens are mine also, and the Comforts that are in them. Why hath, (Therefore) the father of Darknesse, risen up saying. 1. I will shut up the Earth from them? 2. I will seal up the mindes of men: and they shall become barren towards them? 3. Their miseries shall be great, even unto death? G1 For this cause: That he might waken the Lord, when he is asleep: That those that trust in him, might be comforted. He hath sealed the Earth from you, and I will open it unto you: He hath said, you shall be poor:

But I say, you shall become exceeding rich. 1. I will bless you with a twofold blessing: That the Earth may be open unto you (which at last, you shall contemn. 2. And that my blessing and laws may dwell amongst you: wherein you shall rejoyce unto the end. [delta] . O blessed, blessed, blessed, God of power, goodnesse, and wisdom. Ave. .... This was the cause that I appeared to thee, E.K. this morning. Now therefore hearken unto me: for I will open unto you the secret knowledge of the Earth, that you may deal with her, by such as govern her, at your pleasure; and call her to a reckoning, as a Steward doth the servants of his Lord. I expound the Vision. G2 The 4 houses, are the 4 Angels of the Earth, which are the 4 Overseers, and Watch-towers, that the eternal God in his providence hath placed, against the usurping blasphemy, misuse, and stealth of the wicked and great enemy, the Devil. To the intent that being put out to the Earth, his envious will might let bridled, the determinations of God fulfilled, and his creatures kept and preserved, within the compasse and measure of order. What Satan doth, they suffer; And what they wink at, be wrasteth: But when he thinketh himself most assured, then seeleth he the bit. G3 In each of these Houses, the Chief Watchman, is a mighty Prince, a mighty Angel of the Lord: G4 which hath under him 5 Princes (these names I must use for your instruction. The seals and authorities of these Houses, are confirmed in the beginning of the World. Unto every one of them, be 4 characters, (Tokens of the presence of the son of God: by whom all things were made in Creation.) Ensignes, upon the Image whereof, is death: whereon the Redemption of mankind is established, and with the which he shall come to judge the Earth. G5 These are the Characters, and natural marks of holinesse. Unto these, belong four Angels severally. G6 The 24 old men, are the 24 Seniors, that St. John remembreth. These judge the government of the Castles, and fulfil the will of God, as it is written. G7 The 12 Banners are the 12 names of God, that govern all the creatures upon the Earth, visible and invisible, comprehending 3, 4, and 5. G8 Out of these Crosses, come the Angels of all the Aires: which presently give obedience to the will of men, when they see them. Hereby may you subvert whole Countries without Armies: which you must, and shall do, for the glory of God. By these you shall get the favor of all the Princes, whom you take pity of, or wish well unto. G9 Hereby shall you know the secret Treasures of the waters, and unknown Caves of the Earth. And it shall be a Doctrine, for you onely, the instrument of the World. G10 For, the rest of your Instructions, are touching the Heavens, and the time to come: of the which, this is the last and extream knowledge. This will I deliver unto you, (because I have yielded you before the Lord.) G11 Upon Monday next, I will appear unto you: and shall be a Lesson of a few dayes. E.K. The will of God be done. [delta] . Amen. Ave. .... In the meane season, desire you of God, such things, as are necessary for you. He that filleth all things, and from whom all things live, and in, and through whom, they are G12 sanctified, blesse you, and confirm you in peace. [delta] . Amen. [delta] . Ave. .... A Vision. The sign of the love of God toward his faithful. Four sumptuous and belligerent Eastles, ant of the which sounded Trumpets thrice. The sign of Majesty, the Cloth of Passage, was cast forth. In the East, the cloth red; after the new smitten blood. G1 In the South, the cloth white, Lilly-colour. In the West a cloth, the skins of many Dragons, green: garlick-bladed. In the North, the cloth, Hair-coloured, Bilbery juice. The Trumpets sound once. The Gates open. The four Castles are moved. There issueth 4 Trumpeters, whose Trumpets are a Pyramis, six cones, wreathed. There followeth out of every Castle 3, bolding up their Banners displayed, with ensigne, the names of God. There follow Seniors six, alike from the 4 Gates: After them cometh from every part a King: whose Princes are five, gardant, and holding up his train. Next issueth the Crosse of 4 Angles, of the Majesty of Creation in God attended upon every one, with 4: a white Cloud, 4 Crosses, bearing the witnesses of the Covenant of God, with the G2 Prince gone out before: which were confirmed, every one, with ten Angels, visible in countenance: After every Crosse, attendeth 16 Angels, dispositors of the will of those, that govern the Castles. They proceed. And, in, and about the middle of the Court, the Ensigns keep their standings, opposite to the middle of the Gate: The rest pause. The 24 Senators meet: They seem to consult. I, AVE, STOOD BY THE SEER: It vanisheth. So I leave you. [delta]. Omnium hororum largitori, Omnipotenti Deo, sit æterna laus, gratiarum actio, honor omnis, and Jubilatio. Amen. Junii, 22, 23, and nbspi Note. On Friday, and especially Saturday, E.K. had great Temptations not to credit this Action, and was said unto by a voice, how our Instructors would use cavillation of our disordered life, to forsake us, and not to perform, according to our expectation of the former promises to be performed by them. A voice said, likewise, to him, that A.L. should not go to the Emperours Court, for lack of money: for he should get none here. Likewise, it willed him to go up into his Study and he would shew him all the effect of our Instructions received. E.K. complained to me how he was thus grievously molested by such means, and almost brought in despair. But I comforted him as well as I could (my self-being inwardly, most sorrowful) and made my moan to God by prayer when I was alone: for him, and our Cause. Moreover he could not be perswaded by me that good Angels would undertake to help us to any relief by money or treasure: affirming that it appertained to the wicked ones: seeing they were the Lords of this World; and the kingdom of God was not of this World, and c. .... Said, that the wicked were in the world, and of the world: but the Elect were in the world, but not of the World. did a heavy thing seem to sit, or rest, whereof he told the Lord A.L. And afterward was this voyce uttered by that Creature in

sedecimum, illius Psalmi undecimi, in vexillo tui, and vinces inimicos tuos. Then A.L. sought in Davids Psalter for the eleventh Psalm, and sixteenth verse thereof: and while he was so about that Psalm, The voyce said that he meant not that Psalm of David, but the eleventh Psalm of Roffexis: which Psalm the Lord A.L. was then in reading to E.K. and was about the verse, Hic labor ac dolor, and c. being the sixth verse. By and by after, the voyce said in English. -- Trust thou in God. Herenpon the Lord A.L. did read forth that Psalm of Roffinsis, and when he came to the sixteenth verse thereof, being Si ambulavero in medio tribulationis, me custodies adversus inimicos tuos . . . Manum tuam extendes, and dextera tua me salvabis. Thereupon the voyce said: Put to the first line of the next verse: And that was Domine tu omnia pro me perficies. And as he would have read further, the voyce willed him to stay at those words, and said as followeth: G1 -- I swear unto thee by the true and living God, that this shall come to passe. Then E.K. said unto the Creature:
In the name of God, Who art thou? And he answered in Latin, and said, Ego Sum A V E, cras plura audietis. [delta]. Gloria, laus, honor and gratiarum actio perennis sit Deo Nostro, omnipotenti and Misericondi. Amen. Munday 25. Junii, Mane hora the Table with the Cloath, Candles, and c. as of late I was wont: Hereupon I set up the stone on the Cushion. E.K. There

Now he taketh off the Table a black Carpet. G1 Now he taketh off a green Carpet. G2 Now he taketh off a white Carpet. Now he taketh off a red Cloath. And now the Table appeareth to be made of earth, as Potters Clay, very raw earth. E.K. The Table hath four feet, of which two touch the ground, and two do not: The feet seem also to be of the earth. The Table is square. E.K. On the left corner (farthest from E.K.) did a T appear on the Table: Out of the top of this T do four beams issue of clear colour bright. .... That part [pointing to that T] of the Table of the earth of those that govern the earth: that is are governed by the seven Angels that are governed by the seven that stand before God, that are governed by the living God, which is found in the Seal of the living God, (Tan with the four) which signifie the four powers of God principal in earth, and c. .... Move not, for the place is holy, and become holy. .... I said not so, he said it, that beareth witness of himself. Unto this, obey the other three Angels of the Table. E.K. On the other farther corner of the Table (on E.K. his right hand) is a Crosse like an Alphabet Crosse. This Crosse, and the other T do seem to lye upon the Table, in a dim dunnish, or a sky colour. All the Table over seemeth to be scribbled and rased with new lines. [The Earth.] .... The earth is the last, which is with the Angels, but not as the Angels, and therefore it standeth in the Table of the seven Angels, G3 which stand before the presence of God in the last place, without a Letter, or number, but figured by a Crosse. .... It is expressed in the Angle of that Table, wherein the names of the Angels are gathered, and do appear, as of Michael and Gabriel. [delta] . I remember, there is an Alphabetary Crosse. E.K. Now in the corner of the Table; on the right hand to E.K. appeareth another Crosse, some what on this fashion+. and there appear'd these Letters and Numbers. b 6 G4 4 b [Graphic omitted] .... It is in that Table, which consisteth of 4. and 8. E.K. In the last corner of this earthly Table appeareth a little round smoke, as big as a pins head. E.K. Now is all covered with a mist. E.K. Now I hear a great voyce of thumping and rumbling in the stone. E.K. Now all waxeth clear again. Now hoveringly over the Table, appear infinite sort of things like worms, sometimes going up and sometimes down; these seem somewhat brightish. Over these higher in the aire, appear an infinite sort of small, little, blackish things, bigger then Motes in the Sun, and they go up and down, and sometime come among those worm-like Creatures. -notes- G1 The Table of the Earth. G1 ..... The Lord appeared unto Enoch, and was mercifull unto him, opened his eyes, that he might see and judge the earth, which was unknown unto his Parents, by reason of their fall: for the Lord said, Let us shew unto Enoch, the use of the earth: And lo, Enoch was wise, and full of the spirit of wisdom. And he sayed unto the Lord, Let there be remembrance of thy mercy, and let those that love thee taste of this after me: O let not thy mercy be forgotten. And the Lord was pleased. G2 And after 50. dayes Enoch had written: and this was the Title of his books, let those that fear God, and are worthy read. G3 But behold, the people waxed wicked, and became unrighteous, and the spirit of the Lord was far off, and gone away from them. So that those that were unworthy began to read. And the Kings of the earth said thus against the Lord, What is it that we cannot do? Or who is he, that can resist us? And the Lord was vexed, and he sent in amongst them an hundred and fifty Lions, and spirits of wickednesse, error, and deceit: and they appeared unto them: For the Lord had put them between those that are wicked, and his good Angels: And they began to counterfeit the doings of God and his power, for they had power given them so to do, so that the memory of Enoch washed away: and the spirits of error began to teach them Doctrines: which from time to time unto this age, and unto this day, hath spread abroad into all parts of the world, and is the skill and cunning of the wicked. G4 Hereby they speak with the Devils: not because they have power over the Devils, but because they are joyned unto them in the league and Discipline of their own Doctrine. For behold, as the knowledge of the mystical figures, and the use of their presence is the gift of, God delivered to Enoch, and by Enoch his request to the faithfull, that thereby they might have the true use of Gods creatures, and of the earth whereon they dwell: So bath the Devil delivered unto the wicked the signs, and tokens of his error and hatred towards God: whereby they in using them, might consent with their fall: and so become partakers with them of their reward, which is eternal damnation. These they call Characters: a lamentable thing. For by these, many Souls have perished. G5 Now hath it pleased God to deliver this Doctrine again out of darknesse: and to fulfill his G6 promise with thee, for the books of Enoch: To whom he sayeth as he said unto

Enoch. Let those that are worthy understand this, by thee, that it may be one witness of my promise toward thee. Come therefore, O thou Cloud, and wretched darkness, Come forth I say out of this Table: for G7 the Lord again hath opened the earth: and she shall become known to the worthy. E.K. Now cometh out of the Table a dark smoke, and there remaineth on the Table a goldish slime: and the things which hovered in the aire do now come, and light down on that slime, and so mount up again. He said..... Non omnibus sed bonis. E.K. He taketh the smoke and tieth it up. .... I tie her not up from all men, but from the good. Now cometh a dark Cloud over all again. [delta] . A pause. E.K. Now it is bright again. He said..... Fiant omnia facillima. .... Number. -notes- G1 Enoch. G2 50. Dayes. G3 The title of Enochs books, expounded into English. 150 Lions, or wicked spirits seducers. E.K. Did his best, at length fire flashed in his face, and shortly after he said, I perceive they be easie to make, so that I tell the squares, by which the lines do passe, and draw from middle prick to middle prick. G2 [delta] . At length E.K. finished the Table: he said that these seemed to be yellowish Gold. E.K. You heard one here say, I write my own damnation. .... He might have said, you write his damnation. Pray, and write as many more lines. [delta] . After a while E.K. did with great ease finish the four parts of the Table. E.K. The stone is become dark. A voyce..... Cease for an hour. [delta] . May we passe from our places as now? .... I. [delta] . After a little hour past we returned, and as we talked of the premisses, he said. .... Lose no time. [delta] . So that the third beginneth at l, whose last letter is the first of the second name, and is called Larz, and so of the last: as a r z l, to be pronounced arzel. [delta] . [delta] . Mean you that on the left side underneath? ..... I. [The four Elements.] The fourth is the Crosse of those Creatures that live in the four Elements, as you call them. The first Angel the aire. The second -- the water. The third -- the earth. The fourth -- the life, or fire of things that live. [delta] . Is not Acca the first Angel? [delta] . En pe at. .... I. Then NP at. [delta] . Then O toi, and P mox. AVE. They are easie to call. 1. The knitting together of Natures lieth in the four Angels that are over the first Crasse. [The knitting together of natures.] [delta] . As Urzla, zlar? and c. .... I. 2. The carrying from place, which place lieth in the Angels of the second Crosse. G1 [delta] . I understand in the Angels over the Crosse. 3. All Hand-crafts, or

Arts are in the Angels of this third Crosse. [delta] . I understand in the Angels over the Crosse. E.K. He drew out much fire out of his mouth, and threw it from G2 him now. [delta] . I pray you, what meant you by that? ..... For that I fulfill my Office in another place. Stay, at this time I must also be gone. [delta] . When will you deal again. Ave. After Dinner about one, or two of the Clock. E.K. Now he spreadeth the Curtain. [delta] . Deo gratias nunc and semper agamus. Amen. + Tuesday, Junii 26. a Meridie hora, 1 ½ Circiter. I understand the Angels over the Crosse in the lower right corner. G3 ..... Herein may you finde the secrets of Kings, and so unto the lowest degree. But you must Note, That as the Angels of the first of the four Crosses in the East, which are for Medicine: so are the first of the second, the first of the third, and the first of the fourth; so that for Medicine there be sixteen, and so of all the rest in their order: but that they differ in that, some be the Angels of the East, other some of the West, and so of the rest. G4 Notwithstanding, to know the world before the waters, To be privy to the doings of men, from the waters to Christ; from Christ unto the rewarding of the wicked: The wicked doings of the flesh, or the fond and 8 devilish imaginations of man, or to see what the blessed Kingdom shall be, and bote the earth shall be dignified, purged, and made clean, is a meat too sweet for your mouths. [delta] . Curiosity is far from our intents. [Ergo, these are here to be learned out. [delta] . Maximè enim splendet and manifestæ est, in medio c li and in plenilunio.] Ave. .... But there is neither Patriarch nor Prophet sanctified, Martyr, or Confessor, King, or Governour of the people upon earth, that his name, continuance, and end, is not (like the Moon at midnight) in these Tables. Ave. .... It is so. [delta] . I understand not well, your account of 16 Angels for medicine. Ave. .... Are there not four principal Crosses? Every Crosse bath also four. The first of every four are the Crosse of medicine, so that there be sixteen. Ave. .... One book of perfeápaper. One labour of a few dayes. G1 The calling them together, and the yielding of their promise, the repetition of the names of God, are sufficient. I have given you Corn: I have given you also ground. Desire God to give you ability to till. [delta] . We will pray for his help that is Almighty. .... I am free before God. Catch that catch can. [E.K. He mounteth up into the aire, and is gone.] Be it now as it was before. [delta] . When would you that I should prepare that book, and what call you perfect: and how many leaves would you with me to make it of? .... Your book in not of my charge. [delta] . Lord, as thou hast dealt mercifully with us hitherto, and hast given us the understanding of many secrets, so in respect of this strange dealing with us, and leaving us of Ave, we are desirous to know some cause: and therein we require that Madimi may be sent. [E.K. She is here in the stone. E.K. She maketh a low cursie.] Madi. .... How do you? [delta] . I declared our admiration of Ave his so sudden departure, and required her opinion of the case. Mad. .... Surely Sir, I cannot tell: but I will go see if my mother can tell. [delta] . He that is the Creatour of all things, be merciful unto us, and lighten our hearts with true knowledge, us our trust is in him. E.K. She went away, and came again after a little while. Mad. .... My mother sayeth, you should have been at the Emperours. [delta] . But you see it is impossible to get thither without some good provision of money made by our great friend A.L. I pray you, what can you say of Ave? Mad. .... My gentle brother, Ave is a good Creature: Indeed you might have made more of him. [delta] . I beseech you to give us some Declaration of Ave his last words. Mad. .... There is no word unperfect: My brother Ave his nature is to be plain and short. [delta] . I pray you to say somewhat more plainly of Ave his last words. Mad. .... If it were the commandment of my mother, I could do it. But this is the good will of my brother toward you. [delta] . As your brother hath done this of his good will, so do I desire you of your good will to do, or say somewhat to our comfort. Mad. .... Sir, I pray you, pardon me. I may not meddle with Ave his doing. I have nothing to say to you, but I know my Mother hath much to say to you. [Rodulphus the Emperour now.] As the mighty thunder cometh, so cometh the promise of God. If the Emperor (my mother sayeth) do any thing against Lasky, or binder, [A.L. Earnest is meant to be Emperor, was 22 Sept. Prage. A Mystery. A comfortable promise.] (the answereth in earnest) there shall be an Emperor. [delta] . Make your sentence more perfect. Mad. .... Therein lieth a mystery. My Mother, my Sisters, Ave, Il, my self, and the rest of us will not be from you in your need. [delta] . Now is our need, as we have declared. [God blesse you,] Mad. .... Sir, Content your self: For, yet a season, you must have patience. for (as yet) I feel nothing to say to you. Misericos, clemens and pius est Deus Noster: Cujus nomen fit benedictum, Nunc and semper. Amen. Note. About seven of the Clock this afternoon, E. K. came again up into my study : and seeing me reading, and considering this Action, began to find talk of it, and willed me to assay the practice of it if I understood it : And, to be brief, by little and little fell to this issue, that he confessed himself to be very sorry that he was so far raging in words as he was this -notes- G1 Fortè, For the. day. Nay, (said I) any man living, else, would have found just cause of comfort, and to give thanks for AVE, such speeches to him, as be used unto you upon true compassion, and no skoff, and c. But you by and by called him Devil, and raged on farther against Michael and Gabriel, G1 and the heavenly powers with most horrible speeches, and c. He became very penitent, and acknowledged that he had offended God: and said, that surely it was of the Devil, for he did not remember his words: but he is sure that they were not decent, and beseeched God to forgive him: And so did I, and was very glad of this his reforming himself, and we (being oft (before) called down to supper) were going out of my Study: and as he was almost at the door to go out, he said to me, I feel a very heavy thing upon my shoulder: and it is warm with all: Whereat I put to the door, and we sat down again: Verily thinking. (as it was) that it was the presence of AVE, whereupon I said unto the Creature. [delta] . In the name of Jesus, Ave are thou there, he answered immediately after as followeth. Ave. .... Because thou [E. K.] bit acknowledged my honour again: I will also acknowledge my help toward you: But where man curseth the Heavens, what holy Creature can abide? Or where Satan is brought into possession, by scree will of man, what good Angel is he that departeth not? [delta] . O Lord, confirm thy mercies upon us from henceforth. Ave. .... As concerning your Action, The Heavens bear witness of it. Tea, G2 yesterday did the good Angels contend with the wicked: and there was a great conflict betwixt them; and that about the love of God towards you, and your Action. But I will visit you again in the morning, and will perform my good will in God toward you. But thou must pray often if thou wilt avoid temptation. God be mercifull to you, forgive you, and strengthen you to the end. [delta] . Amen, sweet Jesu, Amen. [delta] . When all was thus ended, I delivered to E. K. my Psalter book (with the short prayers G3 annexed to every Psalm) where he himself very devoutly, and penitently prayed three of them, and I hearing also of them, gave my consent in heart to the same prayers. First, whether the Table (for the middle Crosse of uniting the four principal parts) be made perfect, or no. Ave. .... Thou bast found out the truth of it. [delta] . I think a mystery did depend upon the choice of the three names, Lexarph, Comanan, and Tabitom. Ave. .... That is not to our purpose. [delta] . You bad me chuse out of the Tables the Characters of fewest Letters, and I found them to be OARAJA, and I, you said they are eight, you said there are eight in four: I know not what this meaneth. G4 Ave. .... You must make up the name Paraoan. [delta] . What shall become of the L aversed? Ave. .... It may be N, or L. [delta] . What must I now do with that name? G5 Ave. .... In Exarph there wanteth an L. which L. is of more force then the N. and therefore it is set in the Tables As far as that N. stretcheth in the Character, so far shall that Countrey be consumed with fire, and swallowed into Hell, as Sodom was for wickednesse. The end of all things is even at band: And the earth must be purified, and delivered to another. G6 The Heavens shall be 77 times above themselves. [delta] . O, Thou mighty God of Hosts: be our strength and comfort. G1 .... When you hear the people say, Lo, there is a man-child that doth great marvails, (which is even at the door threshold.) Then, then shall you see the calamity of the earth. G2 But let Laskie, the servant of God do as be is commanded: And what goodnesse soever he craveth shall follow him, for the Lord hath spared him among the Kings of the earth. G3 Let him provide for this one journey: He shall not need to provide for the rest: For, he that hath all, hath provided for him. The fitteenth day of September, that shall be twelve months, shall you set up the signe of G4 the Crosse; even in the midd'st of Constantinople. [delta] . Thy will be done, O Lord, to thy honour and glory. [Poland, Fir mrssia consurmes de A.L. fortè.] Ave. .... In this Kingdom shall be much bloodshed, and the one shall cut another throat. And as the Lord hath promised, so shall it come to passe. Ave. .... Now to the Table. [delta] . Of the Principal King of Bataiva, or Baataiva, (using the last a twice) I doubt of the perfect writing of it. Ave. .... Is it not written? It is all, most ease, and in gathering thou canst not erre. G5 The 24 Seniors are all of one Office: But when thou wilt work in the East, thou must take such as bear rule there; so must thou do of the rest. [delta] . Do you mean the estate, in respect of any place we shall be in, or in respect of any earthly place, accounted alwayes the East part of the world, wheresoever we be? Ave. .... The East and West, in respect of your Poles. What will you else of me? [delta] . Whether these four Tables be joyned in their right places, or no. [Note, of the Letters in the black Tranversary.] Ave. .... They be. [delta] . Of the Letters in the Transversary of the wicked their black Crosse, I know no use, as of motivat; nan, and c. G6 Ave. .... Thou shalt know, when thou writes thy book. [delta] . I desire you of the book to say somewhat more for the fashion, paper, and binding, and c. Ave. .... Thou mayest use thy discretion. [delta] . You mean (I trust) the book that you bid me to prepare: For, the other is not for my writing. G7 Ave. .... It is not. I my self will stand with you, and shew how to practise. [delta] . Blessed be God for his ready help. [delta] . I will prepare the book (by the grace of God) with all speed. [The Offices of all the four quarters.] . As concerning the Offices, vertues, and powers of the three other quarters of the Table, what shall we think of them? Ave. .... They are all as the first. G8 [delta] . Note. Thou hast three names of God, out of the line of the holy Ghost, in the principal Crosse of the first Angle, so hast thou three in the second, and c. Four dayes (after your book is made, that is to say, written) must you onely call upon those names of God, or on the God of Hosts, in those names: And 14 dayes after you shall (in this, or in some convenient place) Call the Angels by Petition, and by the name of God, unto the which they are obedient. The 15 day you shall Cloath your selves, in vestures made of linnen, white: and so have the apparition, use, and practice of the Creatures. For, it is not a labour of years, nor many dayes. E.K. This is somewhat like the old fashion of Magick. G9 Ave. .... Nay, they all played at this. You must never use the Garment after, but that once onely, neither the book. E.K. To what end is the book made then, if it be not to be used after. [delta] . It is made for to be used that day onely. Ave. .... What will you else? [delta] . As you best know: we need instructions; yet necessary for us. Ave. .... Very few. Ave. .... It is a stem with fruit, but it wanteth leaves. E.K. What mean you by that? G10 Ave. .... There be more leaves then fruit, and in many actions there be more circumstances then matter. [delta] . But here is onely marrow, and no bones, or flesh. [delta] . As concerning the great multitude that E. K. saw in the Vision standing after the sixteen Angels, next the Gate, you made no mention in your Description of the Vision: There fore I would know what they are. Ave. .... G1 E.K. There shalt thou see thy old Sondenna, G2 and many other wicked ones, that thou hast dealt withall. Hereby shall you judge truly of wicked Magick. God be with you: I will be ready, when you need me. Amen. [delta]. Æterno and omnipotenti Creators rerum omnium, visibilium and invisibilium sit omnis laus, honor, gloria, and gratiarum actio. Amen. [delta]. Of this wicked sodenna, E. K. By and by alter this Action said. Seeing his name is come to be known ( and not by me: for I had received the Sacrament with Mr. Miniver, of whom I had him, never to betray or disclose his name) I will tell you somewhat of him. He appeareth in many forms, till at length he appear in a Triangle of fire, and being constrained to the Circle, he taketh form (as it were) of a great Giant, and will declare before for a month to come which spies do orderly tange : which by name being called, will do their offices, with a few other circumstances used, and c. This, indeed was one, of whom I made most account, and c. [delta] . I. Remember, I have not yet heard any thing of the 5 Princes which held up the traine of the chief King. G3 2. Neither any thing of the Trumpeter which went before all. 3. Neither of the letters in the Transversary of the black Crosse. 4. Also of G4 Docepax Tedoand, being referred to Cilicia, Nemrodiana, and Papblagonia in the late exposition of the places by vulgar names: and before in the naming of them by the names of Creation they were applyed to Italia and Britania: One of those is to be doubted of. 5. We are desirous to know the Etymologies of all the names of God which we shall use, either to God himself, or to the Angels. 6. We require the form of our Petition or Invitation to be made to the Angels. 7. Of the 20 (and more) diversities or corrections of this principal Table, we require your censure, which diversities I have (by conjecture) so made or amended. G5 8. Whereas I was [[delta] ] willed to call 14 dayes, the Angels which are to be used: so would I know whether also I should summon the wicked here recorded (out of the black Crosse, having their off-spring) likewise 14 dayes. At length appeared a face, very great, with wings about, adjoined to it; afterward he seemed to be in a great Globe of fire. .... Hearken to my voice. G6 Modesty, patience, and humility of heart and body, doth belong to these Actions. Tell me how many Thunders the Lord hath in store for the wicked. [delta] . O Lord, we know not. .... Were you ever in the secret caves of the Earth? [delta] . No, Lord, never. .... Then tell me how many windes the Lord hath prepared for an year? [delta] . Neither that can we tell: We are not of the Lord his Council in these things of his providence. .... Can you tell me none of these questions? .... Can you tell what shall become of your selves? [delta] . God onely knoweth, and no creature but by him: for all things are kept uncertain until the end. .... You beget children, know you the hour wherein they shall be born? .... You begin labour, can you tell what point of time you shall end in? [delta] . God only is the Fountain of all wisdom and truth. .... Well, then I see, you are drowned in ignorance and know nothing. E.K. He turneth round very swiftly, G7 .... Even as the Adder leadeth out ber young ones, the first day one foot, (out of her bale.) because they should eat, but because they might acquaint themselves with the air, and her subtlety. The second day, one yard and mere: she encompasseth her hole, and windeth to and fro, and teach-them to creep; and so five or six dayes, till they know how to move and stir their bodies. After the seventh day, she leadeth them further, and faileth deceit, striking the ground with her tail, as though it were the sound of some one at band: And then gaping, beginneth to bisse, and stirreth up fear unto her young ones, so that they enter into her mouth. And thus she doth till they be 12 or 13 dayes old: Then she leadeth them a stones-cast, and exerciseth them both with fear, and bidding themselves; And when they sleep (being young and wearied with labour) she stealeth from them and maketh a noise amongst the leaves and small stones, with the moving of her binder parts: -notes- G1 [delta]. To the intent she might see what shift her wormes can make, which stirred up with fear, and missing their mother, so learn to couch themselves in the Chymnes of the earth; At length, after silence, the mother trusteth out her self, and doublet her tongue (with the sound whereof she useth to call them) They come together and rejoyce, wreathing themselves diversly about her body, for joy: She for a recompence, suffereth them to bang upon her back, and so waltereth to her bole; where she gathereth the leaves of the earth: and after she bath chewed them small and tender, with her teeth, and mingled them with the dust, she spueth them out again, and beginneth to lick them by little and little, as though she hungered, which she subtly doth, that her wormes might eat and forget their hungriness. Finally, in 20 dayes, they become big, and as skillful in the property of their kind ... she (Isay) leadeth them out into a fertile place, and full of dew, and full of bushes, and places, apt to cover them, where they feed, dwell, observe their craft, and at last forsake their mother. Even so, it is with you; So the Lord, (the true Serpent and worme) leadeth you out from day to day, according G1 to your strength: and as you grow, to the intent you might, at last be brought unto the pleasant dow, and food of his merey, which is Triumphant true wisdom. But this the Lord fearech of you; that, as the wormes did, so you will forsake your mother. [delta] . Forsake us not, O God, Confirm thy graces in us, and we shall not forsake thee. The nature of the Serpent, is, not to forsake his young. [delta] . O Lord we depend onely on thee, and without thy grace and continual help, we perish. G2 The Lord told Noe long before, the Flood would come, be believed him: Therefore be is safe in both worlds. The sons in law of Lot, sunk into Hell, for that they betided the words of God, and believed them not. His wife became a salt-stone, for that she looked back, and did contrary to G3 the Commandment of God. Moses had the reward of his holinesse in this world pluckt back, because he said, Can this, and c. I, as the messenger of God, am as one that say, Cave, Take heed that you become not son in laws, though you passe the fire, Take heed you look not back: for if you do, you shall not see the flood, neither shall the Lord put a vail betwixt you and vengeance, neither (I say) shall the promises of God come in your dayes. If God had taken you up into the heavens and placed you before his Throne, and told you the things that are to come, you would believe: But that you cannot do. The Lord is merciful, be descendeth into your houses, and there telleth you what is to come, where you may understand: But you believe him not. Therefore saith the Lord of you, I fear you will G4 forsake your mother: But if you do it, I say, if you do it, I will make of the Moths, men, that shall testifie my name. E.K. I ever told you I do not believe them, nor can believe them, nor will desire to believe them. G5 ..... If you be faithful, you be able to comprehend: If you be obedient and humble, The Creatures of Heaven shall abide with you: Yea the Father and the Son, and the Holy Ghost shall make his dwelling with you. If you persevere, even with faith and humility, you shall see the wicked dayes that are to come, enjoy the promises of God, and be partaker of those blessed days that follow: For wonders unheard of, in, and of the world, are at hand. You are waved, G6 The Spirit of God rest with you. [delta] . Amen. [delta] . O Lord, shall we continue in this wavering or stiff-necked willful blindness, and frowardly G7 keep out thy mercies and graces by our fleshly sense, and unreasonable perswasion against the verity of thy true Ministers? 1. All things are committed to thy charge. [delta] . O Lord as much as ever I can do by prayer or otherwise, I do, and yet I enjoy no fruit of my long travel. 2. Thou hast ground, sow if thou can. [delta] . How can I without further instructions and help? and now, when I require Ave to come, he cometh not: O Lord comfort me. 3. A V E shall come when thou hast need of him. [delta] . [delta] . First, for the reforming of diversity of letters in the names written, I require your aid, unlesse you will first say somewhat else. By the same Jesus who sitteth on the right band of his Father, and is the wisdom of his Father, I request you to proceed with us. Ave. .... So that the body of Christ, now, is glorified and immortal. [delta] . Most true it is --- Mors illi ultra non non dominabitur. Ave. .... But as the Prophets, that were fulfilled with the Holy Ghost and Spirit of God, before Christ, tasted of him, in that he should come as a Savior, and in the seed of man; So is the Prophecie G1 of this time, Christ being ascended, in the same Spirit. But that Christ shall come in his glorified body, Triumphant against Satan, and all his enemies. [delta] . So be it, O lord. Ave. .... But that the words of the Prophecies may be fulfilled, It is necessary that the Earthsurarm, and be glutted with her own fornication and idolatry: which, what it shall be, the same spirit will open unto you. [delta] . Fiat voluntas Dei. Ave. .... That you may not onely be wise in forsaking the world, and foreseeing the dangers of perdition; But also preach the wonders of the same Christ, and his great mercies, which is to come and to appear in the clouds with his body glorified. The Lord said to Satan, I will give thee G2 power, in the end over their bodies, and thou shalt be cast out into the fields, and that for my names sake: But my Vineyard, and the fruit of my Harvest, shalt thou not binder. Thus my brethren bath the Lord loved you, Thus have the Treasures of the Heavens opened themselves unto you: But your faith springeth not. [delta] . It shall when it pleaseth the Highest: We beseech him to encrease our faith as shall be most for his honor and glory. G3 Ave. .... But unto you it shall be revealed, what shall come, after Morrows, after Dayes, Weeks, and Years: And unto you it shall be delivered, The Prophecie of the time to come, which is twelve: of the which you have but one. [delta] . God make us faithful, true and discret servants. Ave. .... For God will shake this earth through a riddle, and knock the vessels in pieces, throw down the seats of the proud, and establish himself a seat of quietnesse: that neither the Sun may G4 shine upon the unjust, nor the garments be made of many pieces. [delta] . All shall be in unity: unus pastor, unmovile, and c. G5 Ave. .... Haste therefore and be gone: as the Lord hath appointed you, that you may be ready for him, when he bringeth the sickle. They are, as the other, but for a peculiar practice. G7 [delta] . 4. For Docepax and Tedoand referred diversly, as I have noted, What is the cause of this diversity? Ave. .... It was the fault of E.K. in reporting. [delta] . What is the very Truth? G8 Ave, .... Thou shalt be taught that, when thou half their Calls, It belongeth to Nalvage his correction. [delta] . 5. As concerning the Etymologies of these names of God, we would be satisfied. Ave .... God is a Spirit, and is not able to be comprehended. [delta] . Some Notifying or Declaration, no full comprehension I require. -notes- G1 Adventus Christi. G2 Our bodies to be cast out into the fields. G3 Prophesie. 1 --- 11 G4 Regaum futurum. G5 [delta] . Ave. .... It is no part of mans understanding. They signifie all things, and they signifie nothing. Ave. .... Who can expresse Jehovah what it signifieth. Dens significat ad id quod agit. [delta] . As for the form of our Petition or Invitation of the good Angels, what sort should it be of? Ave. .... A shert and brief speech. [delta] . We beseech you to give us an example: we would have a confidence, it should be of more effect. Ave. .... I may not do so. E.K. And why? Ave. .... Invocation proceedeth of the good will of man, and of the beat and fervency of the G1 spirit: And therefore is prayer of such effect with God. [delta] . We beseech you, shall we use one form to all? Ave. .... Every one, after a divers form. [delta] . If the minde do dictate or prompt a divers form, you mean. Ave. .... I know not: for I dwell not in the soul of man. [delta] . As concerning the diversity of certain words in these Tables, and those of the portions of the Earth delivered by Nalvage, What say you? Ave. .... The Tables be true. Is it Aydropl, or Andropl? Ave. .... Both names be true, and of one signification. I have delivered you the Tables, so use them. [delta] . As concerning the Capital letters, have I done well? G2 Ave. .... You have easily corrected that, and to good end; for every letter, and part of letter, hath his signification. [delta] . I beseech you say somewhat of the N in Paraoan, of which you said, so far as that stretched, should sink to hell. Ave. .... Every letter in Paraoan, is a living fire: but all of one quality and of one Creation: But G3 unto N is delivered a viol of Destruction, according to that part that he is of Paraoan the Govenour. [delta] . It may please you to name that Place, City, or Country, under that N. Ave. .... Ask Nalvage, and he will tell you. [delta] . As concerning the wicked here, Shall I call or summon them all, as I do the good ones in the name of God? G4 Ave .... No man calleth upon the name of God in the wicked: They are servants and vile slaves. [delta] . We call upon the name of Jesus in the expulging of devils, saying in the name of Jesus, and c. Ave. .... That In, is against the wicked. No just man calleth upon the name of God, to allure the devil. [delta] . Then they are not to be named in the first summoning or invitation. Ave. .... At no time to be called. E.K. How then shall we proceed with them? Ave. .... When the Earth lieth opened unto your eyes, and when the Angels of Light, shall offer the passages of the Earth, unto the entrance of your senses, (chiefly of seeing) Then shall you see the Treasures of the Earth, as you go: And the caves of the Hills shall not be unknown unto you: Unto G5 these, you may say, Arise, be gone, Thou art of destruction and of the places of darknesse: These are provided for the use of man. So shalt thou use the wicked, and no otherwise. [delta] . This is as concerning the natural Mines of the Earth. Ave. .... Not so, for they have nothing to do with the natural Mines of the Earth, but, with that which is corrupted with man. [delta] . As concerning the coined they have power to bring it. Ave. So they may: that they keep, and no other. [delta] . How shall we know what they keep, and what they keep not? Ave. .... Read my former words; for thou dost not understand them. [delta] . I read it: beginning at the first line on this side, when the Angels of Light, and c. [delta] . I mean of coined money that they keep not; How shall we do to serve our necessities with it? Ave. .... The good Angels are Ministers for that purpose. The Angels of the 4 angles shall make the Earth open unto you, and shall serve your necessities from the 4 parts of the Earth. [delta] . God make me a man of wisdom in all parts, I beseech him. [delta] . Note I had spoken somewhat of my part in Devonshire Mines: and of the Danise Treasures which were taken of the Earth. [delta] . These our Questions being thus answered, now I refer the rest to your instructions intended. G6 Ave. .... You have the corn, and you have the ground: Make you but invocations to sow the seed, and the fruit shall be plentiful. -notes- G1 Invocation. G2 The use of the letters. G3 Note. G4 The wicked spirits are vile slaves. G5 The Treasures of the Earth. Our words to the wicked that keep Treasure. G6 Invocations to be made.

[delta] . As concerning our usage in the 4 dayes in the 14 dayes, we would gladly have some information. Ave. .... You would know to reape, before your corn be sown. [delta] . As concerning a fit place and time to call, and other circumstances, we would learn somewhat. Ave. .... You would know where and when to call, before your invocations bear witnesses of your readinesse. [delta] . Then they must be written in verbis conceptis, in formal words. Ave. .... I ----- a very easie matter. [delta] . What is the Book you mean that I should write? G1 Ave. .... The Book consisteth [1] of Invocation of the names of God, and [2] of the Angels, by the names of God: Their offices are manifest. You did desire to be fed with spoons, and so you are. [delta] . As concerning Bataiva, or Beataivb, I pray you not to be offended though I ask again, what is the truth? G2 Ave. .... The word is but of six letters, whereof, one is on the left side, one on the right, two above, and two under; A and H are put to. [delta] . Sometimes or communiter, A, and in extremis Judiciis H as I was taught before. [delta] . So that the word is Bataive, or Bataivh. E.K. I think he be gone; for he made a sign of the crosse toward us, and drew the white Curtain. [delta] . As we sate a while and talked of the Calls received in the holy Language, and not yet Englished, there was a voice. G3 .... You shall have those Calls in English on Thursday. And so ask me no more questions. [delta] . Thanks, honour, and glory, be to our Creator, Redeemer, and Sanctifier, now and ever, Amen. Thursday, + Cracoviæ, Julii, 5. Mane, hora, 8. fere. And why is it said so? but because you shall have many temptations and afflictions: after which come consolation and comfort. If the Smith prove and temper his Gold by fire, his intent is to excels in the work that he hath in hand: that thereby it might be tryed, refined, and made apt, to the end wherein it shall be used: Much more, think you, depth the God of wisdom, forge, try, and beat out, such as be intendeth to use in the execution of his divine and eternal purposes. How therefore can you find fault with the Lord? How can you say, he dealeth not justly with you? when he suffereth you to be proved to the uttermost. If you pay the uttermost farthing, are you not become free? If you feel affliction and temptation, and with and it, are you not the more pare? the more justified? for the Vineyard and Harvest of the Lord? O yes, my Brethren; for the more the wise man is afflicted, the more he rejoiceth; And the greater his adversity is, the more he prostereth. Is it not written? No man cometh to the Lord but he is justified, purified, and accepted. Whence therefore (if you seek to come before the Lord, that is to say, to appear, to be blessed) shall your justification or purifying arise? Of your own nature it cannot; for you were born sinners: But by Christ you may: In whom you are justified, through patience, and resisting temptations. True proof, and touch of man: But me thinketh I hear you say, O, if we were rich, or of ability. True it is, for the dust of the earth many men excel you: But in that you speak with God, in us G4 his Angels (that is to say Messengers) you are not onely happy (which happinesse the others want) but you excel all the creatures of the Earth. O my Brethren, their joy is a bitter-sweet: But the comfort that you have, is eternal, is sweet, and a food for ever. Therefore; if you will be eternal, and in perpetual comfort with joy, despise the world for the worlds sake: and delight in God for his mercies; which if you truly do, Then can no Tempest prevail, no affliction come amisse, nor no burden be too heavy for you: For it is written, Gaudium beatorum est Christus: Cui Mundus omnia mala fecit. O my Brethren, be contented, and suffer the world: for as Christ in vanquishing her, did prove himself the Son of God: So shall you in resisting her, at last overcome, and be accounted the sons of - notes- G1 The Book. I understand this to be the English of the fifth Call; and that before of the sixth: the Numbers of the parcels seem to agree. So that we have now the English of the fifth and sixth Call. Thanked be God. E, M, As. and Peoal, three words which you said we had not, I finde them in the Calls: your meaning perhaps is some other then the common words. E.K. Now he hath opened again. Upon my considering (immediatly) of these Englished Calls, and the Angelical Language belonging to them, I find that here are but 13-Englished of the 14 which are in the third Cracovien Volume contained: and here wanteth the English of the third of those 14. Besides this, you may consider that these English Calls keep this order as followeth: and to make it a more perfect account from the beginning of the first Call of All (being long since Englished, and three more) Then have we 18 Calls, whereof 17 are Englished. [Graphic omitted] Note, the third of the third Book, which is the seventh, from the beginning, is not yet Englished. Vide post Julii II. Hora 4. There is the Call Englished. [NOTE.] Ergo, there lack yet 30 Calls, for the 30 Aires, and c. (besides the English of the seventh or third, in the third Book contained) and so shall there be 48 Calls: For the first Table, is no Call: Although there be letters gathered, but made into no words; as you may see, before the first Call of all. -notes- G1 NOTE.

Saturday, Julii 7. Mane bora 6¼ + Cracoviæ Oratione Dominica finita, aliisque tam ad Deum quam ipsum Ave petitionibus, requirebam Judicium ipsius Ave de meis tam ad Deum quam bonos ejus angelos factis orationibus. Post vix quartam horæ partem apparuit. Ave. .... If the words or truth of our testimony and message, were, or were contained within the capacity of man, Then might the Devil thrust in himself, and dissemble the Image of Truth: But because it is of Truth, and of him that beareth testimony of himself, it can neither have affinity with the flesh, nor be spoken of in this sense. Lo, thus, deceitfully, bath the Devil entred into man. [delta] . Blessed be the Lord of all truth. Ave. .... Therefore seeing the word is not corruptible, Those that minister the word, cannot dwell in corruption. I speak not this, without a cause, my brethren. [delta] . I pray you to proceed, accordingly, that we may know the cause, if it be your will: or else leaving this Caveat unto us, to proceed to the matter wherein we required your helping hand to correct or confirm, or to do that which is behooful. Ave. .... For, which of you have sought the Lord, for the Lord his cause or sake? [delta] . That, God can be judge. Ave. .... Or in which of you bath due obedience; either to the word, or unto us that are sanctified by the word, been faithfully performed? [delta] . My points of error, and disobedience I beseech you to Notifie, that I may amend them. Ave. .... It may be, you will say, we have laboured, and we have watched, yea we have called on the name of the Lord. What have you done that you ought not to do, yea, a thousand times more? [delta] . We vaunt nothing of any our doings, nor challenge any thing by any perfection of our doings. Ave. .... Shall the bireling say, I have laboured hard? or doth the good servant think be Meredith his wages? It is not so. But you do so; Therefore you are neither worthy of your reward, nor the name of faithful servants. [delta] . No Lord, we challenge nothing upon any merits; but flie unto thy mercy, and that we crave and call for. Ave. .... You do wickedly and unjustly: yea you credit the Lord, as you do your selves: your faith is the faith of men, and not of the faithful. Many things have I said unto you from the beginning, (saith the God of Justice) which you have heard, and not believed: But you tempt me, and provoke me; yea you stir we up to be angry with you. [delta] . If thy Anger shall be on us, beside the sorrow of this world, tentations of the feind, and c. Then are we not able to endure. .... Answer not me, and bear what the Lord saith unto thee: Satan laugheth you to scorn: for he saith unto the Lord, standing before him, Are these they whom thou delivered from the G1 perils of the Seas, and from the bands of the wicked, whom the winds were a comfort to, and thy Countenance a Lanthorn? But the Lord seemeth to bear him: for he knoweth it is true. My brethren, you seek the world more than you seek to perform the will of God: as though God could not rain Gold and Margarits amongst you: As though the breath of God were not able to beat down the whole earth before you. O you faithlesse Creatures: O ye hypocrites in the Vineyard of the Lord: O you unworthy servants of such a Master. Neither unto Abraham, nor unto Noe, nor unto any other Patriarchs or Prophets, hath God done more merciful unto, than unto you. To Abraham he said, Whom I return at this time of the year, Thou shalt have a son. Unto Noe he said, Build thee a Ship: Make up the Ark, Thus and thus, it shall be: for the people shall perish. G2 You remember not that Joseph was sold by his brethren; or if you do, it may be, you think it is a fable: If you think it to be true, Then consider how he escaped the Pit; Consider he was sold, and so became a bondman: But who changed the imagination and sense of his brethren? who (I say) came between their Tyranny and his innocency? What was he that made him free? that brought him before Pharaoh? yea, and that which is more, made him reign over Pharaoh: Was it not the same God, that dealeth with you? O ye of little faith, and starvelings, withered grasses, and blasted willows: What and if you were in bell, could he not deliver you? If you become bondmen, cannot he make you free? If you be in prison, cannot he deliver you? Cannot he compass your neck with a chain? But Satan saith, Lo, they say, they have a long Journey: It is necessary that God comfort those that put their trust in him. Euge, O ho O you beggarly starvelings, Hath not the same God, the same Raphael that he had... Yes verily, a thousand a hundred, and a thousand and a hundred thousand thousands that are, and more than Raphael for the help and comfort of the faithful. When Herod sought to kill the son of God, in that he was man: his Father delivered him not with a mighty wind, nor with beating down of Lords Palaces; but by a dream appeared unto Joseph, saying, flee, Herod seeketh the child his life. of his departure: But hear what the Lord said in the end. Return, for he that sought the Child his life, is now dead. Why, I say, you rotten Reeds, worse than the excrements of the Fees, G1 have not you greater warning? Wherefore is it said unto you, Up and be gone, but that the Long seethe the thoughts of man? even of him which seeketh your destruction; Even of this wicked King which seeketh to destroy Laskie. Could not the same Lord, consume that wicked monster and seller of his people, (which tempteth for a time) with the fire of his mouth? Yes, but that be bath given all things a time. Those that are righteous are often times taken away because of temptations that are to come: But for G2 wicked are suffered to continue, because they might be more heavy, and sink deeper: But, (for love) I say unto you, my brethren, Flee the mischiefs that are to come, and go forward in the service of the Highest, that you may enjoy the promises that are made you, and be partakers of the happy dayes to come. Take heed of whoredom, and the provocations of the flesh. For why? those things that we G3 say, are not without their cause. You have but ten dayes to tarry (if you will follow my counsel). But if you linger any longer, you may drink of a Cup that you would not. Wherefore hath God warn you, but that he would be just with you? Hath be not the whole Earth to serve him? Believe me, by the testimony we bear, than the good Angels weep over you; for, as you are particularly G4 called, so have you your particular and unaccustomed temptations. But pray unto God, that you may prevail. Nititur enim, onmibus modis, Sathanas ut vos devoret. G5 It is said unto you, If you provide for this Journey, and c. That word is as sure as the strongest rock in the world. Considering that you were warned by the same Sprit (whereas I speek) being witness of himself, and by us, which hear witness of him; Give ear, gird up your selves, and be gone: For, even at the very doors, are mischief. After a while I have somewhat else to say G6 unto you. E.K. He covereth all with the white Curtain. [delta] . We read and considered these premises somewhat diligently. [delta] . Afterward, [Ave] he came again, and (after a pause) said as followeth. Ave ..... My brother, I see thou do not understand the my theory of this Book, or work thou G7 thou hath in hand. But I told thee, it was the knowledge that God delivered unto Enoch. I said also, that Enoch laboured 50 dayes. Notwithstanding, that thy labour be not frustrate, and void of fruit, Be it unto G8 thee, as thou hast done. [delta] . Lord I did the best that I could conceive of it. Ave. .... I will tell thee, what the labour of Enoch was for those fifty dayes. [delta] . O Lord I thank thee. G9 He made, (as thou hast done, thy book) Tables, of Serpasan and plain stone: as the Angel of the Lord appointed him; saying, tell me (O Lord) the number of the dayes that I shall labour is. It was answered him 50. Then he groaned within himself, saying, Lord God the Fountain of true wisdom, thou that openeth the secrets of thy own self unto man, thou knowest mine imperfection, and my inward darkness: How can I (therefore) speak unto them that speak not after the voice of man; or worthily calles thy name, considering that my imagination is variable and fruitless, and unknown to my self? Shall the Sands seem to invite the Mountains: or can the small Rivers entertain the wonderfull G10 and unknown waves? Can the vessel of fear, fragility, or that is of a determined proportion, life up himself, be me up his hands, or gather the Sun into his bosom? Lord it cannot be: Lord my imperfectire is great: Lord I am lesse than sand: Lord, thy good Angels and Creatures excell me far: our proportion is not alike; our sense agreeth not: Notwithstanding I am comforted; For that we have all are God, G11 all one beginning from thee, that we respect thee a Creatour: Therefore will I call upon thy name, and in thee, I will become mighty. Thou shalt light me, and I will become a Seer; I will see thy Creatures, and will magnifie thee amongst them. Those that come unto thee hare the same gate, and through the same gate, descend, such as thou sendest. Bebold, I offer my bouse, my labour, my heart and soul, If it will please thy Angels to dwell with me, and I with them; to rejoyce with me, that I may rejoyce with them; to minister unto me, that I may magister thy name. Then, lo the Tables (which I have provided, and according to thy will, preparel) I offer unto thee, and unto thy holy Angels, desiring them, in and through thy holy names: That as thou art their light, and comfortest them, so they, in thee will be my light and comfort. Lord they prescribe not laws unto thee, so it is not meet that I prescribe laws unto them: What it pleaseth thee to offer, they receive; So what it pleaseth them to offer unto me, will I also receive. Behold I say (O Lord) If I shall call upon them in thy name, Be it unto me in mercy, as unto the servant of the Highest. Let them also manifest unto me, How, by what words, and at what time, G12 I shall call them. O Lord, Is there any that measure the heavens, that is mortal? How, therefore, can the heavens enter into mans imagination? Thy Creatures are the Glory of thy countenance: Hereby thou glorifies all things, which Glory excelleth and (O Lord) is for above my understanding. The air will not carry me, but resisteth my folly, I fall down, for I am of the earth. Therefore, O thou very Light and true Comfort, that canst, and mayst, and dost command the heavens; Behold I offer these Tables unto thee, Command them as it pleaseth thee: and O you Ministers, and true lights of understanding, Governing this earthly frame, and the elements wherein we live, Do for me as for the servant of the Lord: and unto whom it bath pleased the Lord to talk of you Behold, Lord, thou hast appointed me 50 times; G2 Thrice 50 times will I lift my hands unto thee. Be it unto me as it pleaseth thee, and the holy Ministers. I require nothing but thee, and That is to say, through thee, and for thy honour and glory: But I hope I shall be satisfied, and shall not die, (As thou hast promised) until thou gather the clouds together, and judge al things: when in a moment I shall be changed and dwell with thee for over. These words, were thrice a dayes talk betwixt Enoch and God: In the G3 appeared unto him, which are not now to be manifested spoken of: be enjoyed the fruit of God his promise, and received the benefit of his faith. Here may the wise learn wisdom: for what doth man that is not corruptible? I have not that I may say any more unto you: But believe me, I have said great things unto you: If you will have me hereafter, I will come. [delta] ----- ..... G1 So likewise the Scriptures speak of the coming of Christ, but the day and hour, the San of man knoweth not. But because in time to come, and for this action, (the message of the highest) And assured, and infallible Doctrine, (in respect that God appointed you no certain time) is necessary. For, for this cause you waver my brethren: and may lose the benefit of God his favour, and mercies. O weaklings examine the Prophets, look into the doing of the Apostles. There always went a promise before the end: But the end was the benefit and fruit of the promise. Some alledge Paul, some Peter, some Daniel: But in this case shall you alleadge the sayings of God, spoken in the spirit of truth by me Gabriel, the servant of the highest. God, for three causes bideth the end, and the very time of his heavenly purposes. As after a little silence you shall shortly bear. E.K. A cloud covereth him. E.K. Now he appeareth again. Gab. .... First, by reason of his own inexplicable Est and non est esse, which is without the circumference, strength, capable vertue, and power of man, his intellectuality, whereby be appeareth to be verily one God, and incomprehensible. Secondly, because Lucifer with his yea sayers, (damned justly) should never taste of his light, nor understand his secret judgements: which be would, and might do, if they were delivered to men imagination, and discourse: Because it is within the circumference and compasse of his Creating. Consider of these two. E.K. Now he is covered in a white Cloud again. [delta] . The first reason, or cause we do not sufficiently understand, or conceive. Deus est esse, Sanctis Deus. Non est esse, Impits Deus. For, In the judgement day, God in his son, Christ, shall shut up his perpetual and everlasting Justice, wrath, and anger, with Hell and damnation. Leaving them, and forsaking them, and in no case to be called their God. Fratres [mi] non habebunt Deum. But they shall be without a guide, and without a Centre. Hereby you may understand, Effe and non est effe. To the purpose. Thirdly, that man firmly perswaded of things spoken of by God above his capacity to come, and unknown, might worthily in the strength of faith, and through the effect of his promises merit his favour in Christ, and receive eternal salvation, justly before God and his Angels. These are the three causes. [delta] . This last cause, if it would please you to make more plain, it should greatly inform us and confirm us. .... These are the three onely causes, that the ends of God his determinations are secret. 1. In the first, that God might appear omnipotent. 2. In the second, sealed up in himself from the knowledge of such as have rebelled to their distraction. 3. In the third, that man might justly be made worthy of the places prepared for him. Nalvage is called away, and cannot be in Action with you till Wednesday. Then shall you G2 have the Calls that you look for. And so enter into the knowledge and perfect made standing of the 49 Gates and Tables if you will. [delta] . O Lord, thy will and mercy be shewed upon us. Gab. .... Remember that on Saturday, the fourteenth day of July, by the Gregorian Calender, G1 and the fourth day of July, by the old Calender, Rowland my Childe (who was born Anno 1583. January 28. by the old Calender) was extreemly sick about noon, or midday, and by one of the Clock ready to give up the Ghost, or rather lay for dead, and his eyes set and sunck into his head, and c. I made a vow, if the Lord did foresee him to be his true servant, and so would grant him life, and confirm him his health at this danger, and from this danger I would (during my life) on Saturdays eat but one meal, and c. Remember on Wednesday night the eighteenth of July, as I walked alone about nine of the Clock in the evening, in the Chamber before my Study, (above) in divers places of that Chamber appeared flashes of fire, and did not lighter abroad. Munday, Julii 23. Mane Circiter 8. + Cracoviæ Oratione Dominica finita. [delta] . I read Mapsama his first words of the book to be prepared of 48 leaves to be silvered, and would gladly know what I was now to do. By and by at the first looking into the stone. E.K. There appeared ten Pikes, all black on the ground in a Circle as it were, and I in the middle, a great Pike, standing up. And Vera, falsie, falsa, seemed to be written in the middle of that Circle, somewhat blacker then all the rest, which seemed to be as new molten Pitch. A voyce. ....Qui non in 7. vivant in undecimo. [delta] . I made a short discourse to God of my sincere, and just dealing, hitherto of the book of Enoch, written, of the book to be silvered, how hardly I can get it performed to my contentment: (the books being laid on the Table, that of Enoch, and than as it were silvered) and c. I craved therefore the exposition of this dark shew, and as yet nothing pleasant, or plain: My conscience is clear, and I trust in the Lord his mercies. E.K. After this appeared a man all black, naked all over. .... O thou that art just, and hast a clear conscience, answer me. [delta] . In the name of Jesus. .... Who commanded thee to be gone? G2 ..... I take the Commandment to have been from God.

..... Thou hast broken the Commandment of God. [delta] . I can in no case yield thereunto. .... You have dishonoured the Lord: which is just in the bottom of his own breast, and gave you warning, and commanded you to go: which is the Lord of Heaven and Earth. G3 [delta] . O Lord, my first charge was in these words: Thou shalt go from hence with him to the Emperour: It was also said that he should make provision for this one voyage, and for the rest God had provided. So that seeing I was to go with him, and he hath not yet provided (doing what he can) what shall I say, or do? ..... True it is, thou hast had the victory, and thou, and thy Children have tasted mercy. Thou art one of those, that when I command thee to leave nothing with life, yet thou safest the fatling to offer before him that abborreth such sacrifice. [delta] . Lord, I know no such act of mine: The Lord be mercifull to me. For when it should come to such a case, God knoweth, I would spare none. .... O thou just man [shaking his head] thou art become a Saul. .... Wherefore did God (answer me) take the Kingdom out of Saul his hands? [delta] . It appeareth in the Bible, because obedience was better then sacrifice. G4 ..... Even so, if thou hadst been obedient, thy obedience had been regarded. But I say unto thee, the Lord oweth thee nothing for thy labour: he hath payed thee to the uttermost. -notes- G1 Relandus pene me tuus. G2 Be gone. G3 May 21. Mane. G1 As for Lasky, I will give him over to the spirit of errour: and he shall become more poor, so that his own Children shall despise him. But it shall not come to passe in these dayes: For I will keep my promise with you. You do G2 the Commandment of Princes, and Lords, and Masters: But when the God of Justice (without your desert) entertaineth you, and placeth you, and dwelleth amongst you, (which is, able to give you all things) commandeth you to go, and that for your own profit, you think it nothing to offend him. G3 But true it is, That, Obedience pleaseth the Lord for therein, his Creatures glorifie him most. All Worship, all Honour, all Love, all Faith, all Hope, all Charity, all the knitting together of the Heavens consisteth in Obedience. For if you had been obedient, the very stones of the earth should have served your necessity. For the Lord will not be found a lyar. [delta] . O Lord, be mercifull to me: I could not do thy Commandment in going without A. Laskie, and him I was not able to cause to goe without provision: And to our judgement he seemeth marvellously to be careful to make provision: but still he hath hindrance. .... Thou (hearest thous) the Lord forgiveth thee: but from henceforth, G4 he commandeth thee that thou open not the secrets and the judgements, which the Lord shall open unto thee of the times to come, unto Laskie. [delta] . I pray you to say somewhat unto us, as concerning this book to be filvered: Else what shall I do, if I have not direction herein, the case being so hard. .... As concerning the book, when thou art at the end of thy journey it shall be told. [delta] . Misericordias Domini in æternum Cantabo, Amen. Hallelujah. Amen. Tuesday, Julii 31. After a great hour attendance. At length appeared one all naked, black, and about the stone a Circle of black. He said. .... Were you not commanded to go after ten dayes? [delta] . It is true. .... And what followeth? [delta] . I appeal unto the mercy of the highest, for that I have not offended upon wilfulness. .... Say what followeth. [delta] . It followeth that we may drink of a Cup, which we would not, and c. And also we were willed to provide for this journey, which provision onely now is made for us two, and not yet for A.L. himself. .... Thus sayeth the Lord, I have stretched out my hand, and you have hindered me. I have brought things unto their course, but you have thrust your selves between. G5 When I appointed you 10 dayes, did I not also tell you that the earth was mine. Am not I the God of heaven and earth, by whom you breath. The same which also forsaketh not my people in the time of need. I have opened my wings, but you have refused my cover. G6 I have brought in madnesse into the house of the unjust, but you have prevented my judgement. And because you have done so, and have trusted more in the mallices of the world then in my power. G7 [[delta] . Lord we have not done so: to our knowledges.] .... Therefore shall you drink of a Cup that you would not: but it shall not fall in these dayes, but in the dayes to come. [E.K. The fire cometh out of his mouth as he speaketh.] Moreover, .... If you go, it is: if you go not, it also shall be. [[delta] . Make that dark speech plain, for I need you not.] [delta] . We were willed to go, but with this condition, that Laskie should make provision. G8 .... I have not sealed this sin unto thee [delta.] but yet I have measured out a plague, and it shall light upon you all. But unto Lasky I have sealed it, and it shall be heavy. E.K. Doth not A.L. use all the means he can for provision making. .... The time shall come when I am, and will appear unto thee in a Vision, and of seven Rods thou shalt chose one, unto you both I speak: For I will not let passe my dishonour unpunished, neither will I sell my name like an hireling. Notwithstanding, in the midst of my fury I will be

[delta] . Lord deal with us, as we have just cause to put our trust in thee, not onely in the principal state of our salvation, but also in this Action. .... You go: I will not forsake you. And what I have said, that I have said. And it is a living spirit, and shall bear witness of it self. For, great is the God of Hosts in power, and in all his works, and words most just. [delta] . Lord, is it thy will that we shall go before this A.L. toward Prage? ..... If you tarry it is, and if you go, it shall be. [delta] . Lord make that plain unto us? Thus sayeth the Lord, if you tarry, it is because I am, which am strength, and triumph against mine enemies, and so against the enemies of those that put their trust in me: And shall be, because I am just, and because it is. For, that I am, I am, and my spirit is justice and truth: which before, was, is, and shall be, and after, world without end. [delta] . Lord, shew is the light of thy countenance, and be not wrathfull against us any longer, be a comforter unto us in our journey to be undertaken. .... Move me not, for I am gone. E.K. He is gone. On Wednesday the first day of August, at afternoon (hora 3.) we entred on our journey toward Prage, in the Kingdom of Beame, whither we came on Thursday sevenight after, by three of the Clock, that is exactly in eight dayes. We came by Coach, I, E.K. and his brother, and Edmond Hilton, so that we came to Prage Augusti 9. by the new Calender: but by the old July 30. two dayes before August the old Calender. Prima Actio, Anno 1584. Wednesday, Augusti 15. Mane horam circiter 9. [delta] . We thanked God for his safe bringing us hither, to the place appointed by him: We desired him to direct us, as the rest of our Action requireth: And thirdly, for the Book with silver leaves, to be prepared, we required instruction, as we were promised. Anon after E.K. his looking into the Shew-stone, he said, I see a Garland of white Rosebuds about the border of the Stone: They be well opened, but not full out. [delta] . The great mercies of God be upon us: and we beseech him to increase our faith in him, according to his well liking. E.K. Amen. E.K. But while I consider these buds better, they seem rather to be white Lillies. [delta] . The eternal God of his infinite mercies, wipe away our blacknesse and sins, and make us pure, and whiter than Snow. G1 E.K. They are 72 in number: seeming with their heads(alternatim) one to bend or hang toward me, and another toward you. They seem also to move circularly toward the East: but very slowly. In the midst of this Circle, appeareth a little fire, of the colour of yern, hot; ready to melt: from which fire to every one of the said lillies, is a fiery beam extended; which beam toward the end, is, of more whitish fiery colour, than it is near the center. A voice. .... E.K. A voice cometh shouting out from the Lillies, saying, Holy, Holy, Holy: and all the lillies are become on fire; and seem to tumble into that fire. And now they appear again distinctly, as before: And the fire remained in the center still: and the emanation of beams, came from it, still to the foresaid lilly buds. E.K. I hear a sound, as though it were of many waters, poured or streaming down in the cliffs of great Rocks and Mountains: The noise is marvellous great, which I hear coming through the Stone: as it were of a thousand water-mills going together. A voice. .... Est. Another voice. .... Seemeth to pray over, and quo modo est. A voice. .... Male and in summo : and mensuratum est.. E. K. I hear a great roaring, as if it were out of a Cloud, over ones head: most perfectly like a thunder. Another voice. .... The Seal is broken. G2 Another ..... Poure out the sixth Violl that the earthmay know her self [Viola Sexta.] These are the dayes ofwo, that are spoken of. E.K. Now I see beyond like a Furnacemouth, as big as 4 or 5 Gates of a City. It seemeth to be a quarter of a mile off: out of the Furnace-mouth seemeth a marvellous sinoke or smother to come. By it seemeth to be a great Lake of pitch: and it playeth or simpredth, as water doth, when it beginneth to seethe. There standeth by the -notes- G1 [delta] . 72 Angels. G2 [delta] . pit, a white man, in a white garment tucked up: his face is marvellous fair; he saith very loud. A white spiritual Creature. .... Ascend. E.K. Now there cometh out of the Lake, a thing like a Lion in the hinder parts, and his fore part hath many heads, of divers fashions: and all upon one trunk of a neck. He hath like feathers on his neck. He hath 7 heads: Three on one side, and three on another, and one in the middle: which branch from the neck is longer than the other, and lieth backward to his taileward. The white man giveth him a bloody Sword: and he taketh it in his forefoot. The white man tyeth this Monster his 4 legs with a chain, that he cannot go, but as one shackled, or fettered. Now he giveth the Monster a great hammer, with a seal at that end where the hammer striketh, and the other is fashioned like a hatchet. The white man said. .... A horrible and terrible beast ..... E.K. This the white man said with a loud cry. A voice out of the little fire. .... Seal him, for two years of the Seven: For, so long is his power. The Stars, with the Earth, even to the third part, are given unto thee: The fourth part thou shalt leave untouched. E.K. The white man taketh the hammer, and striketh him in the forehead of that head which is in the middle, and lieth down backward toward his taile. E.K. Now all this vision is vanished away. The Stone is clear. E.K. Now Madimi appeareth, and she seemeth to be bigger than she was. Madimi. .... The blessing of God the Father, the Son, and (in the Father and the Son) of the Holy Ghost, in power and comfort rest upon you, take bold of you, and dwell with you, that you may be apt to receive the comfort of my childishnesse? and the reward of such Innocents, as my voice beareth witness of. You both, the Spirit of God, salute you: which alwayes comforteth the Just, and is the strength and stay of such as are Elected: of whom it is said, Mittam illis Angelum, in Adjutorium. [delta] . Are you Madimi (in the name of Jesus) that I may so note of you? Mad. .... I am Madimi, and of that order, wherein the wonders of God are wrought with G1 power, with you, as my words are: with my self, as my creation is. Lo, as I have often G2 promised you, so in the time of your necessity and grief, I visit you. [delta] . Thanks be to the Highest. Mad. .... Not as the friends of the world do, but as a comforting spirit: exalting the servants G3 of God, and cherishing them with celestial food: But my mother is at band, which openeth unto thee, the will of God. Believe me, many are the woes of the world, and great are the sorrows G4 that are to come: For the Lord prepareth his Rain-how, and the witnesses of his account: and will appear in the heavens to finish all things: and the time is not long. Blessed are those that believe; for faith shall flee from the Earth, and her dwelling places shall be G5 in caves, and unknown mountains, and in parts of the Earth which the Lord hath kept secret for such as shall triumph and rejoyce in the Judgement to come. 1. Wo be to women great with child, for they shall bring forth Monsters. 2. Wo be unto the Kings of the Earth, for they shall be beaten in a Mortar. 3. Wo be unto such as paint themselves, and are like unto the Prince of pride; for they shall drink the blood of their neighbours, and of their own children. 4. Wo be unto the false preachers, yea seven woes be unto them; for they are the teeth of the Beast. G6 He that hath ears, let him hear. 5. Wo be unto the Virgins of the Earth, for they shall disdain their virginity, and they shall become Concubins for Satan, and despise the God of Righteousnesse. -notes- G1 Madimi est ex ordine potestatum. 6. Wo be unto the Merchant of the earth, for they are become abominable: Behold, they are become the spies of the earth, and the dainty meat of Kings. Rut they are foolish: Tea, they shall fall into the pit that they have digged for others. G1 7. Wo be unto the books of the earth, for they are corrupted; and are become a wrasting stock, and firebrand to the conscience. Stay a season, for my mother cometh. [delta] . We read over the premisses, and so conferred of the verity and weight of them. And all this while Madim: stood still in E.K. his fight as E.K. told me:) But because we were willed to stay, I moved no question: but wished to have some understanding, how my wife and children (at Cracovia) did. Here pon Madimi said as followeth. G2 Mad. .... Hear what I say unto thee [delta] . The King of darkness whetter his teeth against thee, and rampeih with great rage to overwhelm the world upon thee: And be seeketh the destruction of thy lonshold, and ther by thy overthrow: The life of thy Children; yea, be tempteth thy wife with despair, and to be violent unto her self. [delta] . Why with despair?] ..... But his lips are sealed, and his claws made dull: that when be would bite be cannot: And where be scratch. th the bloud followeth not. But hear what thy friend sayeth unto thee: Both in her self, and by him G3 that moveth her to speak; As thou art the servant of the God victory, so shalt than triumph in the God of stretch forth and Conquer. [delta] . Madzilodarp. G4 Thy wife, thy children, thy servants, and more then that, such as favour the, even the coverings of thy house; are under the protection and defence of such as are of power: against whom, neither the rage of such as raign, neither the fury of Authority (though it hath the help of Satan) can prevail. For why? God hath care over thee: Bit thy faith is somewhat lower. Take heed of Satan, G5 be will joyn himself into thee. But beware of him. For, sin keepeth back the joner of God, which is oftentimes deferred for another season: sea, even fer the wickednesse of one Soul. G6 Lasky, I look for, but I see not: Behold, I wrast my eyes after him, and cannot finde him. Peradventure he hath bid himself behinde some Mountain, or is crept into a Cave: for he appeareth not. [delta] . I beseech you, what is the cause thereof? Is he not gone from Cracovia? Mad. .... Sin is the greatest Mountain, and he rejoyceth when he pleaseth himself: and in the fury of his flesh creepeth into a Cave from us. Lo, I look for him, and cannot see him, yet see all the world over, it is G7 a sign that God is not with him. [delta] . I beseech you, is he not gone from Cracovia yet? Mad. .... Iwell thee, I see him not; I can say nothing of him. [delta] . Lord, our coming hither was to come with him. Mad. .... Therefore tought I thee hither, that thou shouldst not tarry with him. Knowest thou not that God is marvelous in his works? Hast thou not beard of his secret judgements? If thou hast, Think he bath care over thee. For also, thy wife and children, and the rest of thy household must be moved [My wife, children, and housho'd must be moved to erage.] hither. [delta] . When, I beseech you? Mad ..... Let that be my charge to answer thee. E.K. Now here appeareth a little fire like the same, which appeared before: but it hath no beams from it, as it had before. Mad. .... Hic and hæc, est Mater mea. [E.K. Pointing to the fire.] E.K. She falleth down on her face prostrate: Now she riseth again. This G8 fire entreth into her mouth, she is waxen of higher stature then she G9 was, she hath now three faces. [delta] . Now it is the vertue of the Trinity in her so represented. Mad. .... I. And I have a few things' to say, and I say. E.K. I hear a marvelous noise, as of many Mountains falling. Mad. .... Arise, and believe. The time is come, that of the foolish I will make the wife.  Precibus ad Deum fuis, ex more nostro, and c. 1. I propounded:

 If the letter written for Rodolphus, were as it should be? 2.
 Secondly, because we were willed to invite the good Angels, for the book writing, I asked how we should invite them? 3. As concerning our wives, and my family sending for: I required, when that should be done? [delta] . Quickly apparition was made. E.K. Here is Uriel. [delta] . Welcome be the light of the Highest. URIEL. .... Wo be unto the world: for her light is taken away. Wo, wo be unto man, for the eye of light hath for sake him. Wo, wo be to the understanding of man, for it is led out, with a three fold spirit, G1 the spirit of error and ignorance. And wo be unto such as believe not the glorious and supereminent light of this Testimony: for they are not written with the life, G2 neither shall their portion be with the living. Thus saith he that is a mere stone, (which sitteth between the seat of light and darknesse) whose G3 wings are great, and more than mighty: wherewith he gathereth the Stars, and the powers that hang upon the firmament of the first and lesser light: placing them and powering them, in the Spirit of Truth; and through his own power, the power of the word, whereby all things are, and are G4 comprehended: in that he is as well in the heavens of Glory, Chastity, and Message, as also in places unknown to us. Behold, those that dig into Nature with dull Mattocks, and dull Spades, are such, as of every congealed substance can imagine, but not judge: are foolish, and of the world: whose imaginations, are become the instruments of vanity, and the pierces of him which is the father of ignorance. Wo be unto them, for their disputations and doctrines, are dogma's and dull. Wo, wo unto them, for they are such as please themselves, and are become fathers to many lewd children: of whom it is written, They are become stiff-necked and proud, and the followers of their father. Therefore have I gathered my self together, and am hidden from them; because they are proud and haters of innocency. These teach not unto you a doctrine, neither are you partakers of their Bankets; for the Spirit of God, is plain, pure, and most perfect. These breath not upon you, neither are the Ornaments of your Garlands enter laced by these: But by him are you lifted up, that is the God of G5 Justice, and the Discloser of his own secrets: and the be along drawer of things to an end. Therefore believe, and dream not with the world: For the world shall perish, and all her adherents: and shall be cast into the pit of wo everlasting. Read the Scriptures, and understand them: but wrast them not, with the wicked. Look into the simplicity, and nakednesse of God his Promise.: View the innocency of some that received them, And let not the wickednesse of those that the Lord made vertuous, go out of your remembrance. But so Triumpheth true power, so gathereth he himself together to discomfort the Serpent: Of the lightest be maketh the heaviest, and of the weakest the strongest: And in the weakest vessels, worketh he his mercy. And why? Behold, lest the world, in her proud imaginations, in the ornaments of her pearls, and most pretious wits, should brag, saying, I can compare with the Lord. Hear my voice, for it is of God. The world G6 bringeth forth no good thing, neither are the doings of man accepted; but where the spirit of humility dwelleth. Out of the depth of darknesse, hath God made light: And lo, the light is great, and the darknesse comprehendeth it not. So, in the weakest will he be exalted. The Spirit that speaketh unto you, is he that hath a Tower to build, a strong Tower and a mighty; G7 yea such a one, as hath not been from the beginning: No, not from the beginning. Great is the foundation thereof; for, it is of Iron; But greater are her walls; for they are of Diamond. Most great are her Turrets; for they are the seven Heads, that behold, judge, and gather: And they are made of Truth, the Spirit of Eternity. Unto the laying of every stone, are you made privy, G8 And for this Tower are you provided. 1. For lo, the first hath appeared, and shewed himself mightily. G9 . And the second hath redeemed, and overcome Satan. 3. And lo, the third appeareth, and shall visibly shew the power of God to all Nations. For Now cometh the Desolation of the World, And the fall of her pride. And this is the last G10 Rod that measureth, and shall be broken: For it is said, Now will I hear you from under the Altar, Now will I revenge the blood of your brethren. O you ignorant, and of weak faith: Know you not the times that are to come? O you that spit out the meat of comfort: yea when it is put lovingly into your mouths. Why are you sorrowful? Why rejoyce you not, that the God of Justice is girded, and hath whetted his sword, upon a thousand Mountains of fire? Why laugh you not the world to scorn? and deride her fornication? Weep not upon her; for she is accursed: Neither wonder at her; for she will be more wonderful. -notes- G1 Aliquid deest forte. G2 The Spirit of Pride. G1 You have received this Doctrine in Chambers, and in secret places: But it shall stand in the great City: and upon 7 Hills, and shall establish her self in truth: Purifie the walls, and sweep out the dust and Cobwebs (the works of the venomous) that it may be cast into the River, and brought into no remembrance. Yea, it shall sit in G2 Josaphat, in Judgement, against the wicked, and shall become a fire engendred in the cave of Thunders. Therefore, When you are commanded, lift up your heads, and G3 fear not: for whom, the Heavens shall fight. But in your selves be patient, and continue to the end: That your Crowns may exceed the Garlands of the Earth. Thus saith the Lord, Lo, I have promised thee, that my Angel shall G4 visit thee: And so it shall be. But if I now visit thee, Thus will the world say hereafter; Lo, he hath fained a Doctrine for himself. Lo he excelleth in subtilty. When I gave my laws, they were not secret; neither was the place unsanctified. When the Comforter cometh, girdeth himself against the son of G5 wickednesse; Then must you be known, and seen unto the Earth. G6 But I will give thee the choice: Chose therefore, whether thou wilt banket Now: because I have promised thee: Or tarry, till I see the time more convenient; For lo, if Rodolph, hearken unto my voice, He shall wonder, and rejoyce with thee: And I will exalt him, above the Kings of earth. Stay a while: 1 come again. [delta] . After he had stayed a while, and read over the premisses, and talked of the manner of the Choice or Election offered: and the dealing with Rudolph: we thought good to beseech God to regard his promise, for his glory and honour, and we most humbly to thank him that he would offer a choice to me a man of no worthinesse, nor wisdom: therefore most desirous to be entred speedily into the School of Wisdom, wherein we might grow, and attend the opportunities of any thing to be done or said by us; So that (if it were his will) we were, and are desirous now to be visited, as his most merciful promise importeth. G7 E.K. Now Uriel is here; he hath a Chair, and is set down in it: It is like a Throne. Here I see a green Hill: and I see thereon three men, like learned men, in Gowns of puke-colour: they have Hats on their heads. Uriel hath in his hand a thing like a rolling-pin (of half an ell long) of Gold. G8 I see beyond the men, a very fair Park, enclosed with pale, piked, and c. I see Roses and Lillies, and goodly Flowers in one part of it, and fair running waters in it, and little Hills, and all manner of Birds: And in the middle of the Park, is a turret, and in the top of that, a round thing like a Stone, which giveth light all the Park over: but without the Park pale, it is duskish or dark. These three men stand together upon the pitch of the bank of the Hill that goeth down toward Uriel. There appear three diverse fair wayes to the Park, two from the Hill where the men stand, and one from the place about Uriel. 1. I see one man walk in the Park, and he picket Flowers, and putting them to his mouth, they smoke, as the smoke of the snuff of a candel when the candle is put out. 2. I see likewise another man gathering of Flowers there, and he would put the Flowers to make them stick on his Coat, but they will not hang on but fall down, it is so bare. 3. I see a third man, who hath his Robes all belayed with lace of gold, great and small, and divers pretious Stones, and on his head a wreath like a Garland, very broad beset with very beautiful pretious Stones: and he trimmeth himself all over with

As concerning this Gate (lastly spoken of) whereinto I must enter, that it is a fire of fury, and of revenge: O Lord, I am afraid, if that phrase be of any displeasure to me: for I referred my Election to the will of God, as was for his honour and glory to be granted: And I have long made Petition to God for your help, and I desire nothing that should make the highest offended with me. When Sodom cried for vengeance, had I it not ready? Could not I from heaven have consumed them with the breath of my own mouth? I, in my self know G1 it, and am witnesse: But lo, in the pride of their filshinesse I had regard to time: And (that it might be known to all Nations) licensed my Angels, and gave them power: And lo, then made a promise G2 unto all Nations that they should be blessed in Abraham: even the same month that I destroyed the Sodomites. Then, Then, will you believe. Behold, He that is a man, being new born, is accounted a Monster. Is it not written? Lo, the Lord looked from heaven in his visitation, and in the midday, and groaned upon her, for she bad vexed him. Happy is be that is ready when he visiteth: That which I command, let it be done. For when the Kings of the earth, say, do this: They play not also the parts of their servants and subjects, but lo, it is done. Suffer me (I pray you) to have that favour. [delta] . After Dinner as we [E.K. and [delta] .] were in my Study, and conferring of my choice, and very sorry that we had made our choice not of the best: E.K. saw Uriel in the stone, which yet stood unput up: and said, he had seen him there ever since we began: So coming to the stone be said as followeth. Uriel. .... Murmur not amongst your selves: But rejoyce and be glad, and sound into the greatnesse of Gods mercies, which beareth all your weaknesse, and leadeth you through the foggy and perilous mists of your daily temptations even by the band: And now, not onely giveth, but also exhorteth. I speak with you as a man. Yea, let me speak with you as a man: You are oppress with sin, and G5 with the world, and are not yet apt for the visitation of God. [[delta] . Behold my brethren, God is ready to open his merciful store-houses and gates of understanding unto you: But be that liveth for himself, and for the end of this shadow, limiteth G4 his wisdom with this number: and shall both have an end at once: But he that turneth him to the wall, and weepeth bitterly, shall enter into this Book: But he must not build his own house, but an house for the Lord; Neither must be he visited by the challenge of promise, but by the G5 meer mercy and good will of God, and at his pleasure and

Kodolohus, first by letter, and then by speech: I thought good to send the Letter before written, for the Emperor; by the Noble Don wilbelmo de St. Clemente the King of Spain his Præsectus Negotiorum with this Emperour: and thereupon by Emericus Sunntag, the Lord Laskie his Secretary, I wrote this to the aforesaid Don Clemente, and sent it this Bartholomew Day. Ea est hominum in terris condito (Nobilissime vir) ut sibi soli nullus natus esse videatur : Immo neque sibi ullus omnia sponte nascentia, vel ultro ab aliis oblata, quæ sibi maxime sunt necessaria, recipiat. Mutuæ inde hominum emerferunt societates, mutuæ amicitiaë, mutuæ operæ, Mutua dona, Rerum communitio, and emptio, rerumque venditionis contractus : Aliique diversi hominum existunt status, unde hominum inter homines, and cum hominibus multiplicia procurantur officia, commerciaque. Neque omnium astorum, sola est utilitas vel ( quæ peribit ) voluptas, scopus ille, vel finis, quem attingere conantur and student : Sed aliud aliquibus, est propositum quod Divinius quidem est, quod virtutem vel Honestatem nominare possimus; quæ colitur demissa, hominum informet mentes and orner, sibique coaptet ; Adeo ut sedibus illas reddat celestibus dignas. Illud, illud, ergo est Illustrissime vir quod excellenciam vestram tam mihi pridie reddidit attentam, benignam and perhumanam; Illud est quod vestram refricabit memoriam, and vestrum insigniter acuet ingenium, in Causa mea, suæ Cæsareæ Majesti tam proponenda, quam commendanda : eoque tractanda modo, quo illa tractari Arcana debeant, quæ a paucis credantur, and a paucioribus intelligantur : versissima licet sint, and ex sese utilissima. Quio citius Cæsareæ sua Majestas, mirabilem hanc and maximam Dei, non Providentiam soluth sed bonitatem etiam amplexus fuerit, eo citius and abundantius, meæ od illum legationis constrabit sinceritas, bonitas and utilitas. Monday, Augusti 27. Manecirca 9. + Pragæ. Precibus finitis, I propounded to God, of Madimi four things. First, what was the cause of the error recorded, Febr. 18. this Anno 1584. at Laske of Sir Henry Sidney his death? Secondly, In what sense is this to be understood, which Madimi willed me to say to Rodulphus, An Angel of the Lord hath appeared unto me? Thirdly, Madimi said as concerning the time of my wife and children and household to be moved hither, Let that be my charge to answer thee? Fourthly, Madimi willed me to write to Rodulphus: And I have done, and caused it to be delivered to Don Wilbelmo de Sancto Clemente, the Spanish Embassadour, to deliver it to the Emperour. God prosper it. Amen. E.K. Here she is. [delta] . The eternal roots of verity bring forth fruit, to the comfort of such as delight in the pure verity for the service of God, and c. And you Madimi, as a Minister of the Highest in verity, are unto me welcome. G1 Mad. .... Even as mans fingers [or a thing,] touching, moving, or forcing an instrument musical, is the cause, without the which it cannot sound, or drink up the air; which again seeking issue, and feeling a stay, is the [objectum] cause of concord or dissonance, according to the inward spirit and imagination of the thing that moveth, or of the finger moving: So the earthly part of man, which hath no motion of it self, (radically) moveth by touch or finger (whatsoever) spiritual, and sendeth out sounds; not according to her self, but according to the fiery, yea invisible, and spiritual power, wherewithal it is moved. G2 Hereby we learn, that mans body, and his organical motions, hath three manner of movers; centralizer, by the property and perfection of the Soul, a superiore, and by descension, from the Angels or participants of understanding: E contrario, and ascending, spirits wicked, and tempters, all moving. G3 But here you must note, That as the Sun depriveth the Moon in respect of her end, which is to give light, but not of her self; So do the Angels and higher powers drown and overshadow the soul in man when they are present: working from God and in themselves, (as from above) and not by the soul as any root, or first cause of the motion. But when the Devil entreth, and ascendeth, he worketh not by force, but by enticement, and so allureth the soul, to grant of his possession: whereby he entreth and becometh strong. Those that have ears let them bear; for my words are wisdom, and the grounds of many Sciences. Mundus Humanum Carpus, and c. tanquam Cera. natural motions of things, natally extended, wax also: But our purpose is of man; which at one instant receiveth three impressions: Missive, Natural, and Offensive. Whereby you may perceive, That man greatly needeth to pray against temptation: For the last Seal, is sign of him that oweth the wax, Happy are those, that can watch and pray: for such they are that grant not any room or interest, to the wicked ascender. I answer you: If you be but as a string, Challenge but your own duty: But take heed, you be in tune. E.K. She speaketh, but I cannot expresse it. [delta] . I pray you let nothing of your words, that you utter to us, or before us, be unrecorded. Mad. .... You are not worthy to write it: for it is the harmony of the heavens. Stay a while; for I would open that unto you, which I perceive I may not: but I come again. [[delta] . We read over the premises, and weighed them as instructions of the three divers movers of mans senses internally, and c. And so after a quarter of an hour E.K. Here she is again. Mad. .... For be that purifieth his house, and straweth rushes, and beautifieth the chambers with Garlands, is worthy to receive (because of his aptness,) such as are messagers of understanding and light. My friends and brethren, marvellous is the God of Wisdom in all his doings and works, and full of variety are the works of his bands. E.K. Now she speaketh again; I understand it not. G4 .... and being the father of suttlety, and a froward understanding purposed, G1 even in this one sentence; yea, with this one lye, to overturn, or at least to blemish the worthinesse of our mossage, and of your receiving: because he saw the course of nature, and the doings of man, and that this man Mr. Simon Hagek, young Hagek, would first visit thee, therefore be thrust in a shingle of his own cutting and nature: Not to the intent it should G2 be credited, but to the intent it should be a stumbling block to the action in time to come, which is now. My brethren, be is a marvelous work-man: and one that firiketh now the most strings, in a manner, all. But he hath his reward: Therefore do I deny it to be spoken by me, or of me. [delta] . So by God his Grace, I did conceive, and undoubtedly think, and of many other things, G3 besides that, I have occasion of reforming the Records: that the heavens may agree, as the phrase was used. Mad. .... Many there are not: But such as are, gather them together, let me sift them. [delta] . I thank God for that his mercy. [delta] . Now I beseech you to the second my present request before propounded, it may please you to give answer. G4 Mad. .... When the King sendeth a Present to a Noble man, or unto any one that be favoureth, be loveth, or delighteth in: The Messenger carrieth it, delivereth it within his house. E.K. She seemeth to smile. .... He to whom it is sent enjoyeth it, he useth it; yea, peradventure (being a dainty dish) eateth of it. Afterward the King sendeth to him by the same messenger, saluteth his household, and commandeth him to say: This sayeth the King; Go to such a man and salute him: Tell him that I will visit him, and that I say so. Superiour. For lo, sayeth be: The King commanded me not; his messenger came, and would so. But whether the King will so, or no, I know not. [A Mystery.] But hearest thou: Thou wicked man, hast thou not eaten of his meat, and enjoyed the benefit of his present before? Yes, A threefold benefit, which shall continue until the G5 seventh Angel, and untill the third woe. Man begetteth a Son, and lo, his wife is with Childe, and she Locketh for the time of her deliverance: If the question he moved unto him, (his wife not yet delivered,) whether he have issue, or fruit of his body, say thou unto me, what shall be answer? [delta] . As it shall please God. Mad. .... That is no answer. [delta] . Then he may say, He is in hope to have the issue his wife goeth great withall, may this seem an answer, I beseech you? Mad. .... Though the Childe be not yet born, he hath issue. Deliverance, is, by reason of the issue, and not called issue of the deliverance: for he is a son as well unborn as born. G6 So is it of you: Thou hast prayed unto God, and he hath heard thee. And lo, the issue, which be giveth thee is Wisdom. But lo, the Mother of it is not yet delivered. [DEVS Mater rerum omnium, idem and Pater.] For, If woman know her times and seasons of deliverance: Much more doth be, which is the Mother of all things. But thou mayest rejoyce that there is a time of deliverance, and that thy gift is compared to a woman with childe. [Benedictus sit Deus noster, qui respicit gemitus Pauperium. E.K. Behold, the Angels of the Lord have been sent down from God, unto him [E.K.] here is sight, which is of this houshold in God: He hath brought unto thee that which he tasteth not himself: And yet thou doubttest, saying, How shall I say the Angel of the Lord hath appeared unto me? E.K. She goeth away, divided into a great many pieces of fire. Deo Nostro Omnipotenti, eterno and sapienti : sit omnis honor, Laus and Gloria. Amen. Note. At noon, this day I received Letters from the Lord Laskie, from my wife, and from my brother Nicolas Fromonds in England: how Mr. Gilbert, Mr. Sled, Mr. Andreas Firmerseem, my Book-seller, used me very ill in divers sorts. The Dates of the Letters from England were of the 15. and 16th. day of April 1584. My wife is in great sorrow for my brother Nicholas. At night after Sun set, Emerich Sontag brought me word from the Spanish Ambassadour, G1 that he had delivered to the Emperour this day my Letters and Book: and that he took them graciously and thankfully, and said that within three, or four dayes he would let the Spanish Ambassadour understand, when he would give me audience. They walked a good while to and fro, till at length I suspected that they were sent to us; and so prepared the shew-stone: But E.K. said, he had rather see them thus out of the stone. I said that in the stone we have warrant that no wicked thing shall enter: but without the stone, Illuders might deal with us, unlesse God prevented it, and c. E.K. said again, he had rather deal thus. G2 ..... His meaning is above thy sight. E.K. Now two of them seem to kneel down in the Sun beams. .... There was great disquietnesse in E.K. being come home from our Hosts house, where he had lyen all night upon a form: by reason he had been (which he never was the like afore, as he said) with wine overcome suddenly: yet intending with himself to take heed of being overshoe in drinking of wine: being requested by the Hostes to give her a quart of wine upon the good bargain he had in a (lock he bought of her for five Suckats: In this company of drinking was Alexander, the Lord Laskie his servant, who came with us to Prage. Unto whom E.K. (when the drink on the sudden had overcome him) said he would out off his head, and with his walking stasle did touch him fair, and softly on the neck, sitting before him: This Alexander being half drunken himself, by and by took these words in great snuff, and went to defend himself, and so took his weapon to him, and thereupon they by caused Alexander to go down: It was supper time; and I that night refrained to supper, and so tarrying at my Lodging, and looking out, saw Alexander sitting on the great stone against our Lodging: I called to him, and told him that they were at supper: And he came over to me, and he had wept much; he complained of E.K. his former words, and the touch of the staffe, how it was against his credit to take that in good part, and spoke many S Soldiers terms of stout words, not worthy the recording. I, thereupon went to our Hosts house, and would understand the very truth; and there I found E.K. fast on sleep on a form, most soundly: for which I was right sorry: And yet better pleased to perceive the words of E.K. which so moved Alexander (being half drunken) to have been spoken by E.K. when wine, and not wit, bare rule: and so pleaded long time with Alexander, that of words spoken so as they were, no such exact account was to be given to him, and c. This Monday morning E.K. coming home, and seeing Alexander, as he came in; he said, they tell I should have spoken words, which greatly offended thee yesternight, and that I touched thee with my staff, and c. I know nothing of it, and shoke hands friendly with Alexander. Well saith Alexander, Si fuisset alius, and c. E.K. came up to me: I told him how sorry I was for this mischance, and told him of the Watchmen perceiving Alexander his disquiet mind and hearing his words, they came to me and charged me to have a care of the peace keeping (as they did indeed) And farther said, that Alexander in his rage, said, that rather, or before, he should cut off his head, that he would out E.K. in pieces. So soon as I had expressed that word of this drunken Alexander likewise, (whom now I saw quiet, and E.K. also quiet) suddenly E.K. fell into such rage, that he would be revenged of him for so saying, and for railing on him in the street, as he did, and c. Mach a do I, Emericus, and his brother, had to stop or hold him from going to

Alexander with his weapon, and c. At length we let him go in his dublet and hose, without a cap or hat on his head: and into the street he hasted with his brothers Rapier drawn, and challenged Alexander to fight: But Alexander went from him, and said. Nolo Domine Kelleie, Nolo. Hereupon E.K. took up a stone, and threw after him, as after a dog, and so came into the G1 house again, in a most furious rage for that he might not fight with Alexander. The rage and fury was so great in words and gestures, as might plainly prove, that the wicked enemy sought either E.K. his own destroying of himself, or of me, or his brother, and c. This may suffice to notifie the mighty temptation and vehement working of the subtile spiritual G2 enemy Satan, wherewith God suffered E.K. to be tempted, and almost overcome: to my great grief, discomfort, and most great discredit: if it should (as the truth was) have come to the Emperors understanding, except he had known me well, and c. I was in great doubt, how God would take this offence, and devised with my self how I might, with honesty, be cleared from the shame and danger that might arise if these two should sight, and c. At the least it would crosse all good hope here with the Emperour, and c. for a time, till God redressed it. G3 After I had brought E.K to some quietnesse, (by yeilding much to his humour, and c. and saying little ) not long after, came my message from my wife at Cracovia: and Hugh my servant with him, to my great comfort through her letters, and the full satisfying of me by Hugh my servant his knowledge farther than conveniently could be written. G4 About 2 of the clock after Noon, came this letter to me, of the Emperor his sending for me. Nohilis, Præclarissimèque Domine, Domine observandissime. G5 CÆsar, jam jam significavit Domine Legate Hispaniarum, Hero meo, ut Dominationem vestram ad se evocaret, ad boram secundam; quaeam audire cuperet: Dominatio vestra si ad dictam boram venire pote it: accedet statim Dominum Octavium Spinolam, qui est Majeaati sue Cæareæ à Stabulis and C biculis. [Note the Original letter it self is in this Book.Octavius Spinola Chamberlain and Stall-Master in the absence of the Officer who is sent into: pain.] Hereupon, I went straight up to the Castle: and in the Ritter-Stove or Guard-Chamber I stayed a little; in the mean space I sent Emericus to see what was of the clock: and the Chamberlain, (Octavius Spinola) spied him out of the Emperours Chamber window, and called him, who came up to me, and by that time was the Chamberlain come out to me; and by Emericus he understood that I was the man the Emperour waited for. He came to me very G6 courteously: told me of the Emperors desire to see me, and to speak with me. So he returned to the Emperor into the privy Chamber, and came out again for me, and led me by the skirt of the Gown through the Dining-Chamber, and the Privy Chamber, where the Emperor sat at a Table, with a great Chest and Standish of Silver, before him, my Monas and Letters by him, and c. I came toward him with due reverence of three curses, who shewed me a gracious and cheerful countenance. Then I craved pardon at his Majesties hand, for my boldnesse to send his Majesty a Letter and the Monas Hieroglyphica (dedicated to his father.) But I did it of sincere and entire good will I bare to his father Miximilian, and also unto his Majesty: and that the rather, because I had good proof of the favour which Almighty God beareth unto his Majesty. He then thanked me for his fathers Book, and did affirm, that he believed me, that I was affectionate unto his Highnesse: And of my estimation with the learned of the world, he had -notes- G1 Satan his exceeding vehement temptation. heard by the Spanish Embassadour; and also of my zealous mind towards his grace. And commended the Book Monas, but said, that it was too hard for his Majesties capacity; and added, that the Spanish Embassadour told him, that I had somewhat to say unto him, Quod esset pro sua utrlitate. I answered, So I have, and withal looking back whether any man were in the Chamber or no, I sound that we were alone: Hereupon I began to declare that All my life time I had spent in learning: but for this forty years continually, in sundry manners, and in divers Countries, with great pain, care, and cost, I had from degree to degree, sought to come by the best knowledge that man might attain unto in the world: And I found (at length) that neither any man living, nor any Book I could yet meet withal, was able to teach me those truths I desired, and longed for: And therefore I concluded with my self, to make intercession and prayer to the giver of wisdom and all good things, to send me such wisdom, as I might know the natures of his creatures; and also enjoy means to use them to his honour and glory. And in this purpose made divers essays: and at length it pleased God to send me his [[delta] ] Light, whereby I am assured of his merciful hearing of my long, servant, constant, G1 and continual prayer, in the cause before specified: And that, His holy Angels, for these G2 two years and a half, have used to inform me: and have finished such works in my bands, to be seen, as no mans heart could have wished for so much; yea they have brought me a G3 Stone of that value, that no earthly Kingdom is of that worthinesse as to be compared to the vertue or dignity thereof, and c. And that these things be true, I protested, and took to witness the God of Heaven and Earth, by whose Commandment I am now before your Majesty, (said I) and have a message from him to say unto you; and that is this: G4 The Angel of the Lord hath appeared to me, and reboketh you for your sin. If you will hear me, and believe me, you shall Triumph: If you will not hear me, The Lord, the God that made Heaven and Earth, (under whom you breath, and have your spirit) putteth his foot against your breast, and will throw you headlong down from your seat. Moreover, the Lord hath made this Covenant with me (by oath) that he will do and perform. If you will forsake your wickednesse, and turn unto him, your Seat shall be the greatest that ever was: and the Devil shall become your prisoner: Which Devil, I did conjecture, to be the Great Turk, (said I) This my Commission, is from God: I seigne nothing, neither am I an Hypocrite, an Ambitious man, or doting, or dreaming in this Cause. If I speak otherwise then I have just cause, I forsake my salvation, said I. The Emperor said, he did believe me, and said, that he thought I loved him unfeignedly, and said, that I should not need so earnest protestations: and would not willingly have had me to kneel, so often as I did. G5 Farther I said, His Majesty was to see and understand nakedly, from the beginning, the whole course of this Angelical leading, instructing, and comforting of me: for so I was commanded, that I should from the beginning, nakedly open unto Rodolph, the manner of God his visitation, and shew unto him the holy Vision: Which my charge I am ready to do. The Emperor said, at another time, he would hear and understand more. I spoke yet somewhat more in the purposes before, to the intent they might get some root, or better stick in his minde. To be short, he thanked me, and said he would henceforward, take me to his recommendation and care, and some such words (of favour promised) he used, which I heard not well, he spoke so low. In the end perceiving that his will was to end for this time, I did my duty with cursie; and at the door going out, I turned back, and made cursie, and so came G6 into the next Chamber, where the Noble Octavius Spinola came to me again, and with curteous words, offered me great friendship. I took my leave of him, and so came through the Ritters Stove or Guard Chamber, and so down, and home. I had a large hour audience of his Majesty. meaning this Thursday) the honourable Doctor Curtz should understand the Emperours pleasure herein. Hereupon I willed Emericus to go up to the Castle, and to bring himself in sight of the Noble Spinola, if he could. Thereby to help his memory, for warning and information to be given to the said Doctor Curtz: That so we might come together, so soon, as conveniently might be. Deo, omnis laus, honor, and gloria. Amen. Thursday, Septembris 13. Manè, horam circiter 9. + Pragæ. [delta] . Precibus finitis, and the case propounded of the Emperor his Answer, for dealing with Doctor Curtz, a man of his Privy Council, faithful, learned, and wise: upon the considerations alledged, I requested of God, his pleasure to be signified unto me, by some of his faithful and true Messengers: whether I shall openly and frankly deal with this Doctor, so, as the Emperor, by him may understand that which he should have done at my mouth and hands originally: And whether I may, both alone with the Emperor, and before, and with the said Doctor, deal in this Action as occasion shall serve from time to time, at my discretion, informed by his secret grace divine. ----- [delta] . Nothing appearing, or being heard, in a quarter of an hour space,

I suspected some of our misdoings, to be the cause of the Lord his refraining to answer: and thereupon I did fall to prayer for mercy and grace, and deliverance from the assaults and malicious purposes of the Devil against us: And that I did the rather, because as I felt my good Angel (or other good friend) in vertue, so I felt Pilosum, sensibly, busie, and as it were to cerrifie me with my offences past, or to put me out of hope, at this present, from being heard. But I held on to pray divers Psalms, and at length against the wicked tempters purposely. After my prayers and assuring E.K. that the spiritual enemy was here busie, and attended to frustrate this dayes Action: He answered, that against him [E.K.] he could not prevail, or accuse him, for his late notable fault; for he had made a reckoning, and sorrowful bewailing for that his trespass, to the Lord, and that he doubted not of forgiveness; and that he was so reconciled to God, that Satan nor any other wicked accuser, could put him in any doubt of G1 God his mercy, and c. And he spoke very well both of repentance, Gods mercies, his justice, and of these Actions. Mary, he confessed that by reason, he himself was an unmet person to come before the Emperour, or Princes, and c. and therefore if it would please God to discharge him of further meddling, so, by reason he might seem well at ease, and c. At length, after an hour appeared Uriel; but with a Scarf before his face, as he had last. [delta] . God send us the brightnesse of his countenance when it shall please him. Uriel. .... True it is, that in respect of the terrour and force of God his wrath and indignation in [I] Judgement: Reconciliation is made: through that power which is given unto the Lamb, G2 to whom all power is given in Heaven and Earth: But with the [2] congregation, and the members of Christ his body, the number of the faithful, the Church of God, you have not made reconciliation, G3 And therefore, are not sinners worthy to behold the face of true light and understanding: for there is a double Reconciliation: One (and the first) between the Conscience and the Judge: through [1. 2.] the force of faith and repentance: that is to say, Reconciliation [Vide supra Septemb. 5. The eye was commanded to be reconciled to the Spirit of Truth.] against Judgement. Another, (the second) Reconciliation between the Spirit of Truth, (the Church of God) and mans Conscience. Behold I teach you a mystery. G4 1. Those that are at one with God, shall not be judged with the wicked in the last Judgement: Notwithstanding the Justice of God is pure, and undefiled: and suffereth not mans fault unpunished. 2. But he that is at one with the Spirit of God, is made one with him, and without punishment. G5 For there are many things that God beareth witness of, in the soul and secret Chambers of man, that neither the blessed, already dignified, nor to be dignified, do, or can know: which is the cause that the soul of man, (after his body sleepeth) being found polluted, is received, and snatched up, of such as are the Messengers of punishment: and so, according to the multitude of their sins, are in horreur, and punishment. Therefore not all, that are punished, shall be damned; Neither is it evident unto the Angels, who shall be saved: I speak generally. G6 Therefore when you offend, be also reconciled unto the Mother of the house: that you may have place before such as are reprov'd. [[delta] . G1 But, here, there is a Caution; All sins that are forgiven by the Church, passe not the fire: but he that is forgiven in his heart by God, in his Son Christ; and [2] reconciled through the holy Spirit, to the body from whence he is fallen, is safe, as well from the wrath of God to come, as the punishment due unto his offences. And therefore is the reconciling of brethren, of great force. Wherefore G2 hath Christ left his body with the Church? Wherefore is he called the bread of Life? I say unto you, my brethren, that the body of Christ dignified and glorified, is true bread; is true comfort, which cleanseth sinners that are penitent, and wipeth away the punishment of adversity. Happy are those, that eat of him, and that account not his body, as the shadow of a candle. G3 Behold, I teach you: Even as the Spirit of God filleth the Congregation of the faithful; so doth the body of Christ now dignified, fill and cleanse all that receive with sorrow: sorrow I mean for their wickednesse. But lo: his body is become an offence unto the world. Many there are that say, This is Christ: But behold I teach you. Even as all things were made by him, spiritually: So are all, that are of his Elect, nourished through him, bodily. Lo, he is become one power, one God; in that he is neither separated from his body, nor separateth his body from his Church. After a while I come again. E.K. Now he is gone away. [delta]. How long will you tempt the Lord with the spirit of foolishnesse and errour? Behold thou hast not judged well of me. Behold thou hast placed me in a low room, and hast taken the Garland from my head, and trod it under thy feet: For, what is Rodolph, that is not at leisure for the Lord, the God of righteousnesse, the King of Heaven and Earth? Are they troubled with things that are greater than I? True it is; for with me there is no trouble: for where I enter, I set all things in quiet. Will the Counsellours of the Earth, sit in judgement to sift the Lord? O ye fooles and starvelings of the Earth: O you of little understanding. Think you, that you are able to find light amongst the affairs of the World? true judgement in the imagination of man? or verity amongst the boards and corruption of covetousnesse and falsehood? G5 If he be not at leisure to bear me: Have not I told thee, that I have another in store? Lo, I see, all flesh is full of folly. [delta]. It is not yet done: and therefore we ask counsel of thee; and I thank thee (O Lord) for rebuking of us, before farther errour committed. G6 Uriel. .... Lo, I gave unto thee, the spirit of choice: and therefore I will regard thy doing, and will wink at thy weakness. I will blesse all that thou takest in band, and will cover thee with a Robe of Purple; that thou mayst understand that all is mine, and that I raise up whom I list. And I say unto thee again: Lo, Rodolph hath heard thee, And I will poure my Spirit of truth into thee, and thou shalt be a light unto him. If he despise my commandment, I will put the sword against him; and in his dwelling places shall his enemies banquet. (But those that deal with thee, let them sow up their mouth; lest being cut with a Razor, they speak not.) For those that neglect my Judgements I will despise them, and their seed shall wither, as corn sown out of season: But he that loveth me, I will multiply G8 him, And he that addeth unto me, I will adde unto him a thousand. Emericus did bring himself in sight of the Chamberlain, the Noble Octavius Spinola: as I willed him: And he called Emericus to him, and told him, that this day Doctor Curtz should understand the Emperor his pleasure, to confer with me, and c. Emericus about 10 of the clock before Noon being in the Ritters Stove (or Guard-Chamber) saw Doctor Curtz come out from the Emperour. Friday, Septemb. 14. Mane, circa 10. I sent Emericus to Doctor Curtz his house in parva parte: with my commendations; and to say that before, I understood of Doctor Hageck Mr. Doctor Curtz his desire to be acquainted with me: whereof I was very glad and desirous: and now I trust that the Emperor his majesty, by his Authority hath taken order with him whereby to begin our acquaintance, and (God willing) our perpetual friendship. The Doctor was at home, and to Emericus (saying the effect of my message before noted) the Doctor declared that Captaver at ante varias occasiones mecum controbinde micitie, and c. and that now he is very joyful of the occasion offered by the Emperours Majesty: and that this day sundry affairs did hinder the opportunity of our meeting, but to morrow at any hour (at my choice) he would be ready to welcome me to his house: and so with the usual phrase of offering all his services to my pleasure, he sent Emericus to me with his said Answer. I came to the foresaid (called Doctor) Cirtz: about one of the clock after Noon, who had all the day been ready to have heard me, if I would so have had it: but I sent him word in the morning by Emericus, that after Noon, (as now at this hour) I would come to him. Being come, he entertained me courteously: and two chairs being at the Tables end, he gave me the preeminence (by a friendly kind of earnestnesse) Then he told me, that long since in Germany, he had heard of my same, and had seen of my writings: and that he was very glad of the opportunity now of my coming to this City; and that otherwayes he was desirous of my acquaintance, but chiefly seeing the Emperour his Majesty Ore tenus (for that was his phrase) by word of his own mouth, had willed him to hear what I had to say to his Majesty. I began and declared my long course of study for 40 years, alwayes, by degrees going forward, and desirous of the best, and pure truths in all manner of studies, wherein I had passed, and that I had passed as many as were commonly known, and more than are commonly heard of. But that at length I perceived onely God (and by his good Angels) could satisfie my G2 desire: which was to understand the natures of all his creatures, and the best manner how to use them to his divine honor and glory, and the comfort of the elect, and also to the reproof and confusion of the adversaries of his name and honour. And herein I had dealed sundry wayes: And at length had found the mercies of God such as to send me the instruction of Mirhael, Gabriel, Kaphael, and Uriel, and divers other his good and faithful Messagers, such as I had here now brought books (about 18) to shew him the manner of their proceeding: And that I thought it good to begin at the last book, which also concerned most this present Emperour Rodolph. And so I did; and so by degrees from book to book lightly, I gave him a taste or sight of the most part, and also let him see the Stone brought me by Angelical ministry, and c. All things being seen and heard, that in six hours I could shew him: at length he required of me what conclusion, or sun mary report he should make to the Emperor. I answered, as he had occasion of the things seen and heard; but if he would follow my counsel (somewhat) G3 expert in these Divine and Angelical doings.) That his Majesty was to thank God for his great mercies and graces offered: and that by me one, who most sincerely and faithfully gave his Majesty to understand the will of God herein, and that his Majesty was to do, as Mary (the blessed Virgin) did, to lay up all these my informations in his heart, and to say Ecce -notes- G1 [delta]. servus Domini, fiat voluntas tua, and so to attend the manner of the Lord his proceeding, while he framed his life, as it became every Christian to do. He said, that he would write (for his own memories help) some short note of his observations of my speeches, and things seen and marked: and that he would to morrow (being Sunday) or on Monday, if he conveniently could, make a report to the Emperor, and so with all speed give me to understand further of the Emperor his Majesties will and pleasure. Hereupon courteously he brought me down to the street door of his house; and I came home after seven of the Clock, and an half, in the evening. The mercies of God be on me, and his name be magnified and extolled in this world, and for ever. Amen. Note. In the mean space while I was thus occupied with the foresaid Mr. Curtz. E.K. was visited at our Lodging with a wicked Tempter, who denied any Christ to be: and that as the G1 heart received comfort of all the Members of the body: So that he, who is God, of all things received comfort by Angels, and other the Members of the world: and that I was now with one, who would use me like a Serpent, with head and tayl compassing my confusion, and c. he earnestly reviled E.K. in divers manners: he said, that E.K. should be damned, and said: moreover, that of our practices should never come any fruitfull end, and c. Amen. PRAGÆ. On Monday and Tuesday the 17th. and 18th. of September, I sent Emericus up to the Castle, to listen after answer of that Doctor Curtz his report to the Emperour, of that he had G2 perceived by me. (But on Monday Octavius Spinola had sent into the Town for Emericus, and told him that the Emperor had care and desire to understand my doing with the Doctor: And therefore asked Emericus if I had been with the Doctor, and he affirmed that I had. Hereof (said he) the Emperour will be glad: And yet (as I began to note) Emericus coming G3 on Tuesday in the face of the Doctor in the Ritters stove; had not one word spoken to him, that either he had spoken to the Emperor, or he had not. And therefore I suspect that the Doctor dealt not honestly, faithfully, or wisely in this so weighty a case. And forasmuch as he told me, that the Emperor his Majesty was perswaded, that he was pious, and c. perhaps he would be loath; now, to prefer me to the speech of the Emperor, seeing both he himself, and the rest of his counsel stood perswaded to the contrary of this King. Hereupon this great delay, upon finister report made to the Emperour might follow, and c. Note. Fryday, Septemb. 21. Circa horam 10. Ferè,

Mane. + Pragæ. [delta] . As I and E.K. were together in my Study, earnestly discoursing of Auricular confession, publick confession, and confessing to God alone, and of the Authority of the Church, and the manner of the same Authority using to release, or retain fins, E.K. saw one walk on the Table between him and me: Thereupon I framed me to write, and note what should be shewed, or said, E.K. willed me to set down the shew-stone: So I did, and he looked. E.K. I see him here with the Scarf over his head and face, untill his waste, but I see his hair yellow behinde on his head, and c. I am Uriel the servant of the most wise, mighty, and everlasting God: which visit you for two causes. The first, that I may open unto you true, and perfect light: such as darknesse comprehendeth not, infallible, and true meat, the power and spirit of the everlasting God. The second, that I may counsel you against the world, and teach you to triumph against her frowardness. For, who hath trusted in the Lord, and hath been cast down? or what is he that hath G4 cried aloud, and is not heard? Therefore, I say unto you; Hear my voyce: For I am of truth, and put against darknesse, and in me are published the light, and mysteries of the Trinity from time to time, and in all ages unto those that fear, and obey God. Two things there are which are the seals and marks of Satan: which bring eternal death and damnation to all such as are noted, or burned with them, that is to say, lying, and froward silence. -notes- G1 He also said that in the former my Records that I had noted many a ly, and untruth. Behold the words of Christ, unto the subtile (your father is a lyar from the beginning, and the Devil.). Hearken unto my voyce: He that [1] teacheth false Doctrine, openeth [2] his mouth against truth, or defraudeth [3] his brother is lyar, and shall not he forgiven. 1. For first, he sinneth against his Creator, which created all things in truth. 2. Secondly, he offendeth against the truth, and his Redeemer, which is the son of God, very Christ. 3. Thirdly, he offendeth against the spirit of God, (of the Father, and the Son) the holy Ghest: which shall not be forgiven; And therefore doth he incurre the rigour of Gods justice, his eternall damnation. But, I say, give ear unto my words: For, I will sift the dust, and finde out the Pearle, that of a long time bath lyen trodden under the feet. I will come again. E.K. He is gone.

[delta]. We read over the premisses, and so expected the rest.
E.K. He is again here. Uriel. .... Now let us joyn these things together. All flesh offendeth, and in a lyar. Who, therefore shall he saved, or escape eternal damnation? G1 He it is (I say) that when he hath lyed, and spoken against the truth doth not forwardly drown'd, and keep down his fin in silence. G2 For, lying meriteth the vengeance of the Trinity. But he that is wilfully froward, sealet up his own Animnation: For this cause (my brethren) and to the intent that the mercies of God might alwayes be ready for sinners; hath he provided the light, and comfort of his spirit, left as a continual workman in the Church and spouse of Christ. I teach you briefly: that, he whosoever, opening his mouth against the spirit of truth; and with G3 wilfull frowardnesse continueth in his lying, without reconciliation to the Church sinneth against the holy Ghost, and shall he damned eternally. I come again. E.K. He is gone. E.K. He is here again.
Uriel. .... Be now therefore admonished (I say) he warned: And considering you he sinners, acknowledge your offences, least in the end your sin he against the holy Ghost, and so not to he forgiven. But herein they erre with you that expound the Scriptures, saying, that man sinneth, and cannot he forgiven, because he sinneth against the holy Ghost. I teach you, my brethren: that there is no sin against God, but it is against the holy Ghost: G4 If so be, in the end, it he shut up with wilfull silence. Whensoever, (therefore) you have offended acknowledge, I say, your sins, before God and his Angels: That [[delta] . Finalis in penitentia. Testes Angelici. Froward silence.] God may forgive you, and the Angels bear witness of your forgiveness, and shut not up your sins in froward silence. If thou commit adultery, if thou blaspheme the name of God, if thou be a lyar; yea, if thou speak against the truth: yea, if thou say there is no God (as the G5 foolish do) Despair not; saying, I have sinned against the holy Ghost, because I am a sinner, and a blasphemmer of the name of God, because I have spoken, and opened my mouth against the spirit of truth: But go into the Church, which is G6 governed by the spirit of God, and there with hearty, and open confession disclose, and make plain thy offences, that the bily Ghost may bear witness in the spouse, and Church [[delta]. Voluntary confession is contrary to froward when thou bast cried out and art sorry, endeavour thy self also to be listed up by the hands of God. Learn a similitude in Christ, which (signifying the power of his Church,) commanded the offender to go and wash himself: and so he was whole. I speak this, for thy [E.K.] instruction: I say also unto thee, [E.K.] Go and wash thy self: For thou art a lyar, thou art a drunkard: And therefore thou art a sinner. And if thou persevere, and shadow thy sins with wilfull silence from ardly, then sealest thou thy self with the second brand, and canst not be forgiven, because thou sinnest against the Ghost. G7 Ananias fell down at the feet of Peter, not onely for that he lyed: but because after his offence he was wilfully silent. Here thou mayest consider the greatnesse of God his mysteries, and secrets of his will and of favour, G8 that he stretcheth out unto thee in mercy, for thou art a Childe, and must ascend, and must become a man. O Lord, for me to be despised in doing thy commandment, is honour and comfort to me: But as concerning thy honour and glorie; Thou in thy wisdom knowest what is best to be G1 done. Uriel. ....

Handle him like a man, for he will deceive thee. E.K. For this cause (say I unto thee) write unto Rudolph, saying, I can make the Philosophers stone: Because I would place thee with them, according to their hope and imagination: That whilst they think little of me, and of the sweetnesse of my message and testimony, I might burst out amongst them; as the mighty waters do out of Hills, when the earth moveth: For I have said unto thee, I will place thee here; If I sow thee here, what Raven can pluck thee up by the roots. No, I will hide thee, as the Hen doth her Chickens: And I will make thee spring to their destruction. For why, thou shalt overcome that mystery for thy own sake. [delta]. For the glorie of God: his honour and triumph, all good come unto me. Uriel. .... Behold, since they will not tye thee unto them from heaven: Thou shalt tye them unto thee from earth: That thou mayest rejoyce when thou seest their destruction, and be ready cloathed G3 for him that is to come. [It is a saying of Madtmi, Junil 26. 1584. Cracovia. Behold, there shall be no seed left in him for his wickednesse. Tea, the blessings that I have offered him shall return again; and I will leave his house naked. But when he seeth and hath Gold (which is the thing be desireth, and those that counsel him, do most desire him, for) Then shall he perish with a most cruel, terrible, and unheard of mischief. G4 But lo, I have written his name within my hand, because I would not forget to punish him. Behold, I could send the windes to devour him, and could open the Caves of the earth to swallow him; which would turn to my honour: But I have a care over you. [God in mercy, wisdom, terror, miracles. Vox Domini ut hominnis jutura nobis andibitlis.] Not I am unto you in mercy and wisdom. But I will be with you in terror and miracles. And behold Belzagal (which is the fury and Prince of the Turks) doth assist him in his wickednesse, for he knoweth it may come to passe that G5 his Kingdom shall be short. But give ear unto me. Fawn thou upon Cæsar as a worldling, that thou mayest draw him with the world, to see the glory of God: but to his destruction. For lo, how much more a mans felicity is in this world, the more shall he the burden of his destruction. There be that gape after thy books and speakvainly of things that are not. Therefore I counsel that they dwell not long with Poland. Behold, when Lasky cameth, he shall not hastily return into Poland: till I whisper in his ears, G6 He is dead that sought thy life. Notwithstanding I said some prayers to God on my knees, and came and said here. Mitte lucem tuam and veritetem tuam O Deus: ut ipsæ nos ducant ad montem Sion, and c. It is to be remembred that for two causes we repaired to the Shew-stone: the one by reason of the letter which I had written to the Emperour: and was minded to go to shew it to the Spanish Embassadour before I sent it to the Emperour, to have his opinion of it, and also to bear it. Secondly, by reason of foul slanderous words which were spoken of me here at this Embassadours Table: That I was a Conjurer, and a bankrupt alchemist, and came here to get some what of the Emperour: and that I had sold my goods, and given to the Lord Laskie the mony, and that he had deceived me. To these untruths the Embassadour did reply in my behalf: for which I meant to thank him, and c. Uriel. .... Even as the accursed, and cast down, most wilfully abborreth, hateth, and dishonoureth, the God of Justice, because of his mightiness and power over him: So do all those that suck and bang upon his dugs, that are covetous and desirous of worldly promotion: that gape and thirst after the glory of this world, abhor, bate, and continually vex and dishonour, such as love Justice, or dwell under the wings of the God of power and Triumph. Herein may you rejoyce, that you are partakers and innocents (railed at, and despised with the world) in the fellowship of God, and of his Son Christ. Herein may you be glad, that you are sealed, and dwell with the Fathers, and that you play G2 also upon the Harpe of David: for verily as they are, so shall you be: and as they are made righteous by reason of their election, and crowned toward eternal Joy; So shall your Election establish your righteousnesse, and give you Garlands of eternal comfort. Those that are on the Seas, are fearful of the windes: And why? because of the motion of the place, and of the power of nature: But it is not so, with you: for you dwell in Castles made of marble, wrought out of the middest of a G3 sure rock, a most stable foundation. For why? I am sure that God dwelleth in you, and you in him. Therefore lift up your beads, and rejoyce when you are afflicted, and keep the image of God sincere and perfect in you, that you may alwayes be G4 merciful in the Image of his Son Christ. But when the Lord openeth his mouth, and calleth you together, saying, G5 Venite and audite: Then lay away all mercy; for the God of G6 Justice dwelleth amongst you. Who dwelleth in a house till it be perfectly finished? or what is he that putteth on a garment before it be made? Be you assured, that when the G7 house is finished, and your G8 garments made, you shall both enter, and be clothed with comfort: Comfort of G9 wisdom and power. I am mindful of you, and will be mindful of my G10 promise toward you. And If you remain and dwell [fortè [together] deest] and be constant in me, you shall passe the G11 Thunders that are to come; you shall be witnesses of my power: and shall enter into the G12 Land of Promise with those that shall be comforted: where these dayes shall have an end. O my brethren, this world exceedeth in wickednesse, and is a terrour to the good Angels: Because of the souls that she devoureth. But when lightnesse is rewarded, and Justice sitteth in place, Then shall she bear no weight, but be made all one with the bottomlesse pit. Despise her, despise her; for she is an Harlot. [A Spiritn Dei sumus decti ut Domino Magnisice Domino Gulielme de Sancto Clemente, Hissaniarum Regis legato bac aperiremus cui mercedem dabit Deus.] Behold I have entred in amongst you; and it is my Spirit that leadeth to the Embassadour from Spain. G1 After a certain time cometh Michael unto you, and shall shew unto you his bloody Sword; and you shall stand under his Banner. He shall hold up his hand; 2 and shall fight against the

Hills for you: and your enemies shall not be. Unto which time, receive you Light and Comfort: and be contented with adversity in the Lord. My brethren, it is better to be poor, with those that are G2 poor in spirit: then to be rich with those that are gluttons, and with the Princes of the Earth Thou shalt be with Cæsar, in despite of the Devil. I have said. [delta]. Gloria patri and filio and Spiritui Sancto: Sicut erat in Principio and nunc and semper, and in secula seculorum. Amen. Note: As I had finished this Action, and was come to my Study door; Emericus was returned again from the Spanish Embassadour, to whom I had sent him desirous to know his leasure for me: who had now sent me word by Emericus to come to diner, and so he would have leasure, and c. Whereof I was right glad; and went thither to diner: who into his innermost Study (where he himself was writing of letters) caused me to be brought. And after I had complained of injury and violence done unto me, by foul slanders, and that, at his Honours Table: (to which his Honour, in my behalf had replied: and therefore most humbly, and sincerely I did thank him) I said that the Emperors Majesty himself could bear me witnesse, that I used this phrase unto him, that I came not for his riches as, Non veni ad vos O Serenissime Cæsar propter divitias vestras, ut inde ego dives fierem, sed and #224; Deo missus, non audeo aliter facere quam ejus ad vestram Cæsaream Majestatem voluntatem declarare, and c. And therefore, How falsely they slandered me, it was evident: and because I perceive that Doctor Curtz hath not dealt neither with due entertainment of me as of a stranger, or a Student, or a Mathematician, or of one whom (to my face) he gave great praise unto, as of one long since of great fame in Germany, and so in his good estimation, and c. And least of all, as of one, who offered so great, curtesies to the Emperors Majesty as he was made witnesse of: I thought good to send unto the Emperours Majesty this letter following, and so read it unto him after diner, when I shewed him Librum Pragensem sive C sareum; and moreover Librum decimum? (whose former title was Libri Sexti Mystici Tertiarius) and there shewed him divers Actions in Latine already translated, because now to translate so to him of the English, did seem to me both tedious, and to him not so readily pleasant. All things on his part considered, his summary final conclusion was, as well of the last offer in this my letter, as of the great actions and divine purposes. For the first he declared that he was lineally descended out of the consanguinity, of one a Gentleman, but unlettered at the first, who left his wife, children, and family in G3 Majorca, and ascended an Hill there, and in place solitary remained an whole year, and at the years end, be came down, but so learned and wise, that all who knew him before, wondred at it. And that the same man was called Raymondo Lallio: and that he made that which is called the Philosophers Stone, as in England (said he) I understand is good record of it: Therefore I see, quoth he, that it is a truth and possible: and as he hath granted the knowledge of it to one man, so he may grant it to another, and c. And as for the other higher matters, I perceive that God intendeth some great matter in this world. But I am not able to judge or determine of it: But I am of this mind, wherein I can any way further the service of God, I will be ready and obedient, and c. And as for the Emperors person himself, I find him of a good nature, courteous, and most zealously Catholic: yea ready to shed his blood in the cause, if opportunity required. He understandeth the Latine well, and speaketh sufficiently well: That is true (quoth I) for he spoke well in Latine to me divers things. Moreover (said he) as concerning you, I saw him very well affectionate, making great account of your book, and c. Therefore you are not to regard these Dutch mens ill tongues, who hardly can brook any stranger, and c. Upon farther matter that I had to shew him, I offered my ready repair unto him at all times of his good leasure being called or warned. And he desirous to see the Stone brought to me by an Angel, willed me to come to morrow also, to Diner: I promised him, and so with thanks yielded to his honour, I departed toward my Lodging at Bethelam in old Prage. -notes- G1 Prapbesia de MICHAELE. Pragæ Note: I went to Diner to the Spanish Embassadour: and carryed with me the Stone brought me by an Angel; and the fourth Book, wherein the manner of the bringing of it is expressed. And also I carried with me Librum Sextum Sanctum Mysticum. After Diner, when I had shewed him these things: his final answer was, that verily he took the doing to be by good Angel: marry, the matters to be too great: Therefore (said I) they are for the service of God, and not onely man. He said he was a sinner, and not worthy to be privy, much lesse to be a doer in them: Notwithstanding whatsoever he can do [A Copy of the letters desired.] therein acceptable to God, he would be most obedient thereto. He desired a Copy of the Emperour his foresaid letters, that he might consider circumspectly of the Contents before he should deliver them; whereunto I consented. Rendering his honour thanks I departed.

After my return home, I found E. K. resolved to go from hence to morrow, for his wife, [E.K. Ready to go into England as he pretended.] and so straightway into England: which was to me a grief: But what can I do, but refer all to the mercies of God, whom I have called upon for wisdom to serve him withal? I have put my trust in the Lord, I have not murmured at any such pangs and tentations hitherto. The mercies of the Highest be upon me, as I have put my trust in him. Amen. G1 Now were we (all) brought to great penury: not able without the Lord Laskies, or some heavenly help, to sustain our state any longer. Besides this, I understood of the Queens displeasure for my departure, and of the Bishop of London his intent to have begun to have accused me of Conjuraton, and so to have had the secret assistance of you know whom. Tu es Deus fortitudo mea, refugium meum Susceptor meus, and liberator meus. Amen. Wednesday, Septembris 26. Ante Meridiem. Pragæ. G2 About 10 and a half of the clock, Dr. Curtz sent with Mr. Simon Hageck his servant to know my lodging: He had passed not far off in a lane on horseback his self going into the Town, and so met Mr. Simon Hageck at the lanes end, and c. Thursday, Septembris 27. + Pragæ. Mank: About 7. of the clock came Dr. Curtz his servant from his Master to tell me, [D. Cutrz.] that his Master would come unto me at 9 of the clock. At 9 of the clock came Dr. Curtz on horseback to me, to my lodging (at Doctor Hageck his house by Bethleem) my wife he saluted, and little Katharine, my daughter. Mr. Kelly had gotten him into his chamber, not willing to be seen. After he was come up into my little Study, and there set, in Mr. Kelly his usual place, and I in mine; I began to complain of the great injury done unto me here; for I came as a sincere and faithful servitor of the Emperor his Majesty, intending all goodnesse and honour unto him: no hindrance, loss or hurt; neither came I propter divitias Casaris mihi colligendas, as I said expressly unto his Majesty. I was, before I came hither, of good name and fame, both in this Court, and all Europe over, As you your self Mr. Doctor (quoth I) can hear me witnesse: and other in this Court divers: And that here my name and same should suffer shipwrack, where I thought I had been in, a sure Haven of my principal Patrone: My thinketh that great injury is done unto me: I know no means how to help it, but to give you warning of the envious malitious backbiters that also are about this Court, that as you find occasion, you might encounter with this evil, and foul monster, in so mighty a Princes Cause intruding it self. The Doctor seemed not to know what I meant. I told him, that at a Noble-mans Table, There was, of great account, who said, that there was an English man, come to the Emperours, A bankrupt Alchemist, a Conjuror, and Necromantist: who had sold his own good, and given the Lord Laskie the money: and that he had beguiled him: and that now he would fain get some of the Emperor his money from him, and c. The Doctor seemed greatly to mislike these slanderous words, and said, that he never heard of any such; with some few words more, of the wicked manner of backbiters. After this, as concerning the report making to the Emperor, of that I had shewed unto him, at his house, (as before is noted) he said that he had made a plain and sincere report. Whereunto the Emperors Majesty, had (as yet) given no answer. And to be plain with you (said he) his Majesty thinketh them almost either incredible, or impossible: and would have some leisure to confider of them: and is desirous to have the sight of those Latine Actions you shewed me, or a Copy of them, and especially, of that, which containeth a paraphrasis of the Apostolical Creed. I answered, that my Books I would not deliver out of my hands: And as for a Copy of them, I would (at leasure) write it, that his Majesty might have it. And then I told him farther, that because it was so long before I heard any word of him, I had letters ready to send to the Emperors Majesty, to have farther declared my mind unto him, and I declared unto him the tenor of them: and he told me that about three of the clock after noon, his man should go to the Court, and if then I would send them, his man -notes- G1 Poverty G2 D. Cutrz.

should carry them. I answered that I would expect a day or two for the Emperors return hither. After this we talked of some Mathematical matters: And I shewed him the little Book de supersicierum divisionibus, set forth by me and Commandinus, printed at Pezaro in Italy. He said that he never saw it before: I bad him then take it with him to peruse: and that if I had another Copy, I would give it him; but I had none other but that. I shewed him also the Propædeamata Aphoristica de præstantioribus quibusdam Nature virtutibus, which he had never seen before. After this, with mutual curtesies offered on both parts (after the manner of the world) he took his horse, and returned homeward. Friday, Septembris, 28. Pragæ Intending to send the Emperors letter (here before written) to his Majesty, by my good friend, the Spanish Ambassador, I wrote this letter to send to the Ambassador in that behalf, and as concerning the credit of these Actions. Illustrissimo Domino, Domino Don Gulielmo de Sancto Clemente, serenissimi atque Catholici Hispaniarum Regis apud Sacram Cæsaream Majestatem, and c. Legato, Domino suo observandissimo.  God his promise) the state of my wife her grievous disease, and means to cure her, wherein if it please the Lord to be mercifull unto her and me, it shall be the occasion whereby she will all her rash, and understanding naked: and in whose lips dwelleth no truth. Who (I say) are you, that you should deserve the majestral benefit of so great and sanctified grace? as to understand the determination of God, the power of his Angels, or the brightnesse, or obscurity of mans Soul, and understanding: You desperate sinners, and partakers with the wicked, how can you seek bread at your fathers hands: when you seek to steal into his barnes? Yea, into his house, and dining Tables: and G1 more then that; yea; even into his privy Chambers: not to spoyle him of his household stuffe, of his Gold, or precious stones, but of the diadems, and Crown of his everlasting Majesty and honour: you are thieves and robbers; and through the Dignity of your spirit you shall think to exalt your selves, and to live in Majesty with the world. True it is, you may live so: But you live with an Harlot, and shall possess the reward of Fornicators and Adulterers. Therefore seek not to feed of such food, as the holy, and blessed messengers, and Ministers of the G2 God of Hefts and glory do taste of: and are comforted; for they are the spirits of truth and understanding: such as cleave unto their God, and fight against the abominations, and horrible blasphemies G3 of the world and her adherents: which (because you set your selves against them) shall keep, and close up the brightest, and obscurity of each Soul from you, that your ignorance may be greater; and your darknesse thicker, and that you may return without light: to the Barathrum of ignorance, G4 where pride, self-love, and the Children of vanity have their habitation. Then (peradventure) will you say within your selves: There be other doors, there be other woods; yea, there be other wayes, let us therefore seek out them. G5 But behold, I will shut up from you all Elemental Vigor: So that the Fountains of coagulation shall be dried when you seek them, and the natural nourishment and food of parts that dwell in one proportion shall hide themselves, and be asleep when you seek them; yea, in the lowest I will place a threefold door-bar, stronger then a Rock of yearn, which shall stand between your eyes and knowledge, and you shall not see: for peradventure you may say in your selves. G6 Behold, there is a science known; yea, there is a conjunction of [delta] equal qualities, opening unto us the mysteries of comfort in infirmities, that is not so. O you foolish: for neither here, nor there, shall you finde the Lord if you follow the steps, and defiled wayes that the world teacheth you. [Nos mundi Inimid esse debevnis, and mundus nos odie prosequitur propter Deurn.] For I said of you: Lo, I will place you against the world, that my name may be magnified, and the world shall hate you for my sake. [delta]. O Lord, be mercifull unto us: Deal, O Lord, with us, as I have put my trust in thee: Turn away thy wrath (O God) and visit us in mercy: O God, O Lord, what grievous sayings are these? Gabriel..... Trouble [[delta]] thou not thy heart, but hear the voyce of me, Gabriel, the man of God. I am the true medecine of such as put their trust in the God of Hosts, and in his son Christ; which G7 is the Lamb of life, and the comfort of his father, which give unto those that thirst, the true medicine of comfort and consolation; neither shall God forsake thee, neither shall thy Soul be deceived. [Nota causam acerbe increpationis istins.] But it behoveth these things to be spoken, that sin might be corrected, and the name of him that sent us, magnified. [Here placing.] [delta]. In nomine Dei loquitur, qui per omnes Angelos loquitur: licet enim Uriel dixerit vel alius, tamen Deus semper G8 loquitur. Gabriel. Hear my voice: as I said unto thee, so will I place thee here. And from hence thou shalt have science and understanding, and thou shalt be favourable in the eyes of him, that I favour not: that my glorie might be exalted in him, and against his childishness. Yet, I will be mercifull to him; yet if he bear me. E. L. [A voyce from an uncertain place. There were some wicked tempers vexing E. K. from hearing quietly.] ..... Unto thee [E.K.] I say, (O thou that art a worldling) I will stir up friends amongst you, and I will fill thy hands with that thou desirest: But that thou receives in the one, I will pluck back in the other, that when thou wouldest be wise, thou shalt not, [E.K.] and when thou wouldest see, thou shalt not. G1 Insani sunt omnes, and fatui: For, Physick is in very deed, the true, and perfect science of the natural combination, and proportion of known parts, answering in graduation real, to one principal and defined; is therefore above the capacity of such as are worldlings, and do hunt after money more then the truth of Gods spirit. The second (that is to say Elemental) is the knowledge of the star [1] coagulating; of the [2] fabula of the parts nourished, of the [3] conjunction of like qualities. (Here is the true Art of Physick.) This second is threefold. After a while I come again. [delta]. He is come again, and proceeded. Gab. .... Go to. [delta]. In the name of Jesus. Gab. .... Then you are diseased, you are sick: you must have a Physitian: why then, your Physitian must be such as bath this Science, to judge your disease, G3 Whether (for sin) it come from God: and so by prayer to be cured: G4 Or from the Angels, as the Ministers of Gods Justice (generally) for desert or for reproof: Or from the soul of man, as from the chief life of the body, whose infection radically, and by the influence, of proportions immediate, (bidden from man, but known unto us,) is called (with us) G5 Mazah: with you, Impietas. [[delta]. He was away a quarter of an hour.] Gab. .... Lo, these are seeds and foundations: and here I have (according to my property) touched the least of my strings for you. G10 If now you intend to excel the Physitians of the Earth, and to help those that are diseased, sincerely, truly, and through the power and mercy of God; G11 Then must you attend upon me, and my expositions, for forty dayes, wherein I will open into you, many and unknown secrets; and will comfort you with this one herb or branch of my Garden, to the intent you may perceive I am true Gabriel. G12 But as in you that are hearers, due obedience ought to be, so must I keep the Authority and gravity of a Schoolmaster, suffering none to hear my Doctrine, but such as are abstinent and cleansed from their sins. Consider therefore, what the mercies of God are, the fruit and value of this Doctrine, and the. -notes- G1 Definitio Medicine, Medicina est vera and perfecta scientia naturalis combinationis, and proportionis partium notarum debite modo respondentium in graduationem reali ad maxim principale, and definitum esse. But as touching thy wife, her disease is in the first Elemental, and very dangerous, and threatneth her child, yea and her self death. [delta]. When thy wife was a milkie substance, growing by the perfection of the place, and influence radical, (which onely, is the gift of the Sun) then, was not the Matrix, or bag of Nature (wherein she encreased) perfect, or of sufficient retention: By reason of a feaver going G3 before the conception: So that, the Angelical administration, generally containing, the vessel of life, for the proportion of the world, G4 entred by force of their Order immediately, before the [delta] inward parts, were established in their nutriment and proportion. Which is the cause, that the second G5 vessel, and lowest of nature (for, your terms I must use) is so thin, and tyed short, that it is not able to keep in, or retain, the simile and quidditie of her own G6 substantial being and seed. Wherefore, when the rest of her digestion (according to her age and natural strength) fulfil their offices, by degree to be received into that receptacle; then, doth the force of nature quail: and by the subtilty of the principle, or matter ejected, (which seeketh to take up on every center a dwelling place,) the guts and passages, are offended and scalded with an intemperate beat: the most subtile and sharpest part, being of a most penetrating vertue: (and therefore seeking G7 passage) mixeth her self with the excrements, where resting, she turneth unto her first form, which is blood: Whose Quintessence worketh, in her own property and beginning, and forceth the [1] excrement stercoral many times to become bloody, the other part being more heavy, notwithstanding unapt to descend, (Quia natura quærit omne snum) becometh corrupted; and so by vertue of G8 nature, is cast out as an [2] excrement, being blood and matter. But I tell thee, that so long as Nature was in the lowest degree, and the sperm kept more near together, by reason of the spiritual heat in youth, it was not faulty in her: G9 But in her sixteenth year, when they were more heavy and sought issue and descension, then begun Nature to feel the effect, in the places, and vessel, which is the ground of her retention, the chief basis and mother of her dwelling. Behold now, being fætive, and the force of heat drawn to the nutriment of the Creature; Moreover G10 the other part Active compelled into a nearer place, by the impediment of imagination, bringeth great danger now, by reason that Nature is become very weak, and not able to make excremental expulsion. -notes- G1 Respensum votum. Fryday, Octobris 5. At afternoon came one of Doctour Curtz his servants from his Master to tell me, that his Master would come to me tomorrow in the morning about seven, eight, or nine of the Clock, as I would and c. Sunday, Octobris 6. Mane Before seven of the clock I thought good rather my self to go to Doctor Curtz, then to suffer him to come to me so far, and that for divers causes: So I went to him, and came before he was ready. At his being ready he came forth, but nothing with so cheerful a countenance to welcome me as he did at the first: I conjectured that he suspected that I would take his words in evil part, which he had to say to me from the Emperour, which (after I had somewhat spoken of the book that I lent him, and some other, that had written somewhat of such matter of division of superficies, and he had told me that this my book was the most excellent in that Argument, and so made a pause, he began in this sort in two parts to divide his speech, and said that Cæsarea sua Majestas quantum ad sua peccata (per me reprehensa) solet Confessionarium adhibere tempore and loco opportunis, neque diffidere illum de Misericordia divina ; Quantum autem ad me attinchat , paratam esse suam Cæsaream Majestatem mihi gratificari and benefacere in quacumque re quæ illius subjiceret Authoritati : Thereupon answered, and said : Doleo verba mea in alio sensu intellecta vel concepta suissa a sua Cæsarca Majestate quam intelligi vel concipi debebant. Non enim me ejus fieri Confessionarium cupiebam , sed peccata ejus ex cælo reprehensa suisse, hoc illi significare jubebar , ut feci : unde ille consolationis plus haurire poterat , quam ex confilio alicujus sui amici vel Confessionarii sui, peccata ejus redarguentis, Dominis enim Dei eximium declarabat favorem, and c. Quantum vero ad illam quam mihi offerabat sua Majestas Cæsarea gratiam , humillime acceptabam. Nunc vero quod desiderem titulo Philosophi and Mathematici Cæsarei insigniri causa est multiplex; tum respectu secreti mei servitii erga Cæsarem , sub eo prætextus cælandi quam majoris authoritatis and fuvoris apud Cæsarianos and Anglos meos, ne vel illis hic nugas agere videar, and nullius esse estimationes, vel itis etiam viderer aptus , contra quem suam invidiam and maledicentissimam, ut inceperet, exercerent linguam impune, and c. Orabam igitur U. Curtzium at Cæsaream suam Majestatem admoneret de indebitas interpretatione illorum verborum quibus vitias ejus redarguebantur, and c.. Then he spoke of the second Letters to the Emperor, the effect whereof he had heard at my hands, and had sent on Michaelmas even to the Emperors Majesty, a note and advise of them, as he now said. And did wish that they had been delivered before the Emperor had resolved on the former answer: Those Letters (said I) are in the Ambassadors of Spain's hands; and if he will not deliver them to day, I will fetch them for you: If you do (said he) I will deliver them straight way, for at eighth of the Clock you shall have me in the Ritter stove, or hear of me there, Then (said I) I will straight way go to the Ambassadour. I went unto the Ambassador of Spain, and reported all that had passed between me and D. Curtz. He said, that by reason of his divers affairs he had not good opportunity, never since the receipt of my Letters to go to the Emperors Majesty: But that this day he determined to deliver my Letters with his own hand unto his Majesty: so with thanks given to his honour I departed: I went to the Ritter stove (or Chamber of presence) where I found none of the Guard, but very many sitting without. In the stove were three, or four, of which one went straight way into the privy Chamber, and by and by D.

Curtz came out from the Emperor unto me, I asked him if he had told the Emperor of my grief conceived of his misunderstanding my words: he said, I, and that the Emperor took it not in evil part, and so of divers other things we had talk walking up and down together about a quarter of an hour: Among other things I told him that the Lord Ambassador would deliver my Letters himself to the Emperors Majesty, so I departed, and he returned back to the Emperor into the privy Chamber. Sunday, Octobris 7. Mane bora 7. I sent to the Lord Ambassador his house, and there I learned that the Ambassador had yesterday delivered my Letter to his Majesty: And that answer was to be expected by D. Curtz. After Dinner I went to Doctor Curtz home to his lodging, and he had nothing as yet to say of the Letter delivered by the Lord Ambassador: But we fell to other talk, and I told him plainly, that I had not hitherto lived obscurely, neither without care of my good fame and name, maintaining, and increasing; therefore it here for my sincere dealing I should seem to be despised, or not regarded, or to be but a trifler, my thought I should have great injury: And sure I was that the Emperors Majesty was much ruled by him, and as he did frame his judgement, so did his Majesty very oft resolve in such matters as mine; wherefore if I were not used in my causes as was reasonable, and for the Emperors honour it should not be laid to any other mans charge but to his, and c. He promised that he would deliver all in the best words he could, in friendly sort, and c. After this he shewed divers his labors and inventions, Mathematical, and chiefly Arithmetical Tables, both for the mending of Nomine his invention of the Quadrant dividing in 90. 91. 92. 93. and c. I then opened to him my secret of my glasse, for battering in a dark night, and c. He said that conclusion would be very acceptable to his Majesty, I told him that the glasse was at Cracovia, and his Majesty should see it by Gods leave. After this I told him that I would full fain have a Passport, or safe conduct to passe quietly and safely in any of the Emperors Dominions. He thought his Majesty would willingly grant that, and willed me to write three, or four lines as I would have it, and he informed me thus: Cæsaream suam Majestatem humillime orat Joannes Dee Anglus, serenissime suæ Majestatis Devotissimus servitor, ut pro sua majora in Intineribus per amplissimum suæ Cæsareæ Majestatis Imperium consicientis securitate, literas salvi passus sibi concedere dignaretur. Joannes Dee. At my coming home, I bethought me that I would gladly, the said Passport, safe Conduct, or Letters of passage, more ample and beneficial; as for my wife, children, family, servants, and goods whatsoever, and for one whole year to dare from the date of these presents thus. Wednesday, On Monday morning 8. Octobris. Sacram suam Cæsaream Majestatem humillime orat, serenissime suæ Majestatis Devotissimus servitor Joannes Dee Anglus, ut eidem Joanni pro seipso, uxore sua, liberis suis, familia sua, servitoribus, Ancillis suis and suppellectuli suæ quacunque sua sacra Cæsarea Majestas favorabiles and gratos suas literas salvi quieti and liberi transitus per omnes and quascunque amplissimi Majestatis suæ Cæsareæ Imperii partes viasque, and pro integri anni (proime post datam præsentium sequentis) tempore quocumque, clementer concedere dignaretur. Anno 1584. Oct. 8. Joannes Dee. Monday, Octobris 8. I went to Mr. Doctor Curtz, with these last Letters fair written, and I found him to be at the Hoff rate Camer in Counsel: and so awaiting till they rose (half an hour after 8. of the Clock) he came out with my Letters in his hand, which I left yesternight with him. I shewed him these last written: And he said they use to limit to time, but to make them indefinite. So he took the last, and I had the former Letters back again: He went with them into the privy Chamber, he said, I should not need to send for the Letters, but he would send them home by his man, and I went from him toward the Ambassador Don Gulielmo de Sancto Clemente, whom I found coming with the Ambassador of Spain (who came three, or four dayes before, to give the golden Fleese to the Emperour) and the Marshall of the Court to go to the Emperor presently to have audience: And as I stood in the Court of the Ambassadors lodging, and they three on hors-back coming, the Ambassador my friend did put off his Cap, so did the new Ambassador and Marshal twice very courteously to me. I saw it was no time to offer speech to the Ambassadour; now of my giving thanks, taking leave, and requiring his pleasure toward the Lord Laskie: so following them to the Court, I passed for ward home toward my Lodging.

Mysteriorum PRAGENSIIUM Confirmatio, Anno, 1585. Januarii 14. P R A G Æ Iterum veni Pragam ultimo Decembris, ANNO, 1585. + N O T E Anno 1584. ANNO, 1584, Decembris 20, (Stylo Gregoriano) we did see forth, I, Master Kelly, Rowland my Infant, with his Nurse, and John Crokar, (in a Coach with Horse, which I had bought of Master Frizer) from Cracovia toward Prage. PRAGE. Decembris 30. We came to Prage in the afternoon. December 31. I wrote to Don Gulielmo de Sancto Clement, the Spanish Ambassador, as followeth. Illistrissime and magnifice Heros, Licet mea nondum privata curaverim negocia : pro quibus ordinandis, multos interim dum hinc adsuerim, and labores pertulerim, and sumptus secerim: Tamen nolui literas ad vestram magnificentiam, a Nobilissimo illo Domino Palatino Syradiensi missas in multas horas a reditu meo retinere penes me : Ne aliqua ex parte, officio viderer deesse meo, tam erga vestram magnificentiam, quam ipsum Dominum Palatinum. Quantum vero ad Mysteriorum incredibilium progressam, habeo and quæ dicam, and sunt quæ audiam multa ad veritatis causam (invitissimis ejusdam advertsariis quibuscunque) elucidandum. De quibus quando opportunum erit, paratissimus eto, cum audite, tum audiri: eo quidem modo, quo sinceritari and fidelitati meæ erga Cæsaream suam Majestatem erit convenientissimum. Interim aliquot dierum intervallum liberum requiro, ut tam ædes mihi meisque conducam (si fieri possit) accomodas, quam ut alia, ad rem familiarem spectantia disponam, Deus Optim. Max. Magnificentiam vestram ornare beareque dignetur. Pragæ ultima Decembris 1584. Illustrissimæ Magnificentiæ Vestræ Obsequentissimus, Joannes Dee.

Anno 1585, P R A G Æ. F R I D A Y, J A N U A R Y 4. I hired the House in the Salt-street, of the two Sisters: But Mr. Christopher Christian, who had long time been Chancellor, or Register of old Pragæ, did make the Covenant or Bargain with me: he had Anne the one Sister, to Wife, and the other Sister named Dorothe, bad to her husband. This Dorothea dwelt in the House, and was to remove to an other House of her own hard by: and to deliver unto me and mine the whole House, with all the appurtenances of roomes and easements, and I to pay for the year 70 Dollers: and that quarterly, (every 3 Moneths expired) to pay the quarters rent thereof. J A N U A R Y 6. I wrote to D. Jacob Curtius: One of the Emperours Privy Counsayle, of whom the former Records of Prage Actions do make abundant mention: And a letter of his written to me the 8th. day of October Anno 1584, is beginning of the Book next written before this. The Copy of the letter which I wrote now, is this. Illustri and Magnifico viro D. Jacobo Curtio sacræ Cæsareæ Majestatis ab arcanis Confiliis, Domino meo plurimum colendo. Illustris and magnifice vir. + Prague Anno 1585. January 12. Saturday Afternoon I removed clean from Doctor Hagek, his House by Bedlem, and came with all my Household to the House which I had hired of the two Sisters(married)not far from the Marketplace in old Prague.
January 14. Pragæ. Actio prima,post reditum. Monday Circa 9 horam a media nocte: Precibus ad Deum de more susis , and invocato lumine auxilioque Dei, ad ejusdem veritatem intelligendam, and cum virtute tractandam, and c. G1 E.K. Here is [delta] one with a Vail afore his face, as it were, a Hair Cloth of Ashcolour: I know him not yet: I see a Garden full of fruit, of divers sorts. In the midst of it is a place higher then the test. On that place standeth a round House, it hath four corners, [within] and 4 Windows: and every Window is round, and hath 4 round partitions, round also. It hath 4 Doores, and at the East Door is one step, at the South 2 steps, and at the North 3, and at the West Door, 4 steps: The first Door is white, like Chrystal, transparent: The South Door is red of an high colour, transparent. The North Door is bright black, not to be thorough seen, as the rest. The West is green, like an Emerald Stone: So is the South Door like a Ruby. The Doores be all plain. The House within (as it may be judged by the transparent Doores) seemeth to be white, and empty. G2 E.K. He that hath his face coveted, openeth the East Door; and all the House seemeth to be on fire, like a furnace. The fire within doth weve, and move about the House, and by the roofe. Now he openeth the West Door, and there appeareth, as G3 if all the House were a fountain full of water. And there run divers streames, in the fame one water, whereof, one doth go and come, as if it ebbed and flowed; which stream doth go about all the rest, by the sides of the House, that is, as if it were the Ocean sea compassing the World. The next stream, within that, moveth from the 4 sides ward, and make (in manner) 4 Triangles, or rather Cones, of water, whose vertices rest cut off (as it were) by the middle stream of water which occupieth the middle or Center of the House, and is in circular form invironed. An other manner of stream there is, which commeth from the 4 corners of an innermost square: and so run diametralitè or contr adictoriè wise, toward that circular middle stream. The middle stream seemeth to issue out at the very Center of the place, and to mount up, and making an arch of his course, doth seem to fall circularitèr in one, circumference. E.K. The fire also had diversity in it. [delta] I would you had noted the diversity of the fires also. .... Those that learn truly, learn by parts. E.K. The colour of the water in the Center, is most pure white. The waters of that Saint Andrews Crosse, are like a water somewhat Saffronish coloured. The waters of the Triangles, are somewhat like a watrish blew, which appeareth most, in the top of the arches of their flowing: For all spring otherwise. The uttermost water, is of Quick-silver shew, as if it were somewhat mortified. [delta] In the figure following, you may gather a better and more easie understanding of this Description of the water streams. [Here is a blank, or void space in the Original Copie: but no figure.] -notes- G1 [delta] LEVANAEL as may appear Fobru. s. post; ultima parte. E.K. Note, The House is round without and square within. G2 1 Fire. G3 2. Water.

E.K. Now he openeth the Fire Door againe: And the fire appeareth in a square place. And there appeare 4 fires filling the whole place, leaving nothing vaccuum One of these fires seemeth to rise from the Center of the place; and to go in low arches to the 4 corners of the House. The House seemeth to have 14 foot long in every side. The arches of these fires seem to come from a trunk of fire, which riseth from about the Center: and seemeth to be 4 foot over in the Diameter. This Trunk seemeth to be high three quarters of the height of the place; The place seemeth to be as high as it is broad. On the top of this fiery trunk, seemeth the fire to be in form of a fiery Globe, having 6 foot, his Diameter, which fire reverberateth and rolleth in it self. From the sides of the Trunk (between the said Globe and foresaid Arches,) goeth up fire Triangularly, filling all; saving that which remaineth filled, by the flames of fire, which ariseth from the [Here is a blank, or void space in the Original Copie: but no figure.] Globe to the 4 corners of the House, filling all the place above the Globe: as by the figure annexed, more plainly may appear. E.K. Note The colour of the fire of the 4 arches, is very red; The rest are very pure, Aerial, candent, and c. The Motion of the trunk fire is swiftest. The Original Center of all these fires, seemeth to be very little. E.K. Now he openeth the red Door. The House seemeth darkish, of colour of the G1 smoak of a Wax Candle being put out. .... By it self, it is not, but by the Sunne, it is clear. E.K. It hath 4 motions in it also: every one moving more swiftly then the other: All from the middle of the House. Three of them move arch-wife to the sides. The first and second arise to half the height of the place. The third occupieth the other half. The fourth goeth upright to the top of the House. The second his space (that he striketh against on the Wall) is double to the space of the Wall, against which the first smitch. [Here is a blank, or Void space in the Original Copie: but no figure.] E.K. Now he openeth the black bright Door; And the House there seemeth full G2 of black dust, like Gun-powder colour, or somewhat of Leadish colour. E.K. Now he seemeth to goe down, faire and softly from the House, down the little Hill, and from thence goeth by a water side, to a Rockish Mountain. E.K He speaketh. .... Ascend. I am now ready for you: Bring out your Mattocks, Spades, and Shovels. Enig è veri eri. E.K. Now come out of that Rock, seven lean men, with Spades, and Shovels, and Mattocks, and c. .... Follow me. E.K. Now they be come up to the foresaid Hill. -notes- G1 3 Aire. G2 4 Earth.

..... Come on, Dig till you finde. E.K. Every one standeth distinctly one from another, and they dig on the fore said Hill, which before seemed covered with Earth and Grasse: But now it appeareth to be a Rock, and they dig that the Fire flieth out again of their stroakes, and some have broken their Mattocks, some their Spades, all except two, one with a Shovel, an other with a Pickax. The Workmen. O Lord we labour in vain. .... So you are sure to do, unlesse you have better Toolles. The Workmen. Alas we labour in vain. One of them. This is long of you. .... I bad you provide Instruments to labour with, but you asked not me, wherein you should labour. Therefore have you digged away that which you saw, and have repulse with that you know not. G1 A dark man thou art, and hidden from men, and so are thy doings. E.K. They stood gazing one on another. .... Have you not better Instruments? Go, provide your selves, and return. E.K. They runne a great pace to the foresaid Rocky Cave from whence they came out first. Now they come againe with great Beetles of Iron, and Wedges. They knock their Wedges (as we use in Wood) and so break off great Slakes of Stone, like

Slate, and throw it down the Hill. One of them. What a thing is this, that this Wedg is broken? Another We are in worse case then ever we were. E.K. Their Wedges are broken, the most part, and the Fire flieth out of the Stone in great abundance. .... The nature of this Stone is not to cleave: Therefore if you have no other Instruments you must cease. E.K. They are in great disquietness among themselves. .... Those that go a Journey, provide them Cloathes against all weathers: He that is worthy of the Name of a Conqueror, carrieth with him all Engines: Where the Bridges be broken down, he stayeth not, because he is prepared: Behold, he hath victuals for time to come, and his Study is as well the event, as is the mean. So should true Labourers do: considering what they work in. For the Earth is a Monster with many faces: and the receptacle of all variety. Go home, stand not idle. Provide by Arts for the hardnesse of Nature, for the one Sister weepeth without the other. E.K. They go away speedily. .... They have their Toolles to harden, and their Steeles to temper. It will be more then an hour space before they return. Therefore may you spend the time in your necessity, and use the time of day as you are acquainted or wonted. I also must over see them, or else their labour will be without fruit. E.K. Now he is gone. . Gloria Pat i, and F. and c SS. sicut erat, and c. Amen. Monday, The same day, after dinner we returned to our former purpose for God his Service, to his Honour and Glory. E.K. He is here. Now the Labourers be comming out; They have Wedges made long and sharp: and Pickaxes with three pikes very short. They say. Our trust is, that these tools will serve. E.K. They fall to work. They make like square holes, and put in their wedges, and break up the rock or blackish stone (like yron-mine, or Magnes stone) in roundish lumps as big as a two-peny loaf, about two or three inches thick. They pick or dig round about the hole first, and so after use their wedges. The Pickaxes have three heads, every pick thereof bigger then the other. The first as big as one finger: the second as two: the third as broad as four fingers. And so after the first digging they fetch three or four cakes or pieces out of one hole, and then they go to another. Now one of them is fall into the ground, up to the arm-pits. Now another is fall in, to the knees. Now the house standing there on beginneth to shake, and waver from one side to the other. Now the men be gotten out of the holes they stuck in. .... Make an end of your labour. One of the workmen to the Guide. It behoveth you to find a remedy, or to let us understand what -notes- G1 One of them said to the than covered with Hair-Cloth of Ash colour.

remedy we shall finde, that you may descend thence: for so, the peril you stand in, is great: for this Rock was nothing else but a shell, whose kernel is a bottomlesse lake, and a myre quickened with some shut up water. .... You come hither as Labourers, therefore make an end of your work, and stand not idle. If the house fall, and I sink, then is your labour at an end. For the end of your labour is the fulfilling of my will, and the promise which you have made me. One of them. We are ready to do our promise; but we are more ready to provide that you may be amongst us; so you may be free from danger. .... O you of little wit; are you not ashamed? which of you have dwelt within the secrets of this Hill? yea, which of you intendeth to fulfil his promise? Judge not a thing whereof you have no skill, neither be slack in that you have to do: for the one hath his reward of idlenesse, and the other is condemned of rashnesse: For why? It springeth on her mother ignorance. They say. If we work, it is against reason. Neither do our tools answer to this labour. Therefore we had rather be idle, then to labour about nothing: for to labour in vain, is to do nothing. If we were determined to work, how should we perform our determination, since the Instruments of working want? .... Gather up the pieces of your spades, that is wood, and may be joynd together: The older and the baser they are, the fitter they are to turn up such soile. E.K. There commeth a Smith by with a budget full of nails. One of them to the Smith. What hast thou there? Smith. Nailes. E.K. They be like Horshooe-nails. .... Thou cam'st in good time, leave thy nails behind thee, and at thy return I will pay thee for them. See, God is not unmindful of us, for nails are the fittest things to further your work. Joys therefore your spades and shovels together, and labour. E.K. Now they are mending their spades and shovels, the iron of them being all off and broken. Now they work, and throw away the earth like dirty sand, and the skurf of the earth sticketh to their spades and shovels. E.K. One goeth behinde, and maketh a trench to let the water out from the sand. One of them. How now! Have we found harvest in the midst of winter? .... Why: what have you there? One of them. Marry, either Alablaster or Salt. E.K. Now one of them knocketh a piece off with his shovel-end, and reacheth it up to his Guide. .... Did I not tell you, that the Earth hath many faces? E.K. They work now easily, and cut up like Salt or Alablaster. Now they have digged all the hill away, even to the house. Now the house seemeth builded upon that white stuff. One of them. It we dig any further, we shall undermine the house. .... Go to your businesse. E.K. They work. .... Soft, soft. Now labour with your hands as softly as may be. Stand aside. EK. Now he taketh one of the irons of their spades, and seemeth himself to pare the sides of the Foundation under the house, and it seemeth to be a vessel of transparent glasse, and having fire within it. G1 ..... The fear of the Lord is a burning fire, consumeth not, but rectifieth the body; the old dross it wipeth away, and the daily influxion of the flesh and sin it separateth from the soul. Behold (I say) he liveth not, but unto whom life is given: neither is their any joy, but it is ascending; for the end of joy is glory; but glory is the consummation of desire, and the beginning of felicity. No man entreth into joy, but by life: neither is there any life, but in the fear of God. Whosoever therefore hath the fear of God, let him draw neer, and come hither. Number exceedeth G2 not, but by unities. Neither is there any multiplication but by order. For the root of number is one. And things that ascend are dignified by order. Out of this vessel go four vents ascending into that Rock, which is the Root, which is this building. G3 It is said, Behold: let my spirit enter in, let there be Separation made within the house of the North, that the earth may be divided into her members. Cursed be that body, that is not divided, according to proportion, answering to the Division. For the hath yet not cast off the shape of darknesse. E.K. There runneth up fire into the house, from out of the round glasse vessel -notes- G1 Timor Domini G2 Ascension G3 Separation under the foundation of the house. And that fire maketh a great noise (through the black bright or marble door to be hard onely.) Now that North door is mightily thrown open, and there appear in the house like kernels of apples, and slime appeareth, and water thinner then slime, and there appeareth pure water, else. Now there commeth together stuff like yellow earth, which the fire wrought out of the black earth: And the pure water runneth into that yellow stuff. .... Of that take a part. E.K. The fire returneth back again among the stuff in that house, and there appear of all Creatures some. G1 Here is Creation, and it is the first. E.K. Now he taketh a lump of the earth lying by, which was thrown up, and he breaketh it into six pieces like round Balls. E.K. He taketh a thing like a vessel of iron, and putteth into it that mixture of yellow earth and water. And it looketh now like grasse mingled with water. .... Thou art strong, and wilt beget a strong Child. E.K. Now he patteth out the earth which he put in, and it is a lump of gold. He giveth it him that standeth by. .... so are the seeds of the earth. E.K. Now he taketh the second, and putteth it in. .... Corruption is a thief, for he hath robbed thee of thy best Ornaments, for thou art weaker in the second. E.K. He taketh it out, and it is as if it were pure silver. .... Where there is double theft, poverty insueth. But, notwithst anding, Thou art true; for thou givest unto every thing as much as he desireth: Thou openest the greatest hability and strength of thy power, not such as it hath been, but such as it is. E.K. Now he putteth in the third Ball. .... Thou must tarry, for thou art of an harder digestion, since thou art the third, Content thy self, for thou art not an Inheritor. E.K. He taketh it out, and giveth unto one of them that standeth by, that is a red metal like copper. E.K. Now he taketh up another of the Balls, and holdeth it in his hand. .... Behold, thy mother, Heat is gone, and the enemy of life entreth; for he that passeth his middle age, decayeth, and draweth to an end. Behold, thou shalt find a Step-mother, for thou cam'st out of time. E.K. Now he putteth it into the vessel. .... Let cold cover thy face, let the North truly beget thee, for thou art an enemy to thy predecessors. But thou art of great vertue, for of thy excrement shall vertue receive dignity. And thy vertue shall be a garland to Nature; for thou shalt be visible when the other are silent: the Seas shall not hinder thy vertue, not with standing, thy vertue shall differ with the Seas: For as they differ, so shalt thou. E.K. Now he taketh it our. It is a ragged thing like Smiths cynder of iron, and it hath holes in it, as if it were spongy. E.K. Now he taketh up another Ball of the earth: he putteth it in. .... Thou art tractable and like unto an obedient daughter: But thou shalt be the fifth in the second and an Instrument to the first. EK. Now he taketh it out, it is like unto a white whet stone, as he shaped it at the putting in, it is like Tynne. E.K. Now he taketh up another Ball, and putteth it in. .... Thou art the last that hath in himself and by himself his being: Behold thy face is like unto wax, but thy inward bowels are like unto the anger of a Serpent: Many shall have thee, bus shall not know thee. One of them by said. Will you give me nothing? E.K. A great cloud covereth them all, the stone and all. [delta] It dured so a quarter of an hour. E.K. Now appeareth another, none of them before appearing. He seemeth afar off comming, and higher placed then the other, it seemeth to be URIEL, he hath his face covered with a Skarf of black hanging down to his breast. URIEL .... Blessed are such as are not offended in the little ones. [E.K. He speaketh now a language which I understand not.] URIEL .... For the Angels of the God of Righteousnesse, are his little ones: and such as know -notes- G1 Creation.

not sin of Concupiscence by consent (I speak this for your understanding.) Take heed (therefore) that you offend not your selves: for you must become little ones: and the power of the highest must abound in you. He that offendeth his brother, offendeth God: but he that offendeth his own innocency, is abhorred of the Lord. Lo you are The children of Promise, and in you is the mystery of a great, and mighty Seal. Therefore study to humble your selves, for Humility is the Root of Innocency. But (my brethren) Innocents by nature you cannot be, neither can you serve God in the imagination of cleanness of your own flesh. Now (therefore) since you are fleshly, will you become innocent? Or how can you seek that which Nature hath lost? G1 The Scriptures teach you; That in Christ you were born a-new:

And by him you may become: Innocents, when in him you are cleansed. Therefore, if in him the state of your Innocency remain, if in him you are renewed, and made clean, (being rotten and defiled,) why seek you not him, as you should do? No man that seeketh the brightness of the Sunne, goeth under the Earth: Neither creepeth he into unknown Caves. The Tygres seek not their prey upon Earth, where the waters are not. Neither the eagles upon waters. G2 No more ought you to grudge that the Lord tempteth you, nor to be offended when the World offendeth you. Is it not said unto you, that you shall fight a great fight: What fight is it my brethren: But a Battell against the Worldlings and the Devil? G3 I say unto you that Kings shall be overcome in you. The Sunne ceaseth not, yet he shall cease, yea he shall not be. The Lights of Heaven keep their course; but they shall suddenly stagger, and forget their long worn way. Much more shall the wickednesse of these that rise up against you, have an end, for in them is no course but error, and the fire-brands of Sathan, prepared in their own hands, for their own destruction.
Behold, they shall contend against you and shall despise G4 thee: But lo I have blessed thee above them: for thou shalt fight against them, and shalt overthrow them: that my Name may be magnified in thy mouth amongst the multitude of the sinfull.
Behold, they are opposite unto thee, because they are opposite unto me: for I have gathered thee from amongst them, and they are become thy Enemies. Since therefore they are thine Enemies (because thou must fight against them:) Be not grieved therefore when their wickednesse doth offend thee: But put on the armour of patience, and Become innocent. G5 Dost thou think that from the Heavens can come the dew and life of all things? Even so think also, that from us cometh no untruth. Be therefore innocent, and be not deceived by the flesh; Cast reason aside, covered with her Cloud: And lift up thy self in him, unto him (I say) that hath lifted thee from the Doors of Death: taken thee out of the hands of Butchers, and continued thee for a member of his Glory. Behold, I say unto thee, The brightness of Truth overshadoweth thee. If therefore, thou dwell in G6 why shouldest thou be afraid? Considering that she conquered and resisteth all her Enemies. Behold, the World despiseth you, you also shall despise the World. When the Angel of the Lord poureth his wrath and vial upon the Earth, and the enemies of the Sonne of God, runne in among the sheep. When the self-same Plagne that was in the land of Pharaoh raineth in the Houses of all that dwelleth upon the Earth, such as the Lord abhorreth. When the Lord with his hand shall gather up the fruits of the Earth from them, Where then shall be their honors? What then shall be done with money; with that harlot and strumpet of the Earth? Of what value shall their love be then, or who shall regard their friendship? In these 4 yeares that are to come, shall all these things come to passe. G7 And this great joy shall be turned into teares of Brimstone. Why? you of little faith, you know not how often I have been amongst you: neither the Harbor that I have thrust you into. Notwithstanding you murmur amongst your selves. But stick fast unto him that leadeth you: For he is a sure Guide. And be not afraid, though the Earth open her jaws against you, for why? I will blesse all things you take in hand, (saith the Lord,) and my spirit shall dwell amongst you. [delta] May I speak? E.K. He turneth him to you. [delta] How shall our new proceedings joyne to our old beginnings? O God, our guide, light, staffe, shield, and comfort, and c. URIEL. Behold, I teach you, before I correct: But the Doctrine I teach is Humility, Patience [he seemeth to speak to one above,] and the fear of wrath to come After which manner, I have taught them, by thee . G8 Therefore, if thou teach Obedience through the spirit of God, appearing unto thee; Be thou also Patient and Obedient: And Humble thy self unto them, for my sake. I am sufficient strength, and will be thy buckler, and if they intend evil, it shall rest upon them; yea when they imagin it, it shall frize within them. And thy goings in and out shall be safe amongst G1 them. But behold, I teach unto thee a way, which thou followest not. When thou mindest to do any thing, in the name of God, to his honour, to the help of thy mighbour, or thine own comfort: Goabout it whatsoever it be: and begin a Labour; Do that thing thou intendest. And see that you joyn with one consent towards God and the businesse you are occupied in.

Then cry out to God for comfort, for light, and true understanding. And it shall be given unto thee abundantly. For Lo, I say unto thee [E.K. I understand him not now.] I will open my hand unto thee, and be merciful unto thee: And whensoever you heap up the Wood together, I will descend and give fire. Behold, I keep back the rest of my message for an other time. Which shall be ready for you when I find you ready to receive it. [delta] I requested to know how I should deal with the Ambassador of Spain, or the Emperor, or Curtius; Secondly, your RULE here given, I understand it not. For I dare not begin any labour without counsel divine: Mans imagination is so weak, and c. URIEL Thou hast those that are sent unto thee here for thy instruction, which shall by degrees G2 lead thee into the degrees of that thou art to do. But it is one thing to receive Corn, and abundance of grain, by the blessing of God, in the return of an year: and an other thing to do the works of the Apostles. For the spirit of God is twofold: working by information, and influence Celestial through the grant of God his good will, in the ministry of his Angels to the information of such as are his faithful and chosen: An other thing to be inspired from God himself, in his holy spirit, immediately comforting and knitting Wisdom together with you, beyond the power that is given unto his Angels. I have spoken unto you a sound and true doctrine, and have given you not fleshly but Celestial counsel: Apply your self unto it, as the Spirit of God leadeth you. As for those wicked men (that Ambassador excepted) our understanding hath no name of them: We remember them not, neither limit any thing for them. But if thou in thy simplicity and innocency canst not deal with G3 them, the fault resteth in thy own faith. I am gone. [delta] When it shall please God, all valles and Ænigmata shall cease. G4 ..... What soever I teach you hath a Mystery. And I am a Mystery in my self. Even so all things that you learn of me, you must be content to receive as mystical instructions comprehending perfect truth, and to be known to such as are true. Some there be that have, and have nothing: yea though they have all, for All, is contained: But the mysteries of God are infinite, and his grace is not to be determined. [delta] That saying is dark. That which is All, is contained. Believe you, that we give holy things unto Swine? Or open the finger and workmanship of God unto Sinners? God forbid. Moses saw God but his hinder parts. The Prophets were acquainted with God, but mystically. The Apostles with the Sonne of God in shadows, and their own impotency. Yea, I say unto you, that she that lyeth in the lap of her Mother, knoweth not but by degrees, for it is the manner of Gods Wisdom, both immediatly and by us, to keep back his Wisdom from Hell and corruption. Therefore murmur not at that which you receive, for it is not your own. Behold, if you have better, you need it not: for it is vanitie to seek for that you have. Well, since it is given you, Consider what it is, that is given you. Consider also how it is given you, and by whom. [delta] We know by whom, as our consciences and saith teach us. .... O you of little understanding: Who is he that can and hath to give, but God, Jesus Christ the Sonne of the living. God, unto whom all things are given in Heaven, and in Earth, if therefore, All be his, then he giveth. And if you receive it hardly; Consider how hardly you ought to deliver it again. E.K. Here he is, upon a green endlesse plain field, and as I see abroad in the field, so the Heaven appeareth, and all circumstances of the air abroad: but my thinketh, that I am from the earth aloft, and see all under me, as if it were in a valley. .... Now what have you learned out of that Lesson? [delta] We perceive the grace and favour of God, to deliver us Mysteries in outward terms determined, but in the fruitful inward verity, as yet unknown to us. .... Behold I have delivered you (through the Will of God) the true perfect and most plain Science G1 or understanding of all the lower Creatures of God: their natures, fellowship together, and perfect knitting together, which is fourfold. The first, the knitting together of celestial influence, and the Creatures below. The second, the centre of every body Essential. The third, the combination of many parts or bodies concurrent to one [E.K. He speaketh a language which I cannot sound after him.] principle. The last, the true use and knowledge of every substance to be conjoynd and distributed. Take a pause-- [delta] We read the premisses, and discoursed of them. E.K. Now he is here again. .... In the Lesson which I have taught you is this knowledge, with the rest contained. G2 Therefore seek, and turn the earth upside down. Labour, that you may receive fruit, for unto him that worketh, and hath strength, strength shall be given, and the reward of a workman. Many years, the daughter of long time, are not necessary to the opening of this Mystery. Many months have nothing to do here: For lo, it is a labour of one day, for in one day you may understand to tear this Lesson in pieces, and to understand what every word signifieth. G3 But here is to be considered, in the learning of this Lesson, three things: the place that every word occupieth; the place that every letter occupieth, and the number and place that every word and letter is referred unto. For here place and number are apart, and bear an Image of the work that they intreat of. But number and place must be joynd together, and thereby shall you taste of that which followeth, true wisdom. Be therefore diligent, and pray for the grace of God, that you may learn and understand. The manner of mans teaching look not for, in me; for I have nothing to do with man. See, how you can digest this: [[delta] I discoursed.] E.K. He is stept aside. E.K. He is here again. .... Now hear of what I shall say unto you. I will open unto you a Mystery, the key and foundation into the entrance and knowledge of the divine wisdom, delivered unto you in a Science palpable, contained in letters and words unorderly placed, as a Chaos: and therefore not to be understood but by order to be reduced and drawn into their places, and thereby to be understood. G4 For you have not a letter, nor the form of a letter, nor the place of a letter, but they are all counted with us, as the stars are counted with God. The letters and words working into all reason, as the stars do into the lower creatures: Therefore humbly receive that which I have to say unto you, or shall open unto you as obedient Scholars, kneeling. First, a little with me praise God-- E.K. He is on his knees. E.K. prayed the 142 Psalm, Domine exaudi orationem meam, and I with heart consented, and greatly rejoiced in the aptnesse of the prayer: as E.K. his case chiefly required, and mine also. .... Now then if you be man, then are you of earth, earthy. But according to your similitude, grafted in the image of God in his Sonne Jesus you are heavenly. But behold, God is opposite unto you, and his spirit cleat eth not unto you, in that you are flesh, is that you are earth, in that you are filthy: in that you are the children of Satan, and that therefore, take part with him against Christ anointed of the Lord. E.K. He is out of sight now. Now if you be opposite, or more contrary to the image of him which dwelleth in you, if you dwell is him what do yee here: why presume you to enter within the Doores of him to whom you are an adversary? Herein you skew your ignorance; and the lumpishnesse of your fragility, in that you seek of him, unto whom you are odious, or crave the bread which is due and necessary for his children and servants. But hear my voice, Petentibus dat, sed petentibus filiis, and servis, sed non alienis. G1 Notwithstanding, of his mercy, and for that, he knew before the beginning of all worlds, the corruption of your vessels, and remembering that you have been of his household, mercifully he hath Hitherto winked at you; and at your presumption, and fed you with that bread, which is not the bread of sinners. But now considering that you continue in your wickednesse, continue in your rebellion against his G2 Majesty, and fight das'y under his banner which is accursed, he taketh his bread from you, shutteth up his Doores against you, warneth his servants against you, and is become a fire-brand of wrath against you. But here you will say: were not we of those number unto whom he made a promise, you were so. But upon condition: That if you would bridle your tongues from speaking evil, and become wholly his. But you are neither his, nor bridle your tongues: but speak Blasphemy before the Lord, and the Messengers of his light and covenant. Therefore are you not inheritors of his promise. Behold, while the grapes grew, and the corn ripeneth, God did expect your return, for no hour is unacceptable unto him. But now the harvest commeth that the corn must be cut down and the grapes pressed, you are not as you said you would be, nor as you promised. Therefore are you excluded, for in the vineyard there commeth no strangers, nor in this harvest commeth any hirelings, for it is not the harvest of man. [delta] Now either fulfill your promise and return from the multitude of your sinnes: or murmur not, though you be sent out of Doores. The earth of it self bringeth forth nothing, for it is the lump and excrement of darknesse, whose bowels are a burning lake. G3 But where the beavens yield, and the Sunne poureth down his force, she openeth her self, and becommeth spongy, receiving mixture to generation, and so is exalted above her self, and bringeth forth to the use of man: Even so the Body when it lyeth in the puddle and hotchpotch of his earthly filthinesse, and darknesse making himself equal with beasts: whose dignity is not, but in their use. E.K. Now he is here again. .... Two things you have to be instructed in, in Rlodnr, and in the Law of Coition and Mixture. The first, is the instrument working, and drawing things together of one nature. The second is the bounds and termes, wherein every mixture consisteth, and beyond the which it cannot go. The first of 4 parts, every part containing, containeth his contained double. The first is Topens, this teacheth the rest. These two things can I open unto you in two revolutions, which is but one dayes work. But now I cease to open any more unto you till I see the favour of God more open unto you. After 7 dayes I will come again, until then, I neither am, nor speak.

Harden not your hearts against the Lord, neither exalt your selves above him that bath created yen. But humble your selves, and consider you are flesh, mortal, transitory, and full of sinne: My brethren, my brethren, sinne and flesh appear not before the Lord, neither such as are sinners, and fleshly vessels apt or fit for the Lord to dwell in. Understand what the Lord is, and how great he is: a Judg to the wicked, great and terrible: a father to the holy and sincere, just, full of mercy, and loving kindnesse. G1 If you new therefore be holy, and put on the garments of Innocency, and walk before him in righteousnesse; Then look to have the reward of Children: Then look for his fatherly mercers, and loving kindnesse; Then, then rejoyce at the garments of glory prepared for you. G2 But if you seek him in judgment, and stir him up to wrath and anger: if you cause him to call the terrible thunders (provided for the wicked) about him, in the most furious flames of his indignation, to gather you together like whirl Winds: if you draw his holy Angel from you, and spoil you of your armes: if he sit down upon the mouth of vengeance, and arm himself with righteousnesse against your wickednesse. Then look for the horrible and unspeakable reward of the wicked, and the consuming fire of Justice, sharper then the two-edged sword. Who hath stood before the Lord in Justice? or who dare quarrel with the highest? What flesh hath seen the Lord in his Majestie? or can appear before him as righteous? Tear your selves therefore in pieces, and fall down before the Lord, worship him as a father, and become his children: for his Judgments (my brethren) are terrible, and his wrath is without measure. Many wayes you are hound and tyed unto God; As by discipline you learn. But three special wayes you have been advanced by lin more then your brothers or sisters have bin: The first in the visitation, wherewith hal be hath comforted you, and exalted you above the worldlings, of his good, pure, and just Ministers of eternity and light. Secondly, in that with his own hand, yea, with the beck of his own eye, beyond the ministry of Angels, he hath divers wayes protected you: defended you, yea, and snatched you from imminent and violent envy, and prepared destruction of Satan, at home, abroad, and diverse other wayes, secret and not to be opened. Lastly, that by their meanes and ministry, which are his good Angels and minister unto him; he hath guarded you from the wickednesse of your own Country, and bath brought your, ready to place you into the lap of a Virgin, with whom, if you take part, you shall ascend into that Hierusalem, which shall descend, and there live for ever. Therefore ought you, above all men, to lift up the born of the Lord, and to blow his praises abroad. Therefore ought you when others are full of idleness, the dalliances of sinne, to humble your self upon the earth before the Lord, and to praise his Name. Therefore ought you, though all flesh forsook the Lord, and cried out against his anointed, to stand stiffly against the malice of the hills, and to be without sear. O my brethren, therefore ought you (in very deed) to shake off your wickednesse, and to cleave (before the Lord) unto the innocency of Angels, delighting in the one as an eternal food, despising the other as a fire-brand for Hell-fire and the wicked.

I come again. [delta] O Lord God, thou hast coupled us two together, in the election, and what the Lord hath joyned, no fleshly fancy of mine shall willingly separate. But Lord, if it be thy will, seeing he is so hard to give credit to thy holy messages, without some proof in work first passed; as for example, this doctrine of the Philosophers stone; that so he may come to be allowed, though he imitate Thomas Dydimus in his hard and flow belief, or credit given to thy Ministers in this Action. Lord, proceed herein, that he may perceive thy power and mercies, and c. And Lord, because he is to receive the pledge of thy mercies, and mystery of the heavenly food, we would gladly hear of that holy Sacrament some discourse for our better instruction, and his better encouragement to the mystery receiving. [delta] After a good while, in which mean time we had discoursed of the Sacrament receiving, and of the Philosophers stone making, he appeared. E.K. Here he is now. .... Note well what I say unto you. E.K. He openeth his face, he putteth on a white garment, he taketh up the four corners of his garment, and putteth them under a broad girdle he hath: on his head is nothing, but hair reddish wavering. .... God, in the beginning, of Nothing, by himself, made, created, and gathered together all Creatures; of Nothing, because in himself be is. E.K. He holdeth up his hands, and looketh up to heaven, and seemeth to pray extentis manibus. .... If he Be, then doth it follow, that nothing is, but that which is God. But God made not all things (made and created) of himself, neither out of himself: therefore of nothing. Understand there fore, that God from beginning, and beyond the beginning in himself, in himself as God, contained I am and is, proper to himself, and for himself: But also by the knowledge of himself, he contained also that Nothing, of the which in his secret and determined purpose separated from himself, he intended to make all things. It followeth necessarily (therefore) that which was not, had no power of it self, must remain after the Image of IS, brought or knit together by the Wisome of God, substantially in himself, whereby Jesus Christ appeared in his God-bead. But behold, when God the Father and the Son, through one spiritual substance and illumination, from one centre, had gathered together (Ictu Divino) that Nihil separable. E.K. He seemeth to be consumed to ashes in a fire, and so lyeth as it were in ashes prostrate. E.K. Now he is up again I know not how. E.K. He seemeth now to be very clear, and in manner transparent. .... Say that last. [delta] I read, But behold, when God, and c. as in the 8th. line above. E.K. He looketh about him diligently. .... Then did he separate that Nothing from himself, and as it marvelously lay hid in him: so marvelously he wrought upon it: Not at one instant, for then it had been like unto himself. But in time, which he first made out of nothing: which being consumed, Nothing shall return into G1 the place from whence it came. And that which hath offended in nothing shall be a second, opposite from God, and out of God; which shall have continuance, world without end: And it shall be alwayes vexed, the Spirit of God mediating: not of the substance or purenesse of God, or of his Spirit, but with the self-same Nothing; out of which God created all things. Seeing therefore, that the Will of God, which is his Image separating Nothing from eternity, in time made all things (being the work of six dayes.) [But I teach you a Mystery.] All things that through God are moved to the Center by the Spirit of God, (which is the center G2 of the Godhead) are not after the world, after the consummation of the world, as Angels and the blessed souls, are not to be reckoned with [that] Nothing: But are of God, because they dwell in him, of whom it is said, There they shall not need the Sun nor the Moon, the Lamb himself shall be their light, and a shining lamp for ever. Note here that the Trinity, first, second, and third, totally not moved, but by himself, in himself, time bringing forth all things according to his Word, made all things except Man. For why? when all things had pleased him, not because they were, but because by the Word (the Image of himself, and wherein be is delighted) they were made, be made wan, as the Scripture teacheth you, how by the Spirit of God in Moses, that he should injoy and use the benefit of all this something proceeding from nothing in the Creatures of God in their kind: that in him God might be glorified; not onely in this world, which is your earth and vail of misery; but also and chiefly that the memory of his exceeding and great mercy and omnipotency might remain before him in heaven, in the image of man, and the most excellent Creatures, world without end. E.K. Now he is fall into ashes again, as before. E.K. Now he standeth up again, as before. .... Here is the making of man to be considered: for of the most excellentest dignified, and nearest

G1 man, at a thing knit or tied in the convex of his own Sphere, not taking part with Nothing materially, but with Nothing Immortal. G2 The Soul was made spiritual and increasing, wherein the Philosophers, the wise men of this world are deceived, and hath been a secret shut up in the Book of Esdras, not fit for the world. For even as flesh by conjunction and commixtion of likelihoods proper in their own nature to bring forth the image of himself; so doth the most excellentest part of man, taking part with the vicinity of God, (and so perpetually moving) bring forth, after the manner of eternity, every living foul: the Spirit of God (conjoynd with the Trinity) working with him in his infinity. G3 Behold in the beginning God hath not numbred formally all sonls that shall enter into these vessels, or other part. But the matter material in himself, be knoweth and hath limited, beyond the which, Deficiente materia, there cannot be. Therefore it is conteined in Number: Not, that it is conteined in Number to be numbred, but within the proportion of number conteined in the knowledg of Jesus Christ, taking part with man, and so to be numbred. Adam fell; transgressed God his Commandment, and therefore was his soul darkened, bare and naked, because he wanted the beauty and excellency of Gods Spirit, wherein he dignified him, and wade him like unto himself, being a living foul. He was cast out, and now casteth off misery, wanting the knowledge of those things, for the which he was created. Now God, the image of his Father, grieved at the fall of man, and moved with pity, vouchsafed, because of the excellency of man, to enter into man, being before separated, into this part of nothing, into man. Not that he would beautified himself with any thing that man bad: But that, Become man, begotten of the Holy ghost, he might, as you know by the Scriptures, make man acceptable again with God his G4 Father, God himself, with God in unity for Justice and Terrour is God the Father, Mercy and love is God the Son Wisdome and knowledge is God the Holy ghost. He, since he became man, put not on the flesh of man to become a lyar, but that the flesh of man might he full of the spirit of truth and understanding. E.K. Now he is fall again into ashes. E.K. Now he is up again. And so receive forgivenessse of sins, and be at one with God, which is to say, in his favour, taking hold in God, not as created, and from Creation sinfully fall. But by ransome and redemption as bought and made free in Jesus Christ, which offered up the Sacrifice of frankincense, gold, and myrrh, of true propitiation, for the quick and the dead. Now, my brethren, give good ear what I say unto you. The wisdom of the Father, in love, created and made man, dignifying him, and exalting him, as the Lord and Master over all Creatures mortal. But how? by Plasmation. For it is written, Let us make man. G5 Here thou seest also the Scripture saith, that god took of the earth. Mark this word, and consider it when I shall apply it. Now if this power, if this Plasmating, if this Taking, which was the Word, become man, perfect man; then followeth it, that man was and is, God creating and created. If therefore this conjunction or knitting together of God and man, bear the image of him, in excellency and power, which created all things, and by whom this Nothing was spread abroad, and had form in his parts: then followeth it, that the self-same God and Man being truth, speaking of himself unto his Disciples, saying, This is my body. E.K. Now he is fallen again in ashes. E.K. Now he is up again. .... Read. [delta] I read, Now my brethren give good ear, and c. E.K. E.K. He speaketh that I understand not. .... did import and truly signifie himself, his very body, to suffer, and suffered in that, in him, in his Godhead and wisdom before the worlds it was so: his very true body and very true blood. But notwithstanding Myistcally. Consider of this. E.K. He is gone. [delta] Blessed be. E.K. Now he is here again. .... Mark here for whom, and unto whom Christ took, and brake bread: also took the Chalice, and called it his blood of the New Testament, which shall be given. But here by Brethren, in that it was to be given, it was to seal the perpetual and everlasting memory thereof unto the destruction of Satan, and the comfort of his chosen. But in spirit, before, he had pacified the wrath of his Father: Therefore it was given and to be given. But unto whom? to his Disciples, and not unto strangers; not unto the Scribes and Pharisees, but unto such as did apprehend him by faith. Here then seest, that to apprehend by faith, is to be comprehended in the love of God. But in that Christ said that shall be shed, it signified unto the worlds end: for his blood is always shed before his father, as a satisfaction for the obstinacy and sin of man. G1 But the remembrance thereof is the power of doing, that he gave to his Disciples, which consisteth in Act, which must be done in the Church of God, yea even unto the end. For as God (Jesus Christ) is said to be a Saviour and anointed, so is he an eternal King, and a continual Saviour of G2 such as fly unto him, containing in man (being dignified through his Godhead) the eternal power of presence and Reing, in all places wheresoever. Consider (my brethren) unto what use should the body of Christ be, if the Body it self were not a Sacrament, and the holy sign of the peace between God and man. Behold it is said, unless thou eat of the flesh and drink of the blood, thou canst not, and c. If the Disciples did eat the body of Christ, Christ ministring himself, and standing by, not yet crucified, why therefore shouldest not thou eat the body of the same Christ, which dwelleth in thee, and in whom thou hast to dwell. But here is to be considered the manner of eating. E.K. Now he falleth in ashes again. E.K. Now he is up again. .... But at whom shall we learn this manner of eating? My brethren, of his Disciples. For although Christ himself alive, visibly and substantially stood beside them, and ministred unto them: Notwithstanding took bread, brake it, and gave it unto them, saying, This is my body: They simply did believe it, considering and acknowledging his Omnipotency (which Peter had grounded in saying, Thou art the Son of the living God.) If therefore be he acknowledged of us (I speak for you) to be the Son of the living God. Then must we truly confesse, that all things are possible unto him, and that by faith, we ought to believe the mysteries, works and wonders of God, Sacramentally opened and to be used for the cure of our own sores. [He speaketh I knownot what, nor to whom.] .... Read. [delta] I read: But at whom? and c. And not as the wicked use to do; Tie the power and majesty of God and his Omnipotency to the tail or end of reason, to be haled as she will. If his Apostles have lest us examples of belief, have taught us how to believe, and upon what rock and foundation to fasten our belief; Then simply and nakedly follow the steps of true Faith, and laying reason aside, believe. But here note, that this Sacrament is to be ministred amongst the Apostles, amongst the Ministers and true Servants of God, in his Church, and not in the temple of the Scribes and Pharisees, Hypocrites, and Deceivers, which whilst they tear Christ Jesus and his body after the frowardnesse of their own sense, do eat (as Judas did) and so perish eternally. But I fay unto you, and teach you, that wheresoever in the true Church of God remembrance is made, and the use of this Sacrament is celebrated of the true body and blood of Jesus Christ crucified, there is also the true body of Christ, God and man substantial, and bread of eternal comfort and food, to such as humbly, nakedly, and penitently receive it, propitiatory for the quick and the dead; not unto such as are dead in sin, and in hell, and out of this life, but unto such as are here Sinners, and so dead, and to be revived. For he that dwelleth in Christ is quick, because he dwelleth in life and light. But he that goeth out of Christ through sin, and in whom Christ dwelleth not, he is dead. For this, I have said. [delta] Lord, what shall we say to the Priests, when they would have us to acknowledge Transubstantiation, and c. G3 ..... The bread that was ministered by Christ unto his Disciples, was not a figure of his body, but his true body. So the Minister using the office and person of Christ in office, pronouncing the [delta] words, doth also give unto the people not Bread, but the true body. But hear me Thou must consider it as a Sacrament, and must believe as the Disciples did, that it is the true Body of Christ, that thou eatest in the form of Bread. [delta] As concerning under both kinds receiving, what is your doctrine? ..... Caro and sanguis sciunt corpus and constituent. [delta] Then it is no offence to God, to receive under one kind onely. ..... That, by faith, (in that it is believed to be the true body,) is also by faith to be worshipped: Not in that it hath the shape of bread, but that it is the body of Christ, true God and man. [delta] As concerning also the reserving of it, being consecrated, what are we to understand? ..... Reason hath no place here: To them that receive it, it is a Sacrament. But receiving ceasing, the Sacrament ceaseth also. Celebrandi, and accipientibus, Sacramentum and Sacrificium est: Cessante celebratione, and nullis accipientibus, cessat Sacramentum and Sacrificium. Nam Sacramentum dicitur ab institutione and modo. The mean consisteth in them both. .... demonstrated to you, yesterday, how the visible signe or matter appearing was united and knit unto the visible, signified: wherein and whereunto I answered in my own form and person, for whosoever talketh of God and Christ expounding the Scriptures, ought to talk plainly, truly, and openly, that that which they speak way be under stood. This is the Office of a Preacher. Even so I talking of God, and illuminated to this Office, for the time, was bare, because I spoke not of my self. But the doctrine I taught you was true: and is worthy to be graved in golden Tables, and monumentally to be placed upon the altar, wherein man may see, as in a glasse, How God through his Sacraments and holy institutions, sanctifieth, regenerateth and purifieth man unto himself. G1 Now to the work intended, which is called in the Holy Art Gebofal, which is not (as the Philosophers have written,) The first step supernatural, but it is the first supernatural naturally limited unto the 48 Gates of Wisdom; where your holy Book beginneth. The last is the speaking with God, as Moses did, which is infinite: All the rest have proper limits, wherein they are contained. But understand that hoc opus unum receiveth Multiplication and dignification, by ascension through all the rest that are limited according to their proper qualities. After an hour we had discoursed together, I fell to this Prayer.

[delta] O Lond thou hast heard our conferences, discourses and resolutions: O God, be our comfort, and reconcile these repugnances of purposes, so as it may appear that thou art the merciful Father, the almighty and living God, the Creator of all things being, and that thy promises made in mercy and favour, shall not with mansstranly be overthrown, or hindred. Manifest thy power and glory to us here in, that thy Prophecies may come to light, to the end and purpose thy Wisdom and power may work thy own honor and glory. So be it. E.K. Now sir, where are you? ..... Here I am, the servant of God. Unus vestrum, vocatus est hujus negotii minister Alter, Puer. Igitur ad impleat minister ministerium: Puer autem humili and se ministerio. Hear my counsel, and follow it. G5 Wonderful and great are the secrets and judgments of Gods determinations to come: which are all ready leased and gathered into your bosom. G6 They are great and true: and are like unto the Rainbow which the Sunne maketh by the aptest of the matter and place (that sheweth itself suddenly and many behold it: So shall the harvest of this Doctrine, when the Vial is runne, and the World receiveth disposition, shew himself wonderful and terrible to all Nations. But if the matter agree not with the weaknesse of your understanding, and palpable blindnesse; Repine not, neuer murmur. But pray, that you may have the spirit of God, to understand, and that your eyes may be opened. G7 The Prophet [ ] saw, but his boy did not. But the Prophet praying, the boyes eyes were opened. E.K. Now I see a Tree upon an old Hill full of mosse in a desolate place, besides the former water. The Tree is sprung of a graft, which hath been grafted in The Tree hath a few green leaves on, and many old leaves: The state of the Tree is as if it were Autumn. There lyeth by it the top of a Tree cut off, and dead withered. The Tree hath a eleven Shots or branches issuing out of it. There tumbleth down from heaven a white thing, and out of it issueth an arm with a broad axe in his hand, such as they hew pannel board with, it seemeth to be about a yard long That hand with his nail maketh a race down along the body of the Tree, and then spreadeth the bark open from that place of the race made. E.K. On the place of the Tree where it was made bare appeared two figures of 8, one in manner under another. Now the bark is put together again, and the Tree seemeth whole, and as it were not cut. G1 Quod erit and futurum est, jam est. E.K. There appear seven more, six men and one boy. One is a Blackamore. G5 They have all white garments also. The tree at the first seemed to bring forth and shew horns, and after that there appeared men issuing out or growing plentifully on that tree, and those men to have those horns. Then he with the Ax pulled one of those men off, and pulled one of his horns, skull and all, and thereof gave to eat to [delta], E.K. and the other seven; and they did eat: and so all the Vision did vanish away, nothing appearing in the stone. .... G7 Be not stiff-necked, neither suffer sensual imaginations to obscure or defile thy inward understanding. The first nourisheth thee to the nourishment of thy flesh, that thy flesh perishing may also carry thy soul with it. The second teach thee to understand thy self, and thereby to acknowledge the Creator: that thereby thy soul purified may also purifie thy body: that thereby in the end thou mayest rise a purified and perfect Creature. Qui appetit se propter se, not intelligit Deum, sed qui intelligit Deum, appetit seipsum ; sed appetitus ejus non est a se, sed ab alio. Since therefore, to seek God [not] for your own sakes, is to glorifie God, lift up your selves, and behold the heavens, and look into the earth, and muse at her wonders: And let not the lesser part carry away the greater. forsaken themselves: But yet, for themselves, followed his Commandments; Therefore I say forsake yourselves, and do the will of God, that for the comforts of your selves, and your eternal salvation, you may seek God. But he that seeketh God, seeketh him through patience, through afflictions, through temptations. G1 Therefore despise this Monster that tempteth you, and neglect her in the midst of her pride; for she is poor, miserable, and prepared as a fire-brand for destruction; if you seek riches of her, she hath none, if you seek wisdom at her, she knoweth it not, if you desire quietnesse, and the joyes of rest, she cryeth out against you, Watch, Watch, and gird up your selves. And if you seek eternal life, or study to please God; and to glorifie him, whereunto you are created, separte your selves from the Harlot. G2 Swear your selves her enemy, and hate all those that take part with her; For, behold, she is become an enemy of him that created you, a Blasphemer of him whom you seek to glorifie, the daughter of him, which set himself against the Highest. Therefore for your Creations sake, ought you to despise her. For your Redemptions sake to neglect her, and for the Glory that you seek to attain unto, utterly to despise or contemn her. But here, per adventure, you will say unto me, as he said unto Christ the Sonne of the living God. E.K. He maketh cursy, and kisseth the ground. What shall I do to enherit everlasting life? I say unto you follow the Commandments. Behold, it is written, I give you a new Commandemnt; Love one another. G3 How love you one another without Charity? But what is Charity? is it not the gift of the Holy Ghost?. you know it is so, you know also, that the Holy Ghost is called a Comforter. But consider with your selves, why he is called a Comforter; Not because he comforteth himself, for he is all comfort; But because he is the comfort of such as he hath spoken to, saying, I have given you a new Commandment, Love one another; But, who are they? Even they that eat the flesh, and drink the bloud of the Sonne of man Jesus Christ, the Sonne of God, true God and man, which unless you do, you are not of that Company unto whom Christ said I give you a new Commandment. For in so doing you are grafted in Christ, are subject to the Commandment, tyed unto Charity, wherein you are refreshed by the Holy Ghost the Continual Comforter, and giver of wisdom to such as dwell in Christ. See therefore that none is of Christ, that hath not Charity, neither hath any Charity, that is not of the Company of such as feed of the flesh and bloud of Jesus Christ, without the which there is no Salvation, therefore art thou E.K. a lyar when thou sayest I fear God, I love God, I intend to live well and in obedience, for thou followest not his Commandments, thou fliest from him; Therefore thou art not with him. * [delta] E.K. did confesse that he thought so at this instant. Penance. The Church. Ad Ecclesiam Catholicam consugiendam.] But I hear thee saying, I confesse my self to Christ before the Throne of God. But thou hast not offered thy self unto the Priest, neither hast laid down thy Sacrifice. I say unto thee, Thou confessest not thy self, neither thy sinnes, before God, because thou commest not where he is. Not that God seeth thee not, but that he is said not to hear sinners, unlesse they be penitent, but penance is limited by the Church, and sorrowfulnesse is not judged by thy self, it behoveth thee therefore, if thou wilt flie unto Christ, to enter into the Company of such at professe him, where he is,

and with whom he dwelleth. There, at what time thou repentest thee of thy sinnes, and shalt confesse them with sorrowfulnesse, before him which is in office at the mystery; there also by the mystery (which is Christ) shalt thou receive for givenesse of thy sinnes. For if he that ministreth, is heard in the power of his Administration, and Sacrament al vow, much more hath he power to forgive Sinnes; For lo, that he doth, is not of himself, but his dignity is of that, whereof he is called a Priest. Now therefore I say unto thee E.K. until thou make thy self clean, thou shalt continue filthy, and immundis and impuris, nonrevelat Deus Sacramenta. But even as thou, not clean, seest, and yet seest nothing: so being cleansed, not seeing thou shalt see, and see all things. I have done. 1585. + Pragæ. Februarii 23. Saturday A meridie horam circiter 2. Orationibus ad Deum susis, pro luce and veritate divina, and c. [delta] The occasion of this comming to the Shew-Stone, was that as we sat together in the Stove, there was a pat or stroke or two (not natural) given on the Bench and Wall: and withal I felt on my head a heavy moving thing, and also after that E.K. felt on his back, as if one had written letters distinctly: whereupon we went to understand the will of God, as being thereto half warned and stirred by these tokens. E.K. Madimi is here. [delta] Benedicti sunt pedes evangelizantium pacem and favorem altissimi. Madimi ..... What should I speak unto you, since you have no faith? [Faith.] Why should I teach you that despise my documents? I knock in vain, for you hear me not. Unus unam alius aliam quarit : dispares estis. [delta] Deus potest omnibus and diversissimis satisfacere, bona semper petentibus. Madimi ..... Shall I speak, or no? [delta] Speak in the Name of God, who would not hear the words of the wife and of the mighty, of the good and true? G1 Madimi ..... Shall I close my mouth, because of your wickednesse? or shall I open my mouth, because my Mother hath commanded me? I will go back, and will desire that my mouth may be sewed up with a double threed: for assure your self I will not come again willingly: But if she say again, Go, I will come. Hui, wherefore doth God give bread to Dogs: or suffereth his sonne to shine to the bottomlesse Caves? I know a cause, but yet I am torn in spirit. O Mother, Mother, if thou shouldest speak unto this people, out of and from above the Clouds, they would melt before thee, yea, they would fall. But lo thou speakest unto them by thy daughter that they may stand and hear, but they hear not: But I swear unto thee, they despise thee. What shall therefore become of them? I go, I will see if I can absent my self from them. [delta] She went away as if she had been angry, in the mean space we argued after our former manner; E.K. as he was wont, and I still in my constant hope of Gods mercies. G2 E.K. Now she is here again. E.K. She putteth off her peticoat, and putteth on an other Garment full of pleats of a golden colour, and after that an other Garment, upon that Garment with many Crowns bordered on it, with hands out of every of them, and a great part of the Arm, they are right hands, the first Garment (which she put off) and flingeth it into a fire. Madimi ..... I speak unto you, though I say nothing. Madimi ..... The counsels from above, are perfect, because they descend. G3 But the wrappings of mans wit, are unperfect knots, hard to put together, and harder to unloose: Therefore they are not. G4 But these are of God, and they are true. Envious minds, and false hearts, do hunt after thee, and they have said and have conspired; But I have said unto them, be it unto them, as they have measured unto others: And that which they have nourished in corners, let it be fire, and consume their dwelling places; Let it seek out their brothers: Let their throats be burst in pieces: Let it range along their Kingdomes, and let it burn down the gate of their borders, that the way may be wide: for a narrow way serveth not where I bring in mischief, I will bring her to the borders, and will place her in the Gates, and will say unto her. Accipe tibi vim. And I will give her a two edged sword, but I will not enter in with her: because I will not hear their Lamentations, neither be moved with their groanings. These are the hard and heavy knots, that the evil spirit and mans wit hath wrought together; But because they are humane, they shall perish. G5 Truly it seemeth good to my Mother and me: and our consent thinketh good also, (and the rather because she hath prepared the way by her own wisdom, which part of the North you must alwayes (look unto,) and be directed by. For why, that Constellation is true, and doth teach those that errs; Those also that are right, it comforteth them. -notes- G1 Mater. Modimi. G2 After half an hour. G3 Consilia Dei. G1 But I will go unto my Mother, and ask her once more, whether I may hide these things from you. E.K. She is gone. [delta] We read over the premisses, and gathered, that some treachery was devised against me: And therefore, I beseech God, to give us his counsels, and advises, to be my guide and protector, my light and comfort. E.K. Here she is again. G2 Madimi ..... That you both, or (if you will be distracted) one of you, go secretly hence and speedily unto Lasky: So shall it come to passe, that he whom they intended to imprison, (saying, we will compel him to perform his word, least he peradventure triumph elsewhere against us;) [ and ] may at last, open the Prison Doores for them, and salute a strange King, even in the self same place, where they shall eat to morrows Dinner. But when they perceive that you are gone; Then will they understand that you knew, and that the spirit of God was amongst you. I come again. G3 E.K. She is here againe. Madimi ..... If these words be true, bear witness of the truth: if you think them to be false, you need not follow them. [delta] How soon would you advise me to be going hence? you see how bare I am of money.

Madimi ..... Do so as in an eminent danger. I have spoke the last word. Sed adhuc tria; Omnia succedent voto. [delta] Deo written as he fat at the Table; Hereupon we resorted to the Shew-Stone, and c.] E.K. Here is Madimi. Madimi ..... You have vowed to your selves, and to the Lord, perform your vowes. That which God commandeth, that do. Excuse your selves with men, and gird up your Garments to the travaile; Not in Waggon, but on Horse-back. E.K. I pray you to give us some instructions of my Lord Lasky his being. Travaile hence directly, and unto Wratislania, and there I will meet you. E.K. I pray you to deal openly with us, according to our frail state, and to declare G4 unto us of my Lord Lasky his estate. Madimi ..... You depend not upon Lasky, but Lasky dependeth upon you; if he do evil, his punishment is ready: if he do well, he doth it for himself. I am greater then you, and my eye stretcheth farther then yours; yea, though you went to morrow, G5 you have lost some dayes.

[delta] I must carry my Books with me, we must be at the least three horse. G6 Madimi ..... Not so, but thou shalt hide them.
[delta] Am I to return hither again, before my wife come from hence? Madimi ..... I am not flesh, neither do I move, or am moved with flesh; But if you fulfill the first, the rest followeth. Do this, as though you committed theft, Secretly and speedily. G7 for if the hours be diminished, the purpose shall also want successe. Ductus es, sequere si vis. The hand is open, and ready to take hold on you, what therefore shall I say more to you?
[delta] What hand I pray you? Madimi ..... Manus amplectens non rapieuis. [delta] Lord I understand not that neither. E.K. She is gone. [delta] In manus, tuas Domine, Commendamus nostra corpora, animas nostras and spiritus nostros. Amen. Wednesday.

February 28. Mané circa 6 horam. At Limberg. Thursday. Note, I had caused from 4 of the clock in the morning the Horses to be looked unto, so as, by five, or as soon as it was break of day, we might be riding. In the mean space while E.K. yet lay in his bed awake, and I was in the next Chamber by, in ordering my things of my male. E.K. heard a voice (like mine) say D. Whereat he asked me, what say you? I answered, that I spoke nothing. Then he doubted what creature did use that voice. Afterward he rose: and when he had been ready a while, and sate in the Chamber where my male lay, he said, that he felt somewhat crawling, or as one writing on his back, and at length to ascend into his head. And so I left him, and went out into another place, and kneeled to pray, and prayed, and upon the coming in of Thomas Kelly into that room where I kneeled (in the Door of a little open Gallery over the street) I rose up, and went in again to E.K. and he told me that he slumbered by reason of the heavinesse of his head, and that he seemed to see me praying, and Michael to stand by me. I answered, that truth it was I had been somewhat bent to prayer, but that I could not pray as I would, and c. Hereupon, Immediately he saw Michael over my G1 Head with a pen in his hand: There upon I was resolved that I was to write somewhat of importance: And I made speed to take pen, ink and paper, and to settle my self to writing, because we made hast to ride, as intending to ride 8 or 9 miles that day, and company tarrying for us: one of them being a Jew, whose sister is wife to Doctor Salmon of Prague the Jew, and c. And going about to attend for something to write, a voice said, as followeth. G2 Cur non includis te ad audiendum vocem meaus? [delta] Hereupon, I did shut all the Doors, and uttermost Doors. G3 A voice ..... In receptaculo, ut magis approbetur veritas. [delta] Hereupon speedily I took out the Shew-stone, and set it on the Table before E.K. E.K. Here appeareth a white Circle round about the border of the Stone, and a ball or Globe of flaming fire in the midst; The white Circle hath great brightnesse of light in it. G4 E.K. Now here is Madimi, she standeth in the white Circle: and looketh into the fire, she kneeleth. On the outside of her, standeth Michael with a sword. E.K. Madimi is gone away, and

 Speak, for who controlleth me? E.K. Michael boweth himself toward his feet, as though he kissed the place where he stood: as if it were the Circle that he kissed. Michael ..... These are the words of the Lord, and of me his Angel, and Minister of truth: and they follow. Behold, I have led you forth diverse times: and you have obeyed me. Therefore I say unto you, Be now Stewards of more. [delta] O merciful God. E.K. He spreadeth his Arms abroad, and stoopeth down. Michael ..... He that committeth his Treasure unto man, findeth favour, and at his return hath his own. But he that committeth himself unto me, and heareth my voice, I will write his Name in the Book of Life.
 Behold, Behold, Behold, I swear and it is. G5 That in thee, Dee, I delight. And lo, because thou hast obeyed me, and not of force of human perswasions, I shew unto thee what is to come, and what I would have thee to do: and wherefore thou comest hither. [delta] Fiat voluntas Dei. E.K. Michael ..... Cover me for a while, lest peradventure thou see I am beyond the ability of thy capacity, and so return not easily. E.K. He becommeth very bright. [delta] I understood not well this saying, neither E.K.
 Michael I say unto thee cover the receptacle. [delta] We covered the stone a while, and read the premisses. E.K. He is brighter then he was, the Circle of light shineth still. [delta] We uncovered the Stone, and then he spake again. Michael .....
 Before twelve moneths of your account be finished, with the Sunne: I will keep my promise with thee, as concerning the destruction of Rodulph: lest peradventure, he triumph, as he often doth. For, thy lines are many times perused by him; Saying, This man doted, G6 where is become his God, or his shall shew what it is to govern, when God placeth. In his time will I fullfil many things that I have promised thee, and I will be

approximet ad te. Michael ..... The speedy return of Curtrus was to deliberate with Rodolph how they might, (under the colour of Justice) entangle thee. And lo, whom thou fostredst and feast as thy Table, is he, that hath wet his hand in the dish with thee, and hath delivered thee. G3 Moreover, he hath betrayed his Master: And the cause of his adversity, hath had chief root in him. From the third year he hath done unjustly: and hath made naked his Lords secrets. But he shall have his reward: and shall perish with his own hand. Before thou camest out of thy own Doores, to take thy Journey, Rodolph knew of thy going. And for a truth, his letters are before thee. Therefore, it behoveth me, to give thee warning, and to teach and instruct thee, as one exercised in my businesse. Cover me, I am become cleerer.

[delta] We covered the Receptacle. After a while we uncovered it. Michael ..... This therefore shalt thou do. The same way thou camest, the same way thou shalt also return: Not to slie from their malice or tyranny: But to stand in the face of them as my servant. G4 Hereby, indirectly, shall the Traitor understand you know him. And Rodolphus hard heart, I will stir up with indignation against him. For he shall be construed a Lyar. And they shall begin to fear thee, and also to love thee: and thou shalt be in favour amongst them. G5 Annuate their doings, and hear their sayings. And those things they shall offer thee, refuse not. I will send one out to pay them their wages. Moreover, I command thee Kelly, (But in my own person, I counsel and advertise thee) that thou take part with the Lord Jesus: And go forward with the businesse thou hast in hand. G6 For why? They shall be shortly made open and plain; lest thy ( ) word (to the Emperour he meaneth) receive foil in the hearts of men. But I bind it not to that place. For, the fruit that springeth of it, shall do my service with Steven; And yet, if he will, with that unjust Lasky. And it shall be a Garden for you: wherein you shall not borrow of the World, but of the Gift of God. And hitherto I will deal with thee, that the least thing which thou hast bestowed in obedience toward me, shall not be forgotten. Live you together, as brethren: and wonder together, at my works, and in me, for there shall G7 not a hair of your head perish; So that you listen, and be obedient unto my voice. When therefore thou comest home, hide not thy self; But see, that the Infant be regenerated.

[delta] As concerning the Godfathers: shall I request and use such as I intended? Michael ..... Do, that thou hast done. But put all these things up amongst the secrets of your hearts, as though not seeing, yet seeing all things. Let these for this time suffice. E.K. The fire is gone, he and all. Upon which occasion my wife thought it best to send the letter to him, and so did, not long before my coming home. Which thing when I understood, I was half sorry for it, and sent presently word to Master Balthasar of my coming home, and to certifie him that my wife had erred to send that letter unto his worship before Friday night, when she might perceive that indeed I did ride forth to Bressel. He thereupon was desirous to speak with me, and of him I received my Letter which he had perused, and offered himself most ready to satisfie the content thereof, and c. Now to the chief purpose, At my return home from Master Balthasar Federick ab Ossa, I found Emericus Sontagius, in my wives stove with Master Kelly, who at the sight of me was sore amazed, and half not able, or not willing to speak, but said, vos estis veteres equites. Then Mr. Kelly told me, that Emericus had told him, that the Emperor had been all day yesterday very melancholic, and would speak with no body. And that he knew of my journey in a moment when it was, and that by the Jews, and specially by the Doctor his son, that had gone about to get me the four horses, and laboured very much with himself (unasked) to perswade me that the Emperor his first and chief understanding of it was by the Jews, and c. Hereupon (being now night) he went home. + Pragæ. Martii 14. Thursday. Ameridie, hora 2 ½. Baptizatus erat Michael Dee filius meus in arcis Pragensis majori Templo. ..... Against divine necessity is no prayer nor resistance. E.K. I feel nothing, in my head now, and till now I did, as is moved before. .... Come, ô you Prophets, and render your accounts. Come, O you that have sucked of the breasts, wherein the judgments and secret will of the Lord is hid, and of Necessity to come, Gather your selves together, render some account why the King of eternity descending from the heavens hath so often visited you? And why he hath rather visited you, in the Desert, upon mighty and high Mountains, unranked of men. Tell, I say, what the cause is, that he hath come down into the Fens, and amongst your flock: Could not this God have lifted you up, and have brought you into his secret chambers? Could he not have ravished you unto himself, and so have carried you about with him that you might see his great wisdom unknown to man, and the abundance of Glory, wherein he hath his habitation. There is none of you that dare presume to say, that you deserved the Lord his presence. There is none of you that dare open his mouth, saying, God hath need of us. Tell therefore what is the cause that God hath visited you. [delta] The unsearchable judgments and determinations of the highest, and c. .... Be silent, thou answerest before thou art called. .... What is there none of you that answereth me? No, where art thou? Job, where art thou? Moses, where art thou? Zylron, where art thou? Syracasba, where art thou? Daniel, where art thou? Jonas, where art thou? Ezechiel, where art thou? Holy, holy Esdras, where art thou? You lesser Prophets, where are you? You number without number, (whom the Lord hath talked withal) wherefore shew you not your selves? All these were full of the Holy Ghost. All these mortified their flesh for the love of God. Yet, what, are you not able to render account or to shew the true cause why God hath visited you? God visited you so long, and so oft, so mercifully and so abundantly, and are you silent and ignorant? Why? Mandata tua justa sunt Domine. What, was this the cause that God visited you for, that you should fulfill his Commandments, and teach his people the way of salvation? True it is, it was the cause that moved you to obedience. But the very cause why God appeared unto you, you know not. Behold, the Commandments of God are just and true; whose sons you are: if therefore you follow not the Commandments of your father, you are disobedient. But why, your Father hath commanded you: Lo, I teach you. When God of very God, the true light, beauty and honour of his Father, contained or was full of the image of an heaven and earth, and by the omnipotent, conjoynd, and equal power and strength of them both, joynd in one, was brought forth, and had his real beginning, he determined also, in the self-same Image and Idea, the due and proper order, just law and determination, of all things that were comprehended, which law and things together have their course co-essential both in heaven and earth, distinguishing all things into their real beginnings, limitation of time, and determination between their extrems. This order or law, begun in the bosome of the Word of God, keepeth so his proper course, and order, and law of his own establishment,. That those things that before were wrought in God, might also receive working and being substantial to the end of God his progression. This is the self-same that we spoke of before, in the name of divine Necessity, against the which no prayer prevaieth, nor resistance can be made. This Necessity was the cause, O you Prophets and Children of God, that God dwelt amongst you. This Necessity was the instrument that brought you to the stage of your election. This Necessity was the cause that God chose you. This Necessity maketh of wax, honey; of tar, milk; of long ranging, return, of Infidels, Christians; of disobedient, holy ones. Finally, of the unperfect and evil, rage and roaming astray of mankind, the true number of such as return from wickednesse, and are chosen to eternal joy from the beginning. But this may seem unto you a strange and stumbling Doctrine. I have laid the Basis. [delta] We read the premisses, which seemed to us very pithy, and ponderous, and full of mysteries.

[delta] I noted two Prophets names, not before. .... This Necessity is two-fold, one (that is to say, the first) contemplative and fix. The other, working and leading to an end. In the first do dwell two great and mighty Judges, Justice and Mercy. In the second dwelleth the son and image of Justice, leading on by order for the course of things, that are led on by the later, have not true Justice, but the image of Justice. This is the cause that the elect and chosen may erre and go astray, and lose the benefit both of the end of his Election and first determination. For why: All things come on, and keep their course, even as they are led, by the image of Justice, [[E.K. He teacheth himself.]] Man onely excepted: which by reason of his free-will, draweth out of order, runneth from the mark, refuseth that which is good, and through the burden of his flesh, inclineth unto evil. In the which evil, whilst he dwelleth and continueth, lo the course of necessity taketh hold upon him, and draweth him unto the scope or end whereunto he inclineth himself. For, behold, Although he be before sanctified unto the Lord, and made a chosen vessel, wherein G1 if he continue, necessarily he shall enjoy the reward and glory of the sanctified. Yet if he lose that Necessity, and fly from his own law and condition, taking part with the filthinesse and iniquity of his enemy, through Satan or his flesh, of Necessity he must perish. G2 For as those that are good, tied unto the law of goodnesse, are glorified, if they continue: so likewise are the evil tyed unto the law of wickednesse, the Necessity whereof is damnable. This is the cause that the Prophets are visited. Because God found them punishing their flesh, despising the vanities of the world, and resisting Satan. For lo, the Lord looked down unto the earth: And he saw them despising wickednesse, fearing him, and grounded in the faith of redemption. Therefore he thrust himself in amongst them, and through the first part of necessity (in mercy) he visited them. Take heed (ô you) that the Lord of necessity visiteth in Justice, for your burden shall be great and intolerable. [[delta] We read and discoursed a pretty while.] E.K. He is gone. E.K. Here he is again. .... Now unto therest. What is (therefore) that necessity divine against the which there is no prayer nor resistance? For why it is evident, That sinners may return, and those that erre, may be brought into the right way, and that by Prayer. G3 Behold, no man is penitent, but he useth Prayer. No man satisfieth, but he useth Prayer. No man taketh part with the Church, but in Prayer, for Prayer is the Key, sanctified by the Holy Ghost, which openeth the way unto God. Necessity had determined the destruction of Ninevee, necessity also saved it. For lo, when they should necessarily have received reward for their wickednesse, they prayed, and resisted necessity. It appeareth, therefore, not yet, what necessity that is, that Prayer prevaieth not against. Note here, The later necessity is necessity, leading malum ad malum, and bonum ad bonum; which necessity is that, which is tyed unto every thing leading it unto the end that it desireth. Even as God, seeing the Prophets forsake the loathsomnesse of their flesh, and framing themselves to the necessity which leadeth unto good, of his meer mercy, in the first, thrust himself amongst them, fixing their later and desired necessity, with a necessity of his Omnipotent and unspeakable mercy wherein there dwelleth two things; Joy, and Perseverance. These therefore (as the Prophets) which are visited with God in mercy, are fed, nourished and fostered as the Prophets were, with these two dishes, Whereof the greatest is Perseverance. Herein I teach you, that he that is first elected and applyeth himself to the necessity of his Election, doing the works that are righteous before the Lord, and receiveth comfort by the visitation of Gods mercy, is sealed to the end of his Election, in gladnesse, and through the value and strength of Perseverance, and cannot fall so far, that he shall be bruised, or run so far astray, that he shall not be able to remember himself. Happy are those that are elected. But happy, happier are those that persevere in their Election. These are those unto whom God imputeth not their sinnes. These are those that sinne and Satan are a weary of, for they are not able to prevaile. These are those which are numbred in the Book of God, and whose brethren tarry as yet for their comming. But the altar shall be opened, and they shall rise. -notes- G1 If he continue. G2 If G3 Prayer.

But is there a mercy fixed, and doth this mercy also six Justice; Or as I have called it the Image of Justice. It is evidont; So also is there a Justice that is fixed, a Justice triumphing, a Justice mighty' a Justice unable to be resisted, a Justice that Prayer prevaieth not against, yea, a Justice that Hell and the Devil are condemned in. This is that Justice, this is that two edged sword, this is, that Iron Mall, wherewith those that refuse their Election, or are not elected, following the necessity of wickednesse, are and shall be cut in pieces with, beaten into small powder, and be cast in to the lake of fire and brimstone. This is be that sealet up the second Hell, with the second death. This is that you, ô you starvelings, you vagabonds, you stiff-necked and stinking sinners ought to dread and fear! Hath God elected you, and do you disdain it? Hath he provided a Seat for you, an Honour for you, a Crown for you, a Wedding Garment for you, his eternal glory for you. And will you force him to cast it into the fire. Shall the finger of God write you, and shall the vengeance of God root you out. Repent I say, and flie from your iniquity. Return into the way of the Lord, least God seeing your wickednesse, your un-natural and inhumane rebellion, your disobedience against your father, thrust himself upon your necessity with his justice and vengeance. Which thing if you do, Prayer prevaieth not, much lesse is their resistance. Are you not afraid to lose the sight of God, and to be deprived of the glory of his Majestie? Are you not afraid of the unspeakable flames and fire-brands of Hell, which are prepared for the wicked? What shall I say unto you? Shall I take pity upon you? Why care you not for your selves? Shall I pray unto God for you? You pray not for your selves. Shall I bestow goodnesse upon you? Hui, you despise it. Shall I bring three Sheep from the Mountains, and shall I lose two of them before I come Three sheep: home. O you mortal men, be merciful unto your selves, Take pity on your selves. Fall into the true judgment of light and darknesse, of good and evil, of eternal Glory and Damnation. For, behold, I tell you, that God is ready to thrust himself, yea, to throw himself as a might stone upon you. Against the which there is no time of prayer, nor nothing that can prevaile. I have here taught you, and exhorted you. Exhorted you to forsake your wickednesse, and to cleave unto the Lord. Taught you that those that are elected may lose their election, and may be established in their Election. Also that those that are not elected run by the rule of necessity unto the end of their wickednesse, which is rewarded with eternal fire. From the which God of his mercy, and in his Sonne Jesus Christ, who hath redeemed you, is yet ready, if you will, to deliver you. Hal rowgh ha. [delta] We long discoursed of sundry things, and each reproved other of haughtinesse, or pride of mind, how justly we did it God knoweth. E.K. He is here still. [delta] O Lord order these matters with us, and between us, to thy Honour and Glory. E.K. -- G1 ..... Then E.K. and we, receive at one fountain, we are created and made by one God, to the end we should glorifie him, as our Creator, you, as your Redeemer and Creator [because] But lo, we are of Heaven heavenly, comforted and nourished with the glory of God, wherein (since the ([delta]) division made amongst us) we erre not: you to the intent you may be proved, are covered with mortality and corruption, to the intent that the judgment of God may allow you, for those places you are apt to inherit. If therefore we be both refreshed of God, have our beginning from God as from our Creator, let us both acknowledge his goodnesse, and glorifie him in the works of our hands: we, in our angelical forms, you; in the Skirmish wherein you fight, by fighting manfully, and overcoming. Yet of us thou halt, as those have that are rewarded in the labour of him that is sent in message from the giver. If the King send his Messenger unto thee, he ought for three causes. First, for the person from - notes- G1 Note E.K. had said, let them give me somewhat, or some thing beneficial to my mind or body; and then I will like the better of them. [delta] The fall of Angels.

whence he commeth. Secondly, for the authority of his message, or goodnesse of reward. Thirdly, G1 that by him you receive the benefit, whereby you are gratified. Even so deal with us for us he may say, you fare the better by him, in respect of his labour, and the authority that he useth: so may we say, you fare the better by us. But let the heaven and earth bear witness (besides the benefits of God) of our good will towards you. But answer me. E.K. What say you to me: wherein. .... As touching your receiving, as touching thy taking part with Christ Jesus, very God and man: the Son of the living God, whose precious blood cryeth out continually before his Father for G2 the sins of the people. Whether is greater, the authority of truth, by the Church Militant, or Triumphant? Answer you [E.K.] to that. E.K. By the Church Triumphant. .... Even such is our authority. Therefore it is greater then the authority of him that is a fleshly Priest. If The Angels that have appeared unto you, had appeared also unto the Jews, saying, Crucifie not the Son of God, they would not have done it. For though they believed not man, yet would they have believed an Angel. Therefore did God the Father acknowledge his Son Christ, by both Churches: as you may read by the Angels that appeared to the Shepherds, acknowledging from heaven the truth, that Jesus was the Son of God. E.K. What is the Church? I did not think that the Angels were of any Church. The Church is the number of those which are governed by the Holy Ghost, and that continually sing Holy, Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Zebaoth: But that we sing so, the Scriptures bear witness.

Therefore we are of the Church, and our testimonies are true. I counsel you therefore to put on humility, and to make your selves subject before the truth. Love one another, not because you are men, but because you are partakers of the heavenly testimony. In respect of thy body and mind, I answer thee, that thy body is which now had not been, and what thy minde seeth, commeth through the light that we leave with it. But if we for sake thee, thy body is not, much lesse shall thy understanding be. Stay and I come again. [delta] We read, and E.K. marveled at the aptnesse and soundnesse of their answer. E.K. Here he is again. E.K. I cannot tell F or P. .... When ø hath ended, and P hath ended, I come again. E.K. He is here. When P hath ended, and L hath ended (which is at hand) then cometh the son of perdition, and entreth. Of these two Letters I will say more, in your next action. The Light of heaven be amongst you. Is there any like unto thee, O Jehovah in Heaven and in Earth, or can thy enemies rise up [saying] against thee, and shall they stand, O thou whose look is more terrible unto thy Angels, then all the fires which thou hast created, either in the bottomlesse pit or in the life of all Elemental Creatures, or above in the heavens if they were gathered together in one can be terrible to man. Hast thou not made Heaven and earth, and hast put thy head no where, and thy feet somewhere; because without thee there is not, and without thee there cannot be? O thou that hast numbred the Starres, and art Dominus Dominantium above those that govern them, and more in knowledge then their Government. Thou, Thou, Wilt thou suffer thy Name to be trodden under foot? Thou, Thou, Wilt thou correct the Heavens, and the whole seed of man? Wilt thou drown the World with waters, and root the wicked from the face of the Earth? Wilt thou cast down the loathsome and wicked Cities, that they may grow in the terrour of thy judgment? Wilt thou send so many Plagues into Egypt? Wilt thou suffer all these things to be done and many more memorable, which are all in thee: And G2 thou permit one Man, one Soul to be thus carried away with Satan to the dishonoring and treading under foot of thee, and thy light of thee, and thy truth. If the King exalted him which magnified Truth before the strength and Policy of Women: extolled him before his Princes, and caused for his sake the building of this Temple to go forward: Wilt G3 thou not punish him that despiseth truth, that preferreth the wantonness and voluptuousnesse of the World (that errant strumpet) before thy word, and before the strength of a heavenly Authority: Art thou so become a little one, that thou art lesse then a King? hast thou turned thy face so far aside that thou seest not this Rebellion? Can one man be dearer unto thee then the whole World was? or shall the Heavens be thrown head-long down, and shall be go uncorrected? Hast thou Mountaines and Stones untrodden on, out of the which thou canst shew thy Praise and Honour? Are G4 there not yet Infants which may be sanctified to speak with the Heavens, that thou so hidest thy selfe away from justice; What, what, if those that often cry for grace receive it not, yet dost thou give it unto him that commeth from it. Behold, thy Ministers cry out unto thee, and send thee word, calling thee Master, King. Take heed the City be not built, take heed the walls of it be not lifted up, and as they that were the Messengers of the King made evident before his face that it was against his commodity, to have the Temple of the Lord built up, to have the City new shape, to have the Walls made strong, G1 because it should hinder his passage into C losyria, and the rest. E.K. Now the 12 (he excepted) fall down. Mich. .... And thy Ministers have they not said unto thee, if this work of the Lord go forward, if the City sent down from the Heavens may receive a place to set her selfe in, if the Walls and Rampiers of this that was built above shall be placed on any place of the World on earth, Behold, Behold, will it not hinder thy cause, will it not subvert thy Kingdome, will it not turn thee out of Doors: will it not bring thee to a terrible day before the Lord? Is it not written, that day shall be terrible to Satan, and his Angels? And wilt thou suffer a Door to be opened, wherein it may enter, it behoveth thee Satan here to bend thy bow, it behoveth thee now to draw up thy arrowes. And if thou intend to plant on earth, that it may grow, time is, yet, now to weed out this Message from above. 'Do thy Messengers give thee warning of these things, dost thou holdback thy force: when the Porters will betray the City, would deliver it into thy hands, would break down the walls before thee, what I say art thou like to enter, thou that loseth no opportunity, art thou so negligent: Behold, the Doors stand open before thee, why entrest thou not. Dost thou want fire, lo, he that betrayeth it hath fire for thee, yea, rumor. Behold, he offereth himself a companion, what wouldest thou more, unto these things thou bearest the sayings of thy servants, which say unto thee O Satan, if this City be built, and the walls erected; Thou canst not go into the Holy Land: And lo, hearest thou not them, neither dost regard this opportunity, whence art thou so forgetful, O God? great is thy mercies, and far art thou above the sinnes of man: O thou not only shuttest up the eyes of the wicked, that they cannot see truth before their face, but the profound [the] malice and sight of Satan, that where be should most enter he misseth that place, and when time serveth him, that be letteth it passe. G2 But so, so, God, thou givest to whom, and where thou wilt, and even as thou art terrible in Justice, so likewise art thou wonderful in mercy; Therefore of thee is no end, neither can be added any end. G3 This thy great mercy is the cause that this blasphemous Rebellion is yet unpunished; This is the cause that Satan misseth his mark, and is become weak. If any man make a pot, an earthen vessel, worketh he not, tempereth be not, to the end to make a pot? But lo, when he hath made it, and applieth it to his intent, if even he again destroy it, is he not vain? Do not those that stand by him wonder at him? More marvel is it, that when Satan shouteth and hitteth the mark, that he should be blind, yea, so blind, that be knoweth not where to gather up his arrow? But lo, the Temple was built, and the City stood, although the work was left off for a while, G4 and he that magnified truth went with glad tidings, neither desiring rich apparel, neither to sit next the King, but that the City of the Lord might be built, and that the Name of God might be magnified, so shall it be of this City which the Lord hath sent down with his finger, his unsearchable G5 and wonderful truth: the Revelation and Law of time to come, it shall be built, it shall flourish, it shall stand, it shall endure, it shall be magnified, it shall be spoken of through all the World, and it shall not cease. Behold, the King of Kings hath allowed it and the love of truth, is great with him, what hath he to do with Kings? or wherein needeth he the beauty of the Earth? Domini est terra, and plenitudo ejus. Whosoever therefore sticketh unto truth, shall be exalted with God, which is the King of Kings shall be magnified before his Counsellors, rot Counsellors fore-warning, but Counsellors per taking of holy Will: not called Counsellors, in respect of counselling him, but in that they are made privies of the Counsel of God: Before these also shall he be magnified. E.K. For what end saith he all this. Oye Infidels, and of little faith, which tast of the meat that was hidden from the Prophets, which are over-shadowed with the light of heaven, which have alwayes associated with the holy Ministers of God, wherefore are you so stiff-necked, pleasant is the yoke wherein you are linked, and honourable is the earth that you draw the plow upon, for the Lord followeth, and his Angels drive, and the seed that is sown shall be the beginning of glory. O yee stiff-necked people, why for sake you your visitation, or runne astray from your faith that you are driven in, do you make much of the Lords of the earth? Do you delight in her drosse that harlot money? Do you give reverence to the King, and stand you in fear to break his Lawes? have you a greater Lord then the Lord of Heaven and Earth, have you any money or jewels to be compared to his Grace? have you any honour on Earth, that can stand up against the Crown of Heaven? -notes- G1 1 Esdras 2.24. wherewith God crowneth those that are Victors? Have you any Law sweeter then the pure illuminations, and sweet dew like comforts, the voices and presence of the holy angels? Be mindful, be mindful, and lift up your selves, and be not blind, but consider the time of your visitation, and that which you do, is the work of a King, a King which is able in power, strength, and majestie to exalt you, to strengthen you, and to make you honour able, but in the end of the Visitation, and in the reward of your faithfulness, work not to day, and be sorry to morrow; But lay sorrow a side, and continue your labor, least peradventure God unhood-wink, and make open the sight of Satan, and so deliver you. We, wo, be unto them that are delivered, for believe me their tribulation is great. There is horroure and gnashing of teeth, there is misery and vengeance for ever, there is horroure and the worm of conscience. But two things are to be considered, here, whether the temptation be greater then the resistance, or the resistance, more dignified then the rigor of temptation. Behold, the work is great, the labour is also equal unto it; And to fight against the Princes of darknesse in a set battail, requireth great force. The temptations therefore that follow you, must needs be great, I see therefore the temptations surmounteth your strength, and your dignity is not such as can resist against it; For why, Satan striveth not with you, simply for the sinne of Adultery, for the dregs of Fornication, for the covetous desire of money, for the want of charity, or because you are proud; But he striveth, riseth up against you and tempteth you against the Lord, and against the strength of his truth, whereunto you are elected: Therefore, I give sentence. Lo, because that temptations hath entred into you above your power, and not so much for the subverting as of the work of the Lord intended, and of necessity to be done. G1 Therefore, I proceed not against you, but against Satan, and God shall deliver you from your temptations; And this shall be a sign and token, that I will hamper and bridle the jawes of the enemy, that is to say, so long as thou (Kelly) art in this flesh, never shall there appear, or visibly shew himself unto thee any wicked or evil spirit, neither shalt thou be haled in pieces, as thou hast been, whosoever therefore appeareth hereafter is of God; For thy eyes shall be shut up from the wicked object. Et intellectu tuo Non introibit umbra mortis. G2 But now take heed, thou either perverse or froward, stiff-necked or disobedient; The sinne is of thy self, and shall fall upon thee, and thou shalt not be spared as thou hast been; Now watch and gird up your selves, and do the will of the Highest, preferred and worship truth, that you may be also worshipped. Lift up your selves, as the servants of God, and help to bring stones unto the building of this great City, that you may be openers of the Gates, and that the white G3 horse may enter, and that he that entreth may reward you with honour. Greater then you are in the dignity of truth, are not amongst mortal men, neither shall there be any amongst mortal men that shall more despise the World then you, therefore hath God framed one of you as a stiffe made asse, to bind up the countenance of his work, and to be free from yielding unto Satan, which well under standeth that Satan endevoureth, and that his Ministers cry out against this glorious habitation, which being built, the wicked come not to C losyria, neither shall they see the beauty of the Phænicies. When you have read these things I come again, and ponder them well. We read them, and the places of Esdras; one in the second Chapter of the third Book of Esdras, and the other in the third and fourth Chapter of the same Book. E.K. Now he is here himself alone. G4 Michael ..... A Wood grew up and the Trees were young, and lo, there arose a great Tempest from the North, and the Seas threw out the air that had subtilly stolln himself into them, and the winds were great, and behold, there was one Tree which was older then the rest, and had grown longer then that which shot up by him; This Tree could not be moved with the wind, but the Tree that was young, was moved to and fro with the Wind, and strook himself oftentimes, upon the stiff set Tree: The Forester came and beheld, and said within himself, the force of this wind is great, see this young Tree beateth himself in pieces against the greater, I will go home, and will bring my ground instruments, and will eradicate him, and I will place him further off: Then if the winds come, he shall have room to move: But when he came home, the Lord of the Wood seeing him in areadinesse, with his Mattock and his spade, asked him of his going, which told the thing in order to his Master; But to, his Master rebuked him, and he said thus, when the winds are not they increase, they are not hurtful one to the other, suffer them therefore, when the young Tree taketh roots, and shall look up unto some years, his roots shall link themselves with and under the roots of the greater; Then though the winds come, they shall not be hurtful one to another, but shall stand so much the more fast, by how much the more they are wrapped together, yea, when the old tree withereth, he shall be a strength unto him, and shall adde unto his age as much as he hath added unto his youth. And he ceased to dig. Be not therefore haled in sunder, neither be you offended one at another, peradventure Reason would set you aside: But God will not. Behold, if you break the yoke that you are in, and runne astray, he that erreth shall perish: even so shall be that standeth also be desolate: For why the driver angry, continueth not with one: But he shall return home, and shall not see the end of the Harvest -notes- G1 Signum quo cerci esse possimus quod Deus Satanæ frenum injiciet. Notwithstanding, both have their place in the Orchard, G2 the night let that yield unto day, and Winter bear rule over Summer: Let youth yield unto ripe for years; Solomon saith, it is good for that young man that obeyeth the counsel of his elder; In the Council House the things that they handle are for their Common-wealth; Notwithstanding hath his order and degree. Cast your eye upon all things and you shall have examples; Peter in [Fcb] his vocation preached the same Gospel that the rest of the Apostles did, but he was greater then the rest, not in respect of his Apostleship, nor in respect of feeding, but that God might keep his G3 order, as the chief amongst them, which preferred Peter first, Therefore be not stubborn. But I command you in the Name of him that sent me, and because you have vowed that the one of you did nothing without the others counsel, notwithstanding shall you not be two counselors. Et dele omnes iniquitates meas, cor mundum crea in me, and avertò iram tuam à nobis, Is thy fury implacable, or shall thy anguish last for ever, what is slesh and dust before theo? .....

There shall remaine the sting of this offence, in both your generations, until the fifth. G4 And I swear unto you by heaven. [delta] Spare this Sentence of indignation (O God) against us. Thou hast said in what hour soever a sinner is sorry for his sinnes, and turneth unto the Lord, and c. And Lord, I am heartily sorry, I bewaile with teares this great offence, thou seest my contrite heart, O God, O God, O God, and c. G5 ..... This hath added much, even hath bound up the rod, which I spoke before unto thee. [delta] Thy mercies be recorded, likewise, O Lord, and praised from Generation to Generation. After this we sat and considered, and perceived, and confessed the greatnesse of our offence, how it concerned much the Honour and Glory of God, if we had gone without receiving the advertisement of those Letters; So should they hear (the ) and the King St. have perceived that we had the direction of God, and of his good Angels, and not to have depended upon mans letters, or perswasions, and c. we both a like confessed this great misdoing, and so framed our selves to make all speed away that possible we could, the mercies of God be upon us now and ever. E.K. He is here, and said, Be thou shut for twenty dayes, [delta] xx dayes the Stone is to be shut.] and withal pulled a thing like a Curtain about the Stone, and the Stone seemed to be full of the same substance, being like the froth of the Sea, yet hanging or joyning together like Curds of a posset. -notes- G1 Note my great offence. Aprilis 5. A Pragæ. Friday, I took my Journey from Praga toward Cracoviæ, God be our good speed, E. K. I, Thomas Kelly, and Hugh Brycket my servants. Friday. + Cracoviæ, 1585. Aprilis 12. A meridie we came to Cracoviæ, and as we were within an English mile of the City, being a fair and calm day, there passed about half a mile before us, crossing from the right hand to the left Whirlwinds, divers one after another, wreathing up the dust with great vehemency on high, and shooting forward still, and then mounting into the air, and so went Southerly from us, and likewise some began on the right hand, and came furiously, raising up and wreathing the dust up into the air Southerly also, and did not crosse the way. When we came to our house, we found that a stranger was set into it, by the Landlords (Mr. John Long, the Judge, and Martin Plutner) and having by me the keys of the Store-house, and of the Street-door, I caused my stuff brought with me to be set in, and that night we made hard shift for lodging. But the new and forced in tenants gave me leave to have one of my Bedsteads, which was in one stove, and emptied the same to us, with much ado. Saturday and Sunday we were sore out-faced or rather threatned, that we should have no house there, and also one Bonar his arms were set upon the door, as if the house had been allowed to him ex officio. Monday I made the Rector privy of the Injuries I indured, and he courteously sent two Masters of Art with me to the Proconsul to have Citation for the Landlords to appeat on Tuesday by 7 of the clock, to answer to our complaint. This Monday-night came the Lord Lasky from Lasko, upon a Letter he had received from me from Niso, of my coming. Tuesday (Aprilis 16) the Lord Lasky came to the house, and in the morning would have presently cast all their stuff out of doors, but by entreaty he permitted them to empty all into the lower stove. In the mean space I appeared with my Lawyer or Attorney Mr. Tetaldo, (an Italian) an ancient Practitioner in the Polish and Cracoviæ Causes: And to conclude, I had a Decree against my Landlords, that I was to have at least an half years warning; whereupon John Laugh gave me warning to avoid at Michaelmas, and so we came from the Court or Town-house, called Pratorium in Latine. This same Tuesday afternoon, my Lord Lasky went to the King of Poland up into the Castle, and told him of my comming, and how evilly I was used: and he said, why did he not cast them out of doors? so have I now, quoth the Lord Lasky; and the King granted the House to be holden ex officio: And the next day the King was deference to speak with me. Aprilis 17. Wednesday, I went with the Lord Lasky to the King, to whom I said, to this intent, Consolatio, pax, and misericordia Dei sit tibi, ô serenissime Rex: Corum quo, Divinit us recipi admonitionem, at me sustinem, quod nmuc bumillime facio: par atissimus cum omni fidelitate and sincerit ate eacum Regia vestra Majestate tractare, quæ mibi divinitus injungantur, Zuorum mysteriorum historias de ordine is ordinem referre, prout occasio dabitur, non recusabo aliaque omnia peragere, quæ 'Deo and vestræ Majest ati Regiæ gratia fore intelligero, and c. The King answered, Ut de vestra persona mult a bona audivi absente, it a jam mibi gratus valde est adventus vester, and si quod sit in quo vobis mta gratia and favor, possit esse commodo non deero me vestrum favorem, and protectorem existere: Atque de istis and aliis majoribus rebus aliquid magis opportuni loquendi tempus post festos istos dies: quo tempore vos ad me accersori curabe, and c. Hereupon I made Coursy, as was appertaining, and stepped back somewhat from the King, and so the Vice-Chancellor and other Officers, the chief Secretary brought Bills to be read, and subscribed, or assigned with the Kings own hand, which he did: and after the Lord Lasky had watched a fit time to tell the King of his desire to speak a few words to his Majesty of some of his own affairs, and was bidden to resort straightway after dinner to his Majesty, we took our leave with reverence doing, and so went out of the privy Chamber, or rather with-drawing Chamber through his privy Chamber, where he had said Masse when we came, and so into the Guard-chamber, and down, and c. Friday, I took Ghostly counsel of Doctor Hannibal, the great Divine, that had now set out some of his Commentaries upon Pymander, Hermitis Trismigisti. Saturday (Aprilis 20) I received the Communion at the Pernardines, where that Doctor is a Professor. This day E. K. the Ghostly counsel and comfort, as his case required.

On Easter Monday, very devoutly in Saint Stephens Church E. Behold, I am full of the light of heaven, and I shut up and go.
E.K. She is gone? [delta] Note, all those things I intended or desired to be satisfied in, are answered me without my asking.
Misericordia, Pax, and Lux Dei nobis semper adsint... omnis autem laus, honor, and gloria sit Deo nostro, Amen. Notæ Cracoviæ. Monday, Tuesday, Wodnessday. May 6, and 7,8. E.K. was very unquiet in mind, and so expressed to me in words: for that A. L. had not paid him his money, long since due: and chiefly for that he doubted very much of A.L. his turning to the Lord with all his heart, and constantly. So much did A.L. his former life and ungodly living and dealing offend him, and so void was he of any hope, that he became in a great oppresse of mind to find us coupled with so G1 ungodly a man. I shewed A.L. his last Letters, how he was in a Monastery of his own, belonging to the Castle Rithwyan, (which he had now by a stratagem won from the unjust delaying of his adversary) and what penance and contrition he was in, what meditations, and what godly purposes, and c. But E.K. would not hope of conversion, and thereupon utterly and resolutely intended with all speed to be gone from hence toward Prage, and willed me (if I would) to prepare my Letters. He became very blasphemous against God to my great grief and terrour: what the issue thereof would be, so great was the blasphemy and rebellion against God and his holy purposes in us, that almost greater could not be uttered. I used as quiet words as I could, assuring him of Gods mercies alwayes ready, and his helping hand for all such as put their trust in him, and call upon him in their troubles and times of need, and so did betake him to God for that Tuesday night, being past 9 of the clock. Wednesday morning, as I was at my prayers in my study over his Chamber, and had made declaration of this cause, and of the perplexity most grievous that I was in to see my friend and partner (E.K.) thus carried away with so grievous a temptation, so manifold and vehement. E.K. yet lying in his bed, did call his brother Thomas to him, and willed him to call me to him: Thomas came (when I had in manner ended my devotions and prayers) for me, I went to him, yet lying in his bed: And after I had wished a good morrow, and sate by him on the Bench at his beds head, he began and said such matter as followeth, E.K. A Spirit appeared to me this morning by my Bed-side, and bid me be quiet. Bad me will you to go to morrow with both your servants to my Lord, as secretly as you could. Bad you comfort him. Bad you bring him with you. Bad you to go to the King as you came homeward. Bad me to board in the mean space with the Italian G2 Doctor at Perins house. Bad me lie here every night. Hereupon I was most glad and joyful, and praised God for his marvellous mercies, loving kindnesse and goodnesse toward us, and declared my self assured that God had put out his term, and settled the degree: For the performance of his purposes and promises made to us, for his own honour and glory: And so with joy and thanks given E.K. for his courteous imparting these good news to me, I went about my businesse intended, which was to go to the Table of the Lord: as I was prepared for it, and so went to the Barnardines Church. Soli Deo nostro sit omnis laus, honor, gloria, and gratiarum actio, nunc and semper, Amen. Note, I had in my prayers alledged to God, that albeit I was in great perplexity and agony of mind, yet since I was willed to cease my voice for having at any angelical presence, I said he of his divine clemency and care over us, in these great desires might counsel us and direct us, though we did not urge our request as we were wont. The conclusion and shame which many wayes would follow, if this intended purpose of E.K. should go forward and take place) was so great, that we might seem to the world, to have been led to that evil end, by a manifold digression, rather then otherwise led in mercy and verity, wherein I requested God to regard his own honour and glory, and c. -notes- G1 What should I then think of both them. + Cracovia, Maij 20. Monday a meridie horam circiter 6. In mansio meo. NOTE [delta]. E.K. sitting with me in my study, told me, that after my going to Rithian to the Lord Lasky, he had very many apparitions, and divers matters declared unto him, of the state of Christendom, and c. He said (moreover) fault was found with my manner of standing before Stephen, I should have made some more ample declaration of my Calling and knowledge in these our actions. Secondly, that I did mistake the phrase spoken unto me at Prage of the rod binding up G1 For he said, that Michael Dee should die, that I should thereby be afflicted, and divers such things he told me, and among other that he was willed to be ready to leave me, when he should be called: for, he said, our actions shall be cut off, for some of our unworthnesse, and c. All which things were so grievous unto me, as I was (in manner) ready to sound; and my distresse was the greater, because (after a fort) I was barred from requiring the presence of any of our spiritual friends, till Stephen had been rebuked by the Lord, and I had vowed to obey their commandments and instructions, whereby I was driven to beseech God to consider my cause and grief, who unfainedly desired to be his true Servant: And being desirous to obey them, staying of my vocie for the presence of his good Ministers, I was contented to offer up my obedience herein for a sacrifice; and ready to receive this distresse and affliction, as a punishment for my sins, awaiting his will and pleasure. E.K. said, It shall not be amisse to bring forth the Shew-stone, and assay what the good will of God would be herein. [delta] I fetcht the Shew-stone, and after it had been set about a quarter of an hour. E.K. Espied G2 in it a little naked boy, with a white cloth scarf, from under his Navel hanging down unto his knees; The hair of his head is short as of an young child: [and about that time came the Lord A.L. unto us, who sat down by us:] He had a little Circle of aire in his hand: There is a light in the stone as if there were the shining of the Sunne in it. Puer ..... Creavit, Deus omnia Spiritus oris sui qui etiam Spiritus, defendit and defendet suos, and in nomine suo sperantes. E.K. He throweth up his Circlet, and catcheth it againe, three times; He standeth still, and saith nothing more yet. Puer ..... Perforatus à Domino, loquer. E.K. Now he is turned into a water which goeth round about, and in the midst of it is bloud. Now he is returned to his former shape again. Puer ..... The end of all flesh is at hand. G3 And the sickle of the Highest shall reap down the Monntaines; The Valleys shall be without fruit: And the seed of man shall be accursed. E.K. Now he turneth his face to you [delta.] Puer ..... Who is he that the Lord rejoyceth in, or on whom the Heavens look with merry countenance, whose feet are not à burden to the earth, and in whom is the force of the soul comforted? Who is he that shall rejoyce in the Lord? Even he it is that goeth out of himself, and be holdeth himself, saying, O thou Carcase thou art a Sepulchre for me; Neither am I placed in thee, for thine own beauty, but that the Lord may be magnified, and his Creatures dignified; He it is that shaketh off himself, and putteth on the Armour of Affliction, praising and extolling the Garland of the God of Hosts, before that great Whore, and in despite of her Congregation; He it is that forsaketh his own will, to do the will of him that created him; Whosoever (therefore) doth his own will, is the servant of Perdition; But he that expecteth the will of God is avointed. G4 Behold, therefore, because you do so, and have beheld your selves, not in your selves, have acknowledged the power of God, and the truth of his Message, your Honour shall be great: Therefore fear not, For, to, This Garland is prepared for you: and rest is sealed unto you, of the Highest, unto you, your wives, children and servants. [delta] Blessed be thy Name for ever, O eternal, almighty, and most merciful, cur God and King of Glory.

Puer ..... If the Sunne shine not in vain, if the Stars move not, but by variation and discourse, moving things, alternatim, to an end, if the Earth stand still, because she is so created: Much lesse ought man to despaire in the mercies and promises of God, which are not without a cause, neither any time spoken without effect. I remember thee (Lasky) saith the Lord; And I will chasten thee for thy sinnes, and behold, I swear unto thee, as I have done; But humble thy self. This body of thine shall turn into dust. Take heed therefore that it defile not the greater part; For unto him that dieth a sinner, vengeance is judgment. But if thou live according unto my Lawes; and graft thy self within my will, if thou forsake the World for my sake, and do the works of righteousnesse; Because I have called thee before me, I will adde unto thy yeares, and will not blot out thy Name out of my remembrance. Be not therefore a Man, but the sealed servant of the Highest. Rejoyce in him that created thee, and when I command thee to strike, follow me, for I will make the way very broad for thee. G1 Behold, I am mindful of my Covenant made unto thee, the seventh day of September in the year four score and three. I will establish unto thee, that fortitude, both in true Wisdome and Victory: And I will make thee mighty as a Corner Stone in the Angle of my Temple: if thou turn, if thou do the will of him that speaketh unto thee: if thou become a marble stone, speaking Justice and Verity; The mysteries of thy Crosse light upon thee, and let thy sonnes be blessed in thee. I greatly thirst after Steven, for the course of things are as hand, Behold, I will blesse him, that he may leave blessing unto thee. Behold, I will place thee unto him, as his right leg, and he shall stand. But his wicked Garments I will cut in sunder, yea I will send in the fire of wrath and dissention: And I will take away the buttons from his brest. I have given unto him three wicked Nations, that they may grinde under him as slavish Captives. G2 When I come in one Week, Behold, I strike, and those that are proud, become poor and desolate. The outward face of things shall be changed; And the whole World shall say, Lo here, is the finger G3 of the highest. Rise Therefore, and with speed go before Steven; But the League Table thou shalt leave behind G4 thee. I will reveal my self in thy proper Shew-stone. Dixi: quærite victoriam. [delta] Deo nostro Omnipotenti, Patri totus consolationis and misericordiarum plenissimo, sit omnis Honor. Laus, Benedictio, Gloria and Imperium, nune and semper Amen, Amen. [Note. Maii

L. his head (to the sight of E.K.) a little Child half, the upper part holding over the head of A.L. a white Crown, and a finger out of it pointing toward , and withal he said, Puer ..... Audivi te victores estis. [delta] Hereupon we sat out the Shew-stone, as being ready and desirous to be instructed, according as the cause chiefly required. As I began to pray and study, Domino non sumus digni ut nos exaudias, suddenly E.K. said he saw as followeth. E.K. I see a great Hill of fire, a very great Mountain, and it is as if it did hang in the aire: for I see the aire under it, and I see the Sun shine on it the Mountain fire flameth not. Now the little boy that appeared last day, standeth on the top of this Mountain. Puer ..... What have all the Princes of the World built a Tower against me? These in denying me and my Majestic: The other wallowing in extream drunkenness amongst the pleasures and blindness of the flesh, neglecting (without fear) my Commandements, have I thrown out the Children from the Vineyard, and called in the Dung-carriers? have I visited my servants, (whom I chose,) in wrath and indignation with the Sword of Justice? have I that scattered them upon the face of the World, without a Shepherd, to entertain blasphemous Murderers, Lyars, and the Runnagates of the Earth, the seed of Cain, and of the cursed! O you Caterpillars, O you that fill the Earth with poison! O you abusers of my Name, and Dishonorers of my Temple! What is the cause that you are so barren, or that the Lord hath not mightily shewed himself amongst you, as unto his Children? Why are not the Miracles and Wonders a Testimony of the God of Truth amongst you, as they were unto the Israelites? Why, hath not the Sea divided her self? Why, hath not the Lord delivered you from bondage? Unto the Israelites he gave a fruitful -notes- G1 Forte Uriel. G2 Bohemia. G3 Egomet ulter existam vide Junii 24. G4 Anglice hoc dixit.

O thou stif-necked generation this is the cause, that the finger of God commeth not amongst you: This, this is the cause, because you have not Faith: Neither is the Spirit of godliness and obedience amongst you, can he that is all Truth defile himself with lying; or can the flesh of man diminish the authority of the Godhead: is Christ Jesus, (very God of very God) of less power or strength unto you, then he was before, unto the seed of Abraham: because he hath taken your flesh upon him. O you ignorant, ô you blind strangers, ô you that were faithful in the sight of the Lord, is not the god of Heaven and Earth heire unto you, by reason of his Man-hood have you not now access your selves unto the Throne of the Highest, which your Fathers had not? the Israelites ran unto the Prophets and high Priests: yea, they durst not run before the Lord: For it was said of them G1 Let them stand before the hill. They brought their offerings to the Priest, which offered up their prayers and humility: But unto you (ô you of little faith) the Gates are set open: yea, even unto the Throne of God: why therefore, doe you not ascend unto your Christ, Which is anointed before the Father. Hath he anointed him for him self, or for you? for both: If you have no miracle, you have no faith, if you have (saith the Son of God) faith, to be compared with a Mustard-seed, and c. G2 But you do none of these things, neither is the name of God magnified amongst you, Is it not a shame, that the faith of man groweth not to be equal with a Mustard-seed, is it not a signe of your slavish nature, from the which you were called, that there is no faith amongst you? True it is: For why the blood of Christ is shed upon you: and you are washed without deserts, G3 Behold now (saith the Lord) when I have stirred up a Moses there are no Israelites that will follow him: the seed of Abraham is destroyed with the Winter of self-love and dis-obedience. The Lord groaneth, saying: Whether shall I turn me? unto whom shall I shew my face? if I say unto them go out, set your Tents against the wicked: Behold, I will be amongst you, and fight for you: who is it that heareth me? where is your faith become? who is be that believeth me, O you wicked generation shall the Lord call you and seeke you deliverance, and will you know of the G4 Lord or who hath known thy beauty? Great art thou in thy holy ones, and mighty in thy word amongst the Sonnes of men: Thy Testament is holy, and undefiled, The glory of thy Seat, and the health of thy Sonnes: Thy anointed is sacrificed, and hath brought health unto the faithful, and unto the Sonnes of Abraham. Thy spirit is everlasting, and the oil of comfort: The Heavens (therefore) gather themselves together, with Hallelujah to bear witness of thy great indignation and fury prepared for the Earth, which hath risen up with the Kings of the Earth, and hath put on the Wedding Garments: saying with her self I am a Queen: I am the daughter of felicity. Remember all ye, that are drunken with my pleasure, the Character I have given you, and prepare your selves to contend with the Highest, set your selves against him, as against the anointed, for you are become the Children of a strong Champion: whose Sonne shall garnish you with the Name of a Kingdome, and shall poure wonders amongst you, from the starers, which shall put the Sunne the steward of his Waggon, and the Moon the handmaid of his servants. But, O God, she is a Lyar, and the ire brand of destruction. For, behold, thou art mighty, and shalt triumph, and shalt be a Conquerer for ever. E.K. Now the Stone is full of white smoak. [delta] A Pause. E.K. The smoak is gone, and here standeth one over him in the aire with a Book, whose nether parts are in a cloud of fire, with his G1 hair sparsed, his arms naked, the Book is in his right hand, a four square Book, with a red fiery cover, and the leaves be white on the G2 edge, it hath 7 seales upon it, as if the claspes were sealed with 7 golden Seales. Rejoyce O thou the House of Jacob, for thy visitation is at an end, and thy visitation is beginning: The four winds shall gather thee together, and thou shalt build up the trodden wall: I he bridegroom shall dwell with thee. And lo, behold, the Lord hath sworn, and wickednesse shall not enter into thee, neither shall the Spirit of the Highest go from thee, but thy fathers bones shall have rest; And ti ou shalt live eternally. The bloud of the Innocents shall be washed away from thee, and thou shalt do penance for many dayes. Then shall the Lamb stand in the midst of thy streets O Hierusalem: and shall give Statutes unto thy people and inhabuants: All Nations shall come unto the House of David: The Mothers shall teach their infants, saying, Truth hath prevailed, and the Name of the Lord shall be the G6 Watch-man of thee, O City. with acceptable Truth, as the chosen servants and Ministers of the Highest G1 Totus mundus in maligno positus est, and is become the open shop of Satan, to deceive the Merchants of the Earth with all abomination. But what, are you the Pedlers of such wares? or the Carriers abroad of lies and false doctrine. Do you think it is a small matter to tie the sense of Gods Scriptures and mysteries unto the sense and snatching of your Imaginations? Do you count it nothing to fit in judgment against the Spirit of God: leaving him no place, but at your limitation. Is it lawful before the Sonne of God, to spend the whole dayes, yea, many yeares, with the Sonnes of Satan, the lying imps, and deceivers of the World? Are you so far entred into the shop of abomination, that you point unto the Sonne of God the time of his comming, the descending of his Prophets, and the time wherein he shall visit the Earth? Meseas durst not speak, but from the Lords mouth: The Prophets expounded not the Law, but the voice of the Lord. The Sonne of God spoke not his own words, in that he was flesh, but the words of his Father; His Disciples taught not; but through the holy Ghost; Dare you (therefore) presume to teach, and open the secret Chamber of the Highest, being not called? Tell me, have you left your Merchandize, and the counting of your mony deceitfully gotten, to become Teachers of the Word of God? Are you not ashamed to teach before you understand? yea, are you not ashamed to lead away, where you cannot bring home? Hypocrites you are, and void of the Holy Ghost, lyars you are become, and the enemies of Christ, and his holy Spirit. Peradventure you will say, in reading the Scriptures we understand. But tell me, by what spirit you understand them: what Angel hath appeared unto you? or of which of the Heavens have you been instructed? It may be you will say of the Holy Ghost, O thou fool, and of little understanding! Dost thou not understand that the Holy Ghost, is the School-master of the Church, of the whole Flock and Congregation of Christ? If he be the School-master (therefore) over a multitude, it followeth then, that one doctrine taught by the Holy Ghost, is a lesson or an understanding of a multitude: But what multitude are of thine understanding or of what Congregation art thou? Wilt thou say, thou art scattered. Thou speakest fasly, thou art alunnagate. But, behold, I teach thee, and thy error is before thy face. Whosoever doth understand the Scriptures must seek to understand them by Ordinance and spiritual tradition. But of what spiritual tradition understandest thou? or by what Ordinance are the Scriptures opened unto thee? Thou wilt say thou art informed by the Holy Fathers, and by the same Spirit that they taught, by the same Spirit thou understandest. Thou sayest so, but thou dost not so. Which of thy Fore-fathers hath tred reason to the Word of God? or the understanding of the Scriptures to the Discipline of the Heathen? I, say unto thee, that thy Fore-fathers were dear unto Christ, were pertakers of the heavenly visions and celestial comforts, which visions and celestial comforts, did not teach unto them, a new exposition of the Scriptures, but did confirm and give light unto the mysteries of the Holy Ghost spoken by the Apostles, the ground-layers and founders of the Church. Whatsoever, therefore, thou learnest of thy Fore-fathers, thou learnest of the Apostles, and whatsoever thou learnest of the Apostles thou hast by the Holy Ghost. But if thou expound the Fathers after thy sense, and not after the sense of the Apostles, thou hast not the Holy Ghost, but the spirit of lying. Therefore G2 humble thy self and fall down before the Lord. Lay reason aside, and cleave unto him. Seek to understand his word according to his holy Spirit. Which holy Spirit thou must needs sinne, and shalt find in a visible Church, even unto the end. I will plainly say unto thee (That, Truth may appear mightily in light:) Whosoever is contrary unto the will of God, which is delivered unto his Church, taught by his Apostles, nourished by the Holy Ghost, delivered unto the World, and by Peter brought to Rome, by him, there taught by his Successors, held, and maintained, is contrary to G3 God and to his Truth. Luther hath his reward. Calvin his reward The rest, all that have erred, and wilfully runne astray, separating themselves from the Church and Congregation of Christ obstinately, and through the instigation of their father the Devil, have their reward. Against whom the Sonne of God shall pronounce judgment, saying, - notes- G1 Malitia, Mundama, Pompa, and Vanitas. G2 Reason. Ecclesia visibilis. G3 Luther. Calvin: Wilfully, Obstinate erring. Go you deceivers into Hell fire, provided for your Father and his Children from the beginning. You rise up amongst your selves, saying, The Pope is Antichrist; For by this name you call G1 him, an evil man he may be, and fall from his vocation: But he can never be Antichrist: For Antichrist is he, the sonne of the Devil, a man, flesh and bloud, born of a wicked and deceitful Harlot, that shall seduce the people, swell with the strength of his father, and resist God in Earth amongst men, as his father did in Heaven among the Angels, utterly denying his Omnipotency, and setting himself against him. O you fools, and of little understanding: When unto the Apostles, the Keyes of Heaven were G2 given, that is to say, the same authority and power of Christ Jesus the Sonne of the Living God, to forgive sinnes, and to exclude sinners from the Kingdome of Heaven; (And) when unto the same Apostles; it was said also Come behind me Satan: you have not understanding to see into the mysteries of the Highest; if the Sonne of God did commend and reprehend his Disciples, why may not G3 (therefore) a Bishop, be counted good and evil; if it follow (therefore) that good and evil may be a Bishop, it followeth also, that neither good nor evil addeth unto the Authority of a Bishop, but unto his own life; if he be good he reapeth the benefit of his goodnesse, but if he be evil, he is a Lyar, because his Doctrine is against himself, if therefore for the sinne of man, God hath suffered many in the spirit of G4 Ananias to sit in the holy place, it is for your sinnes sake; and for your rebellious nature to be punished: And not for the obscuring or darkening of his Church. Open your eyes therefore, and understand, and cleave to the Church for the Church sake, and not for the love of man. Despise not the Church, because of the transgressions of man: But submit your neck under that boly yoke and ordnance, which shall lead you to the Congregation governed by the Spirit of God, wherein you shall under stand the secrets of God his Book, to be interpreted G5 according to the sense of your fathers: whose under standing was the finger of the Holy Ghost, you cannot authorize your selves, and without authority you can do nothing; Therefore if your authority be not, why take you upon you the doings of the Church, which it is one thing to seek to understand the Scriptures, and an other thing to teach the Scriptures according to his understanding, for he that teacheth, teacheth, by Authority, but if he have no Authority, he is an Usurper. G6 My brethren remember your selves, and consider you are Children: you are not, vestri juris, but alieni. Therefore, do nothing that is of your selves: But follow, (as good children) the steps of G7 your Mother: which Mother is a pure Virgin, and is alwayes instructed with the wisdom of the Comforter; What meat she shall give unto you her Children: and how she shall bring you up and instruct you: Simplicity is much worth, and obedience is a Garland before the Lord. But Curiosity is the Devil; Have you not read; That the bread of the holy ones is not to be cast unto Dogs? Look unto your selves whether you be Dogs or no. See if your life be holy: your doings straight and just, your patience manifold: your affliction great for the Lord: if you find not your selves so, you are not Children; If you be not Children, you are not Sonnes, if you be not Sonnes you have no Mother, if you have no Mother you are Dogs, you are devourers of the bread of Children, currish, senselesse, and against God. Enter therefore into judgment with your selves. Consider you are created by God. Consider you are redeemed by God. Consider also you are also left to the spiritual tuition and comfort of God: which God had made of you a Congregation: a holy and sanctified fellowship, feeding alwayes as brethren together, under his wings, and at his Table: which feedeth you with the bread of life and understanding, with the body and bloud of Jesus Christ the Sonne of the Living God. With understanding that you may know the will of your Father which is in Heaven, and knowing him, be obedient: which is the conclusion of your vocation. Shake not off therefore the yoke of Obedience, least you put away also the Cup of understanding, and so know Obedience, least you put away also the Cup of understanding, and so know not the will of your Father. But my thinketh, you are starved, your guts are shrunk up: your bones and sinews are withered. What is the cause thereof? When received you the bread of the Lord? When received you nourishment? O you of little faith: and lesse understanding you erre, and runne astray: you are blind, you follow not the will of your Father: Return, Return, and say within your selves, G8 O eternal God and loving Father, great is thy care and mercy over us, which being led astray (with Satan and the spirit of darknesse) hast brought us home: which being blind hast set open before our eyes: (our eyes also opened) the true path and line of understanding: Happy are we whom thou lovest so deerly: and unto whom the care of our health is so dear: We will therefore praise -notes- G1 The Pope is not Antichrist. thy Name, and return from our errors: we will acknowledge our sinnes, and follow thy Commandements: for thou, O Lord, art onely just and true, and thy mercy is everlasting: Thy Lawes are sweet, and thy love and kindnesse mighty amongst us, Holy, Holy, Holy Lord God of Zebaoth, all honour praise and glory be UNTO thee for ever. True it is, that, as thy spirit moved thee, so God hath called thee to the partaking and understanding of his will to be Fulfilled in punishment and wrath against the falsehood and deceit of the earth. And therefore hath God in his great love and exceeding mercy called thee away from the Sonnes of the accursed, and from the way of unrighteousnesse: where in if thou follow him in simplicity of Conscience, and righteousnesse (the works of faith) thou shalt be confirmed: for I say unto thee, I will power my vengeance upon the whole Earth, and I will chasten her in her inequity, and in the midst of her pride, I will throw her down head-long, and G2 she shall triumph no more And because thou hast bumbled thyself, my spirit shall be with thee, and thou shalt understand. And this wicked Monster, that sitteth in the Holy Temple, and sinneth against the Highest, shall be thrown down head-long with his pride: And he shall be chastised and corrected with the mouth of you two; For at the house of the Lord Judgment must begin. And the rebelling sonne must be scourged before the wicked servant be punished. Fear not, I will put unto your words, strength and power: And if he bear you not, but stretch forth his hands against you, I will rain fire and brimstone from Heaven: and his dwelling places shall sink. And the Lake that shall remain, shall bear witness against him for evermore: Lift up thy heart therefore, and despise the World; Fight with her manfully, and be not overcome. Moreover, acknowledge thy sinnes, and fly unto the Lord. Seek out his House, and eat of his bread: for thou hast much need of it. The seeds that thou hath sown abroad, gather up again, least thou be punished for the sins of thy Brethren. Thy Soule standeth deare before the Lord, which is the cause that he hath mercy upon thee, which sauh unto thee, If thou be obedient before the Lord, follow the instructions and discipline of the holy Ghost: and do the works of righteousness and Charity, my Spirit shall rest upon thee. I have said. K.E. He is gone. Mendaces esse devenistis, and ipsius Christi inimici, and sui sancti Spiritus. Fortassis dicitis, ex Scripturarum Lectione, intelligentiam comparamus earundem. Ast mihi respondeatis, cujus spiritus auxilio, hanc vobis comparatis intelligentiam? Quis vobis apparuit Angelus? vel ex quo Cælo, vestram recepistis instructionem? Fieri potest, quod, ex Spiritu sancto dicetis. O stulte tu modicæque intelligentiæ! non intelligis tu, quod Spiritus sanctus Ecclesiæ Pædagogus est, integri gregis, and congregationis Christi? Proinde si multitudinis Pædagogus est, sequitur, quod Docitina aliqua, quam Spiritus sanctus docet, instructio, documentum, sive intelligentia sit multitudinis. Atqui, quæ hominum multitudo, tuæ est intelligentiæ? Vel cujus es tu Congregationis? Aliter dispersionis. Dicitisne, dispersus alicujus te unum esse: Falsum narras, fugitivus es. Verum, ecce, te doceo: Errorque tuus ante tuam constat faciem. Quicumque ad Scripturam intelligentiam pervenit, conati debet ad illairum intelligentiam prævenire, secundum Ordinationem, and Traditionem spiritulem. Ast ex qua spirituali traditione, nactus es tu intelligentiam? Vel juxta quam Ordinationem, tibi est apertus Scripturarum sensus? Dices ( forsane ) ex santis Patribus, informatum esse te, and per eundem spiritum per quem docebant illi, tuam te esse consecutum intelligentiam. Dicere sic quidam potes, verum non te sic facere certum est. Quis enim antiquorum Patrum, rationem copulabit verbo Dei, vel

Scripturam intelligentiam, Ethnorum astrinxit disciplinæ ? Tibi dico, quod antiqui Patres, Christo chari erant, and cælestium visionum, consolationumque Cælestium participes : quæ visiones Cælestique consolationes non illos docebant novam Scripturarum expositionem, sed confirmabant, luceque illustrabant mysteria Spiritus sancti, per Apostolos declarata, qui Ecclesiæ ipsi sua posuere fundamenta ; quicquid igitur ab antiquis Patribus discere possis, ab Apostolis discis, and quicquid ab Apostolis intelligis, habes id quidem, a Spiritu sancto, sed si ipsos Patres exponas tuo sensu modoque, and non juxta sensum Apostolorum, certe Spiritum sanctum non habes, sed spiritum mendacii. Humilem, igitur, temet præbeto, and coram Domino procidas, rationem semoveas, Dominique adhæreas, laboresque verbum ejusdem intelligere, ex Spiritu suo sancto : quem Spiritum sanctum, omni ex necessitate invenire debes, atque invenies invisibili Ecclesiæ usque ad mundi finem. Perspicue tibi dicam, ( ut veritas potenter in luce appareat ) quicumque Dei contrarius est voluntati, quæ suæ est tradita Ecclesiæ per Apostolos quidem publicata, per Spiritum sanctum enutrita, and mundo impertita, and per Petrum ad Romam tradita, and per eundem ibidem expressa, ab ejusdem successoribus retenta atque sustentata est: Hic idem Deo and veritati suæ contrarius est. Lutherus suorum recipit mercedem. Calvinus suam. Reliqui omnes quotquot erraverunt, and sponte in devia concurrerunt, separando se ipsos ab Ecclesiæ and Congregatione Christi, obstinate and Diaboli ( patris sui ) instinctu, mercedem suam receperunt. Contra quos filius Dei iudicium pronuntiabit, dicendo. Ite Deceptores in gehennæ ignem, Patri vestro and filiis illius, ab exordio præparatum. Inter vos ipsos insurgitis asserendo, Papam Antichristum esse ( hoc enim nomine illum insignitis ) homo certe malus esse possit, atque a sua excidere vocatione, verum tamen Antichristus esse nunquam potest. Antichristus enim ille est, qui filius est Diaboli, homo quidem ex carne and sanguine natus ex impia and fraudulenta meretrice, qui populos seducet tumidusque sui patris potentia, Deo resistet in Terra inter homines, quemadmodum pater ejus in Cælo secerat inter Angelos : prorsus denegando Dei Omnipotentiam seque illi opponendo. O vos stulti and exiguæ intelligentiæ, quum Apostolis Cæli concedebantur claves : ( quasi diceret ) eadem Christi Jesu filii Dei viventis, authoritas and potestas ad hominem condonanda peccata, and ad peccatores Cælo excludendos, and quum G1 eidem Apostolis, vade post me Satana, etiam dicebatur, non tanta estis intelligentia ut in Altissimi hæc introspicere valeatis mysteria. Si Dei filius tum commendabat tum etiam reprehendebat Discipulos suos, cur non possit igitur Episcopus, and bonus and malus censi ? Si hinc consequatur, bonum malumque Episcopo inesse posse, pari ratione inferri possit authoritatis Episcopalis rationem , a bono malove illo non pendere, sed ipsius ad Episcopi vitam hoc bonum malumve spectare si bonus sit, suæ bonitatis metet beneficium; sin malus sit, mendax est ; sua enim illi contraria est doctrina. Proinde , si, propter hominum peccata Deus permiserit , multos spiritu G2 Ananiæ federe in loco sancto, id quidem propter peccata vestra est, and rebellem naturam , ut supplicium recipiatis : and non obscura vel tenebrosa ejus fieret Ecclesia. Aperite itaque oculos vestros and intelligite, and Ecclesiæ adhæritatis, amore ipsius Ecclesiæ , and non hominum. Neque Ecclesiam contemnatis, propter hominum iniquitatis. -notes- G1 Matt.cap.16. C. LIBER RESURRECTIONIS. Pragæ , Aprilis 30. Pactum , seu Fædus Sabbatismi. 1586. Threbone [Graphic omitted] [Graphic omitted] Venimus and #232; Octob. 14. [Graphic omitted] [Graphic omitted] Septemb. 14. 1586. [Graphic omitted] In Maio 29 Exilii Decretum contra nos exist a Cæsare Rod. [Graphic omitted] In Augusto 8, Rever sionis permissio D. Rosenbergio, obtinente ut ad sua veniamus. Miraculum, and factum memorandum in perpetuum. As E.K. stood at the end of the Galery by his Chamber, looking over into the Vineyard he seemed to see the little man the Gardiner, in all manner of behaviour and apparel, who is the chief workman or over-seer of Mr. Carpio his workmen in the same Vine-yard. He seemed very handsomely to prune some of the Trees: at length he approached under the wall by E.K. and holding his face awayward he said unto him, Quaso dicas Domino Doctori quod veniat ad me. And so went away as it were cutting here and there the Trees very handsomely, and at length over the Cherry-trees by the house on the Rock in the Garden he seemed to mount up in a great pillar of fire. E.K. bade his Wife to go, and she who was in the Garden. She came up, and brought him word, No body. E.K. then came to me and said, I think there is some wicked spirit that would allude me, and he told and said to me, as is before noted. Then said I, I will go into the Garden, and bade E.K. come with me. We went down that way which this Creature did go: but nothing we saw, went to the Banqueting-house in the Vine-yard, but that place pleased us not: so, we went along in the way by the cliff side, and sat down on the bank by the great pile of Vine-stakes lying in the very South end of the Vine-yard. And we had not sat there half a quarter of an hour, but I espied under the Almond-tree, and on the South-side of it, being the Westerly Almond-tree, that is it which is standing on the Westerly side of the straight path which leadeth from the North toward the South in the Vine-yard. I espied (I say) like a sheet of faire white paper lying tossed to and fro in the wind. "I rose and went to it, and (to the prayse of God his truth and power,) there I found three of my Books lying, which were so diligently burnt the tenth day of April last." 1 The three Books were, Enoch his Book. 2 The 48 Claves Angelica. 3 And the third was the Book of my gathering of the thirty Aires, and entitled Liber Scientia terrestris auxilii and victoriæ. Thereupon E.K. comming to me, I fell on my knees with great thanks yeilding to the God Almighty, and so did E.K. whose mind and body were marvelously affected at the sight of the "said Books, having no shew or signe that ever they had been in the fire, neither by colour or favour, or any thing wanting." And after we had set half an hour under the fore-said Almond-trees praising God and wondering at the Miracle. Suddenly appeared by us the self-same Gardiner like person, but with his face somewhat turned away, and nothing thereof to be adjudged as of Ave the custome is. He said, Kelly, follow me, E.K. went, and I sat still, awaiting his return.

This Gardiner went before E.K. and his feet seemed not to touch the ground by a foot height. And as he went before E.K. so the doores did seeme to open before him, he led him up the great stairs on the left hand by the Vineyard door, and so in at his own Chamber door where E.K. hath his new Study, and then the door going out of that to the stairs opened of itself, and he went up those stairs, and at length brought him to the Furnace mouth where all the Books and papers had been burnt the 10 day of this April. And coming thither, there the spiritual Creature did seem to set one of his feet on the post on the right hand without the Furnace mouth, and with the other to step to the Furnace mouth, and so to reach into the Furnace (the bricks being now plucked away which stopped the mouth of the Furnace, all saving one brick thick) and as he had reached into the furnace there appeared a great light, as if there had been a window in the back of the Furnace, and also to E.K. the hole which was no: greater then the thickness of a brick unstopped, did seeme now more then three or four brick thickness wide, "and so over his shoulder backward he did reach to E.K. all the rest of the standing Books, excepting the Book out of which the last Action was out, and Fr. Pucci his Recantation, also to E.K. appeared in the Furnace all the rest of the papers which were not as then delivered out". That being done, he bade E.K. go, and said he should have the rest afterward. He went before in a little fiery cloud, and E.K. followed with the Books under his arm all along the Gallery, and came down the stairs by Fr. Pucci his Chamber door, and then his guide left E.K. and he brought me the Books unto my place under the Almond-tree. + Pragæ. 1586 Aprilis 30 May even. Mane circa 8. you, and be ready as the Lord shall find him, and as he shall be warned of you. Notwithstanding my spirit shall not depart from him, and I will open his understanding that he may convert many. For the World must be satisfied with testimony as well of his life, as the recantation and professed Doctrine. We lack (ô Lord) his recantation written by his own hand, I cannot find it in the Books restored. Those Books let them be kept of thee, as committed unto thy custody by me. On May day after dinner I went over the water (being brought to the water side in the Lord Rosemberg his coach, and Jacobus Menschick with me) unto the Lord Rosenberg his Gardens, and lodging by the water-side, whether he came to me by appointment. To whom when I had read in Latin (extempore) the things that concerned him, I asked him what he had done, since the time of my being with him, that I may the better understand these words spoken to him and of him. He told, that he had often prayed, since unto God for the forgiveness of his sins, and to open his eyes how he might serve him; and to make it to be evident unto him whether he is to marry or no, and where, or in what stock or kindred. And if it were his divine will, that he might receive comfort and instruction by me, and that these and such matters, and somewhat earnestly he had prayed also for his Mr. the Emperor, that he might bend himself to enjoy God his favour, yea, for his own marriage and amending of his loose life, while he yet sat at dinner this day at the Archbishops table, his heart and thought did come very much upon it, and c. At these his words I rejoiced much to perceive the doing of the Highest, in the hearing of his prayer faithfully prayed and that the answer which I read unto him was so fitly applyed unto his prayer as he also himself, did perceive with great comfort and spiritual joy. He entreated much that I would pray to God that the Emperor might be restored to the favour of God, as he was when I declared my message unto him from the Highest, I answered, that whatsoever the God of Heaven and Earth should appoint me to say or do unto his Majesty, I most willingly rejoyce in the faithful doing of it: and that it was my duty (as a Christian) to pray for his Majesty: but I should not make my promise of my prayer to be heard, but would highly rejoyce if his Imperial Majesty would so use himself in God his judgment, as might be meritorious in the sight of our Redeemer. Such words and matters as this passed between us. And he said that he would in all points, fulfil the advice and warning of God, in this Action expressed, and would marry a Maiden as he was willed. And this day did acknowledge, and account himself a happy man. G3 And as concerning our mutual bond by the means of each being given to the other by God of Heaven and Earth, he vowed and promised that he would regard it in all points to the best of his skill and power, and c. These and other such good seeds for the service of God being sown between us; he went towards his Palace in the Court, and I to the water-side, and so over to the Coach awaiting for me, and so came home. I had translated this Sunday morning, the same parcel of the former Action into Latin for the Lord Rosenberg, which he then sent for, jump at the time, when I had finished it: And so I sent it him inclosed in a Letter. May 6. Being Tuesday, I entred my Journey toward Valkenaw Glassehouse, and Leipsig Mart. There are divers Valkenaws, one by Egre, or Elbogen, not far from Carls Bath, westward from Prage about 18 Bemish miles, an other in Behem, about 11 or 12 miles from Prage, northerly, a mile from Krebitz, and two miles from Liep, and a mile from Kamnitz. NOTE. May 11 I came to Leipsig, on Sunday the 11 of May, and was at Peter Hans Swartz his House lodged. I found Laurence Overton, (with much ado) an English Merchant: to whom my wife (the last year) had shewed no little friendship to himself, and Thomas his partners servant, in the time of his lying sick in our House, and c. at Prage; He came from England at Mid-lent, he confessed that Edmond my servant had been oftentimes with him, at his House, and that he did think that he would come with the next Ships after his comming from England, then to come within 16 dayes. I perceived by his diverse expresse sayings, that he was but a hollow friend unto me, and seemed half afraid to deal either with me, or my man. There, also I found a courteous Gentleman called Mr. Fuancis Evers, the Lord Evers his Sonne of the North. And of all other matters omitting the rehearsal in these Records, (those matters I mean which at Leipsich and in this Journey happened notably unto me, or I did my self) one Letter which I wrote to the Queen of England her Secretary, the Right Honourable Sir Francis Walsingham, as followeth.

Right Honorable SIR, ALbeit I have (almost) in vain come a hundred miles (from Prage to this Leipsich Mart) hoping either to meet my Servant there, with answer to my former Letters, sent in November last to her Majesty (when also I wrote unto your Honor, and divers other). And so with speed from this Leipsich to have sent again, most speedily as occasion should have served. And now, I find, neither servant, neither Letter from him, neither word of mouth: yet all this notwithstanding: and whatsoever the hindrance or delay hereof be (whether the keeping back of my Letters from her Majesty, or the manifold and importune, most weighty affairs publick hindring or delaying her Majesties most gracious, discreet and wise resolution herein: or what other occasion else hath and doth cause this long and wonderful delay of answer receiving. All this notwithstanding, I thought good, before I set up to my Coach, to visit, and most humbly to salute your Honour very faithfully, dutifully and sincerely, with great and the same good will, that my Letter some years since written to your Honour, (butt hen, a stumbling block unto your Honour and other, for the strongness of the Phrases therein) doth pretend, so it is, right Honourable, that the merciful providence of the Highest, declared in his great and abundant graces upon me, and mine, is so wonderful and mighty, that very few, unlesse they be present witnesses, can believe the same. Therefore how hard they are to be believed, there where all my life and doings were construed to a contrary sense: and processe of death contrived and decreed against the Innocent, who can not easily judge. I am forced to be brief. That which England suspected, was also here, for these two years, almost (secretly) in doubt, in question, in consultation Imperial and Royal, by Honourable Espies, fawning about me, and by other, discoursed upon, pryed and peered into. And at length, both the chief Romish power, and Imperial dignity, are brought to that point, resolutely, that, partly they are sorry, of their so late reclaiming their erroneous judgment against us and of us, and seek means to deal with us, so as wee might favour both the one and the other: And partly to Rome is sent for as great Authority and Power as can be devised, and likewise here, all other means and wayes contrived, How, by force, or for feare, they may make us glad to follow their humours. But all in vain, for force humane we fear not: as plainly, and often, I have to the Princes declared: And otherwise then in pure verity, and godliness, we will not favour any (my words may seem very marvelous in your Honours ears: But mark the end, wee have had (and shall have to deal with no babes) I have full oft and upon many of their requests and questions, referred my self to her Majesties answer, thus, in vain, expected. Nuncius Apostolicus, (Germanicus Mala Spina) after his years suit unto me to be acquainted with me, at length had such his answer, that he is gone to Rome with a flea in his eare, that diquieteth him, and terrifieth the whole State Romish and Jesuitical: secretly they threaten us violent death, and openly they fawn upon us. We know, the sting of Envy, and the fury of the Fear in Tyrannical minds, what desperate attempts they have and do often undertake. But the God of Heaven and Earth is our Light, Leader, and Defender. To the Worlds end, his mercies upon us, will bread his Praises, Honour and Glory. Thus much very rhapsodically, (yet faithfully) tanquam dictum sapienti, I thought good to commit to the safe and speedy conveyance of a young Merchant here called Lawrence Overton: which if it come to your Honours hands before my Servant have his dispatch, I shall or may by your Honour be advertized. Your Honour is sufficient from her Majesty to deal and proceed with me, if it be thought good. But if you make a Council-Table Case of it, Quot homines, tot sententiæ. And my Comission from above is not so large: Qui potest capere, capiat. Sir, I trust, I shall have Justice for my House, Library, Goods, and Revenues, and c. Do not you disdain, neither fear to bear favour unto your poor Innocent Neighbour. If you send unto me Master Thomas Diggs, in her Majesties behalf, his faithfulness to her Majesty, and my well liking of the man, shall bring forth some piece of good service. But her Majesty had been better, to have spent or given away in Alms, a Million of Gold, then to have lost some opportunities past. No humane reason can limit or determine God his marvelous means of proceeding with us. Hee hath made of Saul (E K.) a Paul: but yet, now and then, visited with a pang of humane frailty. The Almighty blesse her Majesty both in this World, and eternally: and inspire your heart with some conceiving of his merciful purposes, yet, yet, not utterly cut off from her Majesty, to enjoy From Leipsich this 14 of May 1586, at Peter Hans Swarts House. Your Honours faithful wel-willer to use and command for the honour of God and her Majesties best service, JOHN DEE. To the right Honourable Sir Francis Walsingham Knight, her most Excellent Majesties Principal Secretary, my singular good Friend and Patron, with speed

A peccatis denique monitus cessa ut cum mecum loqueris, vita tua sit lumine and gratia mea sussulta. MEMORANDUM. Be remembered that Mr. Francis Pucci Florentine, whom at my going to Leipsich I left in our G3 house at Prage, in the meane space had been at Frankford upon Mene, and went from Prage about the same day that the Bishop of Placenza Nuncius Apostolicus did exhibit to the Emperour a libel against us of most horrible unto uths, and c. At his going from Prage he had that Nuncius blessing, and c. In the meane space, and after his return to Prage again it happened so, that the 30 of May last, I received the Emperours commandment, I, my Companion, and all mine to depart within six dayes out of Prage and coxsequently out of all his King domes, Dukedomes and Lands. Which we did, and were come to Erphurd in Thuringa, and sometimes to Cassel whether we had removed our goods and family by reason the Senators of Erphurd would give us no leave to hire any house there as both by the Lord Schonberg in the name of the Lord Rosenberg, I was assayed, with repulse received, and also again by me and E.K. proved, July 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14. And on Tuesday (the 15th day of June) Doctor

Curtz brought upward from the Senat that they would not grant our Request, yet notwithstanding, if the Lord Rosenberg would again send unto them in the matter, they would think better upon the matter, and c. Now remember that Francis Pucci came to Erphurd on Thursday after our supper, July 10 (stilo novo) on horse-back on a horse which he had bought at Mawnberg-faire, and c. July the 11th he discoursed with E.K. and me, that he thought we might obtain favour to return to Prage again if we would. That he had found this Nuncius Apostolicus more courteous then Malaspina, of whom he reported also, that is was credibly informed that be was sore offended that we gave him no more honour able title in our speeches to him, then Reverendissima Vestra Paternitas. This Pucci framed the discourse of his talk to perswade us to think well of this Episcopus Placentius that he was charitable towards us, and sorrow that we were so uncourteously used, that he meant nothing else in his sute to the Emperour against us, but that we might be examined, and thou being -notes- G1 [delta] Admonitio. found faulty, we should be sent to Rome, but after that he had begun to move against us, that he found the Emperour more eagerly bent against us, than he himself was. NOTE. The Lord Rosenberg told us that when he did (in our behalf) advise the Emperor of his error committed in our extermination, that the Emperor answered that this Nuncius from his first Audience did urge so vehemently against us, and also the Pope had sent commandment by Letter to him to deliver us and send us to Rome, that he was forced in manner to do as he did. But if the commandment or his Decree were to be made again, that it should not passe, or if this Nuncius Ap stolicus had not sent this Decree away to Rome, that he should not send it, and c. This I note in respect of the contrariety in the Nuncius assertion, and the Emperors, of our so hard usage. The foresaid eleventh day of July, the foresaid Fr. Pucci to prove this his intended perswasion of the Nuncius good meaning toward us, and to make us believe that great benefit would ensue our going to Rome, did bring forth unto us a writing of his own hand which he read unto us, and at the hearing of it we mused much for many causes I asked him then why the Nuncius had not subscribed this writing. It is all one said he for that; Hath he heard this read (quoth I,) yea, that he hath heard me read this three several times, arise unto him (said he;) And if you like of it saith he, wherein his power serveth him not to performe as much as is specified in the writing, he will make and use meanes to have it from his Holinesse; well, said I, take a copy hereof Mr. Kelly, for I was riding toward Salfeild about a house getting; Thereupon said he, contented, but I think it meeter to save and keep the original it self said E.K. Well, said Pucci, and so the original was delivered to E.K. NOTE. After 10 of the clock the same Friday, being the eleventh day of this moneth, after break-fast I rid toward Salfeild about the house of the Earl Albert of Swartzenberg, and c. But after I was out of Erffurd until my return again, I was so sore vexed in mind to think of Pucci his return to our company, as well for his unquiet nature in disputations, as for his blabbing of our secrets without our leave, or well liking, or any good doing thereby; either in God his service, G1 or our credit, but rather the contrary, ensuing albert not of his intent, but by either his indiscreet G2 handling of it, or of his undue hearers of him, and c. And also for his Housheld behaviour, not acceptable to our wives and family, and also because we were warned that he should be out off from our company, and c. And chiefly, now to consider that he had laid such a bait for us with our mortal enemy, to entrap us by fair fawning words, which by no meanes the Emperor would consent to do before by his authority, but rather to put us out of his Kingdomes, and c. And imagining that he was a mighty Explorator upon us, for this Nuncius Apostolicus, and his adherents, that now he might perceive what we had done hitherto, what we were doing, and what we intended to do, and considering that he urged at our hands in answer to the former writing, wherein also lay a trap for either in not answering it, or refusing to grant some points of it, or in our consenting to the whole, this Nuncius would put matter against us to our great disadvantage. Thus being tormented in mind in my absence, how we might be rid of this Fr. Pucci, by quiet and honest meanes, I devised to write to this Nuncius to know if this writing were of his contriving onely, or of Pucci his contriving onely, or joyntly, or if at the least the writing were according to his will, and offer unto us, and so to send him away; wherein he could make no refusal, I intending not to make him privy of the content of my Letter; And in the mean space of his absence I hoped that some good way and better meanes would appear or fall out, whereunto we might trust, and c. Thus I note my imaginations and discourses in the time of my absence. I returned to Erphurd July 13. hora 5. à meridie. I found Fr. Pucci desirous to have answer to the foresaid writing, and very much perswading this Roman voyage, using arguments out of our actions, as that God said we should go to Rome, in a certain moneths space; That we ought to obey the Roman Bishop, and to love him, and c. I replyed and said, that he was not to urge God upon any his sayings to us, but to referrer all to his most free disposition, his will was to be done and not ours, God was not bound to us, and c. He answered very vehemently, and often, that Deus est nobis obligatissimus, and Deus dixit nos ituros Romam, and ego credi and credam, and aliter non credam nisi mihi Deus dixerit non nobis, and c. Well, (quod we) God hath delivered unto us his meaning in that phrase, which we also devise you of, that it is not meant (by the speech) that we shall corporally goe to Rome, and so I brake off that his reasoning; And told him that we marveled that he should urge this Roman Voyage so violently and eagerly more then we; It appertained unto us as much as to him, and c. The same day I told him that he had heretofore offended God with his curiosity in our affaires otherwise then appertained unto his calling, and he may well remember his repentance therein, and his forgiveness obtained. But that -notes- G1 A bait. G2 A spie.

now he had offended much more in curiosity, and half in conspiracy against us with our mortal enemy this Nuncius Apostolicus, upon whom he did fawn, in whose favour he is, who joyneth, counsaileth with him in our affaires, who dare prescribe us what we have to do in so weighty affaires as our Journey to Rome, who hath framed a bill, accusing us confusedly of Heresie, and wicked Magick, both falsely in one part, and dangerous to life, and infamous at the least in the other, and hereto requireth, urgeth, and in manner in God his name argueth by our actions past, obedience. And therefore he hath separated himself from us, and hath set himself against us, and c. With great vehemency he said, He intended nothing, but well to us, and was Explorator with this Nuncius for our behalf; We require none (said I) neither we need any, for God seeth all, and doth all, for our benefit, if we will constantly love and serve him; To be brief, he would seem to be worthy to be thought well of for his zealous good will and fidelity to us ward, in all his doings and sayings; The truth where of God knoweth, to whom we commit the cause between him and us. The Copy of the writing before specified. Sid. Johannes Dee, D. Eduardus Kelleus, and Fr. Puccius, volent iræ Romam, ut conferant cum Summo Pontifice de suis Revelationibus, venerantes eum tan quam Sancti Petri Successorem and Christi in terris Vicarium Illust and Reverend. Episcopus Placentinus Apostolicus Nuncius apud Cæsaream Majestatem, ddabit illis Literas commendationis, ut pertotum iter, and Romæ, humanissime summaque charitate tractentur, and in suis necessitatibus juventur: Ac præterea autoritate Apostolica absolvet cos and liberabit ab omni culpa and p na, quam meriti essent in vita ante acta, ob artes Magicas

For the better ground of any manner of answer making hereunto I asked the same Fr. Pucci, after supper, on Tuesday the 15 of July, (forasmuch as I had framed a Letter for answer to the pith of the Letter or writing here recorded) whether this Letter were written and sent to us by the consent of this Nuncius Apostolicus, to know our answer in, or no. He seemed to be unwilling now directly to affirm the Nuncius consent. We replied that he had already told us that he had read it thrice over to the said Nuncius, and that he liked well of it, and did marvel that now he would make strange to affirm the same again, seeing I had now, (according to his purpose) written a plain and perfect humble answer to the same Letter, and much more matter, true and needful for this Nuncius to know. Well, said he, Eatenus ex ejus consensu est, si velitis ire Roman, ea præstare conabitur, quæ in eisdem literis continentur, and c. Well, said I, (in Latin alwayes you must understand my talk with him in the same sense here in English recorded, if he mean well unto us, and in charity unfeigned; he will not be offended with my answer; The Copy whereof doth ensue. This Letter being written, and read unto E.K. and of him well liked for the quiet and modest course therein kept, otherwise (as he said to Fr. Pucci) then he could have used: or had used in a Letter which now he had also written: but now would not send, thinking that my foresaid Letter might suffice for our case, he talked with Fr. Pucci of this Letter, which Fr, Pucci said he would gladly see and read, which E. K. told him that I was minded not to let him read it: Then said he, that he would not carry it: Hereupon in talk with Fr. Pucci, speaking of this Letter, I told him that I had written a Letter with sufficient answer in general to the Nuncius request and offer by him in writing brought to us, and in summe told him the chief contents of the Letter. Then said he, whereas you write of the Books burnt, why write you not unto him of the recovery of them, at I now perceive by you both, that they are restored? And it shall be a disgrace to you if the Nuncius shall understand more by other, then by your self. Thereof have I no care, Quod scripsi, scripsi, and I know the truth of my writing: And they are not all restored that I know of: And whatsoever he hath at my hands he may be assured is true: whatsoever he shall otherwise hear, the Record thereof cannot be so good, unlesse, our Record consent thereto; Then said he, why write you of those Books burning, being done before your comming away: It is as if you wrote backward. Have you no care Mr. Pucci, for the method of my Letters said I, and I said farther, it is told me that unlesse you see my Letters you will not carry them, you shall pardon me for seeing of them, the content I have sufficiently told you: and if you will not deliver them, I can get them delivered divers wayes, or I may omit the sending of them, and write such a Letter to the Nuncius that I had written answer to his requests, and offer sent by Fr. Pucci; But he would not bring the said my Letter, unlesse he might have a sight of it himself. At the length by farther discourse with E.K. he became resolved to goe with the letter, and (by E. K. his order) he was to receive 50 Dollors of G1 John Carpio, that he should not be destitute of money at Prague. NOTE. This day, Francis Pucci said to us both, how can you doubt of my fidelity toward you (whom G2 I love as my own life,) and against this Monster of Rome, whom my chief desire is, and long hath been, that he may be overthrown, and c. Again, consider, what fidelity, obedience, and reverence he hath promised to the Pope, and this Nuncius, as the writing brought by him, and so sore and many wayes urged by him, for us to accept of, can specifie.

Therefore Fr. is false to the Pope, or us, or both, or rash, foolish, blind, and c. And (as our spiritual Schoolmaster, divers times termeth him) leprous: Therefore I commit this his doings to the judgment of God: But also it is greatly to be remembered and noted that he now also discoursed again with E. K. as concerning the Birth of Christ, that it could not be proved by the Scriptures, that Christ came of the line of David, unlesse he were begotten of the actual copulation of Joseph, with Mary, and said that, because it was the gift of the Holy Ghost, that at Joseph his first and onely carnal copulation with Mary, Christ was conceived; Therefore she was accounted (in manner) -notes- G1 Fifty Dollors. G1 ner a Virgin according to the Jews doctrine: which his heresies when I heard, I trembled for the horroure of so manifest an heresie against evident Scripture, virgo concipiet and virgo pariet, and c. and against many other most plain and sufficient Authorities both of Scriptures, and also Histories of our Lady her examination made by Women, and that she was found a Virgin, and c. And at her conception her answer to the Angel; Quia virum non cognovit, and c. and antequam convenirent, juventa est in utero habens de spiritu sancto, and c. NOTE. It is evident hereby that this Pucci is very leprous, both in this Heresie (what other he is infected with, God he knoweth) and also the former infidelity proved. On Thursday 17 July Fr. Pucci entred his Voyage toward Prage with my Letter to the Nuncius Apostolicus, and with Letters to John Carpio from E. K, and with my Letters inclosed to the Lord Rosenberg. And we entred our journey toward Cassel, but that night we rode onely three miles, to Gotha, our horses were so ill that we hired, and therefore sending them back again the next day, we hired a Coach, and c. POSCRIPTUM. Remember that Fr. Pucci, the morning before his going required of me our Letters Testimonial to our friends, of his fidelity toward us. What needeth that (said I) for as much as your deeds were as well known to them as to us, your own conscience to your self may serve abundantly. But our friends divers, who have warned us of you, and have marveled why we would suffer you any longer in our house and company, would neither credit our Letters as yet in this case. and would also condemn us of light judgment, or great blindness to judge the cause between you and us. But truly I observed in him, now, a more proud presuming over us then hitherto, before, when he was sore rebuked, for over-crowning us, so as he began to do. G2 1 Now he said, he had as great authority as we to publish any of our Secrets, at his discretion. 2 That he ought to cat bread with us. 3 That he understood our Books of Actions better then we. 4 That he needed not our consent or counsail to deal with the Pope his Nuncius: he did it by his duty general, of Charity, and c. 5 He offered to order the Nuncius, and the Emperor to the reclaiming of the Decree made against us, and c. NOTE. Consider what this may import, that the Decree touching him, being one of my household company, and of them that then did appertain to me, and whose name he is not affraid one way and G3 another way not abashed to thrust himself into the whole body of our Revelations, as a principal fellow or Receiver of them. By the first he ought to be afraid of the danger of the Decree which banished us, unless he is assured of their good will who have showed themselves our mortal enemies, or else some other cause emboldened him to some other purpose, and c. by the second he might be afraid of so great presumption, being but a Probationer, not yet allowed of, and to us known to be cut off. All these points I cannot decipher and judge, but referred them to the profound wisdom and high G4 providence of God, wherefore and how farre he hath admitted him to be privy of our Actions, and so a Witness to some purposes sufficient. All things be to the honour and glory of God Amen. Magnifice Domine, Lectis tuis literis fui miratus quod intelligerem te illius esse opinionis and setentiæ, me apud Cæsarem tibi ac conforti tuo officiis meis non parum obfuisse, quod sciam ita me and religione and natura comparatum, ut omnibus quam maxime cupiam prodesse, nemini ant obesse. agnoscere afflatus illos dissidentie, rumores ab invidis hominibus, sparsos, suspitiones nobis injectas, absque certis indiciis, adversus fidem non levibus argumentis probatam, atque hujusmodi impedimenta and offendicula, quibus cursum nostrum impedire ac sanctam amicitiam, divinis auspiciis, inter nos coeptam, convellere ac labefactare, malignus ille spiritus aggressus est. Itaque, in illa lucta, ne ullo modo manus illi darem, aut fatiscerem, decrevi me, magis ac magis, munire certa side in Deum, ac ipse promissionum ejus, quas illum fervaturum non dubito, tum precibus frequentioribus magis instare, apud summum patrem, ut nos quam primum donare velit illo spiritu, quo nostri humeri montibus ferendis, ut ille inquit, pares evadent; ad hæc austeriorem vitam instituere nec mensas lautas amicorum adire, sed panem doloris solus comedere decrevine sim meliore conditione quam vos, qui tantopere affligimini ut benignissimus Dominus quamprimum, vos in integrum restituat, at que ad folita colloquia piaque exercitia nos una revocet, and eventu confentaneo suis sanctissimis dictis, singulos nostrum exhilaret. Hanc viam sequenti Dominus mihi spem facit fore, ut vobis and aliis facilius meam sidem problem, and multas tentationes vitem quæ apud hujus mundi homines facile nos invadunt. Ideo, nisi necessitate urgente, aut communibus negotiis, familiaritatem omnem and convictum cum aulicis fugio, and mores in dies emendare conor, ne videar omnino indignus ea schola, in qua Dominus me erudire dignatus est, nec interim cum Publicano, illo, precari obliviscor, ut Deus propitius fit mihi peccatori. Vos non dubito me vestris votis and supplicationibus juvabitis, ut vocatione meæbito me vestris votis and supplicationibus juvabitis, ut vocatione meæ respondeam, and in opere Domini vobis adjumento and consolationi esse possim: and benignissimus ille pater propediem hoc adverso vento ignem suum magis excitari curabit, ac nos majori, quam unquam antea, jucunditate recreabit. Ac de his hactenus. Quod vero ad nostra negotia attinet; perveni huc die 24 Julii, sub vesperam, ac statim adivi Illustrissimum Dominum Nunciumcui vestras, tradidi, quas laeto vultu accipere visus est: sed colloquendo non fuit otium, cum parata coena, jam discumbere vellet. In posteriorem Diem igitur rejectus, as Dominum Carpionem me confereban, cum didici eum ad vos Missum, quadriduo ante, hinc discessisse. Dolui admodum eum non esse mihi obviam factum, tum ratione vestrarum, tum mearum literarum, quoniam falciculum quendam ad me quoque ferebat. Sed quod maxime me torquebat erat cura de litteris Illustrissimi Domini Rosenbergi quas sciebam inclusas Domini Carpionis literis, nec eas aperire, aut alii tradere audebam, cum diserte esset, scriptum illud ad manus proprias. Dum itaque occasionem quero and expecto, ea sese obtulit, quam mox audietis. Reversus sequenti die, ad Illustrissimum Dominum Nuncium, inveno apud illum Jesuitam Italum qui mihi fuit a consensionibus: blande ab amobus accipior, sedere jubeor, a Jesuita nomine candoris and ingenuitatis, non parum laudor. Tum lupide moneor ab Illustrissimo Domino Nuncio ut ipsi adsim, in convertendo Jesuita ille (is enim erat qui cum ipso ex postula verat, quod nimis facile mihi dedisset: testimonia triumphantis Ecclesiæ non sub jici judicio militantis.) Respondeo me fecisse quod in me erat ut docerem eum præferre Coelum terræ, ac tribunal superius inferiori; sed cum id mihi minime successet, ejus esse, sua doctrina, autoritate, hominem de sententia illa dejicere Illustrissimus Dominus Nuncius haud gravate, nostram sententiam, hac in parte, probat and exemplis confirmat atque ita a concludit, ut statuatur certitudinem videntis audientis Dominum, aut ejus angelum, non pendere a probatione Ecclesiastica, neque ab illo esse rationem repetendam suæ revelationis, dum nihil publici muneris exercere audeat: sed si incipiat palam profiteri, se a Deo doctum and missum, ita ut non ipsius Ecclesiasticorum munus esse, illius spiritum examinare and probare, neque ipsum jure posse examen hoc detrectare, licet suas revelationes eis sub jicere minime teneatur. Nam si ordinaria autoritas eum admiserat, bene habebit, nihilque turbarum excitabitur: sin per injuriam aut inscitiam aliquam, aut per aliam hujusmodi causam, rejicietur, suum erit appellare Superiorem Dominum, qui ipsum mifit, quo suum servum and Legatum defendant, aut ordinario Judice commonefacto, aut alia ratione: quod probabat decreto Lateranense Conilii, cujus mentionem facit in fuis literis; ac præterea historia S; Francisci, qui primum expulsus ab Innocentio Pontificemox revocatus fuit, cum per quietem apparvisse Pontifici pannosus ille, qui Lateranense templum suis humeris sulciret. Addebat præterea viros Dei non esse folitos deterreri una aut altera repulsa, and hoc repellendi modo, dicebat Præsules aliquando uso esse, ut probarent spiritum and constantiam eorum qui res novas magnasque proponerent. Ego vero inquam, ut hæc ita se habeant., Vos hactenus publicum munus exercere non tentasse, and intra privatos parietes, summa modestia vos continuisse. Tum ille, longiori ambitu verborum, sic de vobis differunt, ut ex vestris verbis Serenissimum Poloniæ Regem, ad invictissimum Cæsarem, and ad illustrissimum Legatum Hispanicum, jam constare diceret, vos aliquid amplius quam privatum moliri: Ac

Quapropter hortatus est me, ut ad Illustrissimum Dominum Rosenbergium contenderem, at que ipsius bonam propensionem, erga vos, ei significarem; Nam ille a Summo Pontifice facile impetrabit, ut causa vestra hic cognoscatur, and ille vobis faverit, ut hactenus fecit, se quoque adfuturum vobis omnibus officiis, ac primum fore, qui se vestris genibus obvolvatur si tales eritis, quales vos nonnulli prædicant. Ego igitur recta ad Illustris. D.
Rosenbergium. Sedquater redeundum mihi fuita ante quam admitterer. Die 27, tandem admissis, exposuimeum studium, erga vos resque vestras, ac quomodo Illust. D. Nuncius affectus ergavos esset, ac tandem oravit utnon defereret patrocinium and desensionem illam, quam suscepisset peregrinorum pientissimorum, qui a Cæsare minus bene informato ad Cæsarem melius informatum, provocarent, ac suam innocentiam, Dei and hominibus probatam cuperent. Ille humaniter respondit: Vos non admodum sibi notos esse:Se bis cum seniore; semel tantum cum juniore collocatum, judicasse vos doctos and pios, and præclaris donis instructos: existimare vobis hoc accidisse mala aliqua relatione cui incommodo a res principum sunt obnoxix:vetrum esse id æquo animo ferre:non se poenitere quod vobis faverit, and si scirit quid potissimum, a se, peteretis, datum operam, ut vestris votis responderetur. Tune mihi visum est nonnulla dicere de optima spe, quam de ipso concepiffetis, and quomodo me non dimiseratis sine literis ad illum: Sed erant inclusæ fasciculo D. Joan. Carpionis, quem statim protuli, atque eo instante ac respondente D. Carpionem non ægre laturum si ipsi dedissem, tradidi fasciculum ei, dixit se per optimum lecturum, ac, sequenti die, mihi responsurum, Discedo igitur ab illo ad Illust. D. Nunciatque otium nactus, tum per me, tum per Illust. Legatum. Florentinum pluribus cum eo agere instituo, de insigni injuria vobis facta: expono quantum laboraveritis, ut considerare possitis, apud Catholica Tempora, and quam inhumaniter, in hospitibus and civitatibus ratione hujus præjudicium Cæsarei, tractaremini, doceo quam sordido and angusto loco vestras familias reliqueritis, ita ut vestram suppellectilem, and libros explicare neque veritis; Moneo, ut Domini Dei jam grandis natu, aut potius senis, and nihil tale hactenus passi vicem doleat; ejus erumnas non tanquam simplicis hominis considerandas esse, cum vir sexagenarius, quatuor tenel libris sua vissimisque liberis (quorum major septimum annum vix excesserit) ac dilectissimæ foeminæ, and pignorum charissimorum, quam sui ipsius; ostendo quanto offendiculo hoc futurum fit ipsius; ostendo quanto offendiculo hoc futurum fit Catholicis Anglis, ac cæteris, and quanta ansa præbeatur hæreticis, inedit in Ecclesiasticum ordinem: declaro periculum imminens ordini illi, si forte Deus facultatibus vestris ad eos plectendos eorum inimicos armari permetteret: Demonstratio Deum alias, per Israelitas hæreticos Catholicos Judeos punire consuevisse: ac denique declaro, quam absurdum fit vos indicta causa condemnari si id meriti fitis: quanto absurdius, si non meriti fitis quicquam tale: absurdissimum vero, cum a Catholica Ecclesia honor potius vobis deberetur: Ac cum non petatis nisi ut vobis vos purgare liceat, nihil magis consentaneum rationi excogitari, nullo alio modo errorem admissum emendari, atque hoc negotium bene dirigi and reintegrari posse. Ille mihi legit vestras literas, id est D. Dei, de rebus, ambobus vobis, aliquo modo, communibus: dicit se non credere ea, quæ de divinis monitis and miraculis, in illis, continentur, petit ut ipse declarem obscuriorem locum de libris combustis: audit a me testimonium oculatum de illis concrematis, and quomodo vobis andiverim eos esse cælitus restitutos, ac denique concludit in illis literis esse multa laudabilia, multa admirabilia, multa itidem incredibilia; sed quod non sint Deo impossibilia, se sustinere assensum, nec velle quicquam certi, re non penitus explorata, pronunciare: vobis tamen responsurum humaniter, ac daturum mihi literas, quod fecit postea die 28, quas literas ad vos, cum hisce, mitto. Et quia legendi eas mihi fecit, tamquam hominis cum quo saepius de suo animo, erga vos, egerit, visum est mihi accurate and particulatim exponere, quid inter nos actum dictumve fit, ut verba

cum factis conferre possitis, and pro vestra prudentia and pietate, confilium capere, and si operæ precium videbitur rescribere, Quantum enim ex ejus sermonibus colligo, videtur ipsi necessarium novum mandatum, a summo Pontificem and Cæsarem; nec possit, nisi verbis sui Domini quicquam promittere and statuere. Idcirco, quantum videre possum, res diutius protraetur quam vellemus, nisi Dominus noster and Pontifex coelestis, alio modo, nobis providerit. Die 28 and 29 inveni Illust. D. Rosenbergium tam occupatum, ut admitti non potuerim, sed per cubilarium significavit, se valde cupere ut colloqueremur, itaque redirem die 30. Iterim fui rufus cum Illustrissimo D. Nuncio, ,mox discessuro ad Sancti Caroli Monasterium, ubi commorobitur quamdiu hi estus sævient. Et cum commodo cecidisset, in colloquendo, visum est, mihi interrogare hominem, an probaret meam Sententiam de discernendo ex certis notis and terminis verum verbum Dei a ficto and sucato, cum possit angelus malus transformare se in angelum lucis and Apostata falsi, non raro, se transfigurent in Apostolos Christi. Dicebam enim duo mihi videri necessaria, ut hoc iudicium rite fiat, primum quidem, in homine audience, bona propensio and animus bene affectus ad Creatorem, totus que ex ei ita pendens, ut nihil antiquius habeat quam ei placere, and qui de ejus benignitate at que veritate non dubitet erga eos, qui ad ipsum confugiunt, ut bonum spiritum hauriant. Deinde in sermone, nomine Dei proposito, requiri eas proprietates, quæ tantum authorem deceant; quas graphice describit Paulus, cum dicit, Vivus est enim sermo G1 Dei and efficax, and penetrabilior omni gladio ancipiti, and pertingens us que ad divisionem animæ ac spiritus, compagum quoque ac medullarum, and discretor cogitationum and intentionum cordis, and non est ulla creatura invisibilis in conspectu ejus. Cui adstipulatus Deus, G2 qui apud Jeremiam dicit; Propheta qui Somnium habet, Somnium narect, ct qui verba mea habent, verba mea narret. Quid paleis cum tritico? dicit Dominus. Nunquid non verba mea sunt quasi ignis? dicit Dominus, quasi malleus conterens petram? Concludebam igitur, hominem Deo fidentem, ex efficacitate and ardore illo, quo affici se percipit, deprehendere sermonis Dei veritatem. Nam vox lupi and alieni pastoris non potest permovero veram ovem, ut ipsum diu sequatur, and hanc ese regulam, qua judicarem divinas sententias a non divinis, distingui posse: Ille probabit meam sententiam, atque addibit, sine bono studio auditorum, non apparere efficacitatem divinorum sermonum, ut constat ex Christi historia. Dum enim simplices Israelite, dicebat; Nunquit sid loquutus est homo, and similia de Christi doctrina, Pharisæi and perversi Sacerdotes eum deridebant and contemnebant.

num hujuscemodi regula uteris. Hic ille inquit, cum posset accider, ut mihi de hac re judicandum esset, nolo hoc tempore, meam sententiam declarare, sed hujuscomodi ratio non mihi mala videtur. Ex quibus verbis nescio quid mihi visus sum adorari minus candidum, quam in re tanta, opus effat. Sed Dei esto judicium de ejus interiori sensu. Ego, bona tide, colloquia nostra exposui, ut vobis usui esse possint, ratus hoc vobis gratum, sicut foret mihi si vestro loco essem. Reversus die 30, ad Illust. D. Resenbergium vidi eum tandem exeuntem, ex cubilo, ad quosdam nobiles, et dixit se tantopere districtum esse, ut meum colloqui non posset. Sicut cupere. Ego, vero inquam me S. Celsitudinis monitu, toties reversum expectare ejus responsum, et an vobis escribere vellet. Tunc ille inquit prius tecum colloquendum est imhi, itaque, (ut ejus verbis utar) habeas patientiam, aliquod dies donee ego pro te mittam, et sic me dimisit. Docui igitur Venceslanm cubicularium nostras ædes, qui dixit se optime callere locum, ac, suo tempore, memorem fore mei, cum Dominus me accerseret. Expectans igitur aut responsum Illustrissimi D. Rosenbergi, aut aliquid aliud dignum vestris auribus, non visum est mihi id vos expressum nuncium mittere: Morente præsertim Domini Sevembergio, vobis esse paratis nescio quas ædes in oppido Naitu, in Comitatu Suarrebürgensi, and ut expectarem reditum Domini Carpionis, quem propediem reversurum sperabat, ne fine magna causa at que incertus de loco vestræ fedis, ad vos literas dirigem. Igitur non parum sollicitus de vobis and de reditu D. Carponis, semel ad minimum in die, ejus ædes adeo, atque interrogo si quid de illo significetur, nec quicquam, per multos dies audio. Tandem de die 12 Augusti scitor D. Millerum an aliquid mihi de amico, dicere possit. Respondet se quoque expectare hominem, atque admodum mirari tam diuturnani moram, præsertim cum qui in ipso Carpioni ad nos venerat, fit triduo ante reversus. Ego igitur, qui nihil prius de D. Gregorii itineree aut reditu noveram, ad illum recta contendo. Gallusejus contubernalis humaniter me admittit, jubet expectare D. Doctorem, et ad illum accersendum currit. Sed cum diutius moraretur, ego jam discessurus, video D. Gregorium feorfum cum ipso colloquentem, et me torvo vultu intuentum. Saluto illum and gratulor reditum, ac demum de vobis incorrogo. Ille respondet se nihil quicquam de vobis aut trbus vestris scire, nec vobscum fuisse. Tunc ego aliquantulum hæreo, ac tandem dico, si nolit quicquam dicere me æque animo laturum, sed jam mihi constare cum vobiscum fuisse: Ille

(Hic ego:an parvum tibi videtur arcanum illud contra luem veneream?)Ille vero, subridens, a D. Sconto, inquit, longe præstantiorem habeo. Denique, his omissis, librum meum Postellærepeto:ille negat se habuisse interrogata quo audiverim; ac me laudante. D. Dee, ille rufus negat se vidisse; nisi forte, inquit, ex manibus D. Sevengii, vis dicere librum nescio quem fine titulo:ac denique derestituendo nullam spem facit. Ego qui cum illo verba commutare nollem, abeo:ac puerum vestrum Stanislaum, , in atrio offendo, and ab illo intelligo , vos vos Erfordiam usqu cum D. Gregorio and D. Carpione venisse, ante octiduum. D. Carpionem ellene Bambergam ad exigendas nescio quas pecunias, profectum; se cum D. Gregorio, hoc venisse. Interrogo an literas aut aliquod verbulum, a vobis, ad me, ferret; respondet, nihil prorsus, qui forte putabant, inquit, te hic non esse:se spot triduum aut quatrimum ad vos reversurum. Laudo ejus confilium, and constantiam in serviendis Dominis, ac doceo meas ædes, ne fine meis literis ad vos veniat:promittit se non discesurum, me infalutato D. Gregorius interim percipit, me cum eo colloqui, atque irem(quantum ex voce clamantis judicarepossum)puerum revocat. Ego, cogitabundus, discedo. Vester ex animo, Guilielmus propria manu. Febr. IO. 1587, stilo novo. Trebone. Postride reditius Illustrissimi a Vienna ad Trebonam + A Sir, My hearty commendations unto you desiring your health as my own, my Lord was exceeding glad of your Letters, and said now I see he loveth me, and truly as far as I perceive he loveth us heartily. This Sunday in the Name of the Blessed Trinity I begin my Journey, wherein I commend me unto your prayers, desiring the Almighty to send his fortitude with me. I commend me unto Mrs. Dee a thousand times, and unto your little babes: wishing my self rather amongst you, then elsewhere, I will by Gods grace about twenty dayes hence return, in the mean season all comfort and joy be amongst you; [Graphic omitted]Prage. Magnifico Domino, Domino Dee. ]Your assured and im- moveable friend. E. Kelly. Received of Lodovick in the High-way by Platz, in the middle way between New-house and Trebon, as I was comming from New-house, whither I went to have met my Lord as he came from Vienna: But Arch-duke Ernest was occasion (as was thought) that they should go to Prage by Triegle, being the more even, although not the next way: I received them on Friday the 6 of February, and they were delivered him at Prage on Sunday was a seven-night before, being the 25 of January, novo stilo. Swethart I commend me unto you, hoping in God that you are in good health, as I and my children, with all my Household am here, I praise God for it; I have none other matter to write unto you at this time. I being at New-house from Trebone, (to go to understand which way my Lord Rosenberg would go from Vien to Prage and when,) and this Letter being in the same day brought from Prage, my wife sent Lodovick with it, toward me, and so without Platz Town in the High-way he gave it me. + Trebone in Bohemia. Secunda, Actio instituta. [delta] Preces ad Diem fudi, and declared that we here and now presented our selves, as in obedience, G1 according to the same prescribed of six Moneths end, since the last good Friday: I craved pardon of all out errors and misdeeds, since the last time of his visiting us, and now requested his aid and direction hence-forward to walk prosperously, according to the well pleasing of his divine Majestie: and that he would grant unto William Rosenberg, E.K. and me his graces, so abundantly, that in us his honour might be increased, and glory advanced mightily and triumphantly, and c. A voice ..... Let him come, that it to come. [delta] I went for the Lord Rosenberg, whom I found in his Oratory of the Church hearing of

Masse: And he came with me and sat in his place. E.K. I see a great plain like unto a field, as though it were a Mile over, in the end of it there is a great high rotten Tree, all the grasse is as though it were withered and burned, there commeth a beam as of fire from Heaven, and lighteth upon the Tree, now there commeth water out of the root of the Tree, as though it were a Sea, and spreadeth all the plain over: And the Tree openeth and there commeth a Man out of it, his hair hangeth down unto his girdle stead, his garment covereth him down from his shoulders, and hangeth behind him down upon the water. The earth hath now drunk up all the water, and the Man standeth upon the dry ground. All the place is full of green grasse about a cubit high. Now the Man is out of sight. It seemed to be as beyond and without the Stone. The Vision is clean dis-appeared. [delta] I expounded this Vision in Latin to the Lord Rosenberg. E.K. In the midst of the Stone seemeth to stand a little round thing like a spark of fire, and it increaseth, and seemeth to be as bigge as a Globe of 20 inches Diameter, or thereabout. Vox ..... Wo be unto the World, wo be unto the World, and Worldlings: Wo be unto you Sonnes of men, for you are withered, and behold the field of the Lord bringeth you not forth: you are defiled, and being defiled, you defile also the beauty of your Seat: And behold, behold, behold, (I says) you that are the King and Princes of the Earth tyed and knit together upon one stemmed, you are all rotten and barren, behold, you bring forth no fruit: but even as the grasse that withereth, he is a dis-glory to the place, even so, are you that is grasse, of your situation and dwelling, for behold, you have no leaves, much lesse fruit: Wo, wo, wo, unto such a generation, which lacketh moisture, and the fire of comfort: The stemme that carrieth you is the Seat and holy place, which [Lotus sanclys contaminatus.] also is contaminated. Andlo, behold, (as it were) withered; if holinesse be hidden whereupon you stand, how wicked are those that are governed by you, how wicked are you, and how abominable

how full of corruption are you that stand without all beauty, moisture, or comfort: The time shall come that the power and might of God which here speaketh amongst you, in the fire and spirit of his holy truth shall come down from above, from Heaven, from the Seat of comfort, from the everlasting Throne, and shall fall down, not into you, nor amongst you (for you shall be rooted out,) but into the stemme and into the root which is the holy place, and the house of comfort: And behold, the power of God, (of him that speaketh) shall be mighty, strong, and of infinite power: So that like a Woman with Child, she shall bring forth in the Church of God, a man, clothed with a white garment: which is JUSTICE unspotted, which may walk with infinite power (and in the Garment of holinesse and beauty,) upon the abundance of graces, and the waters of comfort, which shall flow out of the holy Seat. And behold, ô you Sonnes of men, you shall be full of understanding, and of the spirit of Wisdome, and the grace of God, (of him that speaketh with you) shall be plentiful and strong amongst you: So that you shall spring, and beautified the Earth and the House of Christ: And behold, the higher boughs, and mighty branches shall lose their vertue, and be cast down, because they have placed them selves upon the outward rotten Stock, to the dishonour of him that hath called them: and there shall no more strength or vertue be amongst you: but you shall be subject to verity, and be G1 controuled with an iron rod, by him that came out, and walked on the waters: Then shall be peace and rest: Then shall Hierusalem descend. E.K. Now is all dis-appeared away out of sight. I read the former parcel in Latine to the Lord Rosenberg. A Pause. Tu jus es Domine, and Judicia tua vera, tu omnipotens o Deus noster, and brachio tuo nullus resistere potest. Venio, Domine, and consolare nos veritate and Justitia E.K. Now he is returned again in the form he went away in. A red crosse commeth over it, pure red, so yellowish. A Pause. G2 So that the Name of the God of Righteousnesse, and of his Sonne Christ shall be magnified in thee: § And lo, behold, by my self, I swear that after a few Moneths the time expired; I will smite, and break the holy place, so that there shall be no abomination in it. § And behold, the ends of the World shall be opened, and all people shall rejoyce in the Crosse and Name of the Lamb. § But first commeth terrour to all Nations. § Wo, wo, therefore be you, ô you Kings and Princes of the Earth! he that hath eares let him bear. .... And lo, behold, this day I am descended, and my promise is upon him that heareth aamongst you. Let him mitigate therefore the fragility of humane reason, and give me a dwelling place by faith: for I will this day make a Covenant with him, so that my Name and Spirit shall not depart from his House. G3 And what I have promised him I am, and will bring to passe: what is he, or who is he that laugheth me to scorn, that (if he repent not) receiveth not his reward? And moreover, I will appear to him hereafter, and he shall be partaker of the c lestial mystery, if my Name be exalted in him. And be hold, he shall often fall, but he shall rise again, and shall persevere unto the end. E.K. It is dis-appeared. Legi ultimam hane particulam Latine ipsi Principi Rosenbergio A Pause. E.K. In lapide stetit scriptum. After an hour. We removed not, but sat still and discoursed partly upon the premisses, and partly of Englands misery to come. K.K. There appeareth a little white cloud, like the end of a cloud, with a dark image of a face of three in one: sometimes appearing three, sometimes one. The end of the white cloud doth wave up and down before the face. G4 Vox ex latere lapidis ..... These four Moneths, let William (for as much as in him lyeth) abstain from Prage, for he shall deceive those that are deceivers. Two winds shall arise from the Earth within these next yeares in this Kingdom: In the first let him sit still: In the second let him arm himself; and resist with Victory. - notes- G1 Quando Hierusalem descendet. E. K. There appeareth a Wood, a great Wood on the left hand by a River: There be two like Hawks, whereof one is white, and the other is black: The one is on a bough in the water, that is the black, the other on a withered bough on the land. A great Bear commeth out of the Wood. G1 Now he runneth toward them, he catcheth the black one in the water, and swalloweth him, and standeth up upon his hinder legs. Now he goeth to the other, and shaketh him in his mouth, and standeth up on his hinder legs: and hath pulled off both his Wings, he returneth into the Wood again, the body of the white lyeth on the ground. Now he turneth his feet up. Now he standeth on his legs again. He followeth the Bear the same way he went, he would lift up himself as if he would fly, but he cannot. All this Wood, Bear, and two Fowles are vanished. E. K. Below standeth a great Castle, at the foot of the Hill on which that Wood did stand, down in a valley from the Hill goeth a great high Bridge of Stone long (in sight) about ten English miles long. Beside the entrance, on the right hand of that Castle, is like a Dial, with motions celestial in it, of Sunne and Moon. Now commeth a Bear, (black as the other) a very great monstrous Bear. The Bridge quaketh under him as he passeth it toward the Castle he roareth, looking toward the Castle. He steppeth up to the Dial, and taketh the Moon out of it, and teareth it all in pieces with his teeth. The Castle falleth, and the bridge where he standeth is broken. The Castle is all in ruine. The Bear standeth upon the edge of the bridge, and beholdeth the ruine of the Castle down into a pit as it were. Now he goeth back and the bridge falleth down after him. Now the Wood appeareth again, and he goeth into the Wood. Now that Vision is all vanished away. Vox ..... You shall shortly see, against what stone Pucci hath spurned. My Peace and blessing be upon you. E. K. Now all is gone away. Gloria, laus, honor, Benedictio and Jubilatio fit Deo Patri, Deo filio, and Deo Spiritu sancto: ficut erat

1587 ACTIO TERTIA Trebonæ Generalis Post preces ad Deum, and recitatum Catalogum illum, petitionum nostrarum ad eundem, G1 quievimus divina expectantes confilia, monita, and oracula. Magna Pausa .....Tandem accepi literasutrasq; illustrissimi Domini Rosenbergii, and recitavi coram G2 Deo, ut ejus obedientia, humilitas, and desiderium, coram Deo and Angelis ejusdem contestata essent. Alia adhuc pausa, five Mora facta, sed non longa. E.K. There seemeth a black Curtain of Velvet, to be drawn from one side of the Stone to the other. The Curtain is full of plights. There seemed also one to have descended from above, (a good way behinde the Curtain) and so to go behinde the same Curtain. Alia pausa. Vox..... Happy is he, whose minde thirsteth after the knowledge of such things as are spiritual, and celestial, of such things as are in the everlasting place and glory of him that is, and was, and shall be for ever: for unto him belongeth rest in the harvest of the Highest, and comfort in the midst of many worldly sorrows. For unto him, thus saith the Lord, the Lord of Rest, Thou hast rendred my blood again, with comfort unto me, and hast made a blood of eternal rest unto thy self for ever. Ascend therefore and dwell with me, and receive eternal comfort: for unto such belongeth the Kingdom of my Father; for I am G3 Zebaoth unto all such as trust in me. But behold, the earth bringeth not forth my mighty praise, because of the wickedness that aboundeth in all mankinde: Neither have I many such children amongst the sons of men as I have spoken of before; for why? The Giants of this world are a stumbling block unto the poor people, and unto their subjects: for lo, behold, behold! (I say vile and base things (for that they are misused) are become gods within their houses: so that, Gold and Silver, precious Stones, and soft Apparel, which were wont to be brought out of their houses to garnish mine withall, are become their gods, and the Idols of their destruction: for, who is he that exalteth not himself in his riches, and despiseth me that was the Author of them? Where is he that loveth not his wife and children, pomp and worldly glory, more than the setting in order of my little flock, or the preferment of my glory? Who (I say) is he, that maketh not more of himself than of me? Woe be unto you that so do: and woe be unto the generations that shall follow you. . Be merciful unto us, O God of Mercies. .... O wretched and miserable mankinde, look, look in and upon thy self. Hast thou made thy self? or when thou art afflicted, canst thou remove thine own affliction? Hast thou any thing of thy own, which my Father hath not given thee, through me, in one provident and eternal will? Canst thou hide thy self where I cannot see thee? or canst thou do that which lieth hid from me? Look again upon thy self, and consider what parents, and root thou hadst thy beginning in Nature: behold, they and their fathers are become the dust of the earth; even so shalt thou do. And even as of them is a straight account of life required, even so shall it be of thee: for, I that made thee, and gave thee breath, made thee partaker and user of my creatures, led thee in and out, gave thee the Sun to shine upon thee, and the Moon as the mother of your radical moisture. I that lifted thee up, either to the honour of a King, or Magistrate, and made thee a governor over thy brethren, will at last take a straight account of thee, how thou hast used thy self towards me, and where thou hast advanced my Name in such things as I have lent thee: And be right sure, that thou shalt pay, even the uttermost farthing. Woe be unto thee, if thou make not a just account; miserable shalt thou be for ever, if thy deserts condemn thee. Therefore while thou hast time and space, look, look up unto me; for I am the Well of comfort, and the God of peace; the true reward of righteousness to all such as faithfully love and trust me. Pausa. [delta] . I read this over..... Oh how comfortable are these lessons! Give us and confirm unto us thy graces and blessings, O God, to do thy blessed will herein, and in all our duty toward thee whatsoever. -notes- G1 Apirilis 4. Mane circa 8. E.K. Now the voice seemeth to come from him who standeth behinde the Curtain. Magna Pausa. William the son of Ursine, the Lord talketh with thee this day, saying, Wilt thou that I buy a Kingdom for thee with gold or silver? Wilt thou that the Kings and Princes of the earth shall laugh the Almighty God of the heaven and earth to scorn? Have I at any time preferred (such as trust in me) to the government of my people, by giving them the excrements of the earth? Look down upon my servant Abram. Look down upon his children. Call to remembrance my servant David. Set Solomon before thy eyes. The Kings and Princes of Judah and of Jerusalem. Consider with thy self the Calling of the twelve: The government and state of such as have been Princes amongst the flock Christian. Have they been hired or promoted? Have they been lifted up by me with gold or silver, or such like trumpery, the Monsters of the earth? In necessity, to pay Tribute the fish ministered, where withal Tribute might be paid according to custom. In the calling of Abraham, multiplication of seed was promised; which was to be a multitude in people, mighty and great upon the face of the earth. David was brought in (the least of his brethren) even to be King of Israel, not by the multitude of precious stones, gold or silver. A Sling he had, a Satchel with a few stones. Solomn was commanded to build me a Temple, without any sum or stint. The Apostles went from place to place, intending to teach; neither carried they gold or silver, but onely a scrip or bag prepared for their common victuals and nourishment. Many Princes and Kings have published my Name, without any promise made unto them from heaven. Notwithstanding, unto Abraham I have plenty, as his necessities required: and unto his children, as I had limited. Unto David, being King, riches followed his State: and unto his son Solomon, plenty both at home and abroad, to build my Temple. Unto the Apostles I gave (in the time of the calling of my people) the spirit of understanding, whereby they understood and had power to teach: And unto such as stretched out their hands for my name, I have abundantly given; and it hath been faithfully, and for the love of me taken in hand. Believe therefore with Abraham, and with his children. Bring thy sling and bag before the people of the Lord against Goliab. Endeavor thy self with Solomon, to build a Common-wealth, wherein I will be exalted, as the servant of the Son of God, and as his follower. Go forward, as thy own power and ability shall serve thee: For thus saith the Lord of Hosts: Thou hast nothing but what thou hast received of me: neither thou, neither thy father. Provide therefore, of that thou hast, which is mine: that is to say, of that which thy power can extend unto, in thine own faculty and riches, to shew thy good will and ready endeavours in such things to be brought to pass, as thou hast learned of me: That is to say, Neglect not the time of this thy visitation, neither despise this Kingdom wherein thou shalt reign, for in so doing I dwell with thee for ever, and with thy posterity which shall be (in me) mighty. When thou art entred into it, whatsoever Treasure there is in my house, or amongst you, Take it, use it. G1 Make thee a sword of it with two edges, that with the one thou maist cut off the bastards head, and with the other build up the Monuments and the houses of cleanliness, godliness, and understanding: That the East again may flourish, and that I may make one Flocy, from the Sun-rising to his going down. G2 In the mean season, shall the Powder which thou hast to be multiplied, be extended, and multiplied with them that are here present, that it may be apt for thy uses, and the strengthening of thy faith. The one half of it thou shalt keep, as the perpetual remembrance of me, even thou and thy posterity. G3 Unto him that is thy head, do thy true obedience: although his heart be hardued against thee, and thirsteth after thy destruction. For behold, thy enemy that seeketh to devour thy Soul, ceaseth not to lay arts for there, that thou maist become odious to common people. G1 shalt have justice against him. See therefore that thou smite; see, I say again, that thou smite him, for Justice is the hand of the Highest punishing such as offend, either against him or his Innocent. These that now come unto thee, have brought thee a great Cluster of grapes, even as big as they can both carry: amongst the which, notwithstanding there are many rotten. But behold, the foolishness from above shall appear wisdom before them, when their wisdom shall become foolishness before me, and before themselves. Round about thee thou shalt receive assistance, and many hearts shall be made glad in thee. As for my Treasures to be opened, To him that defileth my Seat, and the Sword of Justice. To him that harboureth abomination in his own houses, and listneth unto wicked counsel. Unto him which hath despised me, which is accursed of me, shall none of my Treasures be opened. I have judged him, and it shall appear shortly. That which is Cæsars give unto Cæsar; and that which is mine, unto the House of my Honour. Be obedient (as the servant of God) unto thy Superiors: and whilest thou maist, diligently do Justice. Thy Country shall receive such remembrance of thee, as shall never be rased from the face of the earth: until the fire come down from heaven consuming all things. Be full of humility, and abandon pride. Bow down thine ears unto the poor. Be often sorry for thy dayes mis-spent. Be strong for ever in me. Pausa. G2 . Thy wife is even at the door of sickness: But behold, I am even he, the Lord of health. E.K. G3 As unto thee, Barrenness dwelleth with thee, because thou didst neglect me, and take a wife unto thy self contrary unto my commandment: for neither young nor old, rich nor poor, are respected with me; but what I will have done, is just, and whosoever doth it not, is privily (if he be not openly) punished for his offence. Therefore thou shalt have the womb which thou hast barren, and srutleß unto thee, because thou hast transgressed that which I commanded thee. G4 Be it unto thy brother, as his service, trust, and confidence hath been in me, and towards me. G5 Lay your hands to work, and your bodies unto labour, and participate one with another, as is commanded you. That the blessing which I have promised you may go forward in you; and that your labour may bring forth good fruit. G6 The fourteenth day hence shall this Action end: In which day you shall once again assemble your selves here together. And now behold I say unto thee, unto thee, that hast thy eyes opened, and thy ears made perfect, which hast been exalted by the sight of the heavens, why dost thou call upon me, desiring to be made free. G7 Is it a burthen unto thee to be comforted from above? O foolish man! by how much the heavens excel the earth, by so much doth the gift that is given thee from above, excel all earthly treasure. Notwithstanding, because that Manna is loathsome unto thee, behold what is said unto thee this day. Thou art made free: neither shalt thou any time hereafter be constrained to see the judgment of the higgest, or to bear the voices of the heavens. But thou art a stumbling-block unto many. Notwithstanding, my Spirit shall dwell with thee; and in the works of thy hands thou shalt receive comfort. G8 And the power which is given thee of seeing, shall be diminished in thee, and shall dwell upon the first-begotten Son of him that sitteth by thee, as I have * before said. In the mean season shall he be exercised here before me, until the time come, that his eyes shall be opened, and his ears receive passage towards the highest. And these fourteen dayes shall it be a time unto thee of chousing or refusing. G9 For I will not cast thee away, neither out of my house, unless ; is be long of thy own ignorance, and wilful despising of my great benefit. If thou therefore be weary of it, the fourteenth day hence, bring hither, and lay before G10 me the Powder which thou host, for thou hast offended me, as a false steward, in taking out of that which is not thine own. - notes- G1 Justice against People. I will no longer dally with you, but will give unto you according unto your works. . O God be merciful unto us, and deal not with us according to the wickedness, frowardness, and blindness of our hearts. Amen. NOTE. . UPON this former part of the Third Action General, where my first begotten Son (namely Arthur) was assigned to the Ministry of seeing and hearing, in place and stead of E. K. if he would utterly refuse the same office (hitherto by him executed, and by him to be executed, until the seven actions general finished) And that the same Childe and Son, in the mean space (that is to say, between the day of the part of Action received, and the end of the same: determined to be fourteen dayes after) should be exercised before God. I thereupon thinking that E. K. would, should, or best could instruct and direct the Childe in that exercise, did alwayes await, that E. K. would of himself call the Boy to that Exercise with him; and so much the rather, because he said, that be was very glad now that be should have a Witness of the things shewed and declared by spiritual Creatures: And that he would be more willing to do what should be so enjoyned to him to do, then if onely he himself did see, and that for divers causes. But when E. K. said to me, that I should exercise the Childe and not he, and that he would not, I thereupon appointed with my self to bring the Childe to the place, and to offer him, and present him to the service of Seeing and Skrying from God, and by Gods assignment, and of the time of fourteen dayes yet remaining, being the 15, 16, 17 dayes of April, and next before the 18 day, (the day assigned to end the Action in) to have the Childe exercised in them. And thereupon contrived for the Childe this order of Prayer ensuing. Die Mercurii summo mane die Apirilis 15.anno 1587. Trebone. G1 In the Name of God the Father, of God the Son, and of God the Holy Ghost. Amen. Glory be to God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost: As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen. O Almighty and Everlasting, the true and living God, have mercy, pity and compassion on my father John Dee, and on me Arthur Dee; who being now called hither by thy assignment, am now here present and ready in all humility, obedience and faithfulness, to serve thy Divine Majesty, with all the gifts and graces which thou hast hitherto endued me with; and with all other which of thy most bountiful and fatherly mercy, thou wilt henceforward bestow upon me. Lighten (therefore) O Almighty God, mine eyes, and open thou mine ears; Quicken, Instruct and Confirm in me, and unto me, my discretion, judgement, understanding, memory, and utterance, that I may be a true and perfect Seer, Hearer, Declarer and Witness of such things which either immediately of thy Divine Majesty, or mediately by the ministry of thy holy, mighty, and faithful Angels shall be manifested, declared or shewed unto me, now, and at all times and occasions, for the advancing of thy Praise, Honour and Glory. Amen. Hereupon, Wednesday morning, (the 15 of this April) I brought the Childe to the holy Table, being in order of the furniture thereto belonging, and set before him the Stone in the frame, (my first sanctified Stone) and caused him on his knees, to say the foresaid Prayer. And I also praid to the Childs hearing, other Prayers to God for the purpose in hand: and at his coming to look and see in the Stone, There appeared to him (as he judged) divers little square figures, with pricks, and divers other figures and lines, which I caused him with his own hand to imitate upon a paper with pen and ink. Arth. Two old men with black beards, and with golden Crowns upon their heads, do appear. One is now gone: this holdeth his hands before him like a Maid. -notes- G1 Oratio pro Arthuro

Arth. Now in the place of those square marks, I see two Lions, the one very exactly, and gaping. About the upper brim of the Stone they appear: and the Lions feet be waxen greater and greater. I see another man from the breast upward. I can see no hair on his head. I see a great company of feet, and their garments skirts somewhat above their ankles; and they are like womens kirtles with gards about them. I see another man without a doublet, in his shirt, and with a white Cloke about him, hanging his hands down by his sides. . Nothing else esteemed or judged to be shewn in the Stone, by the Childe, we ceased that Exercise, and committed all to Gods mercies. G1 . On Thursday and Friday, I determined each of them two dayes that the Childe shall thrice in the day be put to the Exercise, and each time repeat the Prayer prescribed thrice. [I.] . In the forenoon I brought the Childe to the Exercise, and he said as followeth. I see two men with Crowns of gold upon their heads: their apparel is black and white. I cannot see their feet. Their faces are white, their eyes are black like spots of ink. There appear now two other, without Crowns: of the which one standeth whole before, and of the other I see nothing but the head, which standeth behind the first. I see not any with Crowns now. The apparel of him is white that I see. I see no hands of him. I see nothing now. The squares and pricks appear again as yesterday. And I doubted it was something of the Glass it self: as there were in it certain white spots. An hour we were at the practice. . The second Exercise before Dinner. After the Prayer thrice said, and c. [II.] Arth. I see the first square lines and pricks, white and black: the pricks for the most part be all white, but some are black, and the lines all white. I saw, even now, some of those squares made Lions: but now there appear none. The squares are now turned also into other shapes, which I cannot well declare. Now the Letters be gone, and the squares do appear again. The squares are gone, and a word is there. The letters are clearer then they were: for all the lines and letters do appear white. There appeareth a B, with a square, with four black pricks in it. It is gone. Now some of the squares are come amongst the letters BDO. Now there appeareth a young man with a white doublet, and his arms by his side, and a B before him against his doublet. He hath a black beard and a white face. I see no hair on his head: his beard is a little--- He is now changed: he hath on his doublet breast, on each side three black lines. He is gone, and another is come in his place, with a white leather doubler, and a grey cloke like Hans of Gloats his cloke. He is gone. The first young man is come again, and hath now on the one side of his doublet -- on the other side, thus: Now I see only two strokes overthwart all the doublet, but he hath no head that I see. Either his head is come again, or else another man, that hath two lines and two pricks as he had. The light of the candle did seem to shine suddenly on his face, and go away again. It did not shine on his doublet, but onely on his face and his head. There is now another man come in, who holdeth up both his hands: the upper part of his sleeves are white, and the half towards his hands black. The first man is here still. Now he hath no arms but a B before his doubler, but no lines, but only on each side two pricks in stead of the lines, thus [as] These men came amongst the squares suddenly before I was aware. Here appear not so many as were here. Here are now but six squares, and one man. I see no farther of the man but to the waste of his doublet. The man appeareth not so brim to my sight as he did, his head is no bigger than the mark in the margent. [III.] The third Exercise after Dinner. Arth. G1 and me together: so he might be also the Director in the translating of. E.K. his office to Arthur. Then said he, I marvel if you had no apparition here: for I somewhat thinking of Arthur and his proceeding in the feat of skrying, came here into the gallery, and I heard you pray: and opening the window, I looked out, and I saw a great number going in and out of this Chapel at the little hole in the glass window. I saw Madimi, Il, and many other that had dealt with us heretofore, but shewed themselves in very filthy order; and Uriel appeared, and justified all to be of God, and good: And therefore I wonder if here you have no shew: perhaps there is somewhat, but Arthur seeth it not. . True it is: and how should I help him herein, seeing I cannot yet see or skry? E.K. I will come and see if there be any thing. . I pray you do. G1 sufficient proof and testimony may be had that it is the same Gog: Then must the same God be obeyed: For only God is the Lord of Lords, King of Kings, and Governor of all things. E K She kneeleth, and holdeth up her hands. Mad. The Laws of God, and of his Son Christ, stablished by the testimony of his Disciples and G2 Congregation, and by the force and power of his holy Spirit, are not in any particular vocation Abrogated, but rather confirmed. For oftentimes it falleth out, that God being offended at the wickedness of any man, or of some man private, sendeth down his Spirit of Death, infecting and tempting another mans minde; so that he becometh void of Reason, and riseth up against him, whom God is offended with, and striketh him, so that he dyeth, This, before man, is accounted sin before God it shall be imputed unto him for righteousness. Even so what soever the Spirit of God teacheth us from him, though it appear sin before man, is righteousness before him. Therefore assure your selves, that what soever is seen and heard amongst you, is from above, and is a sign and testimony even this day before you; for I that touched thy Son, G3 might also have taken away his breath. But O, you are of little understanding: But behold I teach you. That unto those that are accounted righteous (through the good will of God) sin is justly punished, but not as unto the wicked. For whatsoever you have done unto other men, even the self-same shall light upon you, but happy is he that receiveth not justice through the terror of maldicion , but through the grace and mercy of God. The Apostle Paul abounded in carnal lust: he was also offensive unto his brethren so that he despaired, and was ready to have left his vocation, until the Lord did say unto him, My mercy and grace sufficeth thee. Believe me, that we are from above. Which considered: Consider also, That as you cannot comprehend the heavens, so likewise can you not comprehend the wisdom of God, which saith, I will be merciful unto whom I list; and unto whom I will not, I have none in store: Foolish is he that asketh why? And behold I say unto you, Stumble not against God. Who he is that made you? Who is he that bath given you power to look up towards heaven? You are fools, and of little understanding: This day saith God unto you, Behold you are become free: Do that which most pleaseth you: For behold, your own reason riseth up against my wisdom. Not content you are to be heires, but you would be Lords, yea Gods, yea the Judges of the heavens: Wherefore do even as you list, but if you forsake the way taught you from above, behold evil shall enter into your senses, and abomination shall dwell before your eyes, as a recompense, unto such as you have done wrong unto: And your wives and children, shall be carried away before your face. . The Almighty God of heaven and earth be my comfort, as I desire comfort in his service; and give me wisdom as I desire it for his honour and glory, Amen. E.K. I see a white pillar; and upon the pillar, I see four heads. G4 She tieth the pillar round about with a lift. The four heads are like on two heads, and on two Wolves heads. Now there cometh a thing like a white Crown of Christal, and standeth upon all our four heads. The heads seem to be inclosed by the necks within the pillar. Now she taketh the pillar and goeth up with it. Now she bringeth an half Moon down, and written in it as followeth. Injustum nihil quod justum est Deo. Now she goeth round about upon a thing like a Carpet; she goeth now beyond where is an Orchard; she cutteth branches of two trees, and see seemeth to insert them, or grass them into another. Now she goeth into a black place behind the wood, and bringeth a thing with her in a chain: An ugly thing like a Devil. Mad. .... Behold, seest thou this: wherewith all thou thoughtest to overthrow, and most infect, thou art utterly overthrown, and shalt never return again. E.K.

every seventh day, that your eyes may be opened, and that you may understand by him that shall teach you, what the secrets of the holy books (delivered you) are: That you may become full of understanding, and in knowledge above common men. And in your works go forward, and detract no time, that you may also have fruit. Unto William I will be merciful for ever, according to my promise. But I will buy him no Kingdom, after the manner of man, with money. But what I have determined unto him, shall happen unto him: And he shall become mighty in me. And this Powder which thou haft brought here, is appointed for a time by God, and cannot be used until then, without offence. Happy is he that heareth my words this day: and happy is he that understandeth them. But if you deny the Wisdome of the Highest, and account us his Messengers, Creatures of darkness.
This day you are made free. And look that you lay up all things that is spoken of from above; and whatsoever hath been taught you, (as well the books as instruments.) You shall shortly have to do again with the cruelty of the Emperors, and the accursed Bishop. Whereunto, if you go forward with God, you shall be taught to answer. If you leave off, as soon as you hear of it be going into Germany, left you perish before then. I have no more to say unto you, but my swiftness is from above. E.K. Now she maketh her self ready, and c. Mad. .... If my friendship like you not, I beseech God send you as good will, as I (in power) hear towards you. I have not one word more given me to speak. E.K.
Now she is gone. . I was glad that an offer was made of being every seventh day to be taught the secrets of the books already delivered unto us: Thinking that it was easie for us to perform that unity which was required to be amongst us four; understanding all after the Christian and godly sense. But E.K. who had yesterday seen and heard another meaning of this unity required, utterly abhorred to have any dealing with them farther, and did intend to accept at their hands the liberty of leaving off to deal with them any more: which his understanding, as it was strange and unpleasant unto me, so I earnestly requested to be resolved therein in manner as followeth. At the same time and in the same place this ensued. NOTE. . Upon Mr. Kelly his great doubt bred unto me of Madimi her words yesterday, spoken to him, that we two had our two wives in such sort, as we might use them in common, it was agreed by us, to move the question, whether the sense were of Carnal use (contrary to the law of the Commandment) or of Spiritual love, and charitable care and unity of mindes, for advancing the service of God. E.K. Upon a Scroll, like the edge of a Carpet, is written, De utroq; loquor. [delta] . The one is expressly against the Commandment of God: neither can I by any means consent to like of that Doctrine. And for my help in that verity, I do call down the power of Almighty God, the Creator of heaven and earth, and all the good Angels, (his faithful Ministers) to assist me in the defense of my faithful obedience to the law of the Gospel, and of his Church. Assist me, O Christ. Assist me, O Jesus. Assist me, O holy Spirit. -notes- G1 Unity. An offer of every 7th day to be taught the secrets of the books received. The holy books delivered. E.K. It appeareth written upon a white Crucifix, as followeth, Mea gratia, majer est mandate. Gratia enim hec mea est, ut hominibus insanis concederetur beatitudo: Et que ita dicta sunt, Vel sint, vel bodie libertos vobis restituitur. Amen dico vobis, quia si dicerem homini; East, and fatrem Jugula, and non faceret, filins est peccati and mortis. Omnia, enim, possibilia and licita sunt superis. Neque magi cdiosa sunt pudenda illis, quam mortalium quorumcumque vultus. Ita enim fiet, spurias cum filio (quod magis absurdum est) copulabitur. Et oriens cum occidente, Meridies quaque cum septentrione coadunabuntur. E.K. Now it is vanished. . Hereupon we were in great amazement and grief of minde, that so hard, and (as it, yet seemed unto me) so unpure a Doctrine, was propounded and enjoyned unto us of them, whom I alwayes (from the beginning hitherto) did judge and esteem, undoubtedly, to be good Angels: And had unto E.K. offered my soul as a pawn, to discharge E.K. his crediting of them, as the good and faithful Ministers of Almighty God. But now, my heart was sore afflicted upon many causes: And E.K. had (as he thought) now, a just and sufficient cause, to forsake dealing with them any more. As his prayer to God of a long time hath been (as in the former part of this Action may appear.) After our going out of the Chapel, and at our being at dinner, when we four (whose heads so were united, in a pillar shewed, as is before set down, I found means to make some little declaration of our great grief (mine chiefly) now occasioned, either to try us, or really to be executed, in the common and indifferent using of Matrimonial Acts amongst any couple of us four: Which thing was strange to the women: And they hoped of some more comfortable issue of the cause. And so we left off. After Dinner, as E.K. was alone, there appeared unto him little creatures of a cubit high: and they came to the Still where he had the spirit of Wine distilling over out of a Ketorto: And one of them (whose name they expressed Ben) said that it was in vain so to hope for the best spirit of the Wine; And shewed him how to distill it, and separate it better. And moreover how to get oyl of the spirit of Wine, as it burned in the lamps: And began to ask E.K. what Country-man he was? And when he had answered an English-man, he asked then, how he came hither? he answered by Sea: Then said he, And who helped you to pass the marvelous great dangers of the Sea. And so took occasion to speak of the benefits which God had hitherto done for us, very many. And this Ben, said than among very many other things (as Mr. E.K. told me on Saturday night after Supper [Ben was the deliverer of the powder to E.K. at the digging in England. Note, unleast conditionally. Q. El. K. Phi.] holding on his talk almost till two of the clock after midnight) That he it was that delivered him, or gave unto his hands the powder. And also he said either than or the next day at the furthest, that unleast he would be conformable to the will of God in this last Action declared, That he would take the vertue and force of the powder from it: That it should be unprofitable: And that he should become a beggar. And of me also he said that I did evil to require proof, or testimony now, that this last Doctrine was from God Almighty, and said that I should be led prisoner to Rome, and c. He told of England, and said, That about July or November her Majesty should from heaven be destroyed; and that about the same time the King of Spain should dye. And that this present Pope at his Mass should be deprived of life before two years to an end. And that another should be Pope, who should be Decimus quintus of his name; And that he would begin to reform things, but that shortly he should of the Cardinals be stoned to death. And that after that there should be no Pope for some years. G1 Of England he said, That after the death of our dear Queen, One of the house of Austria made mighty by the King of Spain his death, should invade and conquer the land, and c. He said, One (now abroad) should at Milford-haven enter, and by the help of the Britan; subdue the said Conqueror: And that one Morgan a Britan should be made King of the Britans, and next him, one Rowland, and c. He said also, That this Francis Garland was an espy upon us from the Lord Treasurer of G2 England: And that Edward Garland is not his brother: And that so the matter is agreed between them, and c. That my Lord Kosenberg should be in danger of poisoning for these certain months to come. That my Tables of Enoch, were in some places falsely written. G3 Of Antichrist he spoke, and of his appearing. Of Ely and Enoch coming out of Paradise: And of Saint John Evangelist, that he dyed not, but in Pathmos had his invisible being: And that he it was, who did give Julianus Apestat a his deaths wound. He said also that he hath at divers times preached visibly since the time of his invisible state entred. -notes- G1 England. G2 Fr. Garland Edw. Garland. G3 Enochs Tables. Antichrist. He confirmed the words of the great Famine and Blood-shed that should come shortly. G1 He said that on every side of us, people should be slain, but that we should (by the Divine protection) escape. He said that shortly this Francis Garland should go into England: And that we should be sent for. But that it were best to refuse their calling us home. He said that there were four other, who were made also privy of God his my steries as we were, with whom we should meet at Rome. He said that Mary and one more in England, should see the wonderful days to come. Madimi appeared to him there also. The same Ben went once away mounting up in a flame of fire: and afterward upon occasion of asking him somewhat, he came down so again. And of the manner how to draw the oyl of the Spirit of wine being burnt, he brought thither the instruments of two silver dishes, whelmed one upon another with an hole passing through the middle of them both, and with sponge between them: in which the oyl would remain, and c. About 2 of the clock after midnight. I ane Dee. After all these, and many other things told me by the same Mr.E.K. we departed each to his bed, where I found my wife awake, attending to hear some new matter of me from Mr. Kelly his reports of the apparitions, continued with him above four hours, being else alone, I then told her, and said, Jane, I see that there is no other remedy, but as hath been said of our cro ß-matching, so it must needs be done. Thereupon she fell a weeping and trembling for a quarter of an hour: And I pacified her as well as I could; and so, in the fear of God, and in believing of his Admonishment, did perswade her that she shewed her self prettily resolved to be content for God his sake and his secret Purposes, to obey the Admonishment. G2 . Note, Because I have found so much halting and untruth in E.K. his reports to me made, of the spiritual Creatures, where I have not been present at an Action: and because his memory may fail him, and because he was subject to ill tempters, I believe so much hereof as shall by better trial be found true, or conformable to truth. . Note ..... E.K. had this day divers apparitions unto him in his own Chamber, and instructions in divers matters which be regarded not, but remained still in his purpose of utterly discrediting those Creatures, and not to have any more to do with them. But among divers apparitions he noted this of one that said unto him. .... Joyn Enoch his Tables. .... Give every place his running number. E.K. What mean you by places? ..... The squares. Which done, refer every letter in the Table to his number, and so read what I will, for this is the last time I will admonish you. E.K. . Note: When E.K. had shewed me this Note, I by and by brought forth my book of Enoch his Tables, and found the four letters t T b d to be the four first letters of the four principal squares standing about the black Cross: and that here they were to be placed otherwise than as I had set them. And in the first placing of them together, I remember that I had doubt how to joyn them; for they were given apart each by themselves. Secondly, I found out the 4 Characters; saving they were inversed somewhat, and one of them closed: whereof I found none like, but very near. These Characters were of every square one. Thirdly, I did take these numbers contained between the lines (some more and some fewer) to be words to be gathered out of the Table of letters: so many words as were distinct companies of numbers; it is to wit, 41. Hereupon we began to number the squares wherein the letters stood in Enochs Tables as I had them, but we could not exactly finde the words, but somewhat near. Hereupon being tired, and desirous to know the sense of that Cypher, we left off till after supper, and then we assayed again: but we could not bolt it out, though we knew very near what was to be done by the instruction of a spiritual Voice, now and then helping us toward the practice. At length E.K. was willed to go down into his Chamber, and I did remain still at our Dining Table till his return, which was within an hour or somewhat more. And at his return this he brought in writing. My applying of Numbers for more easie reckoning.

..... The black Cross is right, and needeth no mending. But thus much I do, to let thee understand, that thou mayest consider thy self to be a man: And beneath this understanding, unless thou submit all into the hands of God, for his sake; who else leaving you, all naked, provideth in his creatures to his own glory. ....
Cara tibi uxor, carior tibi sapientia, charissimis tibi ego sum.
Electus tremis, and besitando peccas: Noli igitur ad genium, and carmen sapere; sed obtempera mihi: ductor enim tuus sum and autor spiritus omnium. Hec omnia à me sunt, and licita vobis.
..... I admonish you as the children of God, to consider your vocation, and the love of God towards you; and not to prefer your reason before the wisdom of the highest, whose mercy is so great towards you, That you are chosen from the number of men to walk with him, and to understand his mysteries, and with all to execute his justice and praise throughout the Nations and people of the earth. Consider that if he finde you obstinate, the plagues of bayous sinners, and contemners of the gifts of God shall fall upon you, to your great overthrow: This is the last time of your trial. Therefore shew your selves lovers of him that bath led you, and covered you with a mighty shield: Or shortly look for the reward of such, as have contemned the Wisdom and Majesty of the Highest. I Raphael, Counsel you to make a Covenant with the Highest, and to esteem his wings more then your own lives. . When E.K. had brought me these things, I greatly rejoyced in spirit, and was utterly resolved to obey this new Doctrine to us, peculiarly, of all people of the world enjoyed. And after some little discourse and conference hereof, we went to bed, this G1 20. day of April, at night. Aprilis 21. . Thus, am I resolved, O Almighty God, as concerning the case, so hard to flesh and blood, to be resolved in, thus: And thus I desire, that we all four, might with one minde and consent, offer and present unto thee, this writing as a Vow, Promise, and Covenant, if it so please thy divine majesty to accept it. Wee four (whose heads appeared under one Chrystalline Crown, in one pillar united, and inclosed) do most humbly and heartily thank thee, O Almighty God (our Creator, Redeemer and Sanctifier) for all thy mercies and benefits hitherto received, in our persons, and in them that appertain unto us: And at this present, do faithfully and sincerely confess, and acknowledge, that thy profound wisdom in this most new and strange doctrine (among Christians) propounded, commended, and enjoyed unto us four only, is above our humane reason, and Christian profession to like of: For that in outward shew of words, it seemeth to us expressly to be contrary to the purity and chastity, which of us, and all Christians, thy followers, is exactly required. Notwithstanding, we will, herein, captivate, and tread under-foot all our humane timorous doubting of any inconvenience, which shall, or may fall upon us, or follow us in this world, or in the world to come, in respect or by reason of our embracing of this Doctrine, listened unto, of us, as delivered from our true and living God, the Creator of heaven and earth; who only hath the true original power and Authority of sins releasing and discharging: And whose pardoning, and not imputing of sin unto us, through our lively faith in the most worthy merit, and precious blood of the Lamb Immaculate, shed for us, is and shall be our justification and salvation. We, therefore (according to blessed Raphael his counsel last given) most humbly and sincerely require thy Divine Majesty, to accept this our Covenant with thee (for that, thy merciful promises made unto us, may be to us performed; and thy divine purposes in us and by us, may be furthered, and advanced and fulfilled.) That, as we acknowledge thy divine wisdom and grace offered unto us in this thy last mystical Admonishment: And dost most earnestly will us to accept the same, as lawful and just with thee; Which Admonishment standeth upon two parts: That is to wit, upon our true Christian charity spiritual between us four, and also upon the Matrimonial licence and liberty, indifferently among us four to be used: So we the same four (which hereunto will subscribe) covenant with thy Divine Majesty, upon the two principal respects before rehearsed, truly and unfeignedly to accept and perform henceforward amongst us four, in word, thought and deed, Christian charity, and perfect friendship, and all that belongeth thereto: And as for the Matrimonial-like licence, and liberty, -notes- G1 Aprilis 20.

we accept and allow of it, and promise unto thee (O our God) to fulfill the same, in such sort, as the godly are permitted to fulfill, and have been by divers testimonies commended for, and by Divine doctrine willed to fulfill, in Matrimonial conversation, whensoever thy motions and allurements (Matrimonial-like) shall draw and perswade any couple of us. Beseeching thee, as thou art the onely true Almighty and Everlasting God, Creator of Heaven and Earth, Thou wilt, in thy infinite mercies, not impute it unto us for sin, blindness, rashness, or presumption, being not accepted, done, or performed upon carnal lust, or wanton concupiscence; But by the way of Abraham-like faith and obedience, unto thee, our God, our Leader, Teacher, Protector and Justifier, now and for ever. And hereunto we call the holy Heavens to be witnesses, for thy honour and glory (O Almighty God) and our discharge, now and for ever. Amen. IEdward Kelly by good and provident (according to the Laws and ordinances of God) determination and consideration in these former Actions, that is to say, appearings, shews made, and voyces uttered, by the within named in this Book, and the rest whatsoever Spirits have from the beginning thereof(which at large by the Records appeareth) not only doubted and disliked their insinuations and doctrine uttered, but also divers and sundry times (as coveting to eschew and avoid the danger and inconvenience that might either by them, their selves, or the drift of their doctrine ensue, or to my endamagement divers wayes, happen) sought to depart from the exercises thereof: and withal boldly (as the servant of the Son of God) inveighed against them: urging them to depart, or render better reason of their unknown and uncredible words and speeches delivered; and withall often and sundry times friendly exhorted the Right Worshipful Master JOHN DEE (the chief follower thereof) as also in the Records appeareth, to regard his soules health, the good proceeding of his wordly credit (which through Europe is great) the better maintenance to come of his wife and children, to beware of them, and withall to give them over: wherein although I friendly and brotherly laboured, my labour seemed to be lost and counsel of him despised, and withall was urged with replies to the contrary by him made, and promises, in that case, of the loss of his soules health, if they were not of God: Whereunto upon as it were some farther taste of them, or opinion grounded upon the frailty of zeal, he ceased not also to pawn unto me his soul, and c. which his perswasions-were the chief and onely cause of my this so long proceeding with them: And now also at this instant, and before a few dayes having manifest occasion to think they were the servants of Sathan, and the children of darkness; because they manifestly urged and commanded in the name of God a Doctrine Damnable, and contrary to the Laws of God, his Commandments, and Gospel by our Savior Christ as a Touchstone to us lest and delivered, did openly unto them dislike their proceeding, and brotherly admonished the said Worshipful, and my good friend Mr. JOHN DEE to beware of them: And now having just occasion to determine what they were, to consider all these things before mentioned by me, and wisely to leave them; and the rather because of themselves, they (as that by their own words appeareth) upon our not following that Doctrine delivered, gave unto us a Quietus est, or passport of freedome: But the Books being brought forth, G1 after some discourse therein, after a day or two had, and their words perused spoken heretofore, did as it were (because of the possible verity thereof, Deo enim omnia sunt possibilis) gave us cause of further deliberation: so that thereby, I did partly of my self, and partly by the true meaning of the said Mr. DEE in the receiving of them, as from God; and after a sort by the zeal I saw him bear unto the true worship and glory of God to be (as that was by them, promised) by us promoted, descend from my self, and condescend unto his opinion and determination, giving over all reason, or whatsoever G2 for the love of God: But the women disliked utterly this last Doctrine, and consulting amongst themselves gave us this answer, the former, actions did nothing offend them but much comforted them: and therefore this last, not agreeing with the rest (which they think to be according to the good will and wholesome Law of God) maketh them to fear, because it expressly is contrary to the Commandment of God: And thereupon desiring God not to be offended with their ignorance, required another action for better information herein; in the mean, vowing, fasting, and praying, Mrs. DEE hath covenanted G3 with God to abstain from the eating of fish and flesh until his Divine Majesty satisfied their mindes according to his Laws established, and throughout all Christendome received. To this their request of having an action, I absolutely answer, that my simplicity before the Highest is such as I trust will excuse me: And because the summe of this Doctrine, given in his name, doth require obedience which I have (as is before written) offered, I think my self discharged: And therefore have no farther cause to hazzard my self any more in any action. Wherefore I answer that if it be lawful for them to call this Doctrine in question, it is more lawful for me to doubt of greater perril; considering that to come where we are absolutely answered were folly, and might redound unto my great inconvenience. Therefore beseeching God to have mercy upon me, and to satisfied their Petitions, doubts and vows, I finally answer, that I will from this day forward meddle no more herein. 22. of April, 1587. Aprilis 24. Trebonæ G1 . PRayers to God made in respect of this strange and new doctrine, requiring his Divine Majesty to be merciful unto us, and to give us wisdom and faith that we may herein please him; and that we cannot finde how we may do the thing required, being contrary to the Laws of Moses, Christ, his Church, and of all Nations. Therefore seeing God is not contrary to himself, we desired that we might not be contrary to him or his Laws, and c. . Not long, to, there appeared a great flame of fire in the principal Stone, (both standing on the Table before E.K.) which thing though he told me, I made no end of my Prayer to God. And behold, suddenly one seemed to come in at the south window of the Chapel, right against E.K. (But before that, the stone was heaved up an handful high, and set down again well, which thing E.K. thought did signifie some strange matter toward.) Then after, the man that came in at the window seemed to have his nether parts in a cloud, and with spread-abroad arms to come toward E.K. At which sight he shrunk back somewhat, and then that Creature took up between both his hands the stone and frame of gold, and mounted up away as he came. E.K. caught at it, but he could not touch it. At which thing being so taken away, and at the sight thereof E.K. was in a great fear and trembling, and had tremorem cordis for a while. But I was very glad and well pleased. Here appeareth a fire in this other stone also, and a man in the fire, with flaxen hair hanging down upon him, and is naked unto his Paps; and seemeth to have spots of blood upon him. He spake, and said as followeth. G2 If I had intended to have overthrown you, or brought you to confusion, or suffered you to be led into temptation beyond your strength and power, then had the Seas long ago swallowed you. Yea, there had not a soul lived amongst you. G3 But the law and tidings (to mankinde) of gladness, are both grounded in me, I am the Beginning and the Ending: And behold, happy is he that delighteth in me, for in me is truth and understanding. Whatsoever you have received, you have received of me; and without me you have received nothing. Behold, I my self was even the figure of misery and death for your sins. Why (therefore) disdain you to be figured after me? I will gather the four quarters of the earth together, and they shall become one. G4 And as I have made you the figure of two people to come, and amongst them, the executors of my Justice: So likewise have I sanctified you in an holy Ordinance, giving you the first fruits of the time to come. Happy is he that is a Serpent in the wilderness banged up upon the Cross, being the will and figure of my determination, and Kingdom to come: I am even in the doors; and I will overthrow all flesh. I will no more delight in the sons of men. G5 Contrary to my self, I teach you nothing. For this Doctrine is not to be published to mortal men: but is given unto you, to manifest your faith, and to make you worthy in the sight of the heavens, for believing in me of your vocation to come. Therefore I say unto you, Rejoyce, and be not careful for to morrow: for I, even I, have provided for you: Sin no more. Behold! None of the Orders, either of Heaven or Earth, are armed to open their mouths in my Name, teaching or opening this Doctrine, unless it were of me, for I am the First and the Last. And I will be Shepherd over all, that the Kingdom of my Father may come, and that my G6 Spirit may be upon all flesh, where there shall be no law, nor need of light: I my self am their lantern for ever. And behold, I will be as a Rock between you and the teeth of Leviathan, which seeketh to set you asunder, and to bring you to confusion. And I am, and am holy, and holmess it self: Out of me cometh no unclean thing. For even as the time of Moses was wonderful to all the Gentiles, even so shall those days to come be unto the Nations and Kings of the earth. I am a law for ever. And behold, G7 power is given unto me from above: And I have visited the earth, and have thrown my curse upon her: And to, she shall become barren. He that fasteth and prayeth doth but that which is commanded: He that also fulfilleth my will, is justified before me: for who is be that raiseth up, or who is be that casteth down? Yea, G8 even I it is that have taken you four Trees out of the forrest of the world, and have covered you hitherto with my wings. And behold, this that is taken away shall be restored again to you with more power. And Might shall be in it, and a breastplate unto you, of Judgement and Knowledge. And if there be any of you that seeketh a Miracle at my bands, and believeth in my words, let him or her present themselves here the next Monday, with the rest, and be shall perceive that I was the Judge of Abiram, and the God of Abraham: Walk before me as the sons of my -notes- G1 Aprilis 24. Deo Omnipotenti, Misericordi and Regi Seculorum fit omnis laus, honor and gloria nunc and . Semper. Amen. J.D. E.K. J.D. J.K. G2 Wee four (whose heads appeared under one Chrystalline Crown, and in one pillar united and enclosed) do most humbly and heartily thank thee (O Almighty God, our Creator, Redeemer and Sanctifier) for all thy mercies and benefits hitherto received in our own persons, and in them that appertain unto us: And at this present do faithfully and sincerely confess and acknowledge, that thy profound wisdom in this most new and strange Doctrine (among Christians) propounded, commended and enjoyed unto us four onely, is above our humane Reason, and our Catholic Christian Profession to like of: for that, in outward shew of words, it seemeth to us expressly to be contrary to the purity and chastity which of us and all Christians (thy followers) is exactly required. Notwithstanding, we will for thy sake herein captivate and tread under foot all our humane timeous doubting of any inconvenience which shall or may fall upon us, or follow us (in this world, or in the world to come) in respect, or by reason of our embracing of this Doctrine, listened unto of us, as delivered from thee, our true and living God, the Creator of heaven and earth, who onely hast the true original power and authority of sins releasing and discharging; and whose pardoning, or not imputing of sin unto us, through our lively faith in the most worthy Merit and precious Blood of thy Lamb immaculate, shed for us, is and shall be our Justification and Salvation. We therefore, G3 (according to blessed Kaphael his counsel lately given) most humbly and sincerely require thy divine Majesty to accept this our Covenant with thee (to the intent that all thy merciful and gracious promises made unto us four, and any of us, may be to us performed: and also that thy divine purposes in us, and by us, may be furthered, advanced and fulfilled) That as we acknowledge thy divine wisdom and grace opened unto us in this thy last mystical Admonishment of universal unity to be between us: And dost most instantly and earnestly will us to accept and use the same, as both mystically most needful, and also lawful and just with thee: (which Admonishment standeth upon two parts; that is to wit, upon true and consummate Christian Charity between us four inviolably to be kept. And also upon the New Matrimonial-like licence and liberty indifferently amongst us four to be used:) So we the same four above-named (which hereunto will also subscribe our Names) do this day Covenant with thy Divine Majesty (besides all other respects, chiefly upon the two principal intents and respects G4 before here rehearsed) truly and unfeignedly to accept and perform henceforward amongst us four (in word, thought and deed, to the uttermost and best of our power) a perfect unity, and with incomparable true love and good Christian Charity, friendship, imparting and communicating each unto other, all and whatsoever we have or shall have hereafter during our lives. And as for the Matrimonial-like licence, we accept and allow of it: And promise unto thee (O our God, the Almighty, Creator of heaven and earth) to fulfil the same in such sort as the godly are permitted to fulfil, and have been (by divers testimonies) commended for, and by divine Doctrine willed to fulfil in Matrimonial-like conversation, whensoever motions and allurements Matrimonial-like shall draw and perswade any couple of us thereunto: Beseeching thee, as thou art the onely, true Almighty and everlasting God, Creator of heaven and earth, Thou wilt in thy infinite mercies not impute it unto us for sin, blindness, rashness or presumption; being not accepted, done or performed of us upon carnal lust, or want on concupiscence, but by the way of Abrabam-like faith and obedience unto thee our God, our Leader, Teacher, Protector and Justifier, now and for ever. And hereunto we most humbly and faithfully require thy Divine Majesty to be our witness: And moreover we call thy holy Angels, and to bear record for thy honour -notes- G1 Our unity of what importance it is: ast fin is exoraii vessis futuræ. and glory, and for our discharge, now and for ever. And for a further consummation of this New Covenant on our behalf, (by thy will and permission) made with thee (the God of heaven and earth) we the same four first notified, and particularly and vulgarly named John Dee, Edward Kelley, Jane Dee, and Jone Kelley, have faithfully, obediently, willingly and wittingly subscribed our Names with our own hands day of May, Anno 1587. In Trebon Caftle. And finally, as thou hast warned us (O God) that this doctrine and doings should unto no mortal man else be disclosed, but among us onely the above-named four to be kept most secret: and haft said, that whosoever of us should by any means disclose the same, and he also or she to whom the same should be disclosed, should presently and immediately be stricken dead by thy Divine power: So we all and every of us four do request thee most earnestly, and Covenant with thee as our God, that so all this doctrine and doing may be kept most hid and secret; and also that the sudden and immediate bodily death may light and fall on the discloser, and on him or her to whom the same doctrine or doing any manner of way shall be disclosed or known. Amen, Amen, Amen. JOHN DEE. Note and remember, That on Sunday the third of May, Ann.1587. (by the new account) I John Dee, Edward Kelley, and our two wives, covenanted with God, and subscribed the same, for indissoluble and inviolable unities, charity and friendship keeping between us four, and all things between us to be common, as God by sundry means willed us to do. Ad Dei bonorem, laudem and gloriam in fide and obedientia Factum esto. Amen. 1587. Trebonæ, in the fine Chappel. G1 The aforesaid Covenant being framed by me John Doe, as near as I could according to the intent and faith of us required, to be notified and declared by the works of unity both spiritual and corporal. Now it was by the women as by our selves thought necessary to understand the will of God and his good pleasure, Whether this Covenant and form of words performed, is and will be acceptable, and according to the well liking of his Divine Majesty: And that bereupon, the act of corporal knowledge being performed on both our parts, It will please his Divine Majesty to seal and warrant unto us mast certainly and speedily all his Divine, Merciful and bountiful Promises and Blessings; and also promises us wisdom, knowledge, ability and power to execute his justice, and declare and demonstrate his infallible verity amongst men, to his honour and glory. Hereupon E.K. and I went to the Chapel to the South Table. . To this intent I prayed to the Almighty God, Creator of heaven and earth, fatherly, favorably and mercifully to regard the fingeness and straits of my heart, defining him to encrease the faith, and to open the eyes of my heart, that I may see Opera digitorum and mirabilia ejus, nobis sicut necessaria, for his service and glory, and for the confusion and overthrow of his enemies. Amen. I read over the Covenant (verbatim) before the Divine Majesty, and his holy Angels. Pausa ¼ horæ. E. K. Here appeareth Madimi. Then as concerning the Covenant which was made subscribed and delivered in, but the next day required again of Mr. E.K. and in his wifes name to put out his name, and c. But when he had it, he cut it into equal parts; keeping that half wherein his subscription and his wifes were, and delivered unto me, the other half but after a few dayes desired to have the sight and reading of both together; and then he kept the other part from me also: But afterward Madimi did with her finger draw on the two papers make them whole again, and c. and then she gave the print of my Characters, and said a red Circle should alwayes appear in the Stone to all mens sight, and c. E.K. There is here a great Globe of fire hanging in the top of G2 the Stone; and in the Globe a man standing with a purple Robe like Christ, I cannot well perceive his face. .... Who sitteth upon the Cherubins, and is carried abroad with their wing: Who is he that is lifted up in thunders, and in the voyce of many waters exalted and magnified through the power of a Seraphin (which is the power of him that made him?) Who is he that stretcheth out his arms and imbracoth all things? Who is he that is not, and is? Who is he that numbeth the Stars as the letters of a Volume? or entreth down into the waves? In the multitude of his wonders who is he that barboureth his Whelps there, where the Sea glideth, and keepeth them in Chains, till the day of his stretch-forth power come? Who is he that maketh his habitation in the Sun, or filleth the Moon with a perpetual River? Who is he that bath made Winter and Summer, times and seasons? Who is he that is the Lord of all beasts and fowls? Who is he that bath made you of nothing? even be it is that bath led you out, even be it is that bath carried you to the Seas even he it is, that bath kept you sleeping, and preserved you waking: Even he it is that bath tyed his thunders underneath your and bath banished you. With the Whirlewind of vengeance against the people of Ethan, yea even be it is (I say) that is, and liveth for ever, and hath provided yon as the chiefest reapers, yea and over-seers of his harvest, which bath made you a promise: That the Kings of the earth shall be enriched by you, and bath made you free from all men, against the day when you shall see me. But O you of little faith and understanding, O, I say, you of little faith and understanding, how long will you be your own masters, nay your own servants, how long do you contemn, the profound and unspeakable floods of my wisdom, and fore-knowledge in you. How long (I say) will you run after your own imaginations and contemn the present counsels which I give you, binding the power that is ready to fall upon you, O yon of little faith and understanding. Behold I have prepared a banquet for you, and have brought you even unto the doors; but because you smeli not the feat you disdain to enter, happy is he that entreth in through me: For I am the very gate to all felicity and joy, and without me is nothing: Are you more discreet then I am wise? or more honest than I am holy? Righteousness, and righteousness is that, which is rewarded with honour. Behold I made all things, Is it not contrary to Nature, that the lights of G3 heaven should stand: Why therefore at the prayer of the Carpter call you upon the Sun in my name; Calling (I say) upon my name did the Sun stand still. Rebuke him therefore if he hath done amiss; or teach him, why be so abused Nature, O you wretches, I say unto you, you are the last of G4 the beginning of the times to come, so figured by my determination and eternal purpose: And behold the Son and Moon shall stand still, even at your voyces, and the Mountains shall bring themselves together before the face of man, at your commandment, that the people and Kings of the earth may say, Lo this is the finger of him that hath created all things. Be therefore obedient and full of faith. And see that all things be one amongst you, and cleave not asunder, lest I take vengeance G5 upon you, for behold Satahn hath power to cast you asunder, but a little ye should be faithful therefore, and provident, be watchful, and take heed for you have made a Covenant; and behold it is written before my face in heaven, even as whatsoever I have spoken unto you, G6 is laid up in my treasures. Take heed that you run neither to the right hand, neither to the left; but that you cast away your selves for me: As I humbled my self to death, wherein the unity between my Congregation and me, was before my Father perpetually sealed, whereby I am alwayes present with such as put their trust in me. Even so as the East and the Weft, the North, and she G7 South, Esau and Jacob, shall be gathered together through the power I will give you, and united for ever in the Kingdome of my Father which is to come, in one holy and eternal fellowship, so be you contented also to be the figures of the things that are to come by you, that it may be a perpetual testimony before the heavens, and before men, of your perfect and sound faith: And G8 thou, even thou that hast tore in peeces even this morning again this Covenant which thou -notes- G1 Wednesday morning Maii 2c. hast made with me, Behold the time shall come that thou shalt be torn in peeces thy self, and I will turn even my face away from thee for a time: And even as thou hast obstinately and ignorantly, blasphemed the company of my holy messagers, even so shall the people of the earth obstinately and ignorantly throw thee out from Town to Town: And even as thou hast done unto me, even so shall men do unto thee. But because thy minde was inwardly never to forsake me, even so shalt thou never be forsaken of me, but I will return again unto thee. And now behold, thou hast made a bargain, and behold thou thinkest to take thee up a new dwelling place, and thou shalt not do so: But who so receiveth thee into his house shall as truly as I am, both he and his family sink down into the very lake of hell. But before thou enter in, I will by dreams and visions warm him; therefore run not abroad: Take heed of the Tempter, Thou made a covenant with me, which thou canst not in breaking of the papers put out; for my register is eternal: And those that bear witness before me are the compass of my wings. And lo behold Carpio hath for his former intent of separating you, cut off the day of his Father, and is become fatherless: Behold even shortly shall his mother perish also. And, if hereafter, he attempt any farther, I will throw the vengeance of Justice upon him, that he shall be a laughing stock to the people amongst which he was born: Wo be unto them that riseth up against me. .... After a while I come again. E.K. I thought we should have nothing else, but . I read this over to E.K. E.K. He is here again. He that pawneth G1 his soul for me, loseth it not, and be that dyeth for me, dieth to eternal life. Behold you shall both as Lambs be brought forth before men in your latter dayes, and shall be overthrown and slain, and your bodies tossed to and fro: But I will revive you again, and will be full of power: And you shall be comforted with the joyes of your brethren, for I have many that secretly serve me, and when you have shewed your obedience, the second day after, come here again before me; for I will lead you into the way of Knowledge and Understanding: And Judgement and Wisdom shall be upon G2 you, and shall be restored unto you: And you shall grow every day, wise and mighty in mee. E.K. He is gone: and in going he made a Cross (toward us) of G3 blessing. And Mr. E.K. hereupon said to his wife, That his boots were now put off, and changed his purpose G4 pose of going away with Carpio now. God confirm his minde in all good purposes according to the well_pleasing of the Highest. Amen. G5 ..... As I, and E.K. walked out at the new stairs, into the new Orchardward along the little River to view the small fish, and returning to the fore stairs again, E.K. saw twain as high as my son Arthur fighting by the River side with swords; and the one said to the other, thou hast beguiled me: Then I at length, said unto them, Can I take up the matter between you? one said yea that you can: in what is it quoth I? Then said he, I sent a thing to thy wife by my man, and this fellow bath taken it from him. They fought sore, and at length, he that had it was wounded in the thigh, and it seemed to bleed. Afterward he that was wounded, did bring a yellow square thing out of his bosom; then I guessed it to be my Stone that was taken away. The other said unto him, let it be carried, suddenly he seemed to have been out of sight, and to be come again; he threatned G6 the other that had wounded him, and said he would be even with him. The other said, Hast thou laid it under the right pillow of the bed where his wife lay yesternight. At length they both went (one after another) into a little Willow tree body on the right hand next the new stairs into the garden; the tree seemed to cleave, or open, and they to go in. Hereupon we went away: And I coming to my Chamber, found my wife lying upon her bed (where I lay yesternight) and there I lifted up the right pillow, upon which she lay resting her self (being not well at ease) And in manner under her shoulders there I found my precious Stone, that was taken away by Madimi: Whereat E.K. greatly wondred, doubting the verity of the shew. But I and my wife rejoyced, thanking God. -notes- G1 This was said because I had pawned my soul, upon my avouching the spiritual creatures which have dealt with us, to be of God and good: which my bargain E.K. had by word and writing, disdainfully charged, and of late threatned rewithall. Saturday May 23. Mane circa 9. ½ Preces ad Deum fundebantur, and c. And then we requested that the act of obedience performed (according to our faith conceived of our vocation, from the Almighty and Eternal God of heaven and earth) might be accepted: And that henceforward we might be instructed in the understanding and practice of wisdom, both such as already we have received some introductions Mystical, and also of all other what the Almighty God shall deem meet for us to know, and execute for his honour and glory, and c. E.K. Took Pen and Inke, and wrote the request here adjoynd; and be read it to me, and he requested me to read it to the Divine Majesty; and so I did, and hereupon we waited both to the first my prayer and to this Petition, the Divine answer. Omnipotens sempiterna, verre and vine Deus mittos lucem tuam and veritatem tuam ut ipse nos ducant and perducant admontem, sanctum Syon, ex hac vesse miseria and ad Celestem tuam Jerusalem. Amen. E.K. From the beginning of this our coming, there appeared a purple Circle as big as a star in the Circumference of the holy Stone, which yesterday was brought again: And that it should so be, Madimi had forewarned E. K. when she shewed it unto him, when also she gave the prints of the letters of the backside of the bottome of the gold frame of it. .... E.K. There appeareth here a great man all in bright G1 harness sitting upon a white horse: he hath a spear all fiery in his left hand, he now putteth into his right hand: he hath a long sword by his side: he hath also a target hanging on his back, it seemeth to be of steel: It hangeth from his neck by a blue lace; it cometh up behind him as high as the top of his head. The horse is milk white, all studded with white: a very comely horse it is. The man is in complete harness, the top of his helmet hath a sharp form. Upon his Target, are many Cherubins, as it were painted in Circles: there is one in the middle: About it as a Circle with fix in it, and then a Circle with eight, and then a great Circle with ten in G2 it, and in the greatest are twenty; and about the Circle of twenty are seven parts: at each of which points is a Cherubin; Their faces be like burning gold, their wings be more brighter and as it were their wings coming over their heads do G3 not touch together. His horse is also harnished before and behind. The horse legs behind are harnished as with boots marvelously contrived, for defense as it were of his hinde legs. E.K. He is ridden away, he seemeth to ride through a great field. E.K. Here is now come Madimi. E.K. She is gone into the field, that way which he rode. E.K. Here is another, like a woman all in green. E.K. Here cometh another woman: All her attire is like beaten gold; she hath on her forehead a Cross chrystal, her neck and breast are bare unto under her dugs: She hath a girdle of beaten gold slackly buckled unto her with a pendant of gold down to the ground. -notes- G1 Equus albus G2 Suns. I am the Daughter of Fortitude, and ravished every hour, from my youth. For behold, I am Understanding, and Science dwelleth in me; and the heavens oppress me, they covet and desire me with infinite appetite: few or none that are earthly have embraced me, for I am shadowed with the Circle of the Stone, and covered with the morning Clouds. My feet are swifter than the winds, and my hands are sweeter than the morning dew. My garments are from the beginning, and my dwelling place is in my self. The Lion knoweth not where I walk, neither do the beasts of the field understand me. I am defloured, and yet a virgin: I sanctified, and am not sanctified. Happy is he that imbraceth me: for in the night season I am sweet, and in the day full of pleasure. My company is a harmony of many Cymbals, and my lips sweeter than health it self. I am a harlot for such as ravish me, and a virgin with such as know me not: For lo, I am loved of many, and I am a lover to many; and as many as come unto me as they should do, have entertainment. Purge your streets, O ye sons of men, and wash your houses clean; make your selves holy, and put on righteousness. Cast out your old strumpets, and burn their clothes; abstain from the company of other women that are defiled, that are sluttish, and not so handsome and beautiful as I, and then will I come and dwell amongst you: and behold, I will bring forth children unto you, and they shall be the Sons of Comfort. I will open my garments, and stand naked before you, that your love may be more inflamed toward me. As yet, I walk in the Clouds; as yet, I am carried with the Winds, and cannot descend unto you for the multitude of your abominations, and the filthy loathsomeness of your dwelling places. G1 Behold these four, who is he that shall say, They have finned? or unto whom shall they make account? Not unto you, O you sons of men, nor unto your children: for unto the Lord belongeth the judgement of his servants. Now therefore, let the earth give forth her fruit unto you, and let the Mountains forsake their barrenness where your footsteps shall remain. Happy is he that saluteth you, and cursed is he that holdeth up his bands against you. And power shall be given unto you from henceforth to resift your enemies: and the Lord shall always hear you in the time of your troubles. G2 And I am sent unto you to play the harlot with you, and am to enrich you with the spoils of other men. Prepare for me, for I come shortly. Provide your Chambers for me, that they may be sweet and cleanly; for I will make a dwelling-place amongst you: and I will be common with the father and the son, yea and with all them that truly favoureth you: for my youth is in her flowers, and my strength is not to be extinguished with man. Strong am I above and below, therefore provide for me: for behold, I now salute you, and let peace be amongst you; for I am the G3 Daughter of Comfort. Disclose not my secrets unto women, neither let them understand how sweet I am, for all things belongeth not to every one. I come unto you again. E.K. She is gone along that green field also. . I read it over to our great comfort. . We most humbly and heartily thank thee, O God Almighty, the onely fountain of Wisdom, Power, and all goodness: Help us now and ever to be faithful and fruitful servants to thee, for thy honour and glory. So E.K. rose from kneeling, and did sit. .... E.K. Now she is here, that last advertised us. She taketh the book and divideth it into two parts: and it seemeth to be two books: the half cover adjoining to one, and the G3 other half cover belonging to the other, the sides with the covers are towards me. .... Wisdome, is a pearceing beam which is the center of the spiritual being of the holy Spirit, touching from all parts from whence the Divinity sendeth it out: and is proper to the soul, or unto substances, that have beginning, but no ending; so that, whatsoever shall have end, can never attain unto that which is called Wisdom: Neither can things that are subject to the second death, receive any such influence, because they are already noted, and marked with the seat of destruction. Happy is he whom God but made a vessel of salvation; for unto him belongeth G4 joy, and a crown of reward: Adam (your forefather and first parent) in respect of his creation, that is to say, in respect of his imaginative composition received no strength, but by the Holy Ghost; for the soul of man is free from all passions and affections, until it enter into the body unto the which it is limited: so that, being neither good nor bad (but apt unto both) he is left, by Divine providence and permission joyned together to the end of the one, or the other: But wheresoever wisdom dwelleth, it dwelleth not with the soul, as any property thereof, but according to the good will of God, whose mercy concurreth on every side into him, and taketh up a mansion therein to utter out, and manifest his great goodness: And even as the heavens are glorified continually with the Spirit of God: So is the soul of man glorified, that receiveth sanctification thereby; for no man is illuminated, that is not sanctified: neither is there any man perfectly sanctified, that is not illuminated. I speak this (my brethren) for that you shall understand, That no man did, or can ever attain to wisdom (that perfect wisdom which I speak of) without be become a Center in his soul unto the mercies, and good will of God comprehending G5 him, and dwelling in him, therefore lift up your eyes and see, Call your wits together, and mark my words, To teach you, or expound unto you the mysteries of the Book, that you have already received, is not in my power, but in the good will of God, after whose Image I am: Which good will of God, is the descending of his holy Spirit abundantly upon you, and into you, opening all your senses, and making you perfect men: for Adam understood by that grace, and his eyes were opened so that he saw and knew all things that were to his understanding: So have all those more and less, that have been counted wise, received the gifts of the Holy Ghost, which setteth the soul on man, so on fire that he pierceth into all things, and judgeth mightily. The Apostles which knew even the thoughts of men, G6 understood all things, because the holy Spiritu made a dwelling place in them: even so shall it happen unto you: For you are the chosen of this last dayes, and such as shall be full of the blessings of God, and his Spirit shall rest with you abundantly. G1 A hundred dayes are limited unto you during the which time, you shall every seventh, present your selves in this place, and you shall laud and praise God. And behold I will be present amongst you. And before these dayes pass, when power is given me so to do, I will enter out of this Stone unto you and you shall eat up these two books, both the one and the other: and wisdom shall be divided between you, sufficient to each man. Then shall your eyes be opened to see and understand all such things as have been written unto you, and taught you from above. But beware ye take heed, that you dwell within your selves, and keep the secrets of God, until the time come that you shall be bid SPEAK: For then shall the Spirit of God be mighty upon you; so that is shall be said of you, L O were not these, the Sorcerers, and such as were accounted Vagabonds: Other some shall say, Behold let us take heed, and let us humble our selves before them: For the Lord of Hoasts is with them. And you shall have power in the Heavens, and in the lower bodies: And it shall be taught you at all times inwardly, even what belongeth to the hearts of men: Then shalt thou E.K. have a new coat put on thee, and it shall be all of one colour. Then shalt thou . also have power to open that book, which God hath committed unto thee; but use your selves as men, yea even then remember such as may receive the mercies and grace of God: And let all peace and unity be amongst you: For even as the Sun looketh into all things from above, so shall you into all the creatures that live upon the earth; yea the one of you shall have his lifted, and shall enter into the fourth or fifth heaven, for unto him that is worldly knowledge be given; and unto him that bath been patient, shall greater things descend. Not-withstanding both sufficiently satisfied: In the mean season, The seventh day hence, sh thou bring in such things, as the Lord hath given thee: And in this place they shall be disposed according to the knowledge that is given me: And herein thou hast pleased the Lord; For that thou hast dealed streight, and according to brotherly meaning. . Now cometh the time that the Whore shall be called before the Highest, and the tenth Month hence, shall the Turk and the Moscovite make a perpetual league together, and in the thirteenth month, shall Poland be assaulted, with the Tartarians, and shall be spoyled: yea even unto the very ribs, so that in the sixteenth month they shall fall all together from Christ: And the hand of God shall run in vengeance, vengeance, even through this Kingdome, and through Germany, and into Italy; and in the 23. Month Rome shall be destroyed, so that one stone shall not be left standing upon another, and vengeance shall be on all the earth, and fear upon all people, for the Lord is gone out against them: They eat and drink, and say, Let us be merry: Wo be unto them, for the know not the time of their visitation. London, At Mrs. Goodman her house. Martii 20 á meride hora 4 I/4 JESUS Omnipotens Sempiternus and une Deus. Mittas lucem tuam and veritatem tuam, ut ipsa me ducat and perducat ad montem Sanctum tuum and Tabernacula. Amen. .... I am blessed Raphael, a blessed messenger of the Almighty, I am sent of God, who is blessed for evermore. Amen. John Dee, I am sent of God for thy comfort first to certifie thou shalt overcome this thy infirmity, and when thou art strong in body, as God in his goodness will make thee, THEN thou shalt have all made known unto thee of such things being not come to pass as have been before spoken of, because that thou shouldest take comfort in God, that thou art not left from the comfort of Gods blessed creatures. Now God hath sent me at this time whereby thou shalt be satisfied, THAT when thy body is able to abide the time of my service from God to be delivered unto thee by me Raphael: Thy friend John Pontoys yet liveth, but his time is likely to be short. Ask at your will. [delta] .... O God, I am beaten into a great attempt, to make the counsel privy, of my beggery, and to offer the Earle of Salisbury, such my duties as I may perfect to his content. How standeth this with your good liking? [delta] . Spiritual, Thou shalt have friends, in thy suit, and thou shalt have foes, but through Gods [delta] . Spiritual, mercies, thy friends, shall overcome thy foes and thou shalt see how that God in his goodness will work mightily in his power for thee. Proceed in thy suit so shortly as thou canst finde thy health in body able: And for thy health use thy own skill, that God hath, and shall guide thee withall to thy good and perfect receiving of thy perfect health. .... Of the blood, not coming out of my Fundament, but at a little, as it were a pin hole of the skin. Raph. That the which thou hadst no knowledge to help thy weakness, God in his mercies did send thee therein present help, the which but only for that issue thou couldest not have lived. And for the cure and thy help, the same God will work with thee in thy heart and minde so, that it shall be known unto no man, but by Gods merciful goodness delivered unto thee, such wayes and means as shall be thy help, and restore thee to health again. This God of his mercy hath sent me to deliver this short message, because of thy weakness, Thou art not strong to indure them, therefore such is Gods goodness to let you to understand that after the tenth day of April, I will then [10] appear again, and thou shalt understand much more what gods will and his pleasure is to be done in Gods services, and for your good, and so for this little short message, I have declared unto you the will of Jesus Christ: And so for this time, In the Name of the most highest Creator and maker of Heaven and Earth, I do now return at his will and commandment, and I am ready at all times when he shall command me to appear to thy comfort. His Name be praised evermore. Amen, Amen. [delta] . Amen.

Friday 24 Martii hora 9 ½ Deus in adjutorium nostrum intendas D.D.R.R. ... Zebaiith..... The Omnipotent God be praised for evermore, his holy Name be glorified. Now John Dee, I Raphael am now come at Gods pleasure, and at his commandment to speak with thee, and make known unto thee as far forth as in my power lieth to speak God hath sent me to declare unto thee: the cause of thy desire now at this time, John Dee, as thou art an earthly man, if thou dost desire to have help from God of such things as earthly men cannot he without while they have time here in this mortal life, thou desirest to have knowledge as concerning things hid, the which I Raphael have no delight, neither pleasure in speaking of any such earthly matter, or earthly cases. But my delight is in the Almighty, and in his wisdom. But notwithstanding at this request, and thy inward desire in God to be certified of this treasure, the which these two men whom thou knowest do speak of, they ever had a time appointed of God for it, and it was not used accordingly as they should have done. Now this second time, because you have a desire to have help and knowledge at the hands of the Almighty, I Raphael do command thee and those men whom thou knowlest, that they shall not intermeddle, or to take it in hand before the tenth day of January be past, for if they do, they shall not prevail, for that is a time that God hath best appointed for the said purpose, and for the quiet enjoying of it; so when that day is past, then let them in the name of God enter into that work. And if they will be such men as they ought for to be, and as Gods will is that they should be, to deal faithfully and truly one with the other in deed and in word, God will then bless their good purpose, and bring it to their head when they shall take in hand to open the earth, God will presently at that instant then suffer their good purpose to take effect, and the matter to be effected and had, so that they shall not be put off, if they shall hear or see any thing that they shall dislike, but safely to stand in the hope, and craving at Gods hand to have that good help to be a warrant between them, and all hurt and danger whatsoever may be happen, and so overcome. I say, If they will faithfully pray unto God with their whole trust in God, God will bless their good success, if they be otherwise, then as good never stir, and their good success will be against them. So I Raphael have made known unto thee Gods purpose in this thy request. For this I have said. John Dee, I Raphael, did make known unto this desire of that secret, and that great gist that gave unto thee in such order and manner as thou knowest where thou bidst it, and that never as yet hadst the knowledge and the wisdom that God will give thee as concerning that, and many mo such unto thes: So this rare gift being taken away from thee by them thou knowest, by taking thy key, and so taking of it from thy keeping, it was the will and purpose of God, that I Raphael should give such ... that thou shouldest have knowledge ... of the same. Thou shalt take such course .... thou mayest obtain it again, and when thou hast it, thou shalt put it into the same chest again, and commit it into the custody and keeping of thy very friend John Pontoys, and he shall, and will deal faithfully and friendly with thee in keeping the same until such time as by that ... the which thou knowest is promised unto thee, that thou shalt receive the perfect understanding of the hid knowledge and secrecies of God that is not as yet made known unto thee, and ..... as hath been said, so shalt thou have such wisdom delivered unto thee by me Raphael that shall come in such ... and order as hath been late made known unto thee for thy good in such short and speedy time to be performed, and so thus much I have made known unto thee, as God hath in store for thee to be performed. Thus much I have now said, and given thee cunning to keep it in such maner as I have spoken, or else thou wilt be disappointed of that, and ... it will hide such purpose as God will have come to pass, so in his mighty power command me to come. I have for this matter finished; If thou have any thing speedily, ask in ... for I am to depart. John Dee, If thou wilt have all thy cause then .... as thou must shew unto thy liking and hers what thou hast drawn, and crave for good assistance it ... of ... desiring his help, and ... unto her the disease....to go to such men that should give thee further instruction thy best as I have said to shew unto her that thou hast done ..... and he will ... in thy case unto ..... and Canterbury, and so the faith shall triumph in short time, and if this be ..... Julii 9. hora 4. a meridie. G1 . After my Prayers for a quarter of an hour, a Voice said, I am Raphael whose voice thou dost hear: To morrow morning at nine of the clock God will send me to thy sight. . So with thanks to God I ended. -notes- G1 Westminster Three Kings in Kings street.

G1 Mittas lucem tram and veritatem tuam, quænos ducant and perducant ad montem sanctum tuum and c lestia tua tabernacula. Amen. Barth. As for you, the Creator of God doth appear. [delta]Benedictus qui venit in nimine Domini Halleluia. .... Blessed be God the Father, and God the Son, and God the holy Ghost. All honour and power be ascribed unto the living God for evermore. Amen. . Amen. John Dee, I am Raphael, one of the blessed and elect Angels of the Almighty; and at his will and his good pleasure, he hath commanded me to appear here at this time, to set forth the will and pleasure of the Almighty God. John Dee, my message that I have at this time to deliver unto thee, is of great force, in that God would have thee to do. And whereas it was said at my last appearing at this beholder, that I would appear again, and now it hath pleased God to send me to perform and make known according to that which was then said, that all things before promised should be made plainly known what Gods will is to be done in all that hath been before said. Now I do make known unto you the plain meaning and understanding thereof. First thou hast been promised the secret knowledge and understanding of the Philosophers Stone, of the Book of St. Dunstans, to have the knowledge of them. It is since a long time, as thou knowest to mans reason, and to the minde of man, a few years is with man thought to be big; and now God hath been thy keeper, and most chiefly created thee, and hath suffered thee to have time to live unto this age: and furthermore, thou dost like unto thy Nativity, and considering thy great age that the course of Nature for age, is likely, by thy reason, to take place. BUT John Dee, thou dost well remember unto whom, in the holy Scriptures, that God in his mercies did adde and put to fifteen years longer than the time was set him: So think not but God in his mercies will be as great unto thee. And now to come to the matter whereby to let thee to understand why thou hadst not thus these rare gifts and promises performed unto thee, it was the will of God to keep them away, and to suffer the heart of thy supreme head and governor, under God, to be hardened against thee, that thou art no better account made of unto him, but to be such an one that doth deal with Devils and by Sorcery, as you commonly term them Witchcraft: and who doth, and who hath informed him, to be thus evil and hardly informed against thee, but only the Devil, and by the hatred of thy secret enemy whom thou knowest (Salisbury I mean) and all malice and enemies that he can by his Devils, Maserien, Hermeloe, the four wicked ones, the which are accounted the four Rulers of the Air, whose names be Ories, Egym, Paynim, and Mayrary: They be the Devils that he doth deal withall, that be through their enticing and his, he thinketh to be pleasant and good wisdom that he receiveth at their hands; That he and his Devils do seek thy overthrow in all good things, and doth and shall, so far forth as God will suffer them, seek all the malice and hindrance in all good causes to be done to thy good. Therefore now John Dee I am to let thee to understand plainly what Gods will and his great purpose is to have thee to do, although it may seem hard to thy good liking, considering as thou dost think, the weakness of thy body, and course of age: yet not withstanding, that same God that hath been thy protector and keeper until this present time of years, that same merciful God shall keep thee, and make thee able to perform things that shall be made known unto thee; for God will not bestow such rare gifts as I have before said, amongst those which be unworthy of such great blessings from the Almighty. For God will not bestow Pearls amongst those that will not believe nor understand that God hath any such blessings to bestow upon men: for I say unto thee, John Dee, that if God should or would bestow those blessings upon thee, even at this present, or at any time to be shortly performed and delivered unto thee: Then, except that thou shouldst make all things plainly known of Gods secrets delivered unto thee, unto thy supreme head under God here upon earth, and likewise thy enemy to be partaker in these secrets and great gifts of God, if thou wouldst not perform as much unto them, as God should give wisdom unto thee, therein, thy life would and should, by the envy and malice of those wicked ones, and by thy great enemy thou shouldst speedily be cut off from this life, but God will not have it so. So if thou wilt do as God shall command thee by this message, thou shalt have all these messages, promises and wisdom, both for the Philosophers Stone, the book of S.Dunstans, the secret wisdom of that Jewel that was delivered, as thou knowest, in what manner it is plainly known unto thee. So now it is the will of God to suffer thy supreme Head his heart to be hardened against thee; and likewise for thy great enemy for his wicked instructions against thee, God doth suffer it so to be, even as Pharaoh his heart was hardened against the children of God, so standeth the matter against thee with them. It is the will of God so to suffer it to their great account that they shall have to make, when it shall please the Almighty that time shall be, that they must render unto God their accounts. Now John Dee it is the will of the Almighty to send me Raphael to deliver unto thee this Message, the which will seem unto thee to be very hard: yet as thou art the servant of God, and one whom God doth favour and love (although the world by wicked enemies doth hate thee) willingly and obediently follow that course the which God in his mercies at this time shall make known unto thee. -notes- G1 Friday the 10 Juln, hora 9.

Thou shalt (if thou wile obey the commandment of God, by me made known unto thee) take a long journey in hand, and go where thou shalt have all these great mercies of God performed unto thee, and God will shew thee as great favour in the sight of God, as ever he did shew unto Joseph, who was sold into bondage, as thou knowest, and in all his imprisonment and troubles God was with him, and delivered him: So, if thou wilt follow this commandment from God delivered unto thee by me Raphael, that thou shalt not doubt, nor waver in thy mind, but God will be merciful unto thee, both in this life and in the life to come: and think God will not command thee to take such a journey in hand, but that he doth know that is best for thee, and he will preserve thee, and keep thee in thy journey. And thou shalt find in thy journey, that God shall and will deal mercifully with thee in finding ease of the infirmity of the stone, that the Angels of God shall direct thee in thy heart and mind, how thou shalt use thy body, to the health and comfort of thy strength. And when thou art at thy journeys end amongst such friends beyond the seas as thou knowest, God shall and will raise thee as faithful friends (as now I have said before) as Joseph had, so shalt thou be favoured with God and man; for it is the will and purpose of God to have thee to be obedient unto this the which I do make known unto thee, because thou shouldst not remain here, to be beholding unto those that are thy mortal enemies, and had rather to hear of thy end, than otherwise to hear of thy well-doing, or any good to be done unto thee by any man; it is a grief and a spight in head and mind unto them, that thou shouldst come to any help, or things necessary for mans use here upon earth, the which man cannot be without. And John Dee, I am to command thee, that so shortly as thou canst by all means possible, set thy things in order, for thy Wardenship, and in all other causes of worldly affairs. And for maintenance to further thy journey, God will most graciously raise thee up some good friends to be helping unto thee, that thou maist have maintenance in thy journey. And thy very friend John Pontoys shall by Gods favour come home, and he shall and will be a great aid unto thee, to perform this course the which God by me hath commanded thee to undertake: That where thou dost live now in want, and to be beholding unto those, who do not love thee, neither in heart do wish thee well; so God would have thee to be G2 where thou shalt do him service, and God will give thee long days in so doing, and fulfilling this his commandment and will by me Raphael, the which message I am at Gods will and his pleasure plainly to make known unto thee, that it is his will to have thee to follow this course, in which God will have thee to enter into, Not fearing nor mistrusting the weakness of thy body, but that God will preserve thee for that time, as shall be his good will and pleasure, that thou shalt have life here in this world, to be as merciful a God to deliver thee from all hurts and dangers, and from all infirmities, even with as much health as thou hast had in this time as thou hast lived thus many years; so God will have thee to follow his will in this direction, and then thou shalt have all things aforesaid performed unto thee, and thou shalt then have such favour, that thou shalt behold his blessed Creatures with these thy wortal eyes: and if thou wilt perform fo the uttermost of thy power this message from God by me delivered; Then God will in his mercies perform all that is promised unto thee. And except thou wilt be willing and dutiful so much as in thee lieth to make good this, the which I have through Gods means declared what course thou must take; and if thou dost it nor, then God will not no more send unto thee, to the beholding of any mans earthly eyes, any of his blessed Creatures. Therefore I command thee from God, as I am his faithful Minister and blessed Angel of God, that G3 thou shouldst not doubt to take this journey in hand, for God will be with thee and for thee, and his blessed Angels shall be thy comfort, even as the Angel of God was the comfort unto young Tobias in his journey, so God will deal with thee in thine. And so I have delivered unto thee what God will have thee to do. It is the will and favour of God to give thee as much understanding of Gods mercies towards thee yet for to come, as ever mortal man had delivered unto him by any spiritual Creature from God. So now I have fully ended my message. Therefore, see that thou John Dee be as ready to perform it to the greatest of thy power, as lovingly in giving God thanks for this message delivered, because I would have thee to be such an one as shall not end his dayes in reproach, and rejoycing of thy enemies, but thou shalt have time and days to live, that when thou diest, and shalt depart this G4 world, thou shalt die with fame and memory to the end, that such an one was upon the earth, that God by him had wrought great and wonderful Miracles in his service. And thus to Gods honour and his glory, I have ended my message, yielding unto God all honour, and praise, and thanks for all his blessings, and his great benefits bestowed upon his Creatures, both now and for evermore. Amen. Blessed be God in all his gifts, and holy in all his works. Praised be God. Amen, Amen. [delta] . Amen. [delta] . Now, O God, as I have willingly yielded unto thy will and commandment of undertaking a Journey: so I beseech thee that it may stand with thy good pleasure to notifie unto me the Country, Region or City unto which thou wouldst have me direct my course from hence-forward. [delta] . Nothing appeared. A Voice ..... A Voice ..... In the Name of God, to morrow at ten of the clock. [delta] . So be it. [delta] . A Note to be considered. Mr. Ecclestone. In the house at the breaking up of the place were these: James Bolton, Lettice Gostwich a Maiden, Cook and Dairy-maid. To know the house and place therein where it is; or if it be in many places divided, which they are. Or if any other be privy of it, who may give any evidence. And whatsoever may make this a perfect work, to Mr. Ecclestones reasonable contentment, most humbly and heartily I beseech God to make known now unto us, and so the praise and thanks due to God for his mercies, to the best of our power to be yielded unto him. Saturday, Julii 11. hora 10. ante meridiem. Note, In the Original two Schedules are pinned across this page. The first Schedule. To enquire, 1. The Name of the place whether I am to direct my total Journey. 2. Whom shall I have in my company besides John Pontoys. 3. What of Patrick Sanders. 4. What of my daughter Katherine. 5. What of my standing Books and other appurtenances. What of Mr. Bardolf to go with me? Or, Of Mr. Dortnall his Companion? 6. What shall my Son Arthur do, to his help and comfort in his intended travel? 7. Shall not I at any time return hither into England again? Shall I make account to keep some title of enjoying my house at my return? Mr. Ecclestone his Case. Junii 27. 1607. The second Schedule. The Name of my House is Eccleston of Eccleston, the mans Name whom I suspect is Thomas Webster Carpenter, of the age under forty, not more, within the County of Lancaster. The place was in a false Roof adjoining to a Chimney called New Chamber Chimney. Edward Ecclestone. Thomas Webster the Thief.

G1 Note: There being a Figure in a single leaf of paper, and the same having no direction where it should be placed, I thought best to place it here, the page immediately G2 foregoing making mention of one Webster a Thief; and here being words which (if I mistake not) relate to such a business, an unquam recuperabitur, whether that was stoln shall ever be recovered; and, In G3 quo loco jam est, In what place Webster the Thief is at present. In the Name of Jusus, we desire your answere and justrucons to these Articles here slightly noted. 1. Raph. In the Name of Jesus Christ, I Raphael am now sent unto you to deliver unto you your question so far forth as God his will and pleasure is to command me, and I must make a short continuance with you, for I have service of God commanded me in haste to be done, in his blessed Name I am come to fulfil his will in your desires, and therefore in his Name go on. 1. [delta] . The name of the place. Raph. John Dee, thou hast been a Traveller, and

God hath ever yet at any time provided for thee in all thy Journeys, so much Gods favour and his mercies is such toward thee, that this thy request and desire to be known, What Country is best for thy good: God hath referred it to thy own will to make choice, in what Country or City thou hast thy best minde unto; and when thou hast made thy choise, if it be Gods liking, and to thy good, it shall be directed unto thee; otherwise, if it shall be made known that some other place shall be better for thee: Therefore take thy own choice and liking. [delta] . Raph. John Dee, he that hath commanded thee to take this Journey in hand, he will provide for thee in Germany, or any other Country wheresoever thou goest. Therefore let thy good will and liking be in placing thy self, if thou wilt be near unto England or far off. [delta] . Whether is best, I know not. Raph. I have said, that wheresoever thou wilt, God doth prize thy willing desire, to fulfil that God doth command: think but thou satisfied and rest in taking thy own choice, God will provide for thee, whither and to what City thou hast a minde or will to enter into, and always Gods good Angel shall hold thee, and ever give thee to understand, what and where shall be ever best for thy good liking, when thou art there. Therefore take no care, be, that Almighty will provide for thee, that thou shalt be so governed with his goodness, that all shall stand well with thee. 2. [delta]. Whom shall I have in my company beside John Pontoys? 3, 4. Raph. John Dee, thou of thy self dost best know that without thy daughter; thou -notes- G1 1. canst not be without her: and likewise God hath sent thee a very honest and well-disposed young man to go with thee in thy Journey. And for John Pontoys, he shall be one, as thy greatest comfort and special ayd, next unto the Almighty. And for any other else, it is at thy own good will and well-liking whom thou wilt chose to make fit thy purpose for necessary uses, for helps about thee, Servants I mean. 5. [delta]. What of my standing books, and other appurtenances? Raph. John Dee, thou hast spoken already of a very good course to send them away, not all at once, but some at one time, and some at another, and God shall and will give thee good G1 success therein: and let thy friend John Pontoys, let him provide for all such purposes, and so shalt thou do will. [delta]. As I have been heretofore hindered of many of good purposes fulfilling, so perchance the King will not be willing now to grant me licence to pass over sea. Raph. He shall and will grant thee licence. 6. [delta]. For my Son Arthur, do to his help and comfort in his intended travel. Raph. If thy Son do like his course to travel, he shall in the mean while do well, for thy sake, being a father unto him, God will favour him. And when thou art in place where God hath commanded thee to go, in short time after thy being there, thou shalt be able to do him good, in helping him for such things as he now wanteth, and then thou shalt take him near unto thee, so that he may have a comfort of thy fatherly help, and thou to have comfort of his well-doing: and so for this I have certified thee. 7. [delta]. Shall not I at any time return hither into England again? Raph. Thou shalt better able in health and strength of thy body to come into England again, if thou wilt: but thou shall see and perceive thy self so mercifully provided for, that thou wilt have but little minde or willingness to come into England again, such shall Gods great mercies be towards thee. [delta]. Then I perceive that I shall not make any great account of keeping my house at Mordake for any my return hither. Mr. Eccleston his Case of his money taken away by one Thomas Webster, and c. Raph. Thou dost take an bard matter in hand. This man Thomas Webster had it, and hath it in his keeping as yet, but he will not yield that be hath it. And for Eccleston to deal by extremities with him, be shall prevail little, be shall not thereby obtain his purpose. But by friendly dealing with the party, and in proffering him to be a partaker with him, he may yield unto Eccleston. But otherwise, the matter will grow hard. I would from God advise thee, John Dee, to enter as few of these matters as may be, for this will not be compassed, except that he shall proceed into the mans house according unto Law; and then he shall entangle himself into trouble, and for the thing never the better: but, as I have said, by friendly dealing be may yield, and so far forth as it shall please God, I will work by Gods favour to make him yield. And thus much I have said, and let it suffice. It doth remain as yet in a Coffe that is somewhat of a white colour, but be will, if be stirred, be will then remove it, and hide it in the ground in a little-Parlour that be hath. And so I have spoken and answered thee at this time, as concerning . Money I had sent me from the Emperor by Hans Bik: I marvel that it is not yet come hither. Raph. For that, John Pontoys will make known unto thee, all to thy good. And in whose Name, and in his whose Power I came, so now again I return to that place, to the which in his mercies bring all his blessed Creatures, yielding all honour and praise unto his holy Name, I end. Amen, Amen. [delta]. Amen. 14 day of July, hora 11½. [delta]. As I sate at Dinner with Bartholomew Hickman, my Daughter, Patrick and Thomas Turner, about the end of the Dinner Bartholomew heard a Voice, saying, To morrow half an hour after 9 of the clock, give your attendance to know the Lords pleasure. 1607 Juliis 15.hor. 9 1/2.ante meridiem JESUS In nomine Dei Patris, and Filii and Spiritus Sancti. Amen. Mittas lucem tuam and veritatem tuam, sapientiam and omnimodum auxilium tuum, Domine Deus, ut tibi serviamus sancte, fideliter and constanter omnibus diebus vitæ nostræ Amen. Barth. .... The Creature. In the Name of him that created me Raphael, and all the blessed Creatures, and likewise in G1 his power made all the world, and all things therein contained: Jesus Christ of his great goodness hath sent me now at his will, and so I am bound at his will to return, when his pleasure is. All honour be given to him, being God Almighty for evermore. Amen. John Dee, I am Raphael that last appeared unto you, and I through Gods good pleasure did set down and made known unto thee, what pretended course God would have thee to enter into, and his will is such, that so far forth, and so speedily as thou canst, to proceed in it, because that God hath great service for thee to do, when thou shalt be there placed. G2 And now I do let thee understand, that as concerning Eccleston his suit and matter that I did at my last being here speak of, so far forth as it pleased God to give me his free will: and now God hath sent me for favour that God doth bear unto thee, and not for no cause else, I Raphael do now tell thee, that this matter, and all such like unto it, are not for me to enter into, neither for any such as be of that high Society and Calling as I am of. Yet notwithstanding, I am G3 ready by Gods merciful goodness to command those whom God hath and doth appoint to serve under me: and such his blessed Creatures being those that do stand in his presence, I Raphael will at Gods pleasure command those that shall deal in Ecclestons suit, in constraining by such Creatures as I have made known unto you, that they shall force and constrain these G4 parties, as be which be had in hand; be is one, James Bolton is another, and the Treasure was carried to the Carpenter his brothers house; and there, as I did shew unto thee, a Coffe of white colour. Those parties are so troubled in minde, that they cannot be quiet, how or where to place the Treasure, because they would keep it close. But let this suffice and satisfied for G5 the whole answer in this his suit: 1 Raphael through Gods power will command such Creatures that shall constrain those parties to bring the matter to true light, and confess the said Treasure; and he, the party the owner to have his money again, in so short time as may be pleasing and acceptable unto the Almighty. God will have the whole matter made known in this order, without any further trouble unto the parties: but it is his will that be shall examine G6 them in friendly manner, if they will not yield, they by the force of a Justice in examination; but they will not yield till such time as I by these Creatures shall make them to yield, through Gods help, to their sorrow; and so the party the owner shall so come by his goods again. And now I have answered you in as ample manner as God will have me; for (as I have said) such matters are not for me, but that course that I have now declared, by Gods help shall be performed. And so in the Name of the Highest for this I do now end, giving praise to the G7 Almighty. And furthermore, John Dee, in few words, for thy sake, If this Window by his Creatures, should have meddled in the cause, they should have had a great labour. But notwithstanding, that which I have spoken of, is sufficient, praised be the Name of God: and so I end. [delta]. If it should not offend, then I would gladly know the sum of the Treasure. Raph. Two thousand and a half, and odde money. [delta]. How, in gold and silver? Raph. More then three parts thereof in gold. [delta]. Most humbly and heartily I thank the Almighty for ..... Raph. John Dee, if thou dost doubt of any thing as concerning the entering into the course of thy Journey; and likewise, if thou dost doubt of any thing that shall be against, thy good success when thou art there, Now speak, and I shall through Gods mercies make thee answer, as it may and shall please God to the good direction of any thing that thou shalt doubt of for God will not command thee to enter into that Journey, but that be will most mercifully and graciously be thy keeper, and deliver thee from the bands of thy enemies in thy Journey. And for the good health of thy body, God will so carry thee in good health, that thou shalt set forth such service when thou art there placed, that shall be thy great comfort unto Gods honour, in making of his marvelous works to be known. And thus much for thy comfort through Gods merciful goodness I have made known unto thee: and so I end. -notes- G1 Jesus Christ G2 Mr. Eccleston. G3 Raphael his inferiours. G4 The Treasure. [delta]..... John Dee, God doth know all this that thou dost speak of. In few words, to end many words, be will so direct thy wayes in ending such troubles, as shall be to thy good and speedy finishing. [delta] ..... John Pontoys, before such time as thou shalt have any great cause to use his aid, and furthermore, God will so work for thee in the heart of his Master (whom be is Factor for) Stapers I mean, that Stapers shall with all the aid and help that be can to further thy good proceeding. And so God in all cases will thus graciously deal with thee. And now is my full time to depart in Gods peace, and to serve him from whom I came, his mighty Name. [delta]. I fearing his sudden departure, did earnestly urge at his hands, to know the truth of Tobias his history: and so half unmannerly did interrupt his speech with my question. John Dee, I am Raphael that is appointed of God to be thy Guide in this thy Journey; and I am that same Raphael that was the Guide unto young Tobias in his long Journey, and delivered him from the power of the wicked Spirit Asmodeus, who had, as thou knowest, how many be had destroyed: and I brought him through Gods power home again, and delivered him in health unto his own parents. And thus much I have made thee plainly to understand without any doubting to the contrary. And so now once again I do depart. All honour and glory to the everlasting God, both now and for evermore. Amen, Amen. [delta]. Amen. 17 July. After dinner (boram circiter 4 ½.) as Bartholomew and I talked of divers of my doings with Mr. Kelley, a Voice produced this to Bartholomews hearing, A Voice. .... I, John Dee, I have heard you all this while. Thou shalt be able to do, and to, see, and to understand more than all this as thou hast spoken of, according as God bath promised thee. [delta]. Blessed be his holy Name, and his mercies be magnified on me, to the honour of his holy Name. Amen. [delta]. Note ..... Upon occasion of further talk and speech of my Jewel that was brought, I asked Bartholomew if ever he had seen it since it was set in gold; and he thought that he had not seen it: Whereupon I went speedily to my Chest, unlocked it, and took it out, and undid the Case, and see the Stone in his due manner. And by and by did Raphael appear in the Stone, and in voice said thus, as followeth: Raph. In the Name of Jesus Christ, I am Raphael whose voice thou didst bear right now. And now, in Gods holy Name, for thy good, and for thy comfort, I have, now, here, in this Pearl entered Possession, in taken hereafter to be that blessed Creature, to be obedient unto Gods Commandment, to serve thee at all times, when thou art placed in thy Journey, which God hath G1 commanded thee. And likewise thou shalt have the book from whence this came. And that Dust which thou hast in keeping, (the which thou dost make account of no better but dust) Then it shall be turned to the right use, from whence it was: and to that good purpose, that God bath ordained for to do. And now it was the will of God, that I should speak unto thee a few words of this good comfort to be performed. Praise God, honour his boly Name, for his great blessings now and for ever;

That it did please the Almighty to send me to your presence, in token of his love, for his great mercy. And so now, in his Name I go again into the presence of the Almighty, whose Name be ever praised, with all his elect Angels, and all the blessed Creatures of God, and all the blessed Creatures upon earth, praise his Name for evermore. Amen, Amen. [delta]. Amen. [delta]. O Lord God, most humbly, heartily and sincerely I honour thee, praise thee, and extoll thy mercies, and most loving kindness, for these, and all other thy graces and blessings on me. Accept, O God, my heartly thanks, and enable me so to thank thee, as may be a most acceptable sacrifice unto thy Divine Majesty. Amen, Amen, Amen. -notes- G1 Dei domum. Vid. Arbatel.

1607. Sept 5. hora 9 ½. Mortlak. [Hebrew omitted] Mitte lucem tuam and veritatem tuam Domine, qe nos ducant and perducant ad montem sanctum tuum and ad celestia tua tabernacula.
Amen. Barth. He is in the Stone now. Benedictus qui venit in nomine Domini O Most merciful Lord and Savior Christ Jesus, who is and was the Creator and Redeemer of Mankinde, and of all his blessed Creatures. In his power I Raphael am now come at his will and commandment, and so likewise at his good pleasure I must then return at such time as he bath commanded me. John Dee, in the Name of the Most Highest, I am come to deliver unto thee this my Message, the which God in his goodness bath commanded me. First, I Raphael am sent of God at this time most chiefly to put thee in that good remembrance of my last appearing to your presence, to let thee to understand, that look what course God in his mercies did set then down, what way thou shouldst take to enter into this Journey, the which God in his goodness is most willing that thou shouldst enter into. For, John Dee, God bath declared, and made manifestly known unto thee at my last appearing, what service God would use thee unto, and all such purposes that were the last time spoken of, shall be by Gods favour and his merciful good gift performed unto thee: and fear thou not, but God will safely help and preserve thy body in thy Journey, to that end, that thou shouldest be in that place wherein thou mightest have time to enter into all such service as God hath by me made known unto thee. For, John Dee, such hath Gods mercies been in suffering wicked men to prevail against thee, and they have and do make a scorn of thee here in this thy Native Countrey: So it is with thee as it was with Christ and his Apostles, being most cruelly used in their own Native Countreys; so John Dee, God hath suffered those wicked men to pluck thee down in worldly affairs, the which should be maintenance for thee and for thine, and without such maintenance man cannot be without, while he is here in this vale of Misery. Such wicked men have most cruelly used thee, even as Job by Gods sufferance, who suffered the Devil to prevail against him: yet Gods mercies be so great unto thee, that although they (most wickedly) have robbed thee of thy possession, yet God would not suffer those wicked ones by any of their malicious practices to prevail in any wise to hurt thy body, as Jobs was: For if they (brough their wicked purposes) could have wrought such cruelty against thee, thou hadst not been a man living here upon earth until this time. So John Dee, thou dost know who is thy mortal enemy, who, rules next unto your earthly King. [delta]. Why thou maist well know, for I have made it known before time unto thee, that he is not thy friend, though thou bast not offended him in any wife. Therefore, because that this thy Native Countrey is not a place fit for Gods purposes in his wisdom to be bestowed upon thee here, Therefore at my last Message, God did send me to make known unto thee, whether he would have thee to go, that there thou mightst be a man; and that man, whom God hath appointed to make his Wisdome known: for thou art that man whom God hath chosen, that (accordingly as it was said yesterday) that no mortal man in flesh, but onely Enoch, had or shall have the like wisdom made known, plainly to be understood by any man, or thou thy self shalt understand and receive at the hands of the Almighty. Therefore it is his will and purpose of God, that he would have thee in that Countrey, for this thy Native Countrey is not worthy of gifts that thou shalt receive at the hands of God, to come, and to be made known unto those which be not worthy of such great gifts of Gods wisdom, to come amongst those that be unworthy. Therefore, John Dee, in all these matters the which in favour at this time made known unto thee, the chief and greatest cause of this my coming unto thee, is to make the matter plainly known, that God in his mercies would have thee with all diligence that thou canst possibly, to baste thee to that Countrey where God doth command thee, and at my lest being here thou knowest what was my Message, therefore do thy diligence to fulfil it a thou canst, and God will put his great helps unto thee, in strengthening of thy body, and otherwise, which shall be to thy good. And thou being once in that place where God would have thee to be, thou shouldst well perceive and plainly understand, that God will most mercifully work with thee for thy good in performing all such promises, the which bath been loth at the last time and at this time made known unto thee. John

Dee, I do put thee in remembrance, that where as thou didst say, that thou badst a portion of money sent thee from the Emperor unto thee; I tell thee, that the Devil in working in the heart of one of thy enemies (Cook I mean) did seek some wayes by his false important ill speeches, in most false manner, unto one that did in somewhat let the Emperor to understand, what he had most falsely, to thy discredit (as he thought) to hinder thee, that thou shouldst not come to any help or credit at the Emperors hand. But John Dee, be of good comfort, The Emperor of all Emperors will be thy comfort, and aid thee, and evermore put down thy enemies, that the Emperor (that thou shouldst have received that portion of) it shall be so with thee, that he shall have more need of thee, in such wisdom as God shall deliver unto thee; for thou shalt have no need of him, but onely to keep good will and friendship betwixt him and thee, in shewing thy self friendly unto him, as God shall hereafter give thee plainly to understand. Now, John Dee; I have made known unto thee what Gods will is in this my message. This is the greatest and the most principal cause, why God hath sent me unto thee at this present time. And now I have through Gods mercies delivered this his Commandment unto thee: and for this I have now said and finished. [delta]. Blessed be the Almighty God, now and for ever. Gladly I would have understood how much the portion was which the Emperor would have sent me. John Dee, let it go, and speak no farther of it: for thou maist be joyful, whereas it is said unto thee, that he should have need of thee, and not thou of him. Therefore reason no more in that matter. [delta]. As concerning Mr. Eccleston. John Dee, in few words I answer thee, He bath dealt with the parties in these affairs, but the chief party will not, as yet, yield any thing to be made known, but auth stubbornly and stonily stand in his own defense: And Gods Creatures have wrought with him, and nothing be will (as yet) yield unto, except that those Creatures should deal so cruelly with him, as it were to pull him a pieces: this is his wicked stubbornness. But God will bring the matter to light; but Eccleston hath not dealt so in the matter as he might have done, he is too slack in his own cause. Therefore if the fault be in him, then do not blame the Creatures of God. For God could (as you very well do know it) commend that said Treasure to be brought: but he will not have it so to be, because it shall come by other means among men: So God hath a great care and purpose to do all for your good, to keep matters out of blame and slander of the world, as it might come to passe, if it should come by any other wayes, but by this plot which is laid down to decline. And when it is the will of God that it shall be delivered, God will so perform it, if man will do as he should do, in all reverend manner towards God-ward. And so now I let you to perceive, and to know, that it is not as yet obtained. [delta]. Whether hath the other party confessed any thing? Raph. He hath not as yet yielded openly: but he hath in secret manner perswaded his fellow, that the matter might be made known unto Eccleston, in confessing of all the whole matter, but the other will not yet yield: but it were better for him to yield at the first, then to tarry any longer, the lesse would be his punishment from God therein. And so I let you to understand, that you shall give God his time to work in that matter at his pleasure, and then shall it be to the good of the owner, and of you likewise. And now I have said. [delta]. As concerning the bereaving me of my own goods, I would gladly understand who hath my silver double gilt bell-Salt, and other things here of late conveyed from mee. Raph. John Dee, This is the will and purpose of God to command thee, although thou dost suffer wrong because thy goods be so taken away from thee, yet Gods will is such, that he will have thee to be a peace-maker in this cause: for it is past help to have it again: But as thou art a mortal father, so use that matter as a father, for thy son had it, although he would not, neither will confess it. And likewise for such things of late missing about this house, thou shalt hereafter as plainly know who had them, and how they were gone, as thou dost plainly understand for thy Salt, but thou shalt stay and proceed no further, till such time as I Raphael shall speak further of it, for God will have all things to be done well, and to his best liking. So for that I have now said.

[delta]. John Dee, it is in the hands of God and his power to send thee such helps as thou dost seek of the Treasure to be brought unto thee, but God will not have it so to be, the while thou art in this place (England I mean) for God will not have thee to come into any disdain, or slander might take some advantage against them, but be content with that little that can be made of thy right in the Colledge matters. And furthermore, thou shalt see that God will send thee soon some such small helps by man, that thou shalt have some feeling of help, to help thee whither thou shouldst go; and therefore I Raphael have now said. [delta] .... John Pontoys. John Dee, be not too much inquisitive, but what shall be best to your liking in any good cause whatsoever you or he shall think good to be done for your good, God will put his assistance and help that you shall perceive Gods favour therein. And thus much I have said: at Gods commandment I came, and so on his merciful goodnesse, and his power, I must presently depart. ... Bartholomews request of George Sherman his earnest oft and dreaming of Treasure to be under the foundation of the wall called De la pry wall, a Nunry in times past with-in half a mile of Northampton, Sir William Tate his house is within that wall in three parts. That man may lawfully have it, if he take heed in the breaking of the the three places, for G1 it is for the greatest part under the bottom of the wall, and many roots of thorns and trees that will let and hinder the working for it, if be do not work much as slope as you can, to go under the roots, the which be may well and lawfully do. So doing, be may well obtain his purpose; and G2 n.w you have plainly understood the truth. The one part of that Treasure was laid by an old Nun, that was of that house, at that time, and one that was her brother, and the other was laid even at the same time, that the same travel the which you took the last day saving one, to know of that battle, it was bid at the same time by one of the Lords that was there killed, and so it hath remained ever since, the one place more easier to come at then the other, but with the favour of God, and in his mercy, that good fortune to be desired at parties hand, it may be had and compassed by the said party. And so now I have made the matter known unto you. And now in the name of the Almighty, and merciful God, at whose will and pleasure I came, so now I depart in Gods peace. The mercies of God be upon you, both for this life, and for that which is to come, his name be glorified for evermore Amen, Amen. [delta]. Amen. 1607. Munday 7. Sept. hora 7. [delta]. This morning as Bartholomew had intended to be going homeward in the morning, and I not intending to move an action now, but committed all to God, Bartholomew was spoken unto by Raphael. G3 ..... Command John Dee to come up into this place. [delta] .... In the name of Jesus, and to the honour and glory of the most blessed Trinity. Amen. Mittus Omnipotens sempiterna and un Deus lucemm tuam and veritatem tuam, que nos ducant and perducant ad montem sanctum tuum and caelestia tabernacula. Amen. Barth. .... He is here. [delta] ..... Benedicius est, qui venis in nomine Domini. Amen. The Almighty God be blessed and praised of all good creatures, give praise unto his holy name, for evermore. Amen. John Dee, I am the same blessed creature Raphael, that did appear the last day but one in this place, I am at the commandment of the most highest to come unto your presence at this time, because thou shouldest very well know that I Raphael am very ready at all times, to come, when God shall command me; but John Dee, I have no long message, at this time, for thou hast Gods full purpose and his will, in what he would have thee to enter into, and because that thou shalt well know that even now at your departing, the one from the other, it hath pleased God to send me to let thee to understand that for this time no more matters (as concerning what thou art taught) shall not (at this time) no more be spoken of, until such time as

God shall appoint, at your next meeting and coming together, that then, if there be any thing, that is not done of you, so far forth as it is in your power to fulfill it, if any such default in you be, I will then put you in remembrance of it, and help you in any thing which you shall doubt of: and if you have any question or demand to ask of me, even now, I am very ready in few words to answer you, and then in his -notes- G1 500 G2 500 G3 A voice to Bartholomew.

name, who hath sent me (that is the Almighty) I must return therefore, if you have to ask do it. [delta] .... As concerning Mr. John of the Isle of Man, his pitiful case hath moved my compassion. Raph.... John Dee, assure thy self, that as thou dost most heartily, with a good faith in God, that thou mightest be that man wherein God will most mercifully help his distressed case, therefore I answer thee, that God hath, and he will bear thee, to thy comfort therein, and to the great comfort of the man whom that cause doth belong unto. God will mercifully help the cause so shortly, as his will and pleasure is to be done in it. So much I have said for this. .... I thank God most heartily for his so great mercies. [delta] .... John Pontoys, my great friend, earnestly desireth to know his good Angel. Raph. .... John Dee, for thy sake be shall know his good Angel, but let it not be with him hereafter to have a pride in mind, that God hath made known unto him his good angel, for no man upon the face of the earth can have a better then he hath, for Uriel is his appointed Angel from his birth to this day, and so shall continue with him to the appointed time, that God will take his life away in separating his soul from his body, for Uriel hath been under God his deliverer forth of many dangers, and so he shall be his defence under God to his lifes end. And for this, I have made the matter plainly known unto you. Proceede. [delta] .... Secondly, John Pontoys is desirous to know the end of the Polish troubles. Raph. ... John Dee, in few words, for that matter, I answer thee. Those troubles will somewhat end to his losse; but it shall be no great matter, so that God will work the case that it shall end to his liking. And thus much for this I have said. [delta] .... As concerning the man and the Treasure, I am desirous to know whether he will be content to assign his title to Bartholomew, upon some portion thereof delivered unto him; and what other he hath made acquainted with the matter; and whether it may not by Gods good liking be set up without digging. Raph .... John Dee, in all this I hear thee, and I know thine intent herein. That man may be reasonably ruled, but yet he will not put over his title therein; but he hath 4. that he knowing how the matter doth stand with him, and so much as be doth know, he hath made them to know as much as himself: Therefore assure thy self that he shall be ruled, and that it shall not be as he will. If he will not be ordered in such sort and good counsel as I Raphael shall give unto this Bartholomew at that time, that then he shall have no part of it, but I certifie you that he will be ruled; but onely the others, which I have made known unto you, they will not come to so good course in the matter as he will. Therefore let it rest, I will direct Bartholomew in the matter which shall be to his good, or else it shall not come to his hand, the which you have to know of. And for this, now I have said. John Dee, it is the will and purpose of God, that it shall come by breaking of the ground, because that God will have all things done well, that no discord may break out betwixt the parties hereafter. And so now in Gods name I have said. [delta] .... Most humbly I thank and praise Almighty God for his infinite mercies and favour, beseeching him to assist me evermore. Amen. [delta] .... John Pontoys would shortly fall to work somewhat, to win some help for mony by distillations and Alchymicall conclusions, till we were otherwise holpen, and we are utterly unable to provide things necessary for lack of sufficient provision of money. Raph.... Trouble not thy felf (as yet) with these causes. ... If Captain Langham will lend me an hundred pounds or more, as he promised me, for which my servant Patrick expecteth his performance at this hour. Raph.... Not (in such time) TO DO YOU GOOD. G1 John Dee, that is the plain meaning, wherein it is said, not to do thee good, because it will be something too long (for thou art ready for it, if it were now, therefore with all halt, so much as is in Gods will to be done in it, it shall be hastened forward to do thee good. And now I have plainly spoken unto thee in this case, my time appointed of God is at hand. G2 John Dee, thou hast fulfilled two questions, as concerning John Pontoys, look in thy Note. John Pont. Oh that I might be fit to serve you in Bartholomews absence. Raph.... John Dee, In the name of the most highest I answer thee, to this his desire wherein he doth crave at the hands of God, for to obtain the sight of his blessed creatures; but hereafter it shall be made known unto thee what God will do for him in that his desire. And now, all power and glory be given to the Almighty who hath made heaven and earth, his name be magnified, and praised everlastingly. Amen, Amen. [delta] .... Amen. [delta] .... All praise, all thanks, all honour and glory be yielded unto God of all his creatures, now and for evermore. Amen. -notes- G1 Note. G2 John Pontoys note.

.... John Pontoys note, which he wrote, and left on my study table, 7. Septemb. The Note, mane. If it may stand with the will and leave of the Almighty, whose name be blessed for ever more. I would desire to know 1. My proper Angel. 2. The end of the Polish troubles. 3. O that I might be fit to serve you in Bartholomews absence. Under John Pontoys Note the which is sowed over, is thus written. The place of Basel in the Map of Europe. To the left or next side. Basel City. 2 foot, and about 4 inchesto the edge of the Map below 4 foot and a finger from Basel. [Graphic omitted]
